Pirates Defeat Braves As McNamara-Cascarano Fan 15

In the AAA Baseball League, the Pirates defeated the Braves, 10-6, with Jimmy McNamara the winning pitcher.

McNamara and Mike Cascarano combined for 15 strikeouts. McNamara also had a double and Brian Gibbons had a triple. Braves pitcher Beebe Rosendo had 10 strikeouts.

The White Sox defeated the Tigers, 14-8, with Bob Maimaron the winner. He had 11 strikeouts and also was three for four at the plate. John Burn and Craig Orrock were two for two. Kenny McDonald had a triple for the Tigers, who came up with a pair of double plays.

The Yankees walloped the Mets, 17-7, with winning pitcher Charlie Duffy having nine strikeouts. Bobby O'Brien had a home run and Mike Phalen a double. Dennis Downing and Jimmy McSweeney had doubles for the Mets.

The Pirates outlasted the Mets, 11-10, with Gary Brown having an inside-the-park home run and a double to drive in the winning run in the sixth inning. He also caught the whole game. Gibbons was three for three for the Pirates. McSweeney had a homer for the Mets. Chris Matthews of the Mets has been picked up by the Kiwanis team of the Junior League.

The Pirates topped the Tigers, 9-2, with Mike Cascarano the winning pitcher. He had 14 strikeouts. Rickey Mahoney and McNamara had two hits apiece. MacDonald pitched well for the first three innings for the Tigers.

● Junior League Baseball

Keohane's Off To Fast Start

Keohane's is off to a fast start in the Quincy Junior Baseball League with a 3-1 record.

Keohane's opener with a 12-3 romp over Kiwanis. Winning pitcher was Charlie Jaehng, who had five strikeouts and exhibited fine control. Jimmy Jaehng hit a towering homer over the left field fence and added a double. John Balzano and Charlie Jaehng had two hits each.

Houghs Neck Legion defeated Keohane's, 3-1, with winning pitcher Glen Oriola having a home run. Balzano struck out 10 in a losing cause. Keohane's had only two hits by Charlie and Jimmy Jaehng.

Keohane's rebounded to top Foley Chrysler, 7-3. Charlie Jaehng was the winning pitcher. The big blow was a grand slam homer by Tommy Corliss to put his team ahead, 4-3. Losing pitcher was Mike Marshall.

Keohane's then blanked Colonial Federal, 4-0, behind the pitching of Balzano. He struck out 10 and gave up only two hits. Charlie Jaehng had two hits, Dennis Cronin a double and Jimmy Jaehng and Balzano a hit apiece.

Burgin Defeats Rotary, 9-4

Burgin Platter defeated Rotary, 9-4, in the Quincy Junior Baseball League.

Vinnie Cristiani paced the winning attack with a grand slam homer and a two-run double. Kevin Whalen was the winning pitcher and had nine strikeouts.

New Addition To Backstop At FR Field

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel G. Raymond announces work will begin shortly on an addition to the existing backstop at Fore River Field, Quincy Point.

"Foul balls striking homes, cars and particularly windows have been a continuous problem in the neighborhood, and I am hopeful with this new addition to the backstop, the area will be made much safer for the residents," Raymond said.

Raymond noted he moved passage of the appropriation to allow this addition at the last City Council meeting. He said the Park Department has assured the work will be done soon.

Roxie's, Koch Sweep Doubleheaders

Roxie's Raiders remained undefeated in the South Suburban Softball League with an 8-0 record after sweeping a doubleheader from The Gutz, 6-4, and 11-3, at Pageant Field.

The Gutz, playoff contender a year ago, finds itself in the midst of a four-game losing streak, dropping its record to 4-4.

The Gutz, however, proved a worthy opponent in the first game, holding the Raiders to their lowest scoring output of the season. Roxie's Steve O'Roarke pitched a courageous game under pressure, gaining his fourth win. Danny Minton belted two home runs to pace a 10-hit attack. Kevin Smith and Ronnie Bouchard also hit home runs.

In the second game, Roxie's combined 11 hits and 10 walks to win going away. Pitcher Chuck Phelan sailed through five effortless innings and picked up his third win. Bob Pistorino, Chip Harding and Minton had two hits apiece.

The Presidential Pub evened its record at 4-4, with 9-7 and 8-2 wins over Wollaston Bowladrome.

Richard Plant and Terry Watts were the winning pitchers.

The Koch Club, sparked by great hitting and fielding from the entire club, swept a doubleheader from Gull Point, 16-6 and 38-14, to hike its record to 5-3.

In other games, Warriors and Plummers split a doubleheader. Warriors winning, 19-4, and Plummers, 9-5; Happy Chef swept a twin bill from King's, 6-5 and 12-6, and J's swept a doubleheader from Spoilers, 16-13 and 13-12.

The standings: Roxie's, 8-0; J's, 6-1; Warriors, Happy Chef and Koch Club, 5-3; Gutz and Presidential Pub, 4-4; Spoilers and Plummers, 3-5; Gull Point and Bowladrome, 2-6; King's, 0-8.

Next Sunday's schedule: Warriors vs. Koch, Montclair Field, 10 a.m.; Bowladrome vs. King's, Pageant Field, 9:30; Roxie's vs. Plummers, Pageant 2, 9:30; Gull Point vs. Gutz, Milton Town Field, 9:30; Happy Chef vs. J's, Andrews Field, Milton, 9:30, and Spoilers vs. Presidential Pub, Kavanagh Stadium, 10.

Quincy Girls Win 1, Lose 2 In Softball

Although they lost two of three games last week, the Quincy girls' softball team, with a 7-4 record, still has its sights set on making the Eastern Mass. Tournament.

Barbara Webster's First Ladies defeated Weymouth North, but lost to Brockton and Cambridge Latin last week.

In a recent 11-9 win over Brookline, Lois Malvesti, the winning pitcher, hit a two-run homer in the fifth to break a 7-7 tie. Denise Leonard was four for four.

Quincy slugged cross-town rival North Quincy, 15-3, as Malvesti pitched two-hit ball and had two home runs, driving in four runs. Peggy Thorley had two triples and three RBIs. Claire Oliverio had four RBIs and Debby Russo had two.

Cheryl Manoli's North Quincy girls lost to Weymouth South, 12-7, last week. Sharon Cobban was the losing pitcher.

Today (Thursday) the North girls play at Waltham and Monday will host Weymouth North. Next Wednesday, Quincy will be at Newton and next Thursday, Quincy and North will clash again at Quincy.

Broad Meadows Girls Win 2 In Row

The Broad Meadows Junior High girls' softball team got away to a good start, winning its first two games.

The BM girls rallied for an 11-10 squeaker over Central and followed up with an outstanding offensive performance to trample Point, 32-14.

Making up Coach Madelyn Jackman's squad are Ann

The BM girls today (Thursday) play at Central, next week they host Point and next Thursday they will play at Atlantic-North.

Atlantic Wins Street Hockey Title

The boys elementary hockey team from Atlantic swept through a field of 16 teams to win the city of Quincy Street Hockey Tournament sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department.

Atlantic started the day off by defeating Parker 4-0. Scoring for Atlantic were Bobby Doyle, David DiCarlo, Tom Benson and Mark Balzarini.

In a second preliminary game, Atherton Hough shut out Montclair 2-0. Mike Miller and Richard Monahan both scored for Atherton Hough in the first period to lead their team to victory.

One of the day's high scoring games saw Hunting defeat Beechwood Knoll 7-4. Hunting was led by David Marrocco with four goals, Brian Foley with two, and John Sullivan with one. James McDonough led Beechwood Knoll with three goals while Robert O'Brien added the final Beechi goal.

Tommy Schofield scored five goals to lead Quantum to a 7-2 victory over Quincy. Other Quantum scorers were Dave Allen and Dean Phillips. Quincy goals were scored by Dave Deangilis and Bob Lowe.

In semi-final action, Atlantic defeated Atherton Hough and Quantum defeated Hunting.

Atlantic's 3-0 win featured three different players score and shut out goalkeeping from Scott Messina. Bob Doyle, Bill Thomas and Dave DiCarlo were the scorers. Atherton Hough was led by Mike Miller and Richard Monahan.

Quantum was again led by two goals by Tommy Schofield in their 5-2 win over Hunting. Other Quantum scorers were David Allen, Dean Phillips and David Juroms. Hunting's two scorers were David Marrocco and John Sullivan.

In the championship game, Atlantic jumped out to a quick one goal lead on a goal by Bobby Leonard. Quantum's Christopher Papas tied the score at 1-1 in the second period but Atlantic's Billy Thomas put his team ahead just 30 seconds later on a break away goal. The third period started out as a close checking period until Brian Reardon scored his first of three unassisted goals to give Atlantic its 5-1 win.

Members of the winning Atlantic team were each presented trophies by the Recreation Department Staff.

Quincy Girls Defeat Weymouth N. For 1st Win

It was a long time coming, but the Quincy High girls' tennis team last week won its first match in three years, defeating Weymouth North, 4-1, on the last day of school for the seniors.

There are eight seniors on Coach Shirley Laing's First Ladies' squad, Ellen Coleman, Kathie Engelke, Mary Fahey, Phyl Hastings, Lydia LaFeria, Jean Milne, Diane O'Kane and Katie Sullivan.

"Last year was spent arousing interest where previously very little had existed," Mrs. Laing said. "The girls came out in good numbers, but we had no wins. This year, 26 girls turned out, including 17 returnees and, although we lost our first 10 matches, five of them were by 3-2 scores."

The stars this spring are junior

Massachusetts Realtors Association Sponsoring Sales Workshops

The Massachusetts Association of Realtors is sponsoring an all-day sales workshop for real estate professionals June 8 at the Lantana in Randolph and June 9 at the Sheraton, Sturbridge.

Ray Foster of Houston, Tex., will conduct the six-hour "nuts and bolts" workshops. The session will include such subjects as real estate showmanship, use of business cards, prospecting, time management, telephone techniques and closings. Foster has delivered over 1,500 lectures in his ten year speaking career.

Persons wishing to attend either workshop should contact the Massachusetts Association of Realtors, 4863 Prudential Tower, Boston. Each workshop will run from 8:45 a.m. to about 4:45 p.m.

Founded in 1924, the Massachusetts Association of Realtors is the parent organization for the 26 Boards of Realtors in the Commonwealth and has over 8,000 members. The term Realtor is the exclusive designation of real estate professionals who are members of the National Association of Realtors and subscribe to its strict Code of Ethics.

For Community Development

Atty. Harold Davis Receives SBA Award

Atty. Harold R. Davis of Quincy has received the U.S. Government Small Business Administration 1977 Award for community development in New England.

The award was presented to Davis at a recent ceremony in the Small Business Administration's Boston office by District Director Dr. A. J. Prendergast. Prendergast noted the award is presented to those individuals who have successfully worked in the areas of job and economic development and assisted small business in the local community.

From 1973 to 1975 Davis had been employed as Economic Development Manager for the South Shore Chamber of Commerce. In that capacity he assisted in the creation of the South Shore Economic Development Corporation. Since January, 1976, Davis has returned to the private practice of law with the firm of Flavin, Corcoran, Davis & Sullia. However, he remains as legal counsel for the South Shore Economic Development Corporation.

In less than three years the South Shore Economic Development Corporation has completed 20 loan packages totaling over 6,500,000.00. The loans have all been used for the construction or purchase of buildings and other capital equipment. These loans, of which the SBA has contributed

30 percent of the financing under their 502 program, have resulted in the creation of more than 300 new permanent jobs on the South Shore.

According to the SBA, the South Shore Economic Development Corporation is the most active local development corporation in New England and currently one of the two most active in the country.

In receiving the award, Davis said: "The Small Business Administration staff is to be commended for the efficient service that they have rendered to South Shore small businesses under the 502 program."

Those individuals who serve as members, trustees, and officers of the South Shore Economic Development Corporation at no remuneration to themselves, should look back with pleasure to the assistance they have rendered to the unemployed and small businesses alike.

"The SBA 502 program is the best vehicle I know of to create long-term private sector jobs and short-term construction jobs at a minimal cost, if any, to the Federal government while giving local communities control over their own economic development programs. The SBA can be assured that their program will be further expanded on the South Shore."

PRINTED FORM FOLLY

In any real estate transaction you'll normally find printed forms used in the area of sales contracts, deeds, mortgages, and leases. Ever wonder why any layman can't use printed forms himself and save the fees of an attorney, Realtor, or lending institution?

A typical legal stationery store will have dozens of varieties of leases, deeds, and mortgage forms, but which is the right one for your situation? These printed forms are only a starting point. It's what goes into the blanks, what is crossed out, and what is added that gives you the value, security, and protection that you are paying the experts for.

Believe me, some of the largest financial losses and legal hassles have resulted from printed forms being incorrectly used. About the only safe one an amateur can depend on is a marriage license.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with

Quincy Tennis Team Bows Twice

Wayne Hamilton's Quincy boys' tennis team lost two of three games last week, dropping its record to 5-3.

The Presidents overwhelmed cross-town rival North Quincy, 5-0.

In singles, Quincy's Leo Bottary defeated North's Mike Lewis. Ken Ames defeated John Strazzulla and Joe Gill topped Ron Beresnewicz. In doubles, it was Greg MacDonald and Gary Wilcox over Matt Hemphill and John Masters and Jim Todd and Bob Kelliber over Dane Donovan and Ian Sheridan.

Quincy suffered its first shutout, 5-0, at the hands of unbeaten Suburban League leader Newton North, as Bottary, Ames and Gill won in singles and for the first time the doubles teams were defeated. MacDonald and Wilcox and Todd and Kelliber.

Last Friday, the Presidents were edged by Brookline, 3-2, as Ames and Gill won but Bottary lost in singles. For the second time, the doubles teams of Wilcox and MacDonald and Todd and Kelliber were defeated.

Today (Thursday) North Quincy is at Weymouth South, Friday Quincy goes to Weymouth North and Tuesday Weymouth South will be at Quincy and North Quincy at Brockton.

Koch Boys Bowling League Presents Awards

The Koch Club Boys Bowling League held its 14th annual awards banquet recently at the Fore River Clubhouse with 230 members and parents attending.

Team 11 won the championship of the Junior Division. Led by Captain Patrick Fitzgerald, team members included: Joseph Leonard, Robert Duggan, Darby Flaherty, John DiStasio and Michael Downey.

Individual honors went to Robert Zappi, high average 84; Fitzgerald, high single 121; and John Broadbent high three string 299. In the Senior Loop, Captain Dave Burke's Team 5 captured the title. Team members were Lenny Staff, Peter Chernicki, Kevin Moch and Thomas Koch.

Top individual awards in the Senior Loop were won by Paul Kelly, high average 104, high three string 356 and high single string 156. Burke with 347 was runner-up in three string total. Thomas McKenna finished second in single string honors with 137.

Each boy in the Junior and Senior League was presented a trophy.

St. Ann's Defeats Point, 68-61, For YMCA Title

The St. Ann's Aspens, led by veteran Brian Buckley, came from behind to defeat Quincy Point, 68-61, in overtime for the Quincy YMCA senior men's division basketball championship.

Point had led by as much as seven points and led, 30-27, at halftime behind the scoring of Vernon Johnson. When St. Ann's lost Jim Evans and player-coach Steve Miller on fouls, Point took over behind Rick DeCristofaro who finished with 14 points.

But Buckley went to work, scoring 17 of his game high 23

Lois Malvesti On All-Stars

Lois Malvesti, one of Quincy's all-time great girls' basketball players, was named the starting center on the Suburban League all-star team, as well as being selected on the Patriot Ledger all-scholastic team and receiving honorable mention on the Globe team.

Lois set a school record with 29 points against Brockton and scored nearly 700 points in her three years, another school mark.

Peggy Thorley was named to the Suburban League second team.

"Peggy deserves a lot of credit also, as she has always been there and willing to do anything she was called upon to do," Coach Barbara Webster said. "A good team player, she started as well as coming off the bench and doing the job. I'm proud of her and Lois for their achievements and their all-star selections."

points in the second half, and combined with the rebounding of the league's MVP Tom Cairns [16 points] and Melvin Sullivan [6 points] St. Ann's tied the game in regulation and outscored Point, 9-2, in the overtime to win the title game.

Ged Phelan who scored 10 points and played an outstanding defensive game along with Jim Hurley [6 points] also sparked the Aspens who finished the year with a 16-1 record.

Rick Page and Frank McGrath led the Point rebounders while DeCristofaro [14 points], Johnson [10 points], and Tom and Bob Pettinelli, 8 points each led the Point offense.

League director Jim Rendle presented the winners with trophies.

LaRaia, Council May Finally Agree

Fr. Sharkey QHA Nomination Gets Council Welcome

Mayor LaRaia nominated Rev. William Sharkey, associate pastor of St. Ann's Church, Wollaston, for a seat on the Quincy Housing Authority Monday night and the City Council was so enthusiastic it all but confirmed him on the spot.

Council President Arthur H. Tobin had the nomination sent to a special Council screening committee, almost apologizing for the move and promising that he will be prepared to vote on the nomination as soon as it passes committee.

Fr. Sharkey, who probably will have been confirmed last night (Wednesday), is the third person to be nominated by Mayor LaRaia for the seat being vacated by the Rev. Peter Corea, whose term expired Feb. 26.

The first two, Mrs. Ellen Nieters and Frank Myett, were nominated after passing muster of a screening committee made up of members of the Harborview Tenants Association. The Council refused to confirm them.

The tenants screening committee was not involved in Fr. Sharkey's nomination. He was not one of the 12 applicants who were screened by the tenants and given an acceptability rating.

"Obviously," said Mayor LaRaia, "we got the message from the Chamber of Commerce that it was not going to honor any candidate from that list."

"We tried to choose an individual who was neutral and not a part of the ongoing dialogue between the Housing Authority, the City Council and the Mayor's office.

"Fr. Sharkey is neutral and acceptable, not only to the City Council but also to the tenants' representatives, as well as the DCA [Department of Community Affairs]."

The Mayor said the State DCA was consulted before the nomination was made and the DCA suggested a neutral candidate.

Tobin, who is a candidate to replace LaRaia as Mayor, said he wanted to "commend the Mayor for his selection. I'm happy that we're putting these matters behind us at this time."

He said one of the reasons he wanted the nomination referred to the screening committee, chaired by Councillor John J. Quinn, "was so that Fr. Sharkey could come before the members of the City Council as we invited other nominees."

"Another reason is because a few weeks ago that Administration made a public statement in the press and radio that no name would be submitted to this Council for confirmation until the investigation of the Quincy Housing Authority was brought to an end."

Tobin said he called William Flynn, the secretary of DCA, and asked him if there was such an ongoing investigation.

"Mr. Flynn informed me that there was not now nor has there ever been an investigation of any kind relative to any alleged wrong doing by anyone employed at the Quincy Housing Authority."

"He also said that if I made this statement public here this evening he would invite members of the local press and radio to call him tomorrow morning and he would confirm the statement I just made."

The Sun called Flynn several times Tuesday and was told that he was in a cabinet meeting and unavailable for comment.

"What is going on at the present time at the Quincy Housing Authority is a management review," said Tobin. "They are working with the problems with the Housing Authority and the tenants organization."

"There is no investigation of any alleged wrong doing."

"Secretary Flynn said neither he nor anyone under his authority ever informed any members of this administration that the Quincy Housing Authority was under investigation at any time."

Caroline D'Olimpio, chairman of the Quincy Housing Authority, met Monday afternoon with DCA officials, including Flynn.

"The purpose of the meeting was to formulate procedures for an office management review to be held at the Quincy Housing Authority," said D'Olimpio in a statement.

D'Olimpio said Flynn told him that neither he nor Jon Steinberg, director of Bureau Management, or Robert Bateman, assistant secretary, "ever stated or inferred that anything more than an office management review was intended at the Quincy Housing Authority."

He quoted Flynn as saying that "statements made by the Mayor's office that the DCA informed them that an investigation or audit was to be held at the Quincy Housing Authority did not come from anyone in the Secretary's office."

No Central Students In Drug Raid

A drug raid story involving student arrests in last week's Quincy Sun reported that police said that students from Central Junior High were those involved in a drug raid at Quincy High School.

Earlier reports had included Central High students among those involved. No student from Central Junior High was arrested in the drug raid, according to latest police reports.

Cerasoli vs. Fitzsimmons

Sheets, Morrissey Opponents In New Redistricting

By TOM HENSHAW

The 1978 state election is still 17 long months away but already plans for it are taking shape on the political drawing boards in Quincy.

The State House chopped itself from 240 to 160 members last week, leaving Quincy and its 91,000 people with more than 3½ old State Reps who will be trying to squeeze into less than 2½ new jobs.

This is the situation:

* Rep. Thomas F. Brownell's old First Norfolk District has been enlarged into Wollaston and redesignated the Second Norfolk. He is the only incumbent in the new district.

* Rep. James A. Sheets of the old Fourth Norfolk and Rep. Michael W. Morrissey of the old Third are probable rivals for the new First Norfolk seat which stretches from Squantum to the farthest reaches of South Quincy.

* Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli, whose old Second Norfolk had 15,300 in Quincy and 9,400 in Weymouth, not only has incumbent opposition in Rep. Mark Fitzsimmons in the new Third Norfolk but loses his Quincy majority with 16,793 in the city and 21,600 in Weymouth.

Redistricting has left Cerasoli slightly embittered with the Democratic leadership of the State House and unsure of whether he will run for re-election against Fitzsimmons or seek new political fields to conquer.

The new Third Norfolk bears little resemblance to Cerasoli's old Second. All the old precincts in North Weymouth have been taken away and placed in Rep. Robert B. Ambler's new Fourth. The new Weymouth precincts are located up the river.

"You have to take a boat ride to get to them," says Cerasoli sarcastically. "You take a boat

Lee Rubbish Collection Contract In Jeopardy

The one-year contract held by the Charles Lee Co. of Boston to collect rubbish in Quincy is in jeopardy unless the quality of the service improves, according to Mayor LaRaia.

The Mayor has scheduled a series of meetings with company representatives to review the service, which was contacted for in January for one year with an option for a two-year renewal.

In view of a "rash of complaints" in the past month, he said, more decisive action regarding the company's service is expected to be taken.

"I am deeply disturbed over the quality of the Charles Lee Co.'s services and hope to resolve this situation immediately," he said. "Their contract is in jeopardy if the recent problems are not corrected."

Favors Centralized Competition

QCBPA Opposes Proposed North Quincy Shopping Plaza

The Quincy Business and Professional Association has indicated its opposition to a proposed $5 million shopping plaza off Quincy Shore Drive near the old Squantum Naval Air Station.

"It is not that we object to competition," said Charles Ryder, president of the QCBPA in a letter to Joseph J. McKenna, chairman of the Board of Zoning Appeals.

"On the contrary, we are looking for it and have been working very hard at trying to attract all the new business we can possibly get into the Quincy area.

"However, we feel that this competition should be more centralized and not spread out all over the city."

Ryder pointed out that Quincy Center has lost such stores as Gilchrist's, Grant's, Raymond's and Milton's in the past few months.

"These losses," he said, "have resulted in some very attractive commercial space which is readily available to competitors and very welcome by the business and professional people, and we are sure by the residents of Quincy."

Some of the objections made by people who attended a Board of Appeals meeting on the shopping plaza on May 3, he said, "were quite realistic and factual and merit a lot of consideration by the board."

LaRaia Signs New Shellfish Ordinance

Mayor LaRaia has signed a revised ordinance that places new limits on the digging of shellfish and sea worms along the Quincy shoreline.

The ordinance specifies that no person shall take shellfish from contaminated areas that have been deemed suitable for the taking of shellfish for purification unless he holds a permit from the city licensing board.

The Board will issue a sufficient number of permits to residents to assure proper working of the areas and limit the number of permits to avoid depletion.

Further amendments restrict commercial diggers to one barrel of clams per tide.

Quincy-South Shore Area

Quincy Sun Pledge Center For MDA Telethon

The Quincy Sun has been selected as a satellite pledge center for the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy telethon on Ch. 5 over the Labor Day weekend.

The Sun will be the telethon headquarters for the Quincy-South Shore area, including Quincy, Braintree, Hingham, Milton, Randolph and Weymouth.

Forty telephones will be installed in The Sun office at 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq., and manned by volunteers to receive donation pledges from television viewers in the Quincy-South Shore area.

Sun Publisher Henry W. Bosworth will coordinate the pledge center, assisted by Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board and long active in civic and charitable projects in Quincy.

In addition Bosworth and Koch will head up pre-telethon Muscular Dystrophy activities in Quincy, Braintree, Hingham, Milton, Randolph and Weymouth.

WCVB-TV will give television coverage at The Sun during the telethon and local residents participating as local telethon telephone volunteers and in fund-raising activities between now and Labor Day will have the opportunity to appear on Ch. 5.

A "fish bowl" will also be put on display at The Sun office where persons may make donations. Entertainment activities are also planned outside the office.

Steven Getz, District Director of the Southern Massachusetts Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association said:

"We are very pleased to have The Quincy Sun serve as the local pledge center for the Ch. 5 telecast of the Jerry Lewis Telethon.

"The selection of Henry Bosworth and Dick Koch to head up this project is based on their past community oriented activities and active support and interest in the Muscular Dystrophy Association. We are pleased to have them on the MDA team.

Bosworth is a member of the Massachusetts Telethon Executive Committee for the telethon. The committee is headed by Jerry Lewis, national chairman of the Muscular Dystrophy telethon.

Title I Applications Available

Applications are now available for parents of children in the Title I schools for the federally funded Early Childhood Center.

The program is for pre-kindergarten children who will be entering kindergarten in September, 1978, and to be eligible for enrollment, a child must attain his/her fourth birthday during the 1977 calendar year.

Title I schools to be served by the Center are: Snug Harbor, Pollard, Lincoln-Hancock, Webster, and Willard.

Applications may be obtained at any of the five Title I schools, Southwest Community Center, Germantown Service Center or John F. Kennedy Health Center. These applications must be returned to the Title I schools no later than June 13.

Stewart S. Sargent, Title I Administrator for Quincy Public Schools, said there is no fee for this program and transportation to and from the Center will be provided.

Youngsters Give Germantown Sprucing Up

The first annual Germantown Clean-Up Day netted close to eight tons of litter and debris from beaches, marshes, streets, and vacant lots. Nearly 200 Germantown youngsters logged over 600 hours of work to clean up the community last Saturday.

The Clean-Up Day was sponsored and directed by Germantown's Junior Heritage Society with the assistance of adult advisors and trucks provided by Quincy's public works and park departments.

The youngsters ranged in ages from 5 to 15 and worked in neighborhood teams directed by some of the "older" young people who served as team captains.

Team Captains were Paula and Jeffrey Morrison, Robin Lotti, Ruth Ann Roche, Bernie and Michael Macauley, Jody Megnia, Pam Peterson, Jimmy Madden, David Myett, Jay and Michael Petrilli, Kim Lotti, Michael Cascarano, Billy Bomar, Michael Cable.

Also Patrick McCarthy, Tom Ventosi, Mark Prescott, Lynn Cassidy, Kathy Petrilli, Debby Lavender, Lisa Cosgrove, Cindy and Janet Stevens.

Neighborhood advisors were Mr. James Donahue, Mrs. Judy Macauley, Mrs. Merideth Morrison, Mrs. Elaine McGrail, Mr. Verne Bomar, Mrs. Alice Colby, Mrs. Pat Petrilli and Mr. Harold Crowley.

During the preceding week many of the youngsters had participated with their teachers at the clean-up of the area around Snug Harbor School.

For their efforts in the community clean-up, they were rewarded with a candy-bar for each hour they worked.

Memorial Day Parade, Ceremonies Set For Monday

By MICHAEL WIGDOR

John P. Comer of Quincy, past State Commander of the American Legion, will be the keynote speaker Monday, May 31, during Quincy's Memorial Day parade and ceremonies honoring the dead of all wars.

Chief Marshal for the parade will be Kenneth B. Taft, commander of Quincy Veterans Council. His aides will be Joseph Callahan, senior vice commander, and Irving Isaacson, junior vice commander.

The parade will begin at 9:30 a.m. at School St. and Ross Parkway and proceed to Mt. Wollaston Cemetery where Comer will speak at the World War II Podium.

The parade and ceremonies are sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Council, representing all Quincy veterans posts.

The two-day schedule of events:

SUNDAY

● 9:45 a.m. - Quincy Legion Post will conduct traditional exercises of the Grand Army of the Republic at United First Parish Church after which Sunday School children will decorate graves of veterans in Hancock Cemetery.

● 11 a.m. - All veterans organizations and their auxiliaries and the public are invited to attend services at United First Parish Church.

● 7 p.m. - George F. Bryan VFW Post and auxiliary will proceed to the Boulder and Doughboy Monument at Adams Academy, the GAR Monument at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery and Shea Memorial at South Weymouth Naval Air Station.

● 7 p.m. - Cyril P. Morrisette Legion Post, and the Quincy Cavanagh Chapter DAV will decorate the graves of John A. Boyd, Cyril P. Morrisette, and Charles J. Cavanagh in St. Mary's Cemetery, West Quincy.

At the conclusion of these ceremonies, the Morrisette Post will decorate the war memorials at Liberty Sq., South Quincy and the West

JOHN P. COMER

MONDAY

● 7 a.m. - George F. Bryan VFW Post will hold memorial exercises at George F. Bryan Sq., Franklin and Water Sts., Fr. Tierney Sq., School St., and the George F. Bryan Memorial in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

● 7 a.m. - Wollaston Legion Post will decorate graves and hold memorial exercises at the National Sailors Home Cemetery.

● 8 a.m. - William R. Caddy Detachment, Marine Corps League, will decorate the William R. Caddy Memorial at Caddy Park, Wollaston, the John Jackson, Paul Grasso and James Cavicchi Memorials.

● 8 a.m. - Veterans of all wars will assemble at Morrisette Legion Post and proceed to Hall Place and conduct GAR memorial ceremonies after which the line will reform and proceed to the Post where marchers will disband.

8:30 a.m. - A short memorial service will be held in the Wollaston Lutheran Church, 550 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Houghs Neck Legion Post will hold memorial exercises and decorate O'Hara Square, Adams Shore Memorial, Houghs Neck Memorial and Frederick C. Murphy Memorial.

Morning - Robert I. Nickerson Legion Post will decorate Nickerson Beach, Gilbert Memorial and Bayfield Memorial.

10 a.m. - Short memorial service will be held at Christ Church Burial Grounds.

9:30 a.m. - Marching units will assemble on School St. and Charles A.

Ross Parkway. The parade will start at 10 a.m. over School St., Hancock St., Washington St., Coddington St., and Sea St. to Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

The marchers will rest at Quincy Square while wreaths are placed on the tombs of John Adams and John Quincy Adams.

Chief Marshal Kenneth B. Taft and honored guests will review the parade from a stand on Sea St. across from Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Memorial services will be held from the World War II Podium in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery after which the parade will disband and marchers will return to their Posts and Chapters.

In case of inclement weather, services will be held in the Quincy Vo-Tech School Auditorium. Radio WJDA will broadcast official

Today's Women

3 Special Awards

Anne Kane Receives S.S. Political Caucus 'Woman Of Year Award'

Mrs. Anne Kane of 164 Atlantic St., North Quincy was named recipient of the "Woman of the Year Award" of the South Shore Women's Political Caucus at the Hollow Restaurant, Monday evening.

She and recipients of three special awards for contributing to improving the role of women in society were honored at the Annual Awards Banquet. Attorney Paula Gold of the Attorney General's office of Consumer Affairs, was the featured speaker.

Recipients of the special awards were Quincy Community Action, the Thomas Crane Public Library and Representative Robert A. Cerasoli.

Mrs. Alicia Coletti, recipient of the 1976 "Woman of the Year Award" presented an engraved silver disk to Mrs. Kane for her outstanding contributions to the community over the past several years. In addition, she was presented with state Senate and House of Representatives resolutions congratulating and commending her.

A Senate citation, sponsored by Senator Arthur Tobin, was given in recognition of receiving the South Shore Political Caucus Women of the Year Award and "for her dedication in working towards improving the quality of life for all persons in the community."

A House Resolution, sponsored and presented by Rep. James Sheets, cited Mrs. Kane "for her outstanding contributions to the quality of life in the city of Quincy."

The Special Awards were presented by Jane Ford, Chairwoman of the Caucus.

Quincy Community Action was cited for its services to the women of the South Shore through the Quincy Family Planning Program. Marge Doolin who has been involved in the program accepted the award for Quincy Community Action.

The Thomas Crane Public Library received an award for its service to women of the community. The library has hosted numerous meetings for women's groups over the years, its Adult Services Department has sponsored lecture and film series on issues of concern to women. Anne Aronson, Adult Services librarian accepted this award.

Cerasoli was cited for his "excellent voting record" on women's issues and his continuing support of the concerns of women in his district. This was the first time the Caucus has presented an award to an elected official.

Attorney Gold from the Attorney General's Office of Consumer Affairs addressed the group about pending legislation which would set up local consumer affairs councils. She also answered many questions from the audience concerning consumer issues.

Summer Weight Loss Program At Woman's World

"We are delighted to be able to offer this program for girls," said Miss Janet Gaskell, Woman's World manager and Summer program director. "Although any girl will benefit from the activities, we are particularly interested in those who are concerned with weight loss."

Miss Gaskell, a certified school teacher and tennis instructor, is the former supervisor and director of Dr. Johnson's Camps, Raymond, Maine. She was also the administrator of Tennis 128, Burlington. She will be assisted by Miss Janice McArthur of Quincy, a certified physical fitness instructor, who has taught parent-child gym classes and gymnastics at the Quincy YMCA.

Three separate three-week sessions are scheduled. Each session is limited to 35 girls. Beginning dates are: Session I on June 27, Session II on July 18, and Session III on August 8.

Additional information is available at Woman's World Health Spa or by calling 749-3225.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE FACTS

High blood pressure may be the nation's leading cause of death. While it is the direct cause of "only" 60,000 deaths a year, hypertension is the main factor in hundreds of thousands of deaths from heart attack, stroke and kidney failure every year. Indeed, at any given age, the higher one's blood pressure, the shorter one's life expectancy.

High blood pressure afflicts 23 million Americans or one out of every six of us. The disease does not betray its insidious presence by pain or any other symptoms. While high blood pressure can not be completely cured, it CAN be permanently controlled by effective treatment.

Despite widespread knowledge of these grim facts, high blood pressure is probably the most neglected and most casually treated of all major health threats. According to the American Heart Association, 8 million of those who have the disease do not even know it.

The only way to detect high blood pressure is to measure it with the familiar inflatable-cuff device. Visit your doctor and find out where you stand. It could save or prolong your life.

MILESTONE — Mr. and Mrs. John Milne of Quincy Point celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at reception at Wollaston Golf Club, Milton.

Mr., Mrs. John Milne Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John Milne of 87 Chubbuck St., Quincy Point, recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at the Wollaston Golf Club amid their three children, six grandchildren and congratulatory messages from President Carter and Cong. James A. Burke.

The Milnes, both natives of Scotland, were married May 23, 1927, in Quincy Point Congregational Church and have made their home in Quincy for 50 years. Mrs. Milne is the former Margaret S. Glencross.

Guests from California, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Attleboro also attended the Golden Wedding Anniversary party given by their children, Mrs. Carl Leone of Wollaston, John Milne Jr. of Braintree, and Ms. Marjorie Surtette of Quincy.

The Milnes were greeted with a selection of Scottish tunes played on the bagpipes by James Fee, who then piped them into the dining room where the receiving line was formed.

Covenant Naomi Society Marks 62nd Anniversary

The Naomi Society of the Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell St., Quincy held its 62nd annual banquet Saturday evening in Person Hall.

Mrs. C. Herbert Johnson of Milton represented the charter members who organized the society Feb. 17, 1915. Unable to attend were three additional charter members: Mrs. Russell Sandblom of Milton, Mrs. Hildur Burkett Baldwin and Mrs. Ruth Lindsay, now of Kissimmee, Florida.

Speaker at the banquet was Rev. Phillip D. Johnson. Toastmistress was Mrs. Robert Jacobs of Quincy. Kenneth P. Carlson, minister of the church, gave the invocation and benediction.

An "In Memoriam," conducted by Mrs. Kenneth Carlson, honored three of the Naomi members who died this past year.

Mrs. Charles Sylvester presented gifts to the outgoing officers, including Miss Eleanor Kruse, Mrs. David Day, Mrs. Robert Day, Mrs. Jack MacDonald and Mrs. Frank Anderson.

New officers include Mrs. Sylvester, Mrs. Jacobs, Mrs. Donald Teed, Mrs. Herbert Acker, Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. Stanley Nelson and Mrs. Frank Anderson.

Mrs. David Day headed the banquet arrangement committee.

The organization continues to meet each month and conducts an active program of service and fellowship. The next meeting is Monday, June 13, in Person Hall.

The Naomi Society is affiliated with National Covenant Women, which is also celebrating its 62nd anniversary this year. National Covenant Women is the women's arm of the Evangelical Covenant Church of America with headquarters in Chicago.

It was in Quincy on May 14, 1949, that Covenant Women of the East Coast Conference (60 churches) voted to join the National Covenant Women.

Max Coffman, chairman of Mammoth Mart, Inc. board is executive committee chairman and former Ambassador-Gov. John Volpe is honorary chairman.

Bosworth is also a member of the advisory board of the Southern Massachusetts Chapter Muscular Dystrophy Association, and a member of the board of directors of Cerebral Palsy South Shore Area, the Quincy YMCA, the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and a member of the board of corporators of the Quincy Savings Bank.

Koch is founder-executive director of the 4,000-member

Koch Club, a member of the Granite Cooperative Bank board of directors, board of trustees of Norfolk Agricultural School, president Quincy City Club, chairman advisory board Wollaston Recreational Facility.

He has been chairman of Heart Fund special events committee for the past eight years, chairman of the Quincy Cancer Crusade and chairman of the Kidney Foundation special events committee.

"I am delighted to have Dick Koch associated with me in this very special project," Bosworth said. "Dick has been very active in community and charitable causes for the past 30 years. When he gives a hand to any cause, it is a sure thing. He certainly has the know-how to make a project successful. He not only puts his talent into it, but his heart and soul, too.

"I am also pleased to be associated with Jerry Lewis and W-VB-TV in this worthy event. I pledge to Jerry an all-out effort here in the Quincy-South Shore area to help make this year's telethon even more successful than last year's. Our goal is help find a cure for Muscular Dystrophy, the cruel enemy of too many of our youngsters.

Bosworth said he and Koch are already organizing fund-raising activities to be held between now and the Labor Day weekend.

Anyone wishing to conduct a fund-raising event or to assist in any other way is asked to contact Bosworth or Koch.

Ah, Politics!

Ah, politics!

The Quincy city preliminary election is still a good four months away, but already some of the politician watchers have their eye on next year's state election.

Can Mike Morrissey defeat Jim Sheets?

The pair, as a result of the redistricting, will find themselves pitted against one another if they have re-election ideas.

And, Robert Cerasoli will have to take on Weymouth's Mark Fitzsimmons.

And, of course, will the LaRaia forces throw a formidable Senate challenger at Arthur Tobin?

Meanwhile, others are looking at the Norfolk County situation—especially the county treasurer's office. Incumbent James Collins who has been feuding with the county commissioners and others over in Dedham is expected to have some opposition. A possible contender is former Quincy Mayor Walter Hannon now a South Shore Chamber of Commerce executive. A few months back, Hannon changed his political colors from Republican to Democrat. Which isn't too surprising to those close to the political scene who always felt he was more Democrat than Republican anyway.

But the fact he is officially a Democrat would seem to add strength to current speculation Hannon will make a political comeback bid in the county ring.

WILL Mayor LaRaia seek a second term? He's still keeping 'em guessing. But: he's got a 4-page tabloid format newspaper in circulation this week. So, it would seem he's going to run.

A FAMILIAR, but politically fresh face is expected to step into the City Council at-large race: Michael Faherty, retired state police captain. Faherty, who lives on Furnace Brook Parkway, Wollaston, is quite active in the Knights of Columbus. He's past grand knight of the North Quincy K. of C. and former state deputy of the Massachusetts K. of C.

SABINA STENBERG, chairman of the Quincy Council on Aging and beauty salon owner, says she's planning to run for the City Council this year. Eyeing the at-large seat being vacated by Arthur Tobin to run for Mayor.

A FUND RAISER reception-dance-buffet for Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets will be held Friday, June 3, at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Hall, 7 p.m. to midnight. Tickets $12.50 per couple.

COUNCILLOR PAUL HAROLD returns to his alma mater Broad Meadows Junior High School Friday as speaker at Memorial Day exercises. At Broad Meadows he was Student Council President.

FORMER QUINCY NEWSMAN John Noonan was on the other side of the typewriter last month. Noonan, who lives on Alton Rd., South Quincy is now director of Governmental Affairs for the Massachusetts Medical Society. And in April was the subject of interviews in two nationally circulated periodicals: Boston Magazine and the American Medical News. Noonan formerly worked for the Patriot Ledger and the old Quincy Journal.

SAM SANSONE, a popular figure for many years as co-owner with his brother Mike of Sansone's Fruit Store across from City Hall, has moved to Illinois to live with his son, Sam, Jr. He was given a fond send-off at a little get-together at the home of Al Scavo, the West Quincy auto body shop owner. Among those attending—were retired Police Lt. John Denneen, Detective Hubert McLean and Sam's son. His new address, in case you'd like to wish him good luck: 9055 Cumberland, Niles, Ill. 60648.

MARY COLLINS, candidate for the Quincy School Committee, made her singing debut at the recent Squantum's Women's Club awards luncheon. Former Jackie Gleason sidekick Frankie Fontaine and his son, Larry, entertained the girls. And Larry, who plays the banjo, picked Mary out to sing a "Bill Bailey" duet with him. Not bad, either.

HERE'S ONE: "Unity", the Quincy Public Housing Tenants newsletter, reports there is an ice cream truck vendor in the Germantown area that allows children to charge their ice cream apparently without parents' consent. The Germantown Service Center has a complaint that one youngster ran up a $35 tab and the matter is being investigated by the Harborview Residents Committee.

The world's first motorcycle was developed in 1885 when Gottlieb Daimler placed an engine on a wooden bicycle.

Sheets, Morrissey Opponents

from the Fore River bridge and go up river behind the Edison plant and when you get to Idlewell Beach, that's the Third District. They say that's contiguous with Quincy Point!"

If the Weymouth precincts hadn't been juggled and gerrymandered, Cerasoli might have wound up as opposition to Ambler, the veteran rep who is chairman of the House Committee on Government Regulations. Ambler is alone in his new district.

Cerasoli said the original redistricting plan drawn up by Rep. George Keverian of Everett had 16,793 in Quincy and 19,500 in Weymouth but it was changed after Fitzsimmons threatened to move into Ambler's district and run against him.

"I'm in the process of making decisions now about my future," says Cerasoli. "I've been offered some jobs in the public and private sectors but I intend to stay in elective politics. I may run for re-election but there are a lot of alternatives open to me. I'll make a decision in the next few weeks."

Sheets, who lost some of his old district to Brownell and picked up most of Morrissey's, fared well in the redistricting but he's not ready to make any announcements for 1978.

"I think it's good they put North Quincy and West Quincy together," he says. "It would make an interesting campaign. But I can't predict the possibilities."

Sheets has a campaign for re-election as City Councillor from Ward 4 coming up this fall which may interfere with his forward vision to 1978.

On the other hand, Morrissey is not so reticent.

"I definitely will run for re-election," he says. "I have a lot of respect for Jim. I'm looking forward to the campaign starting in about a year. I got the short end of the stick in redistricting but I'm confident I can win."

Morrissey lost about 7,000 people from his old district to Brownell and picked up more than 20,000 new people, most of them from Sheets' old district.

"I think Keverian was as fair as possible, given the situation he was in," says Morrissey.

"I'm sorry to lose part of the Wollaston district. I still think there should be a North Quincy-Wollaston seat. I did fight for it. At least I helped to keep the district from going into Boston. That was important to me."

"And I still think it was a mistake to redistrict at all. It just makes the elite more elite. It gives the leadership more chance to control the legislature."

In general, Sheets said he too could find little fault with the way Keverian handled the difficult chore of redistricting.

"He did a pretty good job in Quincy," he said. "He protected the integrity of the wards. I'm glad Ward 6 was kept intact. And Ward 4 lost only one precinct. That's good."

Sheets also disclosed that a move was thwarted that would have taken two more Cerasoli precincts and given them to Brownell while a Brownell precinct would have been thrown into the new Sheets-Morrissey district.

"It would have reduced the Quincy vote by 4,000," he said. "It was a blatant political move."

McGee Says Job Situation Improved

House Speaker Thomas McGee [D-Lynn] told the South Shore Chamber of Commerce last week that the State Legislature and the Chamber share a common top priority—improvement of the local job situation.

"I believe we've both made progress," he told the Chamber's breakfast meeting at the Lantana, Randolph.

"The last available figures put the unemployment picture at 6 per cent, representing a gain of about 25 per cent over the past year. I would say the legislature is in some way responsible for the improvement."

McGee said he sees indications that legislators and business people have changed in the past few years and are better able to work together to build a more attractive business climate in the state.

He cited recent moves to curtail flights and lower noise levels at Logan Airport as examples of how the support of the business sector is needed.

"We cannot allow Logan Airport to be crippled," he said. "It is one of our biggest assets, and it is imperative that full service is maintained for the benefit of the entire New England economy."

But, he added, at the same time the quality of life of the people affected by excessive noise cannot be neglected or ignored.

McGee also made these points:

- The legislature should pass fewer laws and make those already on the books work for the benefit of the people.

- The legislature needs a firmer hand on the laws it passes to insure that the agencies which administer them carry out their intent.

- Massachusetts should monitor federal funds and programs that come into the state so that it knows what the various agencies are doing with the federal money.

- Federal regulations encourage people to go on welfare.

- He expects that both houses of the Legislature will pass the binding arbitration bill but that Gov. Dukakis will veto it.

READER SPEAKS OUT

Suggests Better Bus Service

Between Quincy Center-Weymouth

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would like to suggest that the present MBTA Weymouth Bus Routes No. 222 Quincy Center to East Weymouth and No. 225 Quincy Center to Weymouth Landing are not fully servicing the town by following unchanged routes left over from the days of the Eastern Mass Railway System.

East Weymouth Route No. 222 "duplicates" service along Washington St. and Route 3A. In actuality its only unduplicated Weymouth service runs between Route 3A North Weymouth and Jackson Sq., East Weymouth.

Quincy Center-Weymouth Landing Route No. 225 when it comes into Weymouth Landing at the junction of Union St. splits off in a round about one way route up Front, Summer and Federal Sts., that makes little sense.

Sensibly the East Weymouth Route No. 222 should become a circumferential bus route that would service the Weymouth area better by continuing from its present terminus in Jackson Sq. up Broad St. to Washington St. and then up through Union St., Braintree to the new MBTA Braintree Station when it's built. Until it's built, the route should proceed down Quincy Ave. back to Quincy Center.

This would better service the populous apartment houses located on Broad St. and the elderly Union Towers housing complex. People in these areas could then take the bus to supermarket, church and to Quincy on a direct route.

Elderly tenants of the Union Towers complex for example can't take a corner bus to shop at the Jackson Sq. supermarket, nor take a bus to shop at the Shopping Center at the corner of Washington St. and Route 18, Weymouth, only a couple of miles away.

Quincy Center-Weymouth Landing Route No. 225 when it comes into Weymouth Landing at the junction of Union St., should continue on Washington St. straight up by the Union Towers Elderly Housing and terminate at the Shopping Center at the corner of Washington St. and Route 18 and return over the same Washington St. Route 53.

Bus Strike 3-Months Old

A two-hour labor-management conference with State Labor Commissioner John J. DelMonte failed to reach a settlement in the 81-day strike of 220 drivers and mechanics against the Eastern Mass Street Railway Co.

A last minute hitch developed in the plan for the Quincy School Department to rent five buses from a Vermont company at $21 a day to transport some 650 Quincy school children to classes during the strike.

It was reported that the $15 a week allowance being paid to the striking drivers and mechanics was being reduced to $13 weekly as the treasury of Quincy Local 253 was depleted by the long walkout.

Mayor David S. McIntosh blasted the International Union for what he called its failure to step aside and permit the Quincy Local to handle its own affairs.

"The International very likely is trying to win a point; while the men are more interested in going back to regular pay checks than winning some technical point," he said.

Meanwhile, the New Haven Railroad reported that the strike had added 25,000 riders a week to its trains, enabling the company to show an $884,158 profit for the first quarter of 1952. It lost $432,661 in the first quarter of 1951.

ELKHILL BLANKS WEYMOUTH

Reliever Al Elkhill took over from sore-armed Ronnie Frongello in the second inning and blanked Weymouth the rest of the way as North Quincy High beat the Maroons, 4-0, at Legion Field, East Weymouth.

Frongello gave up one scratch hit in the first inning and Elkhill allowed a fluke safety in the second. Bill Rodgers, Clyde Hadlock and Spero Coulaos were batting for North Quincy.

Energy Confusion

Recently, Senator Richard Lugar of Indiana spoke to the Annual Meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States about our energy policy. Let me share with you his comments about our nation's current energy policy:

There is an error in suggesting that our country has lacked an energy policy. In actuality, we have been suffering from a hidden, misunderstood, disastrous policy for some time.

Our energy policy has been guaranteed by the Federal government, by its laws and regulations, that petroleum products and natural gas in this country would be sold at low prices. As the years have passed, the enforced low prices have been some distance from low market prices, established by supply and demand.

Homeowners, businessmen, builders and administrators of schools and hospitals have preferred to construct heating facilities based on a government imposed policy of cheap energy. The policy has been extraordinarily popular. Energy of growing value has been purchased and used at cut rate. Inexpensive energy sources have been tapped as progressively more expensive sources have been brought in line. Most of us knew that we were getting a bargain and we preferred to believe that a policy which produced such a bargain with no questions asked or answered, ought to last indefinitely.

In due course, energy producers were forced to tap much more expensive sources and the expense of finding additional resources is likely to be greater still.

Our unexamined but very real energy policy is still to impose federal government controls on price, even if the additional expenses of exploration, drilling, extraction, and shipment rise steeply beyond incoming revenue.

As other governments have imposed high energy prices, we give speeches about the need for energy independence which neither they or we believe.

The OPEC countries know that their petroleum exports are absolutely vital for the industrial production of the western industrial nations and Japan; and that our energy policy has been one of enforced low prices coupled with harassment of our own domestic energy producers.

President Carter has opened an important conversation on energy policy and all Americans commend him for making certain that we know that a problem is before us worthy of prompt and constructive attention. But President Carter has not chosen to lay bare the fallacy of our present energy policy in order that we might examine why it is not working and why we should bury it once and for all before proceeding to higher ground. Instead he has retained much of the present misunderstanding, and proceeded to suggest substantially more federal employees, more federal taxes, and many more restraints on the personal freedom of American citizens.

The American people have considerable skepticism about President Carter's energy proposals because they believe that much more natural gas will be forthcoming at higher prices. They believe that gas can be produced from coal, competitively, when natural gas prices are higher. They believe that solar energy will be a reasonable choice when energy prices in general are higher. In fact, most Americans exercising common sense know that we will be short of energy in this country only if we are determined through misguided government policy to make certain that we are short. At higher prices, abundant and long-lasting energy resources are available.

Our present energy policy is one of imposing energy shortages on ourselves, and we had better begin to face the real issue of whether we want energy shortages at low prices or whether we are willing to pay the prices needed to develop abundant energy for the future of this country.

[Eric Swider is Executive Vice-President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.]

Fr. Peter Uglietto To Celebrate Mass At St. John's

Newly ordained Rev. Peter J. Uglietto will celebrate a Mass tonight (Thursday) for St. John's Parish at 6:30 p.m.

The Mass will be concelebrated by all the priests of the Parish.

St. John's Choir has prepared a special musical program for the Mass. The Spiritual Development Commission of the parish has planned the Liturgy.

Fr. Uglietto has been deacon at St. John's Parish since last July, 1976.

He was born and raised in Watertown, and attended Boston College and St. John's Seminary in Brighton.

He was ordained last Saturday by Umberto Cardinal Medeiros at Holy Cross Cathedral, and celebrated his first Mass at his home parish in Winchester.

Immediately following the Mass, the parish will host a reception for Fr. Uglietto and his family at the Viking Club, Braintree, at which time he will bestow his blessings.

A buffet will be served and music provided by the Ricca-Tones.

Faith Lutheran Starts Summer Schedule June 5

Beginning Sunday, June 5, Faith Lutheran Church of Quincy will be on summer schedule, with only one Sunday morning service of worship. It will be at 9 a.m.

On that date a group of young people will be confirmed, with

Holy Communion celebrated by all. A reception to honor the confirmands will be held immediately after the service.

Children's Protective Services Division Meets

The South Shore area directors of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, Children's Protective Services division held their regular board meeting at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Guest speakers were Robert Mulford, General Secretary of Children's Protective Services, and Walter Leafman, Assistant General Secretary of the Norfolk South Shore District Office.

President Mary Lane of Dewson Rd., Quincy Center, announced that Quincy Atty. Alan Finer, whose office is on Hancock St., was elected to serve on the state-wide board of directors.

The Children's Protection Services is a private, state-wide protective social agency, which help families whose children are being neglected but whose parents can't or won't seek help with their problems.

The Norfolk-South Shore District Office of the agency is at 1245 Hancock St., Room 28, Quincy Center.

Snug Harbor Sailors Memorial Services Friday

A Memorial Day ceremony honoring the mariners interred at Germantown's Sailors Snug Harbor Cemetery will be held Friday, May 27, at 10 a.m. at the site of the cemetery in the field to the rear of Snug Harbor School.

The ceremonies sponsored by the Germantown Heritage Society and Snug Harbor School will feature a series of presentations by students at the school as a Memorial Day tribute to the 133 mariners who spent their final days at Sailors' Snug Harbor, a nationally renowned home for merchant seamen which was located less than a quarter of a mile south of the cemetery.

Refreshments will be served following the ceremonies. The public is invited to attend and participate in the ceremonies.

Humane Society Elects Officers

The South Shore Humane Society recently held its annual elections.

Officers elected were, Barbara Bonkowski, president; Claire Stern, vice president; Mary Toomey, secretary and Beverly Paradise, treasurer.

Elected to the board of directors were Doris Campbell, Claire Stern, Barbara Bonkowski, Joan Carolyn Griffin, Mary Toomey, Judy Buchanan, Sheila Keating, Betty Brangeforte, Ruth Meiner, Beverly Paradise, Francis Kenney, Don Kent, Jess Cain and Win Bettinson.

4 Disabled Veterans Appointed To Fire Dept.

Mayor LaRaia has announced the names of four disabled veterans to fill firefighter vacancies on the Quincy Fire Department, thus, apparently clearing the way for a raise in the base pay of the firefighters.

The Mayor said the appointments, effective June 4, were made from the top of the current Civil Service list, which Councillor Paul D. Harold had charged the Mayor was trying to bypass recently when he proposed a new Civil Service list.

The City Council has been withholding its approval of the recently negotiated boost in the base pay until the appointments were made.

If the Council had approved the pay hike, the base pay of Quincy firefighters would have been over the state limit and thus the disabled veterans would have lost their absolute preference.

The new appointees are John M. Carroll of 26 Sycamore Rd., Squantum; Edward J. McGuinness of 152 Main St., Quincy Point, and Joseph G. Cuervels of 39 Holmes St., and John J. Keenan of 251 Billings Rd., both Norfolk Downs.

There are still at least nine vacancies on the Quincy Fire Department but the jobs were cut out of the 1977-78 budget by the City Council.

Tobin Counsel Readies Reply To Slander Charge

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin has declined to comment on a $7.5 million slander suit lodged against him by the Post Gazette, a weekly newspaper in Boston's North End, for saying that stories critical of him "are being paid for and pumped into the city."

"My attorneys have told me not to make any comment on the case," said Tobin when he was asked if he planned a countersuit over some of the charges made against him by the newspaper.

Tobin told a meeting of the Quincy Taxpayers Association on April 28:

"You can't get news in that paper without paying for it. The articles are being paid for and pumped into the city. The Mayor and his press secretary were seen in there. His press secretary admits it."

Atty. John Cavicchi, counsel for the Post Gazette, said the comments were slanderous per se because they accused the Post Gazette of doing something which could be construed as a violation of state election laws.

Tobin has 20 days from the date the suit was filed in Suffolk Superior Court [May 18] in which to respond to the suit.

"My attorney's are preparing an answer to the charge," Tobin said.

John Deschenes Passes Mass. Law Examination

John E. Deschenes of 61 Rogers St., West Quincy, son of City Purchasing Agent Agatha Deschenes, was one of eight men and women from Quincy who passed the examination for admission to the Massachusetts Bar.

Also qualifying to practice law in the Bay State were:

Amy C. Burbott, 31 Standish

Ave., Wollaston; Peter H. Fulton, 185 Quincy Shore Drive; Douglas B. MacDonald, 135 Quincy Ave.; Kevin J. Madden, 41 Lunt St., North Quincy; Robert W. McMahon, 11 Bethel Terrace, Germantown; Thomas R. Mullen, 43 Lincoln Ave., Wollaston; and Richard A. Skerry Jr., 99 Elmwood Park, Wollaston.

His department collected $1,190 in fees, issued 57 certificates of approval, made 147 inspections, noted 11 defects, made nine reinspections and had two fire calls.

$82,355 In New Wiring

The Department of Fire Inspection issued 96 permits for wiring estimated to cost $82,355 during the month of April. Inspector William H. Pitts has reported.

$875,000 In Additional Receipts Approved

The State Department of Corporations and Taxation has approved nearly $875,000 in additional 1978 estimated receipts for the city of Quincy, an amount Mayor LaRaia says represents $3 on the tax rate.

The School Building Assistance Bureau certified the amount to be used for the construction of the addition to North Quincy High School.

The Mayor said that School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, Budget Coordinator Sarah Saccone and the Mayor's office "have worked at great length to insure the soonest possible receipt of these funds to lessen the burden on the tax rate."

Quincy AFS Seeks Home For Scottish Student

The Quincy Chapter of American Field Service, an international student exchange program, that has been active in the city for 11 years, is seeking a home for a student for next year.

The girl, from Scotland, would live with a family from July of this year to the spring of next year. She would be a senior at Quincy High School and enjoy the experience of living in the Quincy community for the year. Interested families are asked to contact either Mrs. George Bennett [479-0536] or Miss Darlene D'Olimpio [773-7874] for further information and details.

Thomas Olsen In Special Training

Airman Thomas W. Olsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold K. Olsen of 72 Hodgkinson St., Germantown, has been selected for technical training at Chanute AFB, Ill., in the Air Force aircraft maintenance field.

The airman recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex., and studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Airman Olsen is a 1973 graduate of Quincy High School.

Memorial Day

On this special day, let us pay tribute to all the brave men and women who so gallantly served in our armed forces.

We are truly proud to honor those valiant Americans who gave their time, their energy and their very lives in the name of freedom. The dedication and determination of so many to defend this country's ideals have been the foundation of strength for us all.

Their courageous efforts have given all mankind wisdom of the past... and bright hope for the future. Let us not forget their heroic deeds... and the very principles that they fought to uphold so that this nation may grow and prosper in peace.

On a day to remember give a memorable gift.

Here's the ideal way to cap off a graduation. Say 'congratulations' with the gift of a Quincy Cooperative Bank account.

Regular Savings, Term Certificate, NOW account, Paid Up Share, or a U.S. Savings Bond.

No matter which one you give, it'll be a gift you'll be remembered for fondly.

Because a Quincy Cooperative gift account is one your favorite graduate can watch grow with interest. And add to, regularly.

Quincy Cooperative will provide a handsome greeting card describing your gift—you can give it with your gift or we will mail it for you.

Give someone special a special gift—our kind of gift suggestion—that appreciates in value and gratitude to you.

Josiah would have liked that.

Sheets Receives Alumni Award At ENC Homecoming

City Councillor and state Rep. James A. Sheets was honored with an alumni award last week at the annual homecoming program at Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston. Also honored were John Golden, class of '52, manager of a Dupont plant in North Carolina, and Richard Simons of Allentown, Pa., an outstanding senior majoring in chemistry with an extra-curricular interest in music.

Sheets was graduated from Eastern Nazarene in 1959, earning degrees in both the arts and theology. He has a masters in American history from Clark University and a doctorate in political science from Pittsburgh.

He taught at Eastern Nazarene, the University of Pittsburgh and Point Park College in Pittsburgh before joining the faculty of Quincy Junior College in 1963. He was elected to the City Council in 1973 and to the State House in 1975.

He and his wife, the former Joann Roberts, who is also a graduate of Eastern Nazarene Class of '59, have three children.

2 QHS Students DAR Good Citizens

Two Quincy High School seniors have been selected as Good Citizens for 1977 by the Col. Thomas Gardner Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Lydia LaFerla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Gaetano LaFerla of 38 Whitwell St., and Ian Sheridan, son of Dr. and Mrs. Sylvester R. Sheridan, of 260 Pine St., Wollaston, were guests of honor at a tea at the home of Miss Marion G. Rogers, chairwoman, where they were presented with DAR pins and certificates.

Good Citizens are chosen by members of the school faculties for displaying qualities of service, leadership, dependability and patriotism.

Miss LaFerla, senior at Quincy High School plans to attend Boston University, and Mr. Sheridan, senior at North Quincy High, will probably attend Brown University in the fall.

34 Graduate From Labor-United Way Counsellor Program

Thirty-four men and women were graduated from the annual Union Counsellor Program sponsored by the Norfolk County Massachusetts Labor Council AFL-CIO in cooperation with the United Way of Massachusetts Bay at recent commencement exercises at Moose Lodge Hall, Quincy Point.

All of the graduates completed a six-week course in which representatives or directors of health, welfare, labor and veterans agencies, many of which are United Way member agencies, conducted the course.

Topics of the course included: Labor, Cerebral Palsy, Public Assistance, Homemaker Service, Medicaid, Social Security, Medicare, Rehabilitation Program, Disaster Program, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Alcoholism Program, Workers Compensation, Family Services, Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Consumer Counseling, Visiting Nurse Programs and Veterans Services.

George McCall, Norfolk County Labor Council president, emceed, told the graduates, "It is nice to know that there are people interested in furthering their education that labor might continue to move forward in its various programs."

Arthur Osborn, Local 1505 president, said, "The cornerstone of good deeds is people helping people as you graduates are doing by taking the counselling course so that you might become better acquainted with the various services offered in the course."

Robert K. Chandler, executive vice president of United Way said, "If people can do one good thing to keep a person in trouble on the right road, they have accomplished a great deal and you graduating counsellors can do this because of your interest in others."

Joseph A. Sullivan, president Mass. State Labor Council, said, "People are selected by each local labor union to attend the counselling course and to take the time to do something for someone else by their participating in the course to become more knowledgeable about the programs of the various agencies so that they might help others who are very special to labor organizations."

Sullivan said an Institute to be held May 24 at Stonehill College, North Easton, "Is another step in assisting labor and its councils in working to help others."

Arthur DePietro, Community Service representative, arranged the counselling courses and was graduation exercise chairman.

Chandler, Sullivan and DePietro presented diplomas to:

Henry Burch, George McCall, Richard Cirillo, Thomas L. Hardy, Michael Salvaggi, Frank Scotty Cosgrove, Alexander Sinclair, Edwin F. Donadio, Ciro Jerry Cardinal, Leonard J. Little Loop Presents Awards At Annual Banquet

The Quincy Bowling Little Loop held its 23rd annual banquet recently with team and individual awards being presented.

The individual champions were Mike Regan of Montclair Men's Club, high average of 112.5, a new record; Dick Hallberg of Brett Club, high three of 393, and Mike Hatfield of Hutchinson Fuel Oil, high single of 148.

The Joseph E. Brett Club won the league championship and received the James M. Carey Memorial Trophy. Quincy Elks finished second and James R. McIntyre Club third. Hutchinson had the high team three of 1475 and Councillor Paul Harold Club had high team single of 523.

The Max Zides Memorial trophy for good sportsmanship went to Hugh Damon of Granite Lodge and the Pop Hatfield Memorial trophy for Most Improved Bowler went to Robert Waterman.

Rules of the league allow a boy to receive one individual and one team award only and Regan had high three of 396 but waived this for the individual high average trophy. He also rolled a 152 single but waived this award.

Hutchinson Oil hit a team high single of 524 during the final week but waived for the team high three trophies.

Ray "Sugar Bear" Hamilton, defensive tackle for the New England Patriots, was the guest speaker.

The final league standings: Brett Club, 69-31; Elks, 65-35; McIntyre, 64-36; Hennessy Plumbing Supply, 58-42; Hutchinson, 57-43; Granite Lodge, 55-45; Bryan Post VFW, 49-51; Montclair Men's Club, 47-53; Harold Club, 46-54; Atty. George Burke Club, 43-57; Atlantic Fuel Oil, 40-60; Richard M. Morrissey Club, 34-66; Wollaston Bowldrome, 29-71.

Flate, O'Leary, Donoghue FB Winners

In the weekly mixed Scotch foursome at Furnace Brook Golf Club, George and Eda Flate shot low gross and Paul O'Leary and Mary Donoghue had low net.

Ed O'Neill and Alice Pagnano and Al and Amy Stearns tied for second net. Jim Morrison and Priscilla O'Neill and Bill and Roberta Bemis tied for third net and Tom Gleason and Dot Smith shot fourth net.

● Babe Ruth Baseball

3-Way Tie In A.L., Local 1139 Leads N.L.

The Quincy Babe Ruth League is in full swing with Barry's Deli, Firemen and Houghs Neck tied for first in the American League with 3-1 records and Quincy Local 1139 leading the National League with the same mark.

The Elks defeated Firemen, 6-3, behind the three-hit pitching of Bill Foley. He struck out seven. Bob Dubois and Steve Petkovich had two hits each for the Elks and Greg Oriola had two for Firemen.

VFW belted Sons of Italy, 11-2, with Gordon Spencer the winning pitcher, scattering eight hits, and Dave Lapsley the loser. Pat Ennis was three for four with five RBIs for VFW. Lapsley tripled in the Sons' only two runs in the opening inning.

Police Club topped Local 1139, 7-3, behind John Costigan's two-hitter in his first Babe Ruth League game. Billy O'Connell had a triple, Bob Cronin and Steve Sweet a double each, and Steve McKinnon a single. O'Connell and Cronin also had singles. Billy Cooke had a triple for Local 1139.

Police rolled over Morrisette, 14-3, with O'Connell pitching a two-hitter and collecting three hits. Cronin had four hits and McKinnon two.

Firemen annihilated Barry's Deli, 23-3, featuring a six-run surge in the second and an eight-run explosion in the fifth. Greg Madden was the winner with a five-hitter and Bob Tierney was the loser. Kyle Morton had three hits, Marc LaFleur and Andy Oriola two each for Firemen. Dave Noonan, Steve Notorangelo and Madden each had a hit. The Firemen received 17 walks from four Barry's pitchers. Bill Deitsch had two long triples for Barry's, Bob Bolster had a triple and Tom Roach and Tierney a single each.

Granite City Electric defeated the Elks, 4-1, behind Shaun Murphy's six-hit pitching. Losing pitcher Mike Crowley gave up seven. Murphy struck out nine and walked only one. Tony Camillo and Mike Conley had two hits each for Granite City and Terry Hogan had two for Elks.

Local 1139 walloped Sons of Italy, 10-4, with Bob Hallery the winning pitcher and Lapsley the loser. Paul O'Toole was the hitting star for the Locals with a home run and two doubles and drove in four runs. Dan Boyle and Bob Conti had two hits each for Sons. Lapsley suffered a small fracture of his pitching hand and will be lost to the team for from three to five weeks.

Firemen topped Golden Print, 4-0, although outhit, 6-3. Art Roberts was the winning pitcher. Good defense and base running made the difference. John Todd pitched well in a losing cause with a three-hitter as he struck out seven and walked two.

Barry's Deli erupted for seven runs in the seventh inning to top Elks, 8-4, with Bob Tierney the winner and Crowley the loser. Bob Dubois had four for four for the Elks and Crowley and Bill Foley had a hit each. For Barry's Mike Rowell led off the big seventh with a single, Ed McDermott followed with another and Chris Baker walked and Mike Abboud tied the game with a triple. Two intentional walks filled the bases with two outs and Tierney won his own game with a grand slam home run.

Granite City defeated Golden Print, 5-1, with Bob McCormack pitching a three-hitter. Brian Reale was the loser. McCormack had a no-hitter going into the bottom of the sixth when Mark Roberts singled with two outs. Mike Seurti led Granite City with two hits and scored three times. He also drove in two runs.

Next week's schedule: Monday, Sons of Italy vs. Hancock Bank, Adams Field; Tuesday, VFW vs. Granite City, Adams; Elks vs. Police, Merrymount Park, and Golden Print vs. Local 1139, Fore River Field; Wednesday, Morrisette vs. Firemen, Adams, and Houghs Neck vs. Barry's Deli, Merrymount; Thursday, Elks vs. VFW, Adams; Granite City vs. Local 1139, Merrymount, and Police vs. Golden Print, Fore River; Friday, Morrisette vs. Hancock Bank, Adams; Barry's vs. Sons of Italy, Merrymount, and Firemen vs. Houghs Neck, Fore River.

Junior League Baseball

HN, Remicks In A.L. Tie, Keohane's Paces National

Houghs Neck and Remick are tied for first in the Quincy Junior Baseball League's American League with 5-1 records and Keohane's paces the National with the same mark.

Remick's won its last three games, the latest being an 8-2 decision over Foley Chrysler Sunday. Bill DiMatteo was the winning pitcher with a four-hitter and Mike Marshall was the loser. DiMatteo, winning his third game, struck out seven and didn't issue a walk. Remick's started fast with five runs in the first inning and added three in the third.

In the first Paul Cedrone and Chris Bunker singled, Steve Hogan was hit by a pitch and DiMatteo, Brian Egan and Chip Bunker all singled. The final run scored on a squeeze bunt by Brian Meehan.

In the third Bobby Lynch homered with Hogan and DiMatteo on base. Leo Higgins, for the third game in a row, was outstanding in the field.

Jim Sullivan, Steve Hall, Paul Ryan and Steve Racette had Foley's hits. Paul and Mike Miller, Frank Levesque and Jackie Bolster starred on defense.

Ten-year old Chris Bunker pitched his second shutout as Remick's topped Rotary, 4-0. Bunker scattered four hits, struck out eight and walked lead off the fourth and was driven in by Tommy Ryan. Hogan doubled in the fifth and stole third and home for the final run. John McGlame had a hit and made two sparkling plays to preserve the shutout.

Dan MacInnis had two hits and Steve Zanolowski and Kelly one each for Rotary.

Remick's also walloped Colonial Federal, 8-2, with five in the third and three in the fifth, as DiMatteo won another.

Following John Spencer's homer to open the game, he scattered seven hits, giving up another run in the fifth. He struck out seven.

Offensive stars for Remick's were Chip Bunker with a towering home run, Lynch with a double and single. Meehan, DiMatteo, Cedrone, Brian Repalje and Higgins had other hits.

For Colonial Duane Wilcoxon and Mike Conlon had two hits each and losing pitcher Joey Conti, John Sullivan and Mike O'Reilly one each.

Roxie's, King's Take Doubleheaders

Roxie's Raiders continued to roll along unbeaten (10-0) in the South Suburban Softball League by bombing Plummer's, 14-10 and 26-0, in a doubleheader Sunday.

Pitcher Steve O'Rourke was the difference as he turned in a fine relief job in the opener and went the route-in the second.

The Raiders erased a 3-0 deficit in the first game with a 10-run explosion in the fourth. The team had 17 hits, Danny Minton and Chip Harding leading the comeback with three hits apiece. Minton had a two-run homer and Ron Bouchard had a three-run blast. Southpaw Brian Smith held on for his second win with O'Rourke's relief help.

The second game was a complete runaway as O'Rourke, 5-0, coasted through with a three-hitter and aided his own cause with four hits, including a three-run homer. Minton had six for six including two homers and Kevin Smith and Bouchard had five hits each.

Presidential Pub swept two games from Spoilers, 18-17 and 17-16 slugfests.

Richard Plant and Mike Lake had two home runs each and Rob Thornton had a solo homer for the Pub. Terry Watts and Plant were the winning pitchers.

King's swept a doubleheader from Wollaston Bowladrome, 9-4 and 17-14.

Dennis Shea picked up his first pitching win in the opener and his three run triple in the sixth broke open a close game. Steve Rice and Fred Norton sparkled on the field.

In the second game, Kevin

North Breezes By Quincy

North Quincy's track team finished another outstanding season last Friday when it breezed past Quincy, 101-39, in the final regular season meet for both teams.

The win gave Lou Tozzi's Raiders a 9-2 overall record and a 7-2 (third place) mark in the Suburban League. During the school year, Tozzi's cross country, winter and spring track teams had a combined 30-5-1 record.

Quincy finished with its best record in several years, 9-5 overall and 4-5 in the league, under first-year coach John Laverly, who formerly was Tozzi's assistant at North.

Jerry MacKenzie of North set a school record and five other performers recorded personal bests in last week's romp.

MacKenzie won the 440 in 49.8 seconds, smashing his own record of 51.3 set two years ago. Bob Levenson's 2:00.6 in the half mile, Jim Hanrahan's 167-2 in the javelin were personal bests as was the 44.8 effort by the 440-yard relay team of Russ Chisholm, Tim O'Neill, John Pawell and Matty King.

For the Presidents, Ken MacPhee's 91:56 two-mile and sophomore Vin Lorenzano's 19:84 long jump also were bests. Other North winners were King, 100; Pawell, 220; Dan MacIntyre, low hurdles; Dan Cuddy, high hurdles and high jump; Dick Kennedy, triple jump; Steve Bonoli, pole vault; Mike Larsen, shot put; Mike Gallagher, discus and the mile relay team of John O'Donnell, Levenson, Kennedy and MacKenzie.

Quincy's only other winner was John Saville in the mile.

"I was very pleased with our season, the best we've had in three years in the league," Tozzi said. "Considering the double sessions, the small squad and the tough league, I thought we did an excellent job. We had fine leadership from our seniors and captains Kennedy, Bob Levenson and MacKenzie and fine coaching from my assistant, George Liset."

North's seniors completed their schoolboy careers never having lost to Quincy in cross country, winter track or spring track.

In their previous meet the Raiders defeated Weymouth North, 86-59, with several more personal bests being recorded.

They included Chisholm,

10.3 in the 100; O'Donnell, 2:05.4 in the half mile; Bill Murphy, 2:09 in the half; Mike Ketzner, 4:48.1 in the mile; Paul McCormick, 10:20.5 in the two-mile and Fran McLaughlin, 155.2 in the javelin.

Earlier in the week, Quincy's depth paid off in an 80-65 win over Cambridge Latin. The Presidents took only seven of 15 first places but took many seconds and thirds.

Paul Ladas was a double winner, taking the half mile and triple jump. Lorenzano won the 220. Saville the mile. MacPhee the two-mile, Dennis Campbell the pole vault and Tod Caffisch the javelin.

The Presidents previously had rolled over five Boston schools, piling up 103 points to only 21 for Boston Tech, 18 for Jeremiah Burke, five for Dorchester, four for Madison Park and four for Jamaica Plain.

Saville won both the mile and two-mile, Vin Harte the shot put, Jim LaHive the discus, Kevin Zambruno the javelin, Lorenzano the long jump, Jim Oriola the triple jump, John Golub the 220 and Ladas the half mile.

City Council, News Media, Police, Firefighters In Softball Doubleheader

A softball doubleheader to benefit Muscular Dystrophy will feature City Councilors, news media, Quincy police, and firefighters, Saturday night, June 4, at Adams Field, Quincy.

The Police and Firefighters will meet at 6:30 p.m. The City Council and news media will clash at 8 p.m.

The news media team will include representatives of The Patriot Ledger, The Quincy Sun, WJDA and Boston radio personalities.

Firefighter William Lowry and Police Officer Richard Crespi are co-chairmen of the Police-Firefighters game and City Councilor Warren Powers is chairman of the City Council-News Media game.

Mayor In Neighborhood Forum At Atlantic Junior

Mayor LaRaia will hold the first in a series of 10 planned neighborhood forums tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Atlantic Junior High School to listen to citizen's complaints and ideas on city issues.

Later forums will be held in other sections of the city.

"I am looking forward to this chance to meet face-to-face with Quincy residents to learn how they feel about issues which affect their lives and their children's lives," said the Mayor.

"I campaigned on a platform of people participation and I intend to keep this administration tuned into what the citizens are feeling and thinking.

LaRaia said one issue that is disturbing many residents is the collection of rubbish in certain areas of the city.

"I hope to respond with specific information regarding what steps I have taken to alleviate the situation which exists," he said.

Atlantic Association Seeking July 4th Celebration Aid

The Atlantic Neighborhood Association is sponsoring its annual Fourth of July celebration at Welcome Young Playground in North Quincy.

Also, Lisa Rodophelle, Joanne Linehan, Jennifer and Michelle DeBeneditto, Maura Donovan and Leader Jean Jenkins.

Parker School Children's Theater Presents 'Snow White'

The Parker School Children's Theater recently presented its sixth annual performance, "Snow White".

The Children's Theater is a special program of the Parents Advisory Board, in which parents and teachers work together to integrate creative dramatics into the curriculum.

More than 1,000 children to date have participated in the program directed by Principal Eugene Creedon; Music Specialist Mary Beaton and by teachers Pamela Vasta, Deborah DiNardo, Mary Ann Gizzarelli, Nancy Hebert, Philip Connolly, Mary O'Connor, Marie Willett and Joan Vaillancourt.

Parents participating in the program are Ann Marie Ellis, Cheryl Jacobacci, Millie Varnado, Marion King, Diane Murphy, Mary Heim and Christine Sousa.

Attendance at a series of weekly workshops devoted to various theatrical problems is required of each participating student. The aim of the Children's Theater is to employ

Den 10 Pack 14 Cubs Visit Quincy Sun

Cub Scouts in Den 10 Pack 14 of Wollaston visited The Quincy Sun recently to view the workings of a newspaper firsthand.

The scouts, sponsored by the Wollaston Congregational Church are Robert Ayles, Brian Flukes, Joseph Rabs, Michael Melanson and Thomas Farmer.

The boys were accompanied by Mrs. Maryann Flukes and Nancy Flukes.

Den mother Mrs. Marilyn Ayles was unable to attend.

The boys first visited the editorial and advertising departments of The Quincy Sun.

They then toured the production department where they saw the story telling of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They also saw newswriters being set on the CompuWriter Junior, phototypesetting machine and news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetter.

The scouts watched a paste-up artist fix the story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

They watched photographs being reduced and screened for publication by an Agfa Geavert Repromaster camera in the Sun's new camera department.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed they asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each scout received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

The Budget

The House Committee on Ways and Means submitted their recommendations of the Governor's Budget to the Legislature. The budget is $17 million less than the governor's request. It calls for a tax cut which would reduce the current income tax surcharge of 7.5% to 3.75%.

A copy of both the Governor's request and House recommendations are available in my district office, 69 Billings Rd. Any questions on the budget, please call 328-0900.

The House of Representatives will begin hearing a bill which will extend binding arbitration and collective bargaining for some municipal employees.

The Committee on Insurance is currently working on a bill which would limit the amount by which auto insurance can be increased.

My district office is open every evening 7 - 9 p.m. I hold office hours MWF 8 a.m. - 10 a.m. and W 6 p.m. - 9 p.m. I can be reached in the State House by calling 727-7035 or in my office by calling 328-0900.

Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant July 15

The annual Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant will be held Friday evening, July 15 in downtown Quincy, announces Charles Ryder, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

The event, open to South Shore single girls, 16 to 25 years old, will highlight the annual Sidewalk Bazaar July 14-15-16 sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

The pageant, co-sponsored by the QCBPA and the Quincy Bay Race Week Association, will be held at 9:30 p.m. on a portable boardwalk on Hancock St. in front of the Hancock Bank.

Contestants will compete for more than $1,000 in prizes and the honor of reigning over this year's Quincy Bay Race Week. They will be judged in evening gown and swimsuit competition and for overall poise.

Entry forms will be available soon at QCBPA member stores and businesses, South Shore yacht clubs and the QCBPA office, 1416 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

This year's pageant chairman will be Atty. Richard Rogalin. He succeeds Henry Bosworth who has been chairman for the past five years.

Pops Concert At Central Junior

The annual Central Junior High School pops concert will be presented tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m. in the learning center of the school.

The concert will feature the Seventh Grade Chorus, the Morning Chorus, the Concert Choir, the Central Stage Band and the Orchestra in selections from the Broadway stage, academy award-winning film hits and other current music.

The production is under the direction of Mrs. Catherine Carnabuci and Bernard Goldstein of the Music Department. Light refreshments will be served by student volunteers.

Tickets are on sale in the school office.

QHS Band Parents Membership Open To Alumni

The Quincy High School Band Parents recently voted to accept the memberships of interested Quincy High Alumni band members.

The Parent group is encouraging all band alumni and friends to join with it in promoting a wider range of interest and cooperation in furthering the purpose of the band.

Meetings of the Parent's group are held the second Tuesday of each month in the High School band room at 8 p.m.

Tickets Available For Lawrence Welk

The Recreation Department announces that tickets to the South Shore Music Circus for the Lawrence Welk Show are now on sale.

Date of the 2 p.m. show is June 15. Cost includes bus transportation.

Tickets may be purchased at the Recreation Office, located in the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St. For further information, contact Frank Brillo at the Recreation Department.

ENTERTAINMENT

NORTH QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL BAND under the direction of David Watson, is holding a series of concerts on McIntyre Mall, Quincy Center, from 11 a.m. to 12 noon, dedicated to Ivan O. Nelson, former coordinator of music for Quincy schools. Remaining concerts in the series will be June 2 and June 9.

'Step In Time' Synchronized Swim Show At YMCA

The Quincy YMCA Synchronized Swim Clubs will present their Annual Water Show May 24-25 at 7:45 p.m. at the "Y" pool, Coddington St.

Theme of this year's show is "Step In Time", spotlighting dances that have been popular through the years, from the Charleston of the 20's to the Hustle of the 70's.

The cast is composed of approximately 35 women who are in the 'Mermaids' Synchronized Swim Club and 35 youths ages 10 and up, who are members of the "Nagettes". The cast, all from the South Shore, has created the routines and will swim in the show.

Featured will be: A trio by Sue Fountain, Joan Cook and Carol Henry, "Ballet Pas de Trois."

A duet by Lisa Salvaggio and Linda Caruso, "The Disco Beat". A Senior Solo by Lisa Salvaggio, "Paris Beaux Arts Ball" and another solo by Greg Ward,

"Spanish Bolero". A quartet of two boys and two girls will swim a "Chorus Line Dance". Team routines will be performed by members of the entire cast.

Senior Citizens Band Being Organized

The Quincy Council on Aging is starting a Senior Citizens band.

The organizing is being done by John Falcone, director of the Morrisette Legion Post Band and director of the Napoli Band of Boston for more than 30 years.

Realtors Tip:

Electric Range Heavy Energy Consumer

The electric range is one of the largest consumers of electric energy in the average household, according to the National Association of Realtors. You can cut your electric bill in these energy-tight times by taking the advice of home economists.

• Adjust the racks in your oven to appropriate cooking height before you turn it on.

• When using the oven, double up items to be cooked whenever possible. Menu planning can help you realize energy savings in this area.

• Avoid opening the oven door when it is in use. Instead, turn on the oven light and look through the glass opening in the door.

• Roasting at temperatures between 325 and 350 degrees will not only help you cut your electric bill, but also generally result in juicier, tastier meat. Higher temperatures waste energy and dry out meats.

• Are you realizing the greatest efficiency from your pots and pans? The bottoms should be flat. Tight-fitting lids will also help you reduce your electric energy consumption.

• Don't overboil. Turn down the temperature and you will discover that a slow rolling boil is just as effective as violent boiling and it uses less energy.

Ask your Realtor for a free copy of the new folder, "The Energy Crisis, Hits Home!", which has fourteen energy and money saving tips.

ZONING AND THE LAND OWNER

A good community has zoning laws to protect its homeowners. However, zoning is even more important to the buyers of land who are planning to erect their own home. Some communities may have zoning that will make it impossible for you to build the home you plan.

For instance, one community may require a specific amount of acreage for a one-family zone. If you buy a smaller lot than the zoning ordinance requires, you may not be able to build the house you want on the lot you own.

Also, look into the type of home which is allowable in your zoning area. You may plan to build a second floor apartment, possibly for another member of your family or even for rental purposes. If the property is a one-family residential zone, you may be out of luck. No need to worry as long as you check out the zoning before you buy.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

In Wake Of Boston Attack

Tobin Bill Would Screen School Bus Drivers On Morals

Senator Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy] has filed legislation to require all school bus drivers to be screened for good moral character and a good driving record.

Tobin's action, came on the heels of reports in Boston of retarded children allegedly being attacked by a bus driver, who had a history of morals offenses.

Tobin said his legislation would close a "gaping loophole" in the law, which requires screening for drivers of the large "school bus" vehicles, but makes no provisions for those who transport children in smaller vehicles, such as station wagons and van-type trucks.

Under the Tobin proposal, the Registrar of Motor Vehicles would be required to certify the good moral character and safe driving record of anyone who transports for hire pupils in a vehicle other than a school bus. This, combined with the present law, would sew up the loophole, Tobin said. Nineteen other senators yesterday endorsed Tobin's proposal.

Tobin explained that the present law allows the registrar to collect criminal information records of regular school bus drivers because of an exception written into the state Privacy Law.

The Registrar, as an agent authorized to receive such information, can gather it about drivers of full-size school buses, but not about those who drive smaller vehicles. Local school committees, not being "authorized agencies" under the privacy law, cannot gather such information concerning applicants to drive school bus vehicles.

"We have in Boston a glaring example of a dangerous loophole which ought to be immediately closed," Tobin said. "No longer should parents have to worry about the safety of their children from lack of checking on the credentials of the bus driver, and no longer should school authorities be forced to hire drivers without having access to information on applicants' moral character and criminal records."

Tobin said his bill would preserve the intent of the privacy law to prevent discrimination against persons who may have a past criminal record, but who are rehabilitated and employable, but yet would provide parents and school officials with the peace of mind that the persons they employ are of good moral character and fit to drive school children.

The proposal would require the information needed to be gathered by the Registrar, and a certificate issued to each applicant relating to moral character and driving record.

Every school committee, bus company, or other person hiring a driver to transport school children must require the driver to have such a certificate.

Brownell Urges Dukakis Sign Nut Island Bill

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) has urged Gov. Dukakis to sign legislation that would prohibit construction of additional sewerage facilities at Nut Island and "save the taxpayers over $23 million in needless site development costs."

Brownell told the Governor in a letter that, since the existing site could not accommodate such a plant, anywhere from 24 to 28 acres of Quincy Bay would have to be filled in, a move that citizens of Quincy have been fighting for two years.

"The site development cost to create land where it does not exist is estimated to be in excess of $23.5 million," he said. "Secondary treatment plants are expensive enough in their own right without trying to place them at locations that do not exist."

He pointed out that a secondary treatment plant at Deer Island, north of Boston, would take up on 75 acres of some 210 acres available and thus would require no landfill operations.

If federal legislation is approved, he said, the city of Boston will become eligible for $15 million in "clean water money" with which to relocate the Deer Island jail into Boston and free the land for the secondary treatment plant.

Tobin Would Have Screening Committee For Appointees

Council President Arthur H. Tobin, who is a candidate for Mayor, has pledged to establish a blue ribbon citizens screening committee to recommend major appointments in his administration.

Tobin has been a frequent critic of appointments made by the current Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, particularly what he termed "so many out of city residents."

THE PRESIDENT ADAMS Birthplaces face a shabby and safety threatened future unless money for needed repairs and fire alarm hook-up is found. Already one bedroom in John Quincy Adams house, shown here, is closed off to tourists because of beam stress problem.

The Big Gamble At Adams Birthplaces

By HENRY BOSWORTH

When a projected 8,000 or more tourists visit the President John Adams Birthplace this season they'll find the front door knob missing.

If they step around back they're almost sure to notice the glass broken in a window and—if they look closer—the sash rotted.

They might also spot some loose clapboards.

Next door at the President John Quincy Adams Birthplace they will be welcomed to look in—but not step into—the second floor bedroom the future sixth President slept in while growing up.

The bedroom is over the room John Adams used as a law office.

The reason you can look in—but can't go in—is that there is a stress problem on beams. Weight might cause serious damage or maybe even send you crashing through the ceiling.

And unless the city comes up with some money, these 'little' problems will continue to exist and worsen.

Right now there isn't a penny earmarked for maintenance.

And this has City Councillor Paul Harold quite concerned.

Actually, very worried, because he knows—as do others, reluctant to admit it—that there is even a greater problem:

There is no fire alarm in operation at the two historic sites.

It means that one or both of the pre-Revolutionary War farm houses could go up in smoke some night.

A great cry no doubt would follow in the morning but the two Sheets Calls 'Major' S. Quincy Meeting

City Councillor James A. Sheets has called what he terms "a major meeting" of South Quincy residents for Thursday, June 9, at 7 p.m. in the City Council Chamber at City Hall to discuss a number of issues of interest to the area.

The issues, as spelled out by Sheets, include:

- Presentation of plans for a passive park at the old Lincoln School at the intersection of Intervale St. and Brooks Ave., for landscaping Liberty Park Mall on Taber St., and for refurbishing and repairing Grasso Park on Columbia St.

- Location of street areas where residents would like to have new trees planted.

- An examination of the parking problem in the area of the Red Carrot and the apartment building on Brooks Ave., and any other traffic problems in the area.

- A new design for snow plowing in South Quincy with the residents identifying the problem areas that were discovered during last winter's storms.

Sheets said the plans for the old Lincoln School and Grasso Park at preliminary and the meeting will allow residents to have a say in the final decision.

Additional information on the meeting will be delivered throughout the South Quincy area in the next week.

1,127 Receive Diplomas

Grads Reject Doom, Accent The Positive, Says Dr. Creedon

By TOM HENSHAW

"Today's young people have rejected the doomsday philosophy and set themselves about the slow arduous task of strengthening their now strong hands so as to be ready to reach out for the moon," says School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

Dr. Creedon's remarks were contained in a text prepared for delivery Wednesday night at the combined graduation of 1,127 seniors from Quincy and North Quincy High Schools and Quincy Vocational Technical School at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"These young ladies and gentlemen leave here this evening as enthusiastic and as idealistic as any group of young people ought to be," he said. "Granted, they leave aware that society has changed; but they are determined to make that a change for the better."

"While growing to be reflective and introspective, and while looking for adult direction, they have come to see the good in their peers, their families, their school, their community, their nation."

"They had the one in 100 years opportunity to be students while their proud nation celebrated its bicentennial and they knew it is a good land. They leave us now with a feeling of not only am I, are we okay, but America is okay."

"Our message to each of them is strive to reach your moon, but do so at God's speed."

Dr. Creedon noted that many of the graduates distinguished themselves during the past year during which 594 received awards and scholarships and several hundred participated in athletics, music, drama, science, vocational endeavors and volunteer services.

The following athletic teams took part in state-wide competitions:

Quincy High and Quincy Vo

Tech Schools - girls cross country, boys and girls swimming, boys wrestling, boys basketball, girls softball and boys tennis.

North Quincy High School - Boys cross country, boys soccer, boys and girls swimming, boys indoor track, boys wrestling, boys basketball, and boys spring track.

Dr. Creedon also praised the professional theater productions of "Peter Pan" at North Quincy High and "Patterns" and "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest", by the Page and Stage Club at Quincy High and Vo Tech Schools.

"The science program at North Quincy High continued to produce award winning students," said Dr. Creedon, "while the Quincy High and

LaRaia's Suit On QHA

List Set For June Hearing

Mayor LaRaia's suit to force the Quincy Housing Authority to give him its lists of elderly applicants for public housing will be heard in Norfolk Superior Court during the week of June 13.

A tentative target date was set for Friday, June 17, by Judge James P. Lynch Jr.

The suit asks that the Housing Authority be restrained from making any order prohibiting the inspection and examination of three specific lists which the Mayor claims are public records.

They are the Elderly Eligibility Applicant's List in effect Jan. 1, 1976; a list of those who have been accepted for Senior Citizen Housing since Jan. 1, 1976; and a copy of the current Elderly Eligibility Applicant's List.

Said the Mayor:

"Numerous complaints have been received by this office from Senior Citizens who feel they have been treated unfairly by the system, who have had to wait undue periods of time to get into the housing facilities.

"I am trying to look into the situation to either respond to these complaints or rectify injustices if there be any."

The suit said LaRaia asked for the lists by letter April 8 and the Housing Authority refused to give them to him.

City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams asked that Judge Lynch grant the motion for a restraining order Tuesday but the judge declined to rule on the merits of the case at the initial hearing.

LaRaia To Decide On Re-election By July 1

The first of July and the first of August are emerging as important dates in Quincy.

Mayor LaRaia said Tuesday that he plans to announce whether or not he will run for reelection before July 1.

And he said the 1977-78 tax rate will be announced before Aug. 1.

Last year, the tax rate of $194.80 was not announced until the second week in October.

"I see no reason for delay this year," said LaRaia. "Last year we held back to get as much revenue as possible to offset the rise in expenses. I don't anticipate any problems this year."

The Mayor has said he expects a tax rate increase of less than $7.

City Preliminary Election Set For Sept. 20

The preliminary city election will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 20.

City Clerk John M. Gillis said Tuesday he will present that date to the City Council next Monday for its approval.

Setting a Sept. 20 election date means that Aug. 12 is the final day on which candidates for city office can pick up their nomination papers and Aug. 16 is the final day on which they can be filed.

Nomination papers are now available at City Hall, Gillis said.

Tobin Seeks $100,000 For Local Councils On Aging

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin (D-Quincy) has urged the Secretary of Elderly Affairs to retain in the State Budget some $100,000 to be used by local Councils on Aging for innovative senior citizens programs.

Tobin said the Quincy Council on Aging received $4,200 for such programs in 1976 but that Secretary James Callahan has advised him the funds may be cut out of the State Budget this year.

"I don't think $100,000 statewide is too much to ask for, even during a time of state austerity, particularly when so many senior citizens can benefit," said Tobin.

Pvt. Jackson Inspiration

Lincoln Hancock Pupils Know True Meaning Of Memorial Day

By SARAH RICHARDS

Pupils at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School experience more fully than most the true meaning of Memorial Day: a monument on the school grounds in memory of a Quincy-born World War II hero has inspired annual memorial services at the school.

The monument, placed on the school grounds when the school was erected, is dedicated in the memory of Private John William Jackson, a marine killed at Iwo Jima in the Pacific three months before his 20th birthday.

John Jackson, the son of Mrs. Margaret Jackson and the late Joseph J. Jackson, grew up in the area in which the Lincoln-Hancock School now stands. He attended Quincy schools until he was 17, when he went to work at the Fore River Shipyard. At 18, he went into the Marines. He died March 3, 1945 on Iwo Jima.

Erected two years ago in May, the Jackson Monument is the focal point of the Lincoln-Hancock School's Memorial services. This year, the 4th, 5th, and 6th grades participated in ceremonies honoring Private Jackson. Jackson's mother, now of 46 Shea St., Quincy Point, and his brother Joseph, of 157 Plymouth Ave., West Quincy, were present at the commemorative event.

Memorial poems were read, songs sung, and the Lincoln-Hancock Band played taps.

Private John Jackson, however lived again, in the minds of the many who honored him.

WITH THOUGHTS OF years past and native sons lost, Marcella Frazier, Chaplain of Chapter 12 of the Gold Star mothers, lays wreath during Memorial Day ceremonies at World War II Memorial in the Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Comer Memorial Day Warning

'Foes Of Freedom Will Continue To Test Free Men'

"The foes of freedom have made a mockery of peace," warned John P. Comer. "They continue to test the will of free men to keep the freedom so dearly bought. They did it in Korea and South Vietnam."

Comer, a Quincy man who is former state commander of the American Legion, was the keynote speaker at Memorial Day ceremonies sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Council. He spoke at the World War II Memorial in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

He strongly emphasized the sacrifices made by the men who died in war so that Americans can continue to live in freedom. "The deeds, the sacrifices of the brave men we honor today expressed a confidence in America and their fellow American," said Comer.

"That confidence, the faith, was that the freedom for which they fought and died would be kept alive in this and generations to come."

He quoted Gen. John A. Logan in his general order creating Memorial Day: "Let no ravages of time testify to coming generations that we have forgotten as a people the cost of the free and individual republic."

Comer called upon his audience to work to achieve America's great promise of a strong society "by personal example and unselfish citizenship."

"All that we have achieved as a nation and a society has depended in the final analysis, on the value we have given to freedom," he said.

Hundreds gathered in Quincy for the Memorial Day parade this year, which included three divisions of veterans organizations and bands.

Members of the QVC Veterans Council marched in the parade wearing black armbands as a protest against President Carter's granting amnesty to deserters and upgrading the discharges of other veterans.

The parade began at the Parkingway along School St. and proceeded to Quincy Center. At historic First Parish Church, wreaths were placed on the tombs of Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams.

City Clerk John Gillis was parade chairman.

Mrs. Edward Frazier, placed the wreath for the Gold Star Mothers at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Rev. Frank Bauer of the Wollaston Lutheran Church gave the invocation; Rev. John J. McMahon of St. Mary's Church the closing prayers and Rabbi Jacob Mann the benediction.

Free Blood Pressure Clinics At Kennedy Health Center

A free blood pressure screening clinic for Quincy residents will be held each Tuesday at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., it was announced by Health Commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon.

The hours will be 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. with no appointment; and 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. with an appointment obtained by calling 773-1380, extension 230.

Persons discovered to have abnormal blood pressure will be referred to their own physicians. A list of doctors will be available for those who do not have a family doctor.

Another little thing that makes us big:

Putting an end to the cashless Sunday. Fred and Jane Brandfon tell us, "We wouldn't be here, if it wasn't for Plus 24."

"You see, we like to go out for dinner, especially on Sunday night. But it always used to seem that by Sunday, we were out of cash. But no longer, thanks to Plus 24, Quincy Savings' automatic teller."

"Plus 24 lets us withdraw money from our Savings account or REDI-NOW Account 24 hours a day, 7 days a week -- up to $100 a day. It's like having a bank that never closes. And we'll never have to spend another cashless Sunday."

IF YOU MEET A BURGLAR

Burglars are anti-social. The last thing they want during a "heist" is to meet the burglar. He wants to be long-gone by the time you return home. But suppose he breaks in not realizing you are there? What do you do?

Do not confront the burglar. Don't pull a gun or other weapon on him; he may take it away from you or respond by using his own weapon. Chances are, if you don't provoke a burglar he won't harm you. Don't fight him unless you are attacked; in that event, fight with any and every means you have available.

If possible, avoid meeting him at all. Shut and, if possible, lock a door between you and the burglar. Phone the police, then open a window and holler. If you wake up and find a burglar in your room, pretend to be asleep until he's gone.

If you come home and see signs your house has been burglarized, the thief may still be inside. Leave the area, call the police from someone else's phone and don't enter the house until they've checked it out.

This information has been brought to you as a public service by NABORHOOD PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy. OUR SERVICES INCLUDE: 24 hour emergency service, Charge accounts, Family prescription records, Year end tax records, Delivery service, Insurance receipts, Hospital supplies for sale or rent, Open 7 days a week, 8-10. Succeeds Verge

Andrew Klein Chief Probation Officer At Quincy Court

By MICHAEL WIGDOR

Andrew R. Klein has assumed his duties as Chief Probation Officer of Quincy District Court. Klein was appointed by Judge Albert L. Kramer, presiding Justice, to succeed Robert Verge who retired last week.

Judge Kramer also announced the appointment of Brian Callery as director of the Earn-It program formerly headed by Klein.

"I am extremely pleased to make these two appointments," said Kramer. "First, I am delighted that Mr. Klein has agreed to accept this appointment. His experience as law enforcement advisor to former Governor Sargeant, followed by being a special assistant to Atty. Gen. Bellotti for criminal justice gives him a broad, deep rooted background in the Massachusetts criminal justice system."

"His 15 months service as the founding director of Earn-It, the court's work sentencing and restitution program, gives him specific knowledge of this court, its operations, and the defendants who appear before it."

Klein recently received a Master's degree in Criminal Justice at Northeastern University. He graduated cum laude from Harvard University, and lives in Cambridge.

Callery comes from Dorchester District Court where he served as director of that court's victim services program. He has had extensive experience in probation service, both as a probation officer and as a member of the original ASAP program - the pioneer program which resulted in Massachusetts' statewide alcohol education and rehabilitation program.

"I am confident that under Mr. Callery's direction, Earn-It will continue its remarkable success and growth," said Judge Kramer. "Thanks to Earn-It, restitution payments to victims of crime in court have increased over last year from $24,000 to $62,000."

Callery is a candidate for a Master's degree in Criminal Justice at Northeastern University. He is a graduate of Boston College and lives with his wife and four children in Canton. In his spare time he is an ice hockey official.

NEW appointments to Quincy District Court Brian Callery, director of Earn-It program, and Andrew Klein, Chief Probation Officer, are shown with Judge Albert Kramer, presiding Justice who appointed them.

Cancer Crusade Kits

Must Be Returned By Monday

Richard J. Koch, Quincy Cancer Crusade General Chairman, requests all volunteers complete their assignments by the weekend.

Final returns must be made by Monday, June 6, at any of the Hancock Bank offices.

Some 650 kits have been returned of the 1,300 mailed to volunteers with a total of $7,000 realized to date.

Last year, $8,400 was received in the house to house effort, with 81 percent of all funds collected being used for cancer research and education programs. The 1977 goal for Quincy is $8,600. Early returns indicate final results will exceed $10,000.

Those who were unable to complete all or part of their assignment, are asked to drop their kits off at a Hancock Bank branch.

Anyone who has not had a volunteer visit their home, and wish to make a contribution, may contact Koch at 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, or Edward J. Keohane, 163 Clay St., Wollaston, house to house chairman.

City Flower Bed Planting Completed This Week

The late spring planting of the 60 flower beds throughout the city will be completed this week according to Richard J. Koch, executive secretary to the Quincy Park-Recreation Board.

Professor William J. V. Babcock, professor of Biology, and his students at Eastern Nazarene College will provide a variety of plantings for the seven remaining flower beds on Elm Ave., Wollaston, gateway to the college. It is the fourth year that Babcock and his students have undertaken the task of growing the materials at the college and planting them at the Elm Ave.

site in cooperation with the city of Quincy.

Last Thursday, students of the Norfolk County Agricultural High School, under the direction of Gerald J. Peters, head of the Plant Science Department, provided and planted some 700 marigolds at the seven flower beds located at Wigglesworth Circle, adjacent to the Fore River Bridge.

The plants were grown at the school greenhouses as part of the school's educational process, started in 1974 with the city. Quincy's majority, the 44 other flower beds at various strategic sections of the city, were planted with the supervision of forestry director John F. Koegler and foreman Franklin McLaughlin.

In this largest of plantings, 1,700 Red Pillar Salvias, 1,000 White Petunias and 1,000 Blue Blazer Ageratums were used in a colorful array of hardy flowers for summer beautification in the city.

The Forestry Section personnel also maintain a number of small green park areas including Bobby Burns Park, McIntyre Mall, Shea Park, Safford Park, Furnace Brook Parkway, Newport Ave., Freedom Park, Shed Memorial and a number of smaller size beautification locations.

Still another little thing that makes us big:

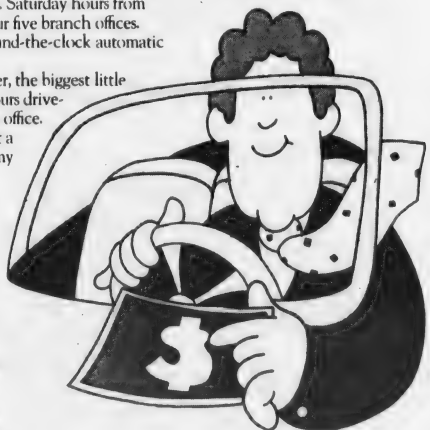

The drive-up teller at our main office. The big reason Dave Martin comes to Quincy Savings is the interest we pay him on his regular savings account—5.25%, compounded daily for an effective annual yield of 5.47%.

But Dave says there are a few little things we do that matter almost as much. One of them's convenience. For Dave that means five offices in Quincy and one in Haverhill. Saturday hours from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at our five branch offices. And Plus 24, our round-the-clock automatic teller.

For Dave, however, the biggest little thing is the extra-hours drive-up teller at our main office.

Why? "Because I get a chance to show off my new car. Which I bought with a loan from Quincy Savings."

Glad to help you get the wheels to drive up to our drive-up window, Dave.

flower arrangement suitable for a "June Wedding". Arrangements will be judged and prizes awarded.

Plans will be completed for the July 5 visit to the Adams Mansion Garden followed by a luncheon at "The Hollow".

5 Woodward Students Inducted Into National Honor Society

At a recent special chapel service held at the Woodward School, students were inducted into the Katherine Bacon Chapter of the National Honor Society. They are:

Laura Ranieri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Ranieri, Derry Rd, Hyde Park; Michele Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Morris, Saranac St.,

Dorchester; Laurie Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Allen, 58 Middlesex St., Wollaston; Brenda Johnston, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Robert Johnston, 10 Newton St., Quincy and Ann Ricker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ricker, 120 Granite Ave., Dorchester.

Miss Ruth Hurlburt, faculty sponsor of the Honor Society at the Woodward School, was in charge of the induction program. Miss Hurlburt was assisted by Nancy Currier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Currier, 121 Plymouth Ave., Quincy. Nancy was inducted into the society last fall, having met membership requirements at the end of her sophomore year.

Parents of the new Honor Society members were present at the ceremony which honored their daughters for their high scholastic achievement, and for their character, and service to community and to school.

26th Annual Koch Club Flag Day Parade June 14

The Koch Club of Quincy will sponsor its 26th annual Flag Day Parade, Tuesday, June 14, starting at 6:30 p.m. from the Quincy Vocational Technical School parking area, Coddington St.

Although the Flag Day event is sponsored by the Koch Club, all youth, veteran, military, fraternal and civic organizations are invited to attend and participate. Advance reservations in the line of march may be made with general chairman Richard J. Koch. Flags are issued to all youths marching. Volunteer musical units are needed and may contact Koch.

Approximately 2,000 marchers are expected to participate in the event to commemorate the 200 birthday of the stars and stripes.

Largest segment of the parade will be 1,500 boys and girls, each carrying a flag along the parade route. They will keep the flags as a memento of the occasion following the flag raising ceremonies at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

A flag flown over the nation's capital will be used at the brief flag raising ceremonies and observance at the stadium.

The program, founded in 1952 by the Koch Club with 100 youths marching through the streets of North Quincy and ceremonies at Cavanagh Stadium has expanded to more than 2,000 participants for the past several years and the event moved to Quincy Center and Veterans Stadium.

The Quincy Police Department color guard, accompanied by the North Quincy High School Band, will lead off the colorful spectacular with the Renegades and Drifters each heading up a division of marching youths.

Along the parade route, wreaths will be placed at the Church of the Presidents on the tombs of Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams.

A wreath will also be laid in the lobby of the John F. Kennedy Health Center, in memory of the only honorary member of the Koch Club. He received the recognition in 1958 at Cavanagh Stadium while a Massachusetts Senator.

Janet DiTullio, Coordinator of the Language Arts Department for the Quincy Public Schools, announces the winners of the school department's first annual Josiah Quincy Oratorical Contest.

Some 154 Secondary School students entered the contest. The contest's theme this year was, "The Third Century. As We Approach the Tricentennial."

Students were invited to write and deliver speeches based on the contest's theme. Senior high school students delivered their speeches in the preliminary round before judges at the Atlantic Junior High School. On the same day, judges at three locations listened to the junior high school entrants.

Six senior high and 12 junior high finalists presented their speeches at the First Parish Church before seven judges.

The winners of the Senior High Division were:

First prize, Linda Hoffstein, NQHS; second prize, Sarah Poole, NQHS, and Lydia LaFeria, QHS, tied, and third prize, Christyna Copeland, NQHS.

Winners of the Junior High Division were:

First prize, Steven Dankert, NQHS; Michelle Saltzman, Atlantic Junior High and Michael Cronin, Central Junior High tied for third prize. Runners-up in this division were: Beth Ann Tutunjan, and Holly Bumpus, both of Central Junior High and Veronica Monti of Broad Meadows.

Winners were presented with trophies designed by Frank Leporini of the School Department. Betty Ann Cullinan, Lawrence Osborne, and Mrs. Susan Reilly officiated at the judging stations.

Judges included:

Keith Munson, Richard Comeau, Jack Scanlon, Lloyd Creighton, Arnold Rubin, Paul Farrell, Peter Chrisom, Carmen Mariano, Walter Wrigley, Hobart Holly, William O'Connell, Jane Granstrom, Jane Ford, Barbara Foley, Ann Aranson, Warren Watson, William Flavin and Paul Breslin.

Students worked with language arts teachers during the writing and preparation stages. Stella Krupka of Broad Meadows Junior High School worked with a large number of her students in preparation for the competition. Other teachers included:

Barron Asks Better Communications To Improve Downtown Business

Atty. Thomas M. Barron, a candidate for mayor of Quincy, has urged improved communication through the mayor's office to help to halt what he called "the continuing loss of business in the downtown area."

Barron spoke at a tea in his honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walsh of Squantum.

He expressed concern over the number of vacant stores and offices along Hancock St. and noted that he was one of the first to speak out on the problem.

Conceding that the loss of two department stores because of bankruptcy could not be avoided, he said "The natural talents of local business people can be put to better use through improved communication with the Mayor's office."

He emphasized the need for an experienced coordinators of downtown stores.

Barron suggested resident stickers for cars and a nominal payment by non-residents for all day parking. He said he feels the new South Quincy MBTA station will alleviate some of the congestion in Quincy Center.

He said he hopes "To attract some Boston business and convince retailers of Quincy's attractiveness by getting local business people more involved in this effort."

The Germantown Service Center at 9 Bicknell St., has been provided with the House and Senate voting records on current bills by State Representative Thomas F. Brownell.

The roll call record for April of the legislature is on display at the service center.

On a day to remember give a memorable gift.

Here's the ideal way to cap off a graduation. Say 'congratulations' with the gift of a Quincy Cooperative Bank account.

Regular Savings, Term Certificate, NOW account, Paid Up Share, or a U.S. Savings Bond.

No matter which one you give, it'll be a gift you'll be remembered for fondly.

Because a Quincy Cooperative gift account is one your favorite graduate can watch grow with interest. And add to, regularly.

Quincy Cooperative will provide a handsome greeting card describing your gift — you can give it with your gift or we will mail it for you.

Give someone special a special gift — our kind of gift suggestion — that appreciates in value and gratitude to you.

Josiah would have liked that.

Further information may be obtained by calling 479-0499 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Louis R. DiMartino is director of the program.

LaRaia Supports Harrington On Hunt St. Closing

Mayor LaRaia and City Councillor Dennis E. Harrington have been at sword points for months but they agree on one thing.

LaRaia has announced his support for a recommendation by Harrington and the Traffic Commission that Hunt St. in Atlantic be closed to traffic while the addition is under construction at nearby North Quincy High School.

The recommendation is that traffic be banned to all but residents of the neighborhood between the hours of 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. on school days while double sessions are held at the high school.

LaRaia Commends Firefighters For Efforts At Dudley Blaze

Mayor LaRaia has commended Quincy firefighters for their efforts in controlling the four-alarm fire last week that destroyed the Dudley Furniture Co. in Norfolk Downs and threatened nearby business firms.

The fire involved 58 firefighters, including 14 from Boston, who fought the blaze through most of the afternoon and had to return the next morning when flames broke out again under the roof.

Damage was estimated at $200,000.

"The men prevented the blaze from creating further damage to life and property," said the Mayor. "I am personally proud that our Fire Department is so dedicated and well-prepared."

While firefighters from the North Quincy Station were fighting the Dudley blaze, covering fire fighters from Quincy and Boston responded to a two-alarm fire that broke out in an apartment house at Briggs St. and Elm Ave., Wollaston.

Five Boston and two Quincy men were incapacitated in that fire.

LaRaia Would Restrict Former Officials Appearing Before Boards

Mayor LaRaia has suggested that former city officials be prohibited from representing clients before city boards for a couple of years after they leave office.

LaRaia made the observation during the first of a series of open forums held last week at Atlantic Junior High School.

He told The Sun he made the remark on the spur of the moment in answer to a question, but that it reflected his philosophy of city government.

"I said I thought we should limit or restrict attorneys who represent clients before city boards who had held influential positions in the city, such as mayor," he said.

"Regardless of who the individual is, if he has been mayor, his influence over city boards exceeds that of other attorneys. I don't know the legal points of such an ordinance but the moral point is valid 100 percent."

He said the questioner at Atlantic Junior High School specifically referred to former Mayor McIntyre representing developer Thomas Curtis before the Zoning Board of Appeals. McIntyre left office in January, 1973.

LaRaia added that he did not think the City Council, which numbers five lawyers among its nine members, would support such an ordinance.

unique historic sites could be lost forever.

The sites are unique because nowhere else can you find the birthplaces of two Presidents side-by-side. In fact, no where else can you find the birthplaces of two Presidents in one community.

And, uniquely of course, they are the birthplaces of the only father-and-son Presidents in history—both of whom helped shape the destiny of this nation.

"It's absurd," says Councillor Harold. "The way it is now, we don't even have the money to replace the doorknob never mind protect the cottage from fire."

"There isn't even a maintenance account to charge minor repair work to. No city department has the maintenance responsibility. In the past when work needed to be done, we had to borrow men from other departments to do it. Right now we cannot even do that."

Harold recently asked Mayor Joseph LaRaia to put $3,000 in a maintenance budget for the two birthplaces.

"That's only the minimal amount to get started," Harold says. "We probably could use $300,000."

LaRaia told Harold he would look over the needs and come up with recommendations.

Meanwhile, the tourists come. And the birthplaces deteriorate a little more.

"The chimney on the John Adams house may need some work," Harold notes. "And both houses seem to have a settling problem."

Harold has had a close interest in the two birthplaces, dating back to when he served as a tour guide while still in high school.

His interest was honed as a member of the Quincy Historical Society Board of Directors and remains as sharp today as a city councillor.

The two cottages are under the supervision of the Historical Society.

"I am not criticizing the Quincy Historical Society," stresses Harold. "They have done a lot in the past but the Society's hands are tied. The maintenance money and the work is the city's responsibility. Right now that money adds up to a fat zero."

Harold thinks that maybe the city just cannot afford to properly maintain the two historic sites.

"I hate to see them gradually fall apart," he says. "It would be a shame—a disgrace—for them to become an eyesore or to have them heavily damaged or completely lost."

He thinks, perhaps, it is time to consider the possibility of having the two salt-box houses taken over by the National Park Service as is the Adams Mansion on Adams St.

Harold is planning to put together a committee of community leaders to study the feasibility.

Thomas Boylston Adams, direct descendant of the two Presidents has informed Harold he would be willing to work with the committee "if you are serious about this."

Harold is quite serious.

"I think," says he, "the city and Historical Society could continue to have certain privileges regarding the houses if the National Park Service takes them over."

"The important thing is that the houses be properly maintained and protected—not who has jurisdiction over them."

"It's really absurd when you think about it. The Howard Johnson warehouse, for example, has a fire alarm system to protect its chocolate chipped cookies and the birthplaces of two Presidents don't."

How long is Quincy going to gamble with these two prized possessions? As the Fourth of July approaches, it's something to think about.

City Beaches Getting New Sand

The Quincy Park Department is in the process of preparing the city beaches this week for the 1977 summer bathing season.

More than 1,000 cubic yards of beach sand will be delivered and spread at various municipal beaches from Squantum to Houghs Neck.

Avalon Beach, Quincy Point, largest of the public bathing facilities will receive 400 cubic yards. The Twin Mound Street Beach recently expanded and developed will not require sand this year because of the recent project completion including beach sand.

Perry Beach on Parkhurst St., Houghs Neck and Baker Beach, Palmer St., Germantown will be provided with a total of 400 cubic yards. The remaining smaller beaches, Nickerson and Orchard, Squantum, Rhoda and Pawsey in Houghs Neck and Prescott Terrace in Germantown will also be sand.

The Park Department, with an appropriation by the Mayor and City Council, annually purchases and provides the beach sand to replenish sand eroded by the winter.

Barrels will be provided at each of the municipal beach sites for debris.

The sand is being delivered early this season while school is in session, to avoid possible accidents while the trucks and machines are preparing the beaches.

A weekly water quality test is taken with results provided to the Park Department office by the Quincy Health Department with the bacteria count at each location.

The first real hotel in America was the Union Hotel of Saratoga, N.Y., built in 1802 by Gideon Putnam.

Quincy Vocational Technical School Marching Presidents Band drew plaudits with each appearance.

"Not to be outdone, the vocal group and concert band at North performed with distinction."

"At Quincy Vocational Technical School, the VICA [Vocational and Industrial Clubs of America] continued to win awards and several of its members from various divisions within the school will compete this month in national competition."

Student speakers on the program were Thomas Nee of North Quincy High School, Jeffrey Harrison of Quincy High School and Diane D'Olimpio of Quincy Vo Tech School.

"We should always compete with ourselves," Nee told the graduates. "We should make the most of our lives, always try to do better. This inner competition fosters self-motivation, a great virtue."

"Frank Shorter, the Olympic gold medal marathoner, says it well: 'It is a fine line, but to me the object is not to beat someone, but merely to live up to your potential. If you do, then you will end up winning a lot.'"

"The lessons of competition are not that we must always win, but that we must live up to our potential. Even if we do not win, but we do our best, we will derive a sense of satisfaction and self respect."

"If we continually strive to live up to our potential, then, we may achieve excellence."

Harrison emphasized some of the problems that are created by competition.

"The individual faces enormous emotional and spiritual pressure today," he said. "We must be able to function in a highly competitive society while being sensitive individuals, yet the pressures of our professions often rob us of the peace required for personal growth."

"We must be strong individuals to publicly succeed while remaining sensitive to our inner weaknesses and needs. We are unsure which professions best fit our needs for security."

Miss D'Olimpio noted that the 1977 graduates made up the 10th graduating class from the Vocational Technical School, and many of its members won medals in culinary arts, electrical and other competitions.

"We have rid ourselves of the vocational stereotypes," she told her fellow graduates.

"To us the day is filled with such things as tuning cars, checking brakes and finishing and painting cars. But the Vo Tech is not made up of 1,500 auto mechanics; there are 15 major trade areas."

"People are finally realizing that we are skilled young men and women being trained for our roles in a modern technology by people who have been in various trades for many years."

"We are proud to be the 10th in a decade."

"My challenge to the 1977 graduates on the 10th anniversary of the Vo Tech is to show this city their pride by taking their skills and using them to better themselves as well as the city."

"We hope that the city will understand what an asset this school is and make graduates of the future even prouder."

READER SPEAKS OUT

Critical Of Central Drug Article

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I am a seventh grade Central Junior High student, writing to you about an article I read a week ago in your Quincy Sun.

It was about Central students being involved in that drug problem at Quincy High. When I read this article I was mad and disappointed to see that it was said Central students were involved in this. And now today I read, on the last page in a small corner of your newspaper, that Central students weren't involved! I am very disappointed to see, that when it was said that, Central students had made the mistake of being involved in this, it was on the front page of the Sun. But when you made the mistake by saying Central students were involved and this was not true, you put your mistake on the last page of the Quincy Sun. So I am writing to say to you that I think it was dishonest of you to put your mistake on the very last page. And if The Quincy Sun was completely honest, I think this mistake should have been right on the front page!

Connie Sweet
346 Highland Ave.
Wollaston

[Editor's note: We can appreciate Miss Sweet's feelings. She obviously has tremendous pride in Central Junior High School—and should. The information came from the police department. At the time, police apparently were led to believe Central students were involved. The fact that the correction appeared on the back page of a tabloid format newspaper is really not that terrible as an advertiser would agree. It is considered the second page 1. The headline on the correction "No Central Students In Drug Raid" stood out. Miss Sweet apparently didn't have any trouble finding it.]

Political Ballgame Involving Weymouth, Quincy Point

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

A political ballgame is taking place which involves the communities of Weymouth and Quincy Point.

As we sit down by our kitchen table or in our living rooms to read the evening paper, there is a redistricting plan being proposed to disenfranchise a state representative and thousands of residents.

It is a ballgame that few of us have been concerned about because it has not affected us yet. It has not run big in the Boston papers or on television. Not too many outside our area really know or much care if we lose a maverick legislator who does not vote with party leadership — because it is not their problem, because it does not affect them, not yet anyway. But it will affect them not today or next month or even next year, but it will affect them as surely as political bossism and bending the law to meet the wishes of a few always affects good government.

But even at that, it would not be unusual, because just as there is always somebody who gets the breaks so there is somebody who has to take the knocks. Except this time it is the people of Weymouth and Quincy Point and a fine young legislator named Robert Cerasoli. A person who is truly dedicated to his work and genuinely interested in the people of his district.

We could lose Bob Cerasoli as our Representative just because someone is paying off a political debt, just because it would have meant that one establishment politician was out and that Representative Cerasoli, a man whose record is that of standing up for the people, was in.

No, the House leadership would not sit still for that. The obvious decision was — Let's waste Cerasoli. Sad! Isn't it?

If you are concerned now it is too late, but if you care — remember who was responsible for this next election day and vote the culprits out of office.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS By Tom Henshaw

Jenness Appoints Council Zoning Law Committee

City Council President William W. Jenness appointed a three-man committee composed of Councillors Clifton H. Baker, Louis A. George and Laurence J. Curtin to draw up a set of zoning laws for the city of Quincy.

The move came in the wake of an announcement by the Alewife Realty Trust of Arlington of plans to build a development of 70 two-family homes in the residential Beechwood Knoll section of Wollaston.

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin ordered Building Inspector Alrick A. Weidman to withhold construction permits from Alewife Realty but he conceded that the order would be only a temporary block to the project.

"My hands are tied without zoning laws," he said.

OFF TO WAR

Quincy boys were going off to war daily.

Paul H. Harvey and his brother, Daniel, of 50 Arnold St., Charles R. Hillier of 64 Edison St., and Ted DeCristofaro of 17 Baxter Lane, pals since grammar school days in Quincy Point, enlisted in the Navy together.

A farewell party was held for Navy-bound William Martinez of Appleton St., North Quincy, at the home of Herbert Olson of 126 Newbury Ave.

Present at the party were Joan Baines, Betty Lauer, Natalie Fisher, Barbara Rich, Evelyn Richards, Ruth Millham, Walter Montgomery, Warren Nichols, Alfred Christie and Howard Nauman.

'THANKS FOR THE NEXT TIME'

The Quincy City Employees organization sent a note to the City Council thanking Councillors for their raise in pay - but Councillors were a little suspicious of the letter from President Frank E. MacDonald.

"The expression 'Thanks for the next time,'" he wrote, "is probably familiar to you. If you directors of the city government can figure a way to pay even more compensation to the city employees before the current year is over, you may feel assured that the city in turn will benefit."

"Was that a letter of appreciation or a request for more money?" asked Council President William W. Jenness.

Energy Fallacies

Last week I shared with you the thoughts of Indiana Senator Richard Lugar as it relates to our nation's current energy policy, which he says is one of cheap energy without appreciation for the economic realities of its replacement value.

Let me now offer you Lugar's thinking about the fallacies he sees in the President's energy proposal and some of his speculation about why it takes that form:

If I had been in President Carter's shoes, I would have told the Congress and the American people that we must commence deregulation of petroleum and natural gas prices now. I would have suggested legislation that would offer strong incentives to channel the substantial new producer profits into the capital investment sorely needed for new energy production. I would have described the present energy policy and scrapped it. I would have suggested appropriate termination of thousands of federal jobs now sustained by federal energy regulations. I would have told the politically-difficult truth that energy prices are going to rise and that citizens may want to choose ways of saving energy and their money by insulating houses, driving smaller cars, or a host of other options which individuals could adopt without federal mandates - federal mandates which necessarily must ignore the differences in millions of American households.

I would also have affirmed that the federal government has no business playing the role of a stern father treating American citizens as misguided and overly indulged children.

The federal government has no business dictating the size of your car, your house, your income or any other personal choice which does not harm another citizen. The federal government has no business imposing the lifestyle of others on you, all under the guise of patriotism and civic virtue.

In his own way, the President has proposed higher prices and the conservation of energy which will come from higher prices of gasoline, large cars and costs of petroleum in general. Thus the President implicitly recognizes the dilemma of the current energy policy. Why did he piece together such a complex entanglement of carrots and sticks as a new energy policy?

The President made his choice after weighing the words of many advisors and advocated an energy policy incorporating some or all of the following ideas:

First, new tax revenues to finance national health insurance, welfare reform on a leveling out basis, another expensive social program, which are difficult to push if your administration is already looking at an estimated $64 billion deficit for fiscal 1978.

Second, new methods for income redistribution in this country. Deregulation of energy prices would mean that new revenues would come to energy producers who would use those revenues for more energy production as opposed to the President's suggestion for sprinkling a part of the new revenues into rebates for various groups of Americans at the expense of other groups and with no new stimulus to energy production.

Third, the enforcement of new life styles. Some Americans simply dislike cars, dislike big houses, dislike people who commute to and from the suburbs and from the country, dislike large families and the supposed over population which they represent. In summary, a set of lifestyle attitudes which are characterized by critics as overindulgent, wasteful, gas guzzling, and irresponsible. Some environmentalists believe that these lifestyle attitudes which a majority of Americans seem to prefer, also provide significant threats to the environment and ought to be curtailed on those grounds. They have adopted the energy debate as a good opportunity to impose through governmental force, changes which they deem necessary.

The fourth idea, intense dislike of oil companies, gas producers, utilities of all sorts, and nuclear power plants could be utilized to provide an enemy for the warfare which we are asked now to engage in. In accepting our disastrous governmental energy policies over the years and our willingness to wink at a time-worn, low-priced, empty-shelled fallacy, we have wanted to believe that energy would be cheap forever. In ancient days we are told that kings cut off the heads of messengers who brought bad news. In modern times, we the people are the kings. As energy producers brought us more bad news about the cost of finding more energy, we have applauded politicians and journalists who assured us that energy producers were evil, that they were monopolists, conspirators against the public good and enjoyers of obscene profits. Even as the lights began to go out, the oratory became more shrill.

The President has not summoned enough courage to try to reverse this avalanche of anti-business sentiment. Perhaps he views it an impossible task to reverse feelings which have been pushed with so much vehemence for so long. But some of us had better speak out truthfully and forcefully.

Many businesses in this country from time to time may have suffered mismanagement and some may have broken laws from time to time, but clearly, most American companies - including energy producing companies - are among the best managed enterprises in the world, with humane values and a genuine passion for invention, free expression, and freedom in marketplace.

Mayor's Open Forum At Mass. Fields School

Mayor LaRaia will hold the second in a series of open forums in which citizens of Quincy can air their complaints and suggestions to him personally tonight (Thursday) from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. in the Massachusetts Fields School auditorium.

Approximately 20 persons attended the first in the forum series last week at Atlantic Junior High School and the Mayor said he was pleased with the way things went, although he would have liked to have seen a larger turnout.

"The important thing is my availability," he said. "The number who turn out is up to the public. A real large turnout can be cumbersome. The one-on-one situation could get lost in the numbers."

Realtor's Tip

Use Appliances Wisely

Small appliances, says the National Association of Realtors, can help home owners reduce consumption of electricity when used wisely.

Electric skillets, for example, can help conserve electricity when they are used instead of an electric range. Small broilers are energy savers when they are substituted for the oven broiler.

It's less costly to use a fan to circulate air, in a room to produce a cooling effect than to turn on the air conditioner.

An electric razor is less expensive to use than a safety razor when you take into consideration the cost of heating water for shaving.

In energy-tight times you can realize a savings in your electric bill by careful consideration of your needs. Before automatically turning an appliance on, ask yourself if you are making wise use of energy or wasting it.

Local Realtors, in a grass roots campaign, are emphasizing how money can be saved when energy is used thriftily. Ask for the free brochure.

N.Quincy Woman Wins $100

Granite Cooperative Reaches $20 Million In Assets

The Granite Cooperative Bank of Quincy reached the $20 million plateau in assets at 2:44 p.m. on May 25 and it was worth $100 to Mrs. Patricia Paulsen of 7 Flynt St., North Quincy.

Mrs. Paulsen made the deposit that enabled the bank to reach the $20 million mark.

Net yet determined is the identity of the person who won the Moped motorized bicycle, valued at nearly $500, for coming the closest to guessing the date and time of the record-setting deposit.

The contest has been underway since October, 1976, when Bernard C. Cohen, president of the Granite Cooperative Bank, began accepting entry guesses. Tellers will also share in the contest prizes.

Awards of $1 will also be given to persons who made a deposit in the bank on May 25. Anyone who did so should bring his or her passbook to any office of the Granite Cooperative before June 30 for verification.

Also eight persons whose birthdays fell on May 25 and who pre-registered the date with the bank will get to share in prize money of $500. They should contact the bank to verify their winning.

Receipt of the 20 million dollar marks a growth of 17 per cent in nine months for the Granite Cooperative Bank, which was founded in 1953 as the North Quincy Cooperative Bank and now has two offices in Quincy.

MRS. PATRICIA PAULSEN [center] receives a check for $100 from Bernard C. Cohen, president of the Granite Cooperative Bank, as a reward for her deposit at 2:44 p.m. May 25 which enabled the bank to reach the $20 million mark in assets. Treasurer Barbara Lynch looks on. The Moped bicycle will be awarded later to the person who correctly guessed the time of the winning deposit.

ITEMIZE HOUSE TAX DEDUCTIONS

One of the great financial benefits of home ownership versus rental is that you are immediately eligible to deduct a good-sized amount of money from your income tax. As a homeowner, you will generally find it to your advantage to itemize deductions rather than taking the standard deduction.

This is especially true during the earlier years of home ownership. The mortgage interest and real property taxes on your personal residence, when added to other deductible items, will usually be well in excess of any standard deduction you could claim.

Your home payment may consist of several parts; an amount placed in escrow to pay real estate taxes and fire insurance, FHA mortgage insurance premiums, and an amount applied to reduce the principal of the mortgage. Of these parts, only the interest and taxes are deductible - but that will prove to be a very sizable figure.

Thinking of selling your home?

It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

St. John's Adult Choir In Public Concert Thursday

The St. John's Adult Choir will present its second public concert of the season tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. at the church.

Theme of the concert will be spring, and will include hymns and songs of praise for God's work. Selections chosen for the program include Handel's Hallelujah Chorus; works of Bach, Palestrina, and Leonard Bernstein; several well known hymns; solos and a sing-a-long. Phyllis Ross will be the accompanist.

The event is a result of the success of the Choir's Advent Concert last December, and the interest stimulated in the Choir's liturgical participation on Sundays. St. John's Choir performs frequently with chamber orchestras drawn from the area as part of the liturgy.

Under the direction of musical director Gregory Reinhart, the music program at St. John's has enlarged considerably. The adult choir itself has expanded to nearly twice its former size, and its repertoire has enlarged correspondingly.

Tickets for the concert are on sale at the church. All proceeds will go to the organ-repairing fund.

Tickets Available For Henderson-Newley Show

The Recreation Department

announces that tickets to the South Shore Music Circus for the Anthony Newley and Florence Henderson show will be on sale Monday, June 6.

Date of the show is Wednesday, Aug. 17, and the time of the performance is 2 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the Recreation office located in the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St. For further information, contact the Recreation Department.

Quincy Girls Team In E-Mass Tourney

Coach Barbara Webster and her Quincy girls' softball team won its last six games to qualify for the Eastern Mass. Tournament.

The First Ladies clinched its tournament berth in no uncertain terms last Friday when they blasted Brookline, 25-5, to finish with a 12-4 record.

Quincy started off with nine runs in the first inning and combined a solid batting attack with 15 bases on balls.

Peggy Thorley, one of the Suburban League's top pitchers, got the win and also had two for three herself. Lois Malvesti, one of the league's premier batters, and also a fine pitcher, had three hits, Sophomore Debbie Russo had a bases loaded triple, Denise Leonard had four hits and Tricia Connors had three.

The day before Quincy had trampled rival North Quincy for the second time, 23-2, with Malvesti pitching a three-hitter.

She also had two doubles and her batterymate, Claire Oliverio, had two singles.

Earlier in the week the First Ladies had walloped Newton North, 15-5.

In its previous game, Quincy had edged Waltham, 12-11, on Oliverio's game-winning single in the final inning.

Malvesti had four hits and Maryann McCarthy had two.

"I am very proud of these girls, they did a fine job all year long," Miss Webster said. "They gave me 100 percent at all times and it paid off with a long-awaited tournament berth."

Other members of the tournament squad include Polly Albrecht, Kathy Flaherty and Virginia Connolly.

Still another little thing that makes us big:

Letting you put your hands on a loan with the stroke of a pen. To tell the truth, we think REDI-CREDIT is a pretty big thing. Because with one application, you can add $500 to $2500 or more in reserve credit to your NOW account.

But the great little thing about REDI-CREDIT is how easy that money is to get to. When you're short of money, just write a check and you've got yourself a loan.

When you have REDI-CREDIT, why you need money becomes what it should be: your business, instead of ours. And REDI-CREDIT doesn't cost you a cent until you begin using it.

Ever think a stroke of your pen could do so much for you?

● Junior League Baseball

Keohane's Blanks Remick's, Burgin

Keohane's is enjoying another good season in the Quincy Junior Baseball League with a 6-2 record.

In its latest outing, Keohane's blanked Remick's, 4-0, with John Balzano winning his third straight shutout. He has averaged 11 strikeouts a game and in four games has 45 strikeouts. Dennis Cronin pitched the first two innings and did well but was lifted for Balzano, who struck out 10 and gave up a single hit over the last four innings. Tommy Corliss drove in the first run with a double. Balzano had a double and single and an RBI and Danny Baker had a single.

Keohane's topped Burgin Plater, 8-0, with Balzano in charge again with a two-hitter and 14 strikeouts. Balzano also went three for three including two doubles and drove in a run. Billy O'Brien had a double and Jimmy Jaehnig two doubles and an RBI.

In its previous game, Keohane's nipped Rotary, 3-2, with Charlie Jaehnig winning his third in a row without a loss. Jimmy Jaehnig had an RBI double and Balzano and Corliss had singles. Balzano and Pete Lynch played fine defensive games.

Boston Gear handed Keohane's its second loss, 8-7, with Charlie Jaehnig pitching four innings but leaving with Gear leading, 7-3. Keohane's tied the score on the hitting of Balzano. O'Brien and Cronin. Balzano had a double and single. Brian Donovan sparked Gear with a home run and picked up the win in relief. Cronin was the losing pitcher.

Quincy Savings Shells Shawmut, 18-7

Quincy Savings Bank walloped Shawmut First County Bank, 18-7, for its first win of the season as it rapped out 27 hits for its best offensive of the year.

Scoring seven times in the first QSB sent 11 men to the plate. First County threatened in the second when it loaded the bases with one out but only one run scored on Bergstrom's single. Third Baseman Corky Wells made a dazzling leaping catch of a liner and turned into an inning-ending double play.

First County scored three runs in the third and three more in the fourth to narrow the gap to 8-7.

QSB widened the margin with 10 runs over the last three innings.

Dan Shea led the attack with two doubles and four RBIs, but everyone took part in the onslaught. Larry DiNardo had a great day with six putouts in center field and had three hits. Steve Banks and Tom Kazanowski had three hits each.

In a makeup game QSB was forced to forfeit to the Quincy Co-Operative Bank, dropping its record to 1-2.

Quincy, North Wind Up With 8-10 Records

The Quincy and North Quincy baseball teams played out the string last week with nothing at stake and they ended with identical records, 8-10 in the Suburban League and 8-12 overall.

North provided the fireworks on the final day as it dropped a 9-8 decision to tournament-bound Weymouth North.

Coach Charlie Bunker had planned on trying for the "spoiler" role, thinking the Raiders could knock Weymouth out of the tournament but, when he discovered Weymouth had already clinched a berth, he went with several of his younger players, some playing their first varsity game.

For eight innings the game was a romp with Weymouth leading, 9-0, but the Raiders suddenly erupted and scored eight runs in the ninth and left the tying and winning runs on second and third.

Harry Donaghue started the big inning with a walk and scored on Walt McGinley's triple. McGinley came home on Bob Stack's single. Greg Zoia and John Wilkinson singled to load the bases and a walk forced home a run.

Dave King drove in two more with a double and Bob McCabe's single brought home the sixth run. A walk to Donaghue filled the bases again and, after McGinley was called out on strikes for the second out, Stack hit a two-run double and made it 9-8 with runners on second and third. Zoia struck out to end the game.

McCabe, a junior southpaw, pitched creditably for seven and a third innings before giving way to Wilkinson, another junior. North Quincy collected 16 hits, seven in the wild finale.

Quincy lost its final game to Weymouth South, 8-2.

In its previous game, North was walloped by Brockton's league champion, 10-3, although collecting 13 hits including four for four for Steve Bell, a triple by Stack and a double by Jim McGinley.

Quincy was nipped by Weymouth North, 6-5, despite a fine pitching performance by Pat Gibbons, who was victimized by infield errors. He struck out 13.

Jim Maze had a triple and single, Rick Gildoy a double and single and Mike Murphy and Sal Coscia two hits each.

Koch Club Baseball, Softball

Registration Next Week

The Koch Club Boys Baseball and Girls Softball Leagues will hold final registrations for the North Quincy, Broadmeadows and Montclair Districts during the week of June 6.

Boys and girls interested in the Montclair District may report at 6 p.m. to Bishop Playground, Holbrook Rd., Montclair, Monday through Thursday evening. Howard F. Crowley, Montclair District or Mrs. Crowley will issue the applications.

Broadmeadows District conducts its complete program every Tuesday and Thursday nights at 6 p.m. at the Broadmeadows Junior High School Field, 50 Calvin Rd., Adams Shore. Anthony T. Delmonico is District Director, assisted by Mrs. Delmonico, both will be available at the field for information.

North Quincy Boys Baseball Leagues are held Monday through Thursday at Cavanagh Stadium at 6 p.m. Gary Demole is North Quincy District Director with Mrs. Demole, league secretary.

North Quincy girls interested in joining the softball league may report to Mrs. Simone Koch, Monday or Wednesday at 6 p.m. at Atlantic Junior High School, Hollis Ave.

David J. Donaghue, West Quincy District Director reports there are no available openings in the West Quincy District where 210 boys and 210 girls participate Monday through Thursday at O'Rourke Playground, Quarry St., and Curry Field, Willard St.

The four units of the club will participate in the Flag Day Parade, June 14.

Broad Meadows Ties Central

After two years of domination in junior high school girls' track, Central had to settle for a tie with Broad Meadows in last week's citywide championship meet at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Central, coming off an unbeaten season, and Meadows, with only a loss to Central, had 57 points apiece. Sterling, vastly improved over a year ago, scored 37, Atlantic-North had 34 and Point eight.

A number of records fell including five in the ninth grade events.

Lucia Fabrizio of Sterling sped to an 11.8 win in the 100, Maureen Maher of Meadows set a record of 15-2/4 in the long jump, Amy Sandomato of Point came up with an outstanding throw of 30-10 1/2 in the shot put and Laura Riley of Meadows did 4-9 in the high jump. The Meadows relay team also set a record of 1:33.1.

Eighth grade records set were by Sue McLaughlin of Central, 4-5 in the high jump, and the Central relay team (1:34.5).

In the seventh grade, Karla Marsden of Sterling set a record in the one-lap race of 52.7. Sterling girls have had the record in this event for all three years of the city-wide meet. The Sterling team also set a record of 46.8 in the one-lap relay.

Linda Kelleher ran a tremendous race en route to a mile win in 6:10.5; Sue McLaughlin of Central won the 880; Ford of Atlantic won the long jump and Kathy Bray of Atlantic won the shot.

In seventh grade action Chris Ramponi of Sterling won the dash, Donovan of Atlantic won the long jump, Rodgers of Meadows won the high jump as she and four others cleared 4-2 but Rodgers won on fewer misses, and Eileen Mullen of Meadows won the shot.

5 North Girls Score In Suburban Meet

In the girls' Suburban League meet last week, the North Quincy girls had five scorers.

Janice Kelly was third in the long jump, Jody Silver tied for third in the javelin, Debby Coutts was fifth in the half mile, Betsy Johnson fifth in the two-mile and Kelly fifth in the 100.

Quincy's only scorer was Paula

Cellini, McCarthy Win Track Medals

Linda Cellini and Karen McCarthy of Quincy, members of the Quincy Track Club, captured medals for Abp. Williams High in the state Class B girls' meet last weekend at Billerica.

Cellini won the 440 in 58.9 seconds, a school record and a personal best, while McCarthy took third in the 220 with a 26.9 clocking.

Quincy Opens Senior Babe Ruth League Thursday

Quincy's Senior Babe Ruth League team, Data Services opened its South Shore League season tonight (Thursday) at 8:15 at Adams Field against South Boston.

Sunday, Quincy will play at Sharon at 1 and next Wednesday will play at Weymouth at 6.

Data Services this year is managed by Hugo Salvatore.

assisted by Bob Dinan and Joe Wilkinson.

Quincy hosted a tournament last weekend at Adams but the host team lost both its games, 3-2 to Milton and 12-0 to Stoughton.

Bob Jordan of Quincy had a no-hitter going for three innings against Milton, but Milton scored twice in the fourth on a walk.

single and triple. Quincy came back to tie it in its half when Mike Trubiano walked, Jerry Cronin singled, Steve Buckley bunted the runners along, Tom Wilkinson walked to fill the bases and Harold McManus singled home two runs. Buckley forced in the winning run with a bases loaded walk in the fifth.

For Quincy, John Fitzgerald had a triple, Buckley, Wilkinson and Jordan a single each.

Stoughton featured a five-run surge in the third in its romp. Quincy's only run came in the opening inning on Trubiano's walk, Wilkinson's sacrifice and Fitzgerald's single.

Wilkinson, McManus, Paul McDermott and Mike Marella had the other Quincy hits.

● Suburban Softball League

Roxie's Wins 12th In Row

Roxie's continues to roll along unbeaten in the South Suburban Softball League and lead with a 12-0 record, with J's in second place with a 9-2 mark.

Roxie's added to its lead Sunday by sweeping a doubleheader from Gull Point, 18-6 and 15-14.

In the 15-14 win Ron Bouchard's bases loaded hit in the final inning scored Tom DiTullio with the winning run. Roxie's had to stage a tremendous comeback to win it.

Roxie's, which had 22 hits in that game also had 22 in the second game, including four each by Steve Rubia and John MacFarlane. Pitcher Steve O'Rourke, 7-0, won both games with fine relief job. He came on in the third inning of the opener with his team trailing, 10-3.

Kevin Smith, Bob Pistorino, Mike McAuley and George Bouchard had three hits each and Danny Minton hit his 10th and 11th home runs.

In the second game O'Rourke again entered in the third inning to protect an 8-6 lead. Rubin and MacFarlane sparked the attack with DiTullio, who had three hits.

Council Moves To Tie Up Land

City To Get Official 'Facts And Figures' On Celtics Arena

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy was expecting its first "facts and figures" yesterday [Wednesday] on the $35 million, 20,000-seat arena that the Boston Celtics propose to have built on land owned by State Street South in North Quincy.

Meanwhile, the City Council, angered at being left out of what appears to be highly informal negotiations, moved to tie up the land so that it cannot be developed by anyone without Council approval.

Councillors John J. Lydon Jr. and Dennis E. Harrington leveled a blast at State Street South, questioning, in Lydon's words, "whether or not State Street South will act in the best interests of the north end of the city."

A spokesman for SSB Realty, Inc., a subsidiary of the State Street Trust Co., declined to comment immediately on the Councillors' charges.

The Council passed a resolution, introduced by Lydon and approved unanimously, to rezone the land from Business C to Planned Unit Development "so that the citizens and the elected officials can decide what should be built there."

The "facts and figures" were [Cont'd on Page 13]

Hospital Receipts Low

City Faces $2 Million Deficit

Quincy is faced with a deficit of some $2 million at the close of the fiscal year, June 30, according to figures disclosed to the City Council Monday night by Auditor Charles Shea.

About $1.5 million of that figure is expected to come from the failure of City Hospital receipts to come up to expectations—and that's around $6 on the tax rate, according to Shea.

Councillor Leo J. Kelly brought up the subject at the Council meeting when he read a letter from Shea that fixed the Hospital's gross receipts at $16,562,608.86 for the year through May 31.

"The estimated receipts for this fiscal year which was used in fixing this year's tax rate was $20,632,389," said Shea.

"This means that in the final month of this year in order to avoid a deficit the Hospital would have to collect $4,069,780.14, plus about $50,000 in refunds."

"Do you feel that the $4 million can be collected in the remaining month?" asked Kelly.

"With a real push they probably could get close to $2.5 million if they really pushed," answered Shea.

KELLY - So it is your feeling there will be around a million and a half dollars that the Hospital would not receive?

SHEA - Based on prior years' experience, I'd have to predict that — unless something extraordinary happened.

KELLY - And that would mean what to the tax rate.

SHEA - If it were not offset by increased receipts in other areas it amounts to between $6 and $6.25 on the tax rate.

Councillor Daniel G. Raymond asked Shea if there were any other areas of city government in which revenue deficits could be anticipated.

SHEA - I believe a figure of $530,000 was used as an anticipated receipt from the sale of the top two floors of the MBT Garage. It does not appear

31 Temporary City Employees To Be Laid Off Friday

Thirty one temporary city employees, all classified as laborers, will be laid off tomorrow [Friday] at the direction of the State Civil Service Commission, Arthur Casey, the Mayor's executive secretary, disclosed Tuesday.

Casey said that Civil Service "ordered us to lay off 36 provisional, or temporary, laborers and appoint permanent replacements from a list of 36 they sent us. We had only 31 employed as provisionals."

He said the replacements will start work Monday [June 13].

Casey said there was nothing the Mayor could do but fire and hire since "Civil Service will not give its approval of any additional hiring until we comply with their wishes."

"The Mayor told the people that they will receive priority treatment in rehiring as jobs become available," he said.

In several cases, Casey said, the same names were on both lists to be-fired and hired. The list included one man who had been a temporary city employee since 1973.

The project involves Edgewater Drive from Darrow to Bird Sts., and Medway and Crosby Sts. from Bayview Ave. to Rathford St.

Funds for the project will come from the Houghs Neck Community Development Block Grants which have been granted to the city during the last 18 months.

Fire Department Inspecting Apartment Houses

The Quincy Fire Department is conducting an inspection of apartment houses throughout the city.

Any violations found will be brought to the owner's attention and corrections must be made within a reasonable time. Each company will conduct these inspections each day and will forward to Chief Edward Barry's office, a report as to the location of the apartment house inspected and the conditions found.

Stars And Stripes Aplenty

Over 2,000 Young Marchers In Koch Flag Day Parade

More than 2,000 young marchers are expected to step off in one of Quincy's most colorful parades Tuesday [June 14], the 26th annual Flag Day Parade sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy on the 200th anniversary of the Stars and Stripes.

The parade will start at 6:30 p.m. on Coddington St. and proceed in six divisions down Hancock St. to Veterans Memorial Stadium where a special flag raising ceremony will be held.

Each of the boys and girls participating in the uniform of his or her organization will be provided with a flag to carry in the line of march and keep as a personal memento of the occasion.

More than 20,000 such flags have been distributed to South Shore young people in the quarter of a century that has passed since the Koch Club began sponsoring the event with 100 marchers in 1952.

Included in the 2,000 marchers are 1,500 boys and girls from the Koch Club boys baseball and girls softball leagues from the North Quincy, Broadmeadows, Montclair and West Quincy districts.

All organizations on the South Shore are invited to participate. Deadline for entries by marching groups, floats or color guards as units is tomorrow [Friday].

The lineup for the parade includes:

First Division - Quincy Police and Fire Departments color guards, the newest Police ambulance, Quincy Fire Engine No. 1, a vehicle unit of the Navy Recruiting

Flag Day Ceremonies At Elks Lodge June 14

Quincy Lodge of Elks will present its 67th annual tribute to the American Flag, on Tuesday, June 14, at the Elks Lodge on 1220 Hancock St. at 8 p.m.

"Requiem Solitude" by Irving Arthur Wickes, author and actor who died in 1968, is featured on the program. The piece is a recorded appeal for a revival of concern for principles of Americanism, especially for those men who sacrificed their lives in support of America.

The program includes a Flag Day ritual service by exalted ruler John C. MacPherson and officers, the opening prayer by chaplain James McGregor, a history of the Flag by secretary George R. Alcott, assisted by boy scouts. The response will be made by trustee John J. Gorman, erection of Floral Bell of Liberty by lodge officers, and the presentation of lodge scholarships by Thomas M. Garrity.

The program will also feature a recorded re-enactment of Elks lodge Flag Day ceremony in 1960 on steps of First Parish Church in Quincy Square.

Co-chairmen for this event are Joseph E. Brett and John H. Brownell. Musical interludes will be provided by John N. DiBona the lodge organist. A collation will follow the ceremonies.

Meter, Liter, And Gram

Quincy Schools Going 'Metric' Next Fall

By MICHAEL WIGDOR

Next fall the Quincy Public Schools will begin a changeover to the metric system of measurement, one year after the Worcester Public Schools, and according to Vincent Sullivan, Coordinator of Science, indicative of a national trend that "can't afford to wait another year."

Sullivan's overall plan, which was ordered last year by Assistant School Supt. William Phinney, would teach metric measurement to grades K-12 by winter 1979. This fall grades K-3 will be taught to use the metric system only, but all higher grades will retain the use of the English system as a parallel system to be used when needed.

Sullivan says, "The U.S. is the last major nation in the world to go metric." Many industries are going that way as early as 1978, including General Motors, Ford, IBM, Sears, U.S. Steel, and General Electric."

"Industry is changing a lot faster than the rest of the economic system, and that puts us at a trade disadvantage."

The world standard that will be adopted by the schools is the International System of Units. In 1975, the U.S. passed the Metric Conversion Act which called for voluntary conversion to the metric system. Sullivan says, "it will be five to 10 years, before the metric system is common in this country."

Sullivan's two phase program will instruct teachers in the first phase, and in the second phase teach children using such tools in the classroom as a metric ruler, meter stick, and Celsius thermometers, along with an "Activities Handbook for Teaching the Metric System." The emphasis, he said, will be to "think metric", and to do so conversion from the metric to English system or vice versa will be prohibited.

The basic units of measurement are the meter, the liter, and the gram. They are standards for length, volume, and mass [or weight], which replace the yard, quart and ounce.

One meter is a little more than a yard, about 39 inches. A liter is equivalent to about a quart in volume. The gram, smallest unit for measuring mass of a substance, would replace the ounce, the smallest unit for measuring weight. One thousand grams equals a kilogram, which is equivalent to two and two-tenths pounds.

The prefixes, derived from Greek, tell you what quantities you are using, and are attached to the basic units: meter, liter and gram. They increase by powers of 10: decimeter is 10 meters, hectometer is 100 meters, and kilometer is 1000 meters. They decrease by powers of ten: decimeter is 1/10 meter, centimeter is 1/100 meter, and millimeter is 1/1000 meter. These prefixes are applied to the liter and gram for measuring mass and volume, as well.

In his proposal, Sullivan says that the metric system is easier to learn and use, it is a logical system, and it is a universal system. A mile is equivalent to 1,760 yards, but 1 kilometer [about half a mile] is 1000 meters, and does not need to be memorized.

Since machines use the English system and also most textbook publishers, the present system must be retained but used separately from metric measurement.

Metric measurement will become part of the curriculum in such areas as home economics, industrial arts, and math, Sullivan says.

For the adult population, Sullivan says that on a request basis, "we will run workshops for businesses or other groups." Parents of students will get exposure to the metric system, through Sullivan's plans to address PTA meetings.

"We can't afford to wait another year, we feel," he says.

"Your kids will be better for it because the world will be a different place when they graduate."

Police Pistol Team Commended By Council

The three patrolmen who make up the Quincy Police Pistol team were honored by the City Council Monday night for their perseverance and tenacity in acquiring their expertise as marksmen.

They are Patrolmen Aubert Smith, Louis McDonald and Peter Kendall.

The three police officers organized the pistol team about three years ago and on their own time and at their own expense, travelled throughout New England to participate successfully in competition.

Their successes include a second place in the Mass State championship, placement as one of the five top teams in the New England Regional competition and the capture of seven out of 10 individual awards in competition in New Haven, Conn.

LaRaia Asks Burke To Lobby For Block Grant Funds

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia announces his office has contacted Congressman James Burke to lobby for the Brooke-Williams Amendment.

"For the past two weeks, I have been aware that the crucial issue of Community Development Block Grant funding distribution has been hotly debated in the House and in Committee in Washington, D.C.," said LaRaia.

"Under the original allocation formula, Quincy, as an older industrial city, would stand to lose millions of dollars of these funds during the next three years."

"HUD has introduced a dual formula which includes as funding criteria, poverty, growth lag and the total number of housing units built before 1940. The Brooke-Williams Amendment would further aid cities like Quincy by taking into account not only the number but also the percentage of housing units built before 1940," he said.

"Under the amended formula, Quincy's share of grants would increase by $2.5 million over the proposed HUD dual formula. This means that in fiscal year 1978, Quincy would receive $2,475,000 rather than simply $2,031,000 as in the dual formula; in fiscal year 1979, $2,898,000 rather than $2,183,000; in fiscal year 1980, $3,289,000 rather than $2,289,000."

"Having been urged by Senator Brooke to support this amendment, I have notified Congressman Burke of Quincy's strong need for such legislation.

"As we have witnessed particularly in the Hough's Neck area, these Community Development Block Grants have provided more than a million dollars for street improvements, housing rehabilitation and community centers, of which the Manet Community Health and Recreation Center is one and in the planning stages.

"Since July of 1975, Community Development Block Grants and No. 312 loans have amounted to some $1,012,606 and 165 grants were given throughout the Hough's Neck, Southwest and Atlantic areas.

"We are currently working on a $300,000 quarterly allocation for the No. 312 loan program, which hopefully will increase to $500,000."

LaRaia said the Brooke-Williams Amendment would assure that Quincy would receive a favorable amount of funds due to the large proportion of older housing units relative to the national average.

Mary Timcoe Re-elected Houghs Neck Post Commander

Mary H. Timcoe of 100 Bay View Avenue has been elected commander of Houghs Neck Legion Post for a second term.

Others elected are D. Paul Shaw and John Christensen, both past commanders who will serve as senior and junior vice commanders respectively.

Willard J. Timcoe will be adjutant and Alice Scribner, finance officer; Wayne Elmore, chaplain; Richard Wainwright, historian; Robert Clarke, sergeant-at-arms, and Joseph Laing, judge advocate. Elected to the executive committee were past commanders William Morrill and Paul McKeon; Edward Dickie, Richard Collins, Joseph Laing, Stephen Hennessy and Salvatore Candido.

Awards presented at Thursday's meeting by Albert Mattson, senior vice commander of District 6, and Robert Crandlemere, junior vice commander, included a Commander's Pin for 100 percent membership to Commander Mary Timcoe. Pins for membership went also to past commanders Shaw, Christensen and Willard Timcoe, with Christensen receiving also an additional award in the Go-Getters-Club for signing up the most new members. Senior Vice Commander Elmore was awarded a 100 percent patch. They are all Department awards.

Lucy Mercurio Re-elected Secretaries President

Mrs. Lucy Mercurio was re-elected to the office of President of the Massachusetts-Maine-New Hampshire-Vermont Division of the National Secretaries Association (International) at the annual meeting and New England Conference recently at the Sheraton-Islander, Newport, R.I.

A resident of Watertown, she has been employed at Raytheon Company, Industrial Components Operation in Quincy for 19 years, and currently is Executive Secretary to Robert Robinson, Product Line Manager.

Initiated in the South Shore Chapter in November 1959, Mrs. Mercurio has served in many capacities, including president. She was twice selected Secretary-of-the-Year of that Chapter. On Division level, she has served on the Budget & Finance Committee and also as Corresponding Secretary, Recording Secretary and as Vice President.

The international convention will be held in Detroit during the week of July 17. Other chapter members planning to attend the convention are Bernice Brown, Grace Giunchiglia and Edna Swain of Quincy, Eleanor Jarvelin CPS of Weymouth, Mary Jo Kilmain of West Roxbury and Ann Winslow of Waltham.

Divorce, Transactional Analysis Workshops Planned

The Family Service Association of Greater Boston will sponsor summer workshops in Divorce and Transactional Analysis starting in July at its Quincy headquarters, Room 213, 1159 Hancock St.

A lunch hour workshop in handling separation and divorce will be held from 12 noon to 1 p.m. starting July 7 and continuing for six weeks. Linda Puzet will be the leader.

Topics to be covered include: emotional impact of separation and divorce, relationship with former spouse, coping with loneliness, effect of separation on children, dating and sex, financial and legal aspects and transition to a new life style.

A series of four meetings for people who are interested in Transactional Analysis (TA) will begin on July 6 from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., led by Howard Garval. Concepts such as ego states, stroking, transactions and games will be explored.

There will be a small sliding scale fee for each series.

Community Mediators Needed, Juvenile Officer Says

"The juvenile officer attempts to help both the rebellious youth and parents to understand each others' problems in the context of the total family situation," says Diana O'Dell, probation officer of Quincy Juvenile Court.

Miss O'Dell and Gene O'Brien, probation aide, were the guest speakers at a recent Germantown Service Center inservice training session.

Working with juveniles and their parents, said Miss O'Dell, "involves counselling; helping all parties to handle feelings of guilt and insecurity, to see where they hurt and try to deal realistically with the situation."

She emphasized the need for community mediators to assist in crisis situations and for emergency shelters where a runaway or rebellious child can be housed and counseled.

Both speakers said there is a need for a legal vehicle which would allow for detaining a youth severely disoriented by drugs or otherwise in need of help before that youth commits an act of violence upon himself or society.

11 Receive Woodward Diplomas

The Woodward School for Girls held its 81st commencement exercises in the school auditorium on Sunday evening June 5.

Eleven girls received their diplomas from Rev. Keith Munson, minister of United First Parish Church and chairman of the Woodward School Board of Supervisors.

Irma K. Chandler, Ellen F. Childers, Ina B. Cohen, Dawn M. Hosterman, Deborah A. Malloy, Susan M. McKinnon, Michele J. Morris, Karen L. O'Shaughnessy, Laura E. Ranieri, Laura A. Sims and Patricia C. Sullivan.

Mayor Joseph LaRaia brought the city's greetings. Rev. Robert Towner, assistant pastor of St. Ann's Church and member of the Woodward School Board of Supervisors, gave the invocation and the benediction.

The salutatory's Greetings was delivered by Michele Morris, and the Valedictorian's Address was given by Laura Ranieri. Both Miss Morris and Miss Ranieri are members of the National Honor Society.

Rev. William Sharkey, assistant pastor of St. Ann's Church, Wollaston delivered the commencement address. Father Sharkey spoke of the low moral standards which permeates today's society. He urged the graduates to set and maintain impeccable standards of conduct and thereby exert a favorable influence on all whose lives touch theirs.

The musical program and senior presentation were under the direction of Mrs. Sara Benson, choral director of the Woodward School, and Miss Nancy Vogel, senior advisor.

A reception followed the graduation ceremony.

Stay Alive!

By Jack Silverstein

HOW TO ESCAPE FIRE SAFELY

You are awakened in the dead of night by the smell of smoke. If you panic, wondering how to get your family out of the house safely, you'll waste precious, life-saving minutes. Advance planning is vital.

Sit down with your family and plan two escape routes - for everyone. The first should be the easiest, most logical way - for example, through the hall, down the stairs and out. The second is the emergency exit when halls and stairwells are blocked by smoke. This exit is most likely to be through a bedroom window.

Make sure all windows, screens, etc., can be opened easily, especially by children. If windows are on the second floor or higher, buy rope or chain ladders that can be lowered to the ground and keep them near the windows for immediate access. Decide on a meeting place outside so you will know when everyone is out. No one should re-enter a burning house. Equip your home with smoke detectors. They're inexpensive, reliable and can give you the minutes of advance warning that can make escape so much safer.

Survival 7th Anniversary Dinner Dance Friday

Survival Inc., the Quincy based drug and human service program, is celebrating its seventh anniversary during the week of June 6 - 12, designated as "Support Survival Week" by Mayor Joseph LaRia.

Purpose is to recognize Survival's achievements during the past seven years and to honor the volunteers who have contributed to Survival's success.

The executive committee of the South Shore Council of Churches sponsored a "Survival Saturday and Sunday", June 4 - 5, to call attention to the much needed services provided by Survival Inc.

An anniversary dinner dance will be held Friday, June 10, at the Sons of Italy Hall Social Center, Quarry St., Quincy. Certificates of Appreciation will be awarded to the volunteers as Survival's staff and board of directors express their gratitude.

Since Survival Inc. was founded by the late Dr. Charles Djerf and Quincy community leaders in 1970 the program has grown to include more than 70 staff and volunteers. Current programming includes, the Joseph H. Whiteman House providing co-educational residential treatment for adolescents, the Multi-Service Center providing Counseling and Alternative Housing Services and the Crisis Line providing immediate information and assistance during times of stress. All Survival programming is offered free of charge and is dedicated to providing quality service to the people of the South Shore.

Is LaRaia Running? Like O.J. Simpson

It will be later this month before Mayor Joseph LaRaia publicly announces whether he will run for a second term.

But privately, he's already off and running, like O. J. Simpson making his way through an airport.

It would seem that only an unexpected or ill-timed development would keep him from making it official by the end of the month.

A "friendship testimonial" is already set for Sunday June 19 at the State Street South Courtyard. Tickets: $50 per.

It doesn't sound like a farewell party. It's an obvious campaign fund-raiser. Return envelopes for the checks are addressed: "Committee for Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, 25 School St., Quincy."

Last month LaRaia put out a four-page tabloid format "Mayor's Report" that portrays him as "the people's mayor" and makes a special effort to accent the positive and progress — something that got bogged down early in his administration.

Another product, "Quincy Senior News" is also a four-page tabloid format newspaper with news of interest to senior citizens. In the May issue LaRaia does pretty well, getting two photos, the banner headline "LaRaia Approves Council On Aging Outreach Program", his name mentioned several other times, and an "advertisement" extending best wishes to Quincy's senior citizens during Senior Citizen Month.

He did pretty well in the first issue in April also with his photo and by-lined comment on page 1 and a full-page advertisement on the back thanking organizers of a variety show for seniors.

Conspicuously absent are the names of City Councillors in both issues.

The "Quincy Senior News" no doubt will be read with interest by senior citizens. But it also makes a nice political propaganda tool for His Honor. This age group in the past has been strong for City Council President Arthur Tobin who just happens to be running for mayor this year.

And, of course, LaRaia still has that Boston [North End] newspaper portraying him as St. George slaying all the bad dragons in Quincy.

If LaRaia isn't running for mayor, maybe he's going into the newspaper business.

MAYORAL and City Council candidates get a chance to woo the business community today [Thursday] at 4:45 p.m. in the State Street South inner courtyard.

Occasion is a meeting of the Chamber's Quincy Business Council chaired by Andrew Walsh. The candidates will be asked to briefly comment on what their election would do to help improve the Quincy business climate.

Question: Do Mayor LaRaia and several incumbent councillors who have yet to officially declare themselves get invited to speak, too?

Might bring some earlier-than-planned announcements.

A SHORT WHILE ago, Rep. Robert Cerasoli seemed on the verge of getting into the City Council at-large ring. Now he has observers wondering. But this might make them stop wondering: Cerasoli reportedly has rented a vacant store near Veterans Stadium. Vacant stores traditionally become campaign headquarters.

MEANWHILE, David Crowley, son of former City Councillor David [Jim] Crowley has politician watchers guessing. He's got bumper stickers in circulation for "Quincy City Council". Are they for Ward 1 or at-large is the big question. Crowley originally planned to run against Ward 1 incumbent Leo Kelly. But he can now keep them wondering until the Aug. 16, filing deadline for nomination papers. Or has then to make his decision. Insiders say he will go for Ward 1.

IF YOU'RE A Red Sox fan, circle the name of Bruce Hurst. Quincy's Sam Mele, who knows a good ballplayer when he sees one, says Hurst, a right-handed pitcher, is a "good looking prospect". Hurst, playing in the Winter Haven, Fla. state league came straight to professional baseball from high school in Utah. Mele thinks he will become a familiar figure around Fenway Park.

COUNCIL PRESIDENT Arthur Tobin says he's up for Cy Young Award after hurling the City Council to a 14-13 win over the News Media All-Stars in a softball benefit for Muscular Dystrophy Saturday at Adams Field.

Tobin served tantalizing cream puff stuff all night to out duel WJDA's Jay Asher. Neither of them will ever be confused with Bob Feller.

Sheriff Clifford Marshall belted two home runs for his City Council alma mater — one of which he sneaked by this writer who had his back turned checking his outfielders.

It was a lot of fun — something we haven't had in this city for awhile.

So much fun, both sides would like a re-match — after all the aches and pains have disappeared.

The first "nickel" coin appeared in the U.S. in 1866.

Tobin Looking Into Negative

Excise Tax To Encourage Small Cars

Senator Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy] is studying the feasibility of a negative excise tax to encourage consumers to buy smaller cars.

Noting alternatives to such a proposal have included plans to greatly increase the gasoline tax, Tobin said a negative excise tax would encourage conservation without penalizing the taxpayer.

"If higher gasoline taxes are imposed, everyone must pay them, whether he drives a gas-guzzler or an economy car," Tobin said.

"However, if we offer a negative excise tax as an incentive to buy smaller cars instead of large gas-guzzling cars, we can accomplish the same results without penalizing the small-car owner, who has already done his bit for conservation," Tobin said his plan would impose an excise tax according to the weight of the vehicle, instead of according to the purchase price.

Under present law, automobile excise taxes are imposed on a sliding scale, based on the price of the car and the year of manufacture.

A new-car owner pays $66 per $1,000 valuation based on 90 per cent of the new car's sale price. The next year, he pays the same rate based on 60 per cent, then the next year at 40 per cent, the next year 25 per cent, and the next and future years at 10 per cent.

Under a weight-oriented excise tax formula, the person with a gas-guzzler would pay more excise than a person with a light-weight economy model, regardless of the year of manufacture. There would still have to be a sliding scale according to the age of the vehicle, but the weight factor would greatly change the way excise taxes are paid.

"The owners of smaller cars would be encouraged to keep them, or buy another smaller car when the time came. The owner of a gas-guzzler would be encouraged to buy a smaller car next time," Tobin said.

"If we are really serious about the economy and conservation of fuel, then we have to feel that the owner of a gas-guzzler ought to pay more than the owner of a small car."

He said he is seeking input from the public on the negative excise tax idea, and will file legislation if his study shows the plan would have a favorable effect.

Brownell Votes To Cut Meals Tax To 5%

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] has voted to reduce the Massachusetts meals tax from eight percent to five percent.

A member of the Committee on Taxation, Brownell said: "We have one of the highest meals tax in the nation. This tax reduction of about $60 million dollars will place our meals tax in line with the sales tax. I feel it was a mistake in the beginning for the meals tax to have been placed at 8%. I am glad now it will be reduced to a reasonable level."

"Hopefully, if the budget cuts made by the House of Representatives this year and revenue yields stand up, we can begin to address ourselves to tax reductions in other sorely needed areas such as property and income taxes."

Conditions At Adams Birthplaces 'Disgrace'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Thanks for your editorial, Mr. Bosworth, on the Adams Birthplaces.

As secretary of the Historic Commission which, according to the City ordinance, says, "Said Commission shall have charge of the birthplaces of John Adams and John Quincy Adams and all other places or property of historical interest presently owned or hereafter acquired by the City of Quincy. It shall have direction and control of the use, repair, and maintenance of the property of the City entrusted to its care and shall make all needed improvements in the land and buildings," find it hard to believe that the City will not appropriate the monies needed for our Commission to carry out its duties.

The City Council, a few years ago, was most concerned about the windows of the Adams Academy and now they have not the least concern that not only the Birthplaces of two Presidents but two architectural gems of the 17th century are being let deteriorate and are without fire protection. It is a public disgrace.

Proposes Fund Raising Committee For Birthplaces

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

After reading your story about the Presidents Adams Homes, inspired by one Paul Harold, one of the best councillors we have had in years, called the Big Gamble, I believe it is time for the people of Quincy, Mass. and anyone else who is concerned about our countries treasures to wake up.

I believe it would be appropriate at this time to start a fund right away to maintain and protect these homes. If this can be done I would be very glad to contribute.

If a community committee is to be formed I would be glad to be a part of it. I also believe that The Quincy Sun should be in the vanguard of any future plans put forward.

House Living Up To Image Of Favoritism And Cronyism

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Lately, the Massachusetts House seems to be living up to its image of favoritism and cronyism. Basically, I am disgusted with politics, but at least I know that not all politicians are morally corrupt, and I know that there are still some honest, hardworking politicians left on Beacon Hill.

This is why I am very disturbed to see a redistricting plan that has been "made to protect friends of the legislative leadership, including Representative Ambler, a protégé of House Majority Leader, William Q. 'Biff' MacLean," (quote Ledger article 4/28/77, page 3) and to hurt a hardworking, honest Representative like Robert A. Cerasoli. I am sure the Legislative Leadership would like to get rid of Cerasoli because he votes for the people and speaks up against unreasonable leadership proposals.

What really gets me is that Tom McGee and all his back room boys are so utterly indifferent to the interests of the Weymouth - Quincy Point communities that McGee has forced Representative Keverian to submit a plan which has no regard for the people who live in these communities.

The redistricting plan for Massachusetts was supposed to fairly represent the neighborhoods and communities, but instead Speaker McGee has turned it into a political instrument to reward party regulars, like Ambler, and to punish independent minded Legislators, like Cerasoli.

That is why this kind of politics is your problem and my problem and the problem of every other concerned citizen in this state - not because Bob Cerasoli may lose his Representative seat, or because Quincy Point and Weymouth may lose their representation, but because the politicians who run the House do not give a damn what the people want or need if it starts to get in their way.

They are going to do the same hatchet job they are doing on Representative Cerasoli to every other person whoever tries to change it. So maybe we need to remember that Representative Cerasoli of Quincy, Representative King of Danvers and Representative Segal of Brookline are not just fighting for their political survival, but they are fighting for us and for ours.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS By Tom Henshaw

Quincy Celebrates 75th Anniversary As A City

Quincy celebrated its 75th birthday as a city with a pennant-raising and a dinner at Broad Meadows Junior High School honoring all those residents 75 years and older who had been living in the city for 25 years.

The oldest residents were Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Scholl of 86 Harvard St., Wollaston, who had been residents of Quincy for 38 years. Mr. Scholl was 92, his wife was 90.

The oldest lifelong resident of Quincy among the 300 at the dinner was former City Councillor Clifton H. Baker of 65 Elm St., Wollaston who was 84 years old. His wife, who was 81, had lived in Quincy only 77 years.

The Navy Band and the Marine Corps Drill Team performed at ceremonies as the official 75th birthday pennant was raised over City Hall and atop the South Shore National Bank Building.

Quincy became a city on June 11, 1888 when the town meeting voted to accept a city charter.

City Council President Charles L. Shea announced plans for an official essay contest among school children to be held in the fall on the subject, "The History of Quincy's First 75 Years and What We Can Expect in the Next 75."

GOSSARD HONORED

Dr. Paul Gossard, who was retiring after 19 years as superintendent of Quincy schools, was given diplomas making him an honorary graduate of both high schools during commencement ceremonies for Quincy and North Quincy High Schools.

Dr. Gossard was to be succeeded in the $18,000 a year superintendent's post Aug. 1 by Robert E. Pruitt, associate director of the University of Chicago Laboratory School. Atty. Gen. Edward Brooke was the principal speaker at the combined high school commencement exercises at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

INCINERATOR PROPOSED

U. O. MacDonald of Braintree notified Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa that he had an option on 13 acres of land in the Echo Lake section of Quincy near the Braintree line on which to build a regional incinerator.

MacDonald also informally applied to Health Commissioner Dr. Richard Ash for a permit to operate a dumping facility for Quincy and surrounding communities. Nearby residents opposed it and discussed taking the matter to court.

Lobbying Reform: Do It Right

Washington is a city much given to cures worse than the disease.

The lobbying reform legislation being contemplated by Congress furnishes ample evidence of that problem.

Some kind of reform is certainly needed, partly because of the real abuses which occasionally occur and especially because of the numerous defects of the existing law.

But such abuses as there have been hardly justify the serious threats to our constitutional liberties that have slithered into some of the "reform" bills.

What's wrong with the present rules? As things now stand, individuals or organizations must register and file reports with the House and Senate when, among other things, their "principal purpose" is to influence national legislation.

How do you decide what your principal purpose is? No one seems to know. This elusive and subjective requirement places conscientious people in the untenable position of not knowing what they must do to comply with the law. For the same reason, the vague language has made a farce of enforcement, which is no longer even attempted.

This situation, plus the scandals of recent memory, have given rise to numerous pieces of "reform" legislation.

Consequently, both the House and the Senate are now considering lobbying reform bills that would inhibit the discussion of legislation in private newsletters, compel private organizations to disclose their membership lists, classify as "lobbying" the process of informing the members of an organization about legislation of interest to them, impose complex and costly burdens of red tape on both the "professional" lobbyist and on those who make only incidental and infrequent contacts with Congress, and hold over the heads of all the threat of criminal penalties for failure to comply with these draconian regulations.

Anyone who doesn't recognize such proposals as a serious threat to the constitutional rights of petitions, free speech, free press and assembly is dangerously naive. Indeed, with respect to disclosure of membership lists the Supreme Court has consistently recognized that "...compelled disclosure can seriously infringe on privacy of association and belief guaranteed by the First Amendment."

Compelled disclosure was, in fact, one of the tactics used by recalcitrant state governments against the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People during the early days of the civil rights struggle. It was wrong because it permits partisans to learn the identity of the members of an opposing organization in order to harass or intimidate them individually.

Inhibition is the net effect of all these rules taken together. Obviously, many individuals and organizations would refrain from presenting their views to Congress if they had reason to fear criminal penalties for failure to comply with complicated procedures requiring the advice of a lawyer to fathom.

In any case, many of these heavy-handed reform proposals are born of a popular misconception of lobbyists as sinister types who head for Capitol Hill with lots of money in their pockets and no votes and leave it with lots of votes and no money. Sure it has happened. But it's not common. That kind of activity is ultimately counterproductive and the truly Washington-wise know it.

What should a good lobbying reform bill embody?

It should be simple and easy to understand.

It should be fair and equitable in its coverage. It should have reasonable reporting requirements which are not so complex that they inhibit the free expression of opinion.

It should not apply to persons who contact Congress infrequently.

It should not have a "chilling effect" on the exercise of the rights of petition and assembly.

Anything that goes very far beyond these simple requirements is likely to be a greater evil than those it purports to prevent.

Special Ceremonies Planned

150th Anniversary Of First Church Cornerstone Laying

The 150th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone will be celebrated Sunday, June 12, at the "Church of the Presidents" [Unitarian] in Quincy Sq.

A featured part of this special program at 10:45 a.m. will be the unveiling of a scale model of the previous building, known as the Hancock Meeting House. That structure, built in 1732, was named after John Hancock's father, who was minister of the church when that building was constructed. The scale model was built by John Hemphill and his Industrial Arts Class at Broadmeadows Junior High School. This is the first model ever to be built, and historical research for the measurements and style of the building were supplied by the Quincy Historical Society, Owen della Lucca, church statistician and Rev. Keith C. Munson, minister.

Three High School seniors were assigned by John Harrington, Coordinator of Social Studies of the Quincy Schools, to study all available records and prepare a documented record of the old meeting house. This will be distributed at the unveiling ceremony on Sunday morning.

Rev. Munson, minister of the church, has prepared and is directing a short re-enactment by eight men of the congregation based on the actual records of the early meetings of the Building Committee of 150 years ago. The participants will be in the costume of that period, and members of the congregation are also encouraged to come in costume for the occasion. Costumes for the skit have been arranged by Mrs. Margaret Winchester of Norwell, Religious Education Director for the church.

The ceremony will also include the singing of a hymn written by John Quincy Adams, sixth President of the United States. Few are aware of the fact that President Adams has a number of hymns credited to his authorship. The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Linda Roberts, will present a selection taken from a slightly earlier period.

Mayor Joseph LaRia will participate in the third part of this unique celebration as the entire congregation leaves the church and gathers at the entrance of City Hall. There church historian William Flavin and Mayor LaRia will present a facsimile of the box that was placed in the cornerstone 150 years ago. The assembly will then return to the site of the cornerstone where the minister, the mayor and other persons will re-enact the brief ceremony held a century and a half ago.

During these ceremonies special recognition will be given to the architect of the church, Alexander Parris. A student of Bullfinch, he became famous not only for this building, but also for his design of the Quincy Market Place in Boston, Pilgrim Hall in Plymouth, and numerous other churches and public buildings.

The ceremonies will conclude with refreshments in the Parish Hall. The public is invited to attend.

St. Anthony's Fiesta At St. John's Church Saturday

St. Anthony's Fiesta will be held at St. John's Church, School St., Quincy, June 11.

During the 5:15 Mass, the principal celebrant will be Bishop Joseph Ruocco from the Lowell region.

The Mass will be followed by an outdoor procession with music by Paul Lombardi's Band from 7:10-30 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Rev. Daniel Graham of St. John's Parish is acting chairman of the planning committee, which is composed of Syria Mayo, Annette Settimilli, Nancy Cirillo, Marge Goulart, Marion Ricca, Paul Ricca, John Taglieri, Richard Comeau, Fred Fostello, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Strella, Mrs. Lucy Falco, Mrs. Mildred Lomano, Sadie Papile, and Mrs. Connie Nicastre.

Firefighters Memorial Services To Be Held Sunday

The annual memorial exercises of the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association will be held Sunday, June 12, at 10:30 a.m. at the Quincy Firemen's Memorial Monument in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Fire Chief Edward F. Barry will preside. Other participants at the exercise for Quincy's deceased firefighters will be Association President Americo Speranzo, Vice-President Joseph Lemieux, Treasurer Lawrence Perette and Secretary John Bille.

The formal exercises will be preceded by a parade, starting at 10 a.m. from the Central Fire Station, Quincy Ave., and proceeding down Hancock St. to the cemetery.

In the event of inclement weather, the program will be held at the George F. Bryan VFW Post, 24 Broad St., Quincy, Mass.

23 St. Joseph's Students Win Art Fair Prizes

Twenty-three students from St. Joseph's School recently won prizes in the Archdiocesan Art Fair.

First prize winners entered the Silver Jubilee Art Fair, sponsored by the Archdiocese at McHugh Forum, Boston College.

First prize winners are, grade eight: Dawn Bright, Mark Foley; Grade 5: Douglas Murphy, and Julie Beniers, grade one.

Second prize winners were grade 6, Brian Foley, Linda Whyte, Thomas Corliss; Grade 5, Paul Marshall, Christopher Shaughnessy; grade 4, Steven Noonan; grade 3, Anne Marie Noenick, David Britt; grade 2, Patrick Hussey, Steven Sullivan; grade 1, Linda D'Amore.

Honorable mention winners: Grade 8, Patrick Murphy, James Paolucci; grade 7, Joseph Graham; grade 5, Sean McGinn; grade 3, Marilyn McBride, Theresa Roberts; grade 1, Suzanne Shea, Teresa Noenick.

St. Chrysostom's Bible School Starts June 27

St. Chrysostom's Church, Linden St., Wollaston will hold its Vacation Bible School weekdays 9 to 11:30 a.m. from June 27 to July 8, excluding July 4.

All children ages 4, to grade 7 are invited to attend. This year's theme is "Lord Jesus, Teach Me." Registration is on opening day or June 7, from 9 to 10:45 a.m. at the church.

'The Seekers' Seek Groups To Discuss Needs

"The Seekers," a group of handicapped persons operating out of Quincy High School's Special Needs area, is looking for community groups to speak to about their, and other handicapped persons' special needs.

The group has previously spoken at Bridgewater State College to students hoping to enter the field of Special Education.

to be presented by Irving Levin, owner of the Celtics, at a Wednesday meeting with the Rev. Bedros Baharian, head of the Planning Board, and representatives of the Mayor's office and State Street South.

"The Celtics will make a presentation to the city," said Arthur Casey, the Mayor's executive secretary. "This will be the first meeting at which we will get facts and figures."

Exactly what has been going on prior to Wednesday's meeting is unclear.

Baharian said that he and Kevin Phelan, a vice president of SSB Realty Inc., have been working on the arena proposal for six months. He said he was not acting as chairman of the Planning Board.

"I have been doing it as a private, public spirited citizen," Baharian told The Sun. "I've met once with Celtics' officials and I've had about a half dozen phone calls from them."

"It is still in the discussion stages. But we're at the point where we've got to get to work on it financially. I am convinced it is going to work."

Casey said the Mayor's office was involved in one meeting with Celtics' officials and representatives of State Street South about three weeks ago.

"We viewed the site," he said. "There was never a proposal. They just said they might like to build there. I understood they were also looking at the Watertown Arsenal as another prospective site."

Celtics owner Levin, who arrived in Boston from California over the weekend, was unavailable for comment, said to be tied up in contract negotiations with his coach, Timmy Heinsohn.

The proposal that the Celtics were to make appears to involve the setting up of a municipal authority to sell bonds with a long-term lease, held by a Levin group, to cover debt service on the bonds. The debt service on municipal bonds is considerably less than on privately issued bonds.

Baharian said he envisions the Celtics taking some 50 dates [41 regular season plus playoffs] in the new arena, with the Bruins hockey team joining them.

"I don't see how the Bruins can not come in," he said. "There is a lot of difficulty with their 50-year-old Boston Garden in an undesirable end of the city with the parking situation tough."

He acknowledged that the Bruins also own the Boston

Garden, but he added, "the name of the game today is the bottom line."

Baharian said the remaining dates in the arena [up to 200 of them] would be filled with concerts, circuses and other shows.

It was the possibility of such things going on in North Quincy that got Councillor Lydon upset, that and the fact that no one was talking to the City Council about it.

He said he has visited civic centers such as those in Springfield, and Hartford, Conn., and "I've seen them only as losing propositions for the municipality. It's a loser for a city to become involved in it."

"I'm not opposed to the Celtics but they play approximately 50 days out of the year at the Boston Garden and we have 250 days out of the year that that civic center would have to be used."

"And, gentlemen, you know what's going into the arena and you know what's going into the Boston Garden and if you want that down here in the city of Quincy, that's what we're being asked to put in the north end of the city."

On a number of occasions, events at Boston Garden have erupted into melees as concert-goers damaged MBTA trains and local business establishments.

Lydon doubted that the Celtics were sincere in their proposal to build an arena in North Quincy. He noted that the basketball team recently signed a new contract to play in Boston Garden, said to be of three-years duration.

"I question the fact whether or not the city of Quincy is not being used only in negotiations with their contract in Boston," he said. "Meanwhile, the citizens of Montclair are upset and the people in the city are wondering what's going on."

In view of the fact that State Street South officials met with the Celtics, he said, "I question whether or not State Street will act in the best interests of the North end of the city in what goes into that subdivision."

Harrington was even more caustic in his criticism of State Street South, which he said had promised to use the land to build a high-rise office complex of the type that was once built along Route 128.

"It is very disturbing to me that State Street should make a commitment to this city for a 128-type office park...and here we have State Street at least not denying the possibility that they're going to use the land for an arena," he said.

"That doesn't say much for the city of Quincy when the closest parcel of land to the city of Boston that can be used for an office park can't be developed for high rise offices."

"If they [State Street] are shopping around and listening to talk about arenas then that entire project, which was to help the tax base of this city, must be in serious jeopardy."

MDC To Beef Up Patrols At Wollaston Beach

By MICHAEL WIGDOR

MDC police will beef up patrols at Wollaston beach to strictly enforce the law against drinking on MDC beaches.

Last weekend, MDC police arrested 24 youths on Nantasket beach for possessing alcoholic beverages on a MDC reservation and eight youths were taken into protective custody. As a result, Commissioner John F. Sneider ordered additional men for patrols on all beaches from Hull to Lynn.

MDC public information director Michael Goldman said more MDC police officers will be assigned to foot coverage, and one extra police car will be used when weather, crowds and situations indicate the need.

"Arrests will be made when the situation warrants," warned Goldman, emphasizing that every attempt will be made by the MDC to insure proper conduct on the beaches this summer.

Goldman suggested that controlling youth drinking on beaches would eliminate related problems of litter and gang congregations, making the beaches clean and safe for town residents to use.

MDC officer Thomas Lucas said there have been no more arrests than usual at Wollaston beach so far, and no major problems have occurred, but the MDC have taken precautions just in case it's necessary.

MONEY TALKS

A 60-Year-Old Couple Bankrupt On $25,000 Salary

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings
and Loan Association
of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

What do you tell a couple about 60 years of age, no children, who are deep in debt on an annual salary of $25,000?

They have widespread credit obligations totaling $20,000 on which they are able to pay only interest. They are also trying to clear $6,000 owed on their car.

The only asset they have is a $30,000 home which is fully paid for. They ask a financial adviser in his newspaper column if they should sell the home, pay off their debts, and "start all over again in an apartment."

The adviser questions whether selling the home would leave them better off in an apartment, which they would have to obtain at "a bargain to make financial progress." The only thing he does suggest is that the husband have a $100 E bond taken out of his pay every week and used as year-end savings to make a dent in their indebtedness.

He probably would have liked to scold them for their extravagance and mourn their immaturity. Any financial manager would shake his head at a pair who, despite annual income of $25,000, will have absolutely nothing [except the roof over their heads] from their own resources to take care of their now-imminent retirement years and, indeed, have indebtedness exceeding one year's gross income to wipe out before they can even begin to think of putting anything aside for retirement.

These people are not unique. In our business of lending substantial sums to couples interested in purchasing a home, we naturally examine their income and assets, their life styles and financial habits. Some with high incomes cannot understand why their loan applications are denied while others in more modest circumstances are getting ready approval. The answer, obviously, is that some people are good money managers and others are not.

There is no reason why a couple earning $25,000 from a "good job" and apparently many previous years of solid income should not at the age of 60 find themselves with a paid-up home, substantial savings and investments, a pension program, and little if any indebtedness. It's too late for them to start now. A habit or pattern developed earlier in life would have accomplished their goals. Even more, it would have contributed a sense of well-being, a joy that their thriftspendthrift ways have denied them.

Tobin Promises Immediate Action On HN Sewerage

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin has been promised immediate action by MDC officials to end the spillage of sewerage waste in Houghs Neck.

Tobin said he contacted MDC Commissioner John Snedeker after residents of Houghs Neck complained that trucks carrying processed sewerage from the aeration tanks at the Nut Island Sewerage Treatment Plant were spilling some of the material on the streets while trucking it away.

Tobin said the MDC commissioner promised an immediate inspection program to make certain the trucks are not overloaded and that covers on their tanks are properly fastened. He said the inspection drive will involve constant daily inspections until the job of cleaning out the aeration tanks is completed.

Tobin said the commissioner also promised the cleanup job will be speeded up so that it will be completed in four weeks.

"I want to assure the citizens of Houghs Neck that we will keep a watchful eye on this cleanup program so that no further spills or inconvenience will be suffered by this area," Tobin said.

Snug Harbor Sailors Remembered By Youngsters

The 133 mariners who spent their final days at Sailors Snug Harbor in Germantown were remembered by the neighborhood youngsters on Memorial Day.

Children from the Snug Harbor School held memorial ceremonies and decorated the graves of the sailors in the cemetery behind the school.

The ceremonies opened with a prayer by the Rev. Gerald Osterman of St. Boniface Church memorializing the merchant seamen who are buried there.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon reminded the youngsters of their obligation to make the community a better place in which to live so that the efforts of those honored on Memorial Day shall not have been in vain.

Kip Wilson and Robert Steen, fourth graders, recited an original poem written by Kip for the occasion.

Youngsters from the kindergarten classes of Mary Lou Glaman and Persis Gallion and the first grade class of Patricia Smith sang patriotic songs.

Derek Kelly, Steven Austin, Dawn Elwood and Shannon Richards, second graders, recited a Memorial Day poem.

Susan Uhlar and Paul Medicke, sixth graders, paid poetic tribute to soldiers who gave their lives for their country.

Michael Williams and Greg Hanley, sixth graders, read the poem "Memorial Day" by William Brooks.

The Snug Harbor Chorus, led by Mrs. Gay Carboneau, sang appropriate selections.

Representatives from each of the classes filed into the cemetery and laid flowers on the 133 graves.

The program concluded with Taps, played by Mark Hickey of the Quincy High School band and the final prayer was led by the Rev. George Carlson of St. Boniface Church.

Master of ceremonies was Harold Crowley, president of the Germantown Heritage Society, which sponsored the Memorial Day tribute in conjunction with the Snug Harbor School.

Michael Faherty Candidate For Council At Large

Michael E. Faherty, 53, of 28 Furnace Brook Parkway, a retired Mass State Police Captain, has announced his candidacy for an at-large seat on the Quincy City Council.

Faherty, who is presently director of security for the State Street Bank, said he was prompted to run in part by recent reports linking Quincy to corruption and organized crime.

"As a member of the Council," he said, "I feel I would be in a position to determine whether these stories are founded in fact or fiction."

"If crime of an organized nature does exist in the city, I believe my close relationship with law enforcement officials throughout the state would facilitate my doing something about it."

Faherty said his campaign will "actively solicit voter input in an attempt to prioritize the concerns of the Quincy electorate."

"Until we determine from the voters the relative importance of issues such as the tax rate, the stadium, school expansion or industrial development, we're taking a shotgun approach to problems," he said.

"I don't believe in that type of hit or miss way of doing things."

Faherty, a native of Quincy, is a former Grand Knight of the North Quincy Knights of Columbus and past state deputy of the K of C. He is a Navy veteran and a graduate of Cathedral High School, Boston.

He and his wife, the former Patricia Duggan, have five children, Mrs. Mary Ellen Negethon, a teacher at Furnace Brook School; Mrs. Kathleen Linnell, a nurse at City Hospital; Patricia, a student at the University of Massachusetts; Michael, a junior at Providence College; and Ann, a freshman at Archbishop Williams High School.

Ward 2 Association To Meet June 14

The Ward 2 Civic Association will meet Tuesday, June 14, at 8 p.m., at the "Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd., with James Lyons presiding.

Plans for the association's 4th of July celebration will be discussed. Those wishing to volunteer their services are encouraged to attend.

The Independence Day

festivities are an annual event sponsored for the children of Ward 2. As in the past, the success of the day's activities depend greatly on the participation of the men and women in the Ward 2 area.

Further information regarding the celebration may be obtained by contacting Thomas Barrett, 328 South St., Quincy Point.

Sabina Stenberg Candidate For Council At -Large

Sabina Kavanaugh Stenberg of 141 South Central Ave., Wollaston, a Quincy business woman and chairwoman of the Council on Aging, has announced her candidacy for an at-large seat on the City Council.

"We need a woman in our City Council in Quincy to fight taxes and crime," she said.

She is the mother of two, is owner of the Hanover Beauty Academy, 24 Cottage Ave., Quincy Center; and Sabina's Beauty Salon, Hancock and Beale Sts., Wollaston.

She is vice president of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore, vice president and fund raiser for Survival Inc., vice president of the South Shore friends of Ireland, and a director of the South Shore chapter of the Kidney Foundation.

She is a member of the Catholic Womens Club, the American Jewish Congress, Hadassah, the Germantown Women's Yacht Club, Quincy Citizens Association, Quincy Professional Business Association and the Board of Realtors.

She was an unsuccessful candidate for an at-large seat in the 1975 city election, qualifying in the preliminary election but losing out in the final.

Quincy has not had a woman on the City Council since Edna B. Austin retired in 1960.

$2 Million City Deficit

that that will be consumed before the end of this fiscal year.

RAYMONDI - Is that the only other area?

SHEA - That would probably be the only major area. There are some areas where we are running a little ahead of last year and there are some other areas where we are running a little behind. I did send the Council a copy of a communication and I indicated that it would probably run close to $2 million overall.

RAYMONDI - I would just like to indicate that the revenue deficit last year that set the tax rate was a figure in the vicinity of $3.9 million. Apparently we're facing a revenue deficit at the Hospital in the vicinity of some $2 million and we're possibly looking at a revenue deficit as a result of the situation of the MBTA garage of $530,000. I think it's substantial enough to be of concern to the City Council and also to this administration.

Norfolk County Bar Association Elects Hannon, Honors Judge Reardon

Register of Deeds Barry T. Hannon of Braintree was elected President of the Norfolk County Bar Association at its annual meeting recently at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Hannon is a graduate of Holy Cross and Boston University Law School and is a veteran having served as an Air Force Judge Advocate during the Vietnam War. He was elected to the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1966 and served there until 1970 when he was elected Register of Deeds for Norfolk County. He succeeds Richard P. Melick of Needham as president of the Bar Association.

Also elected at the annual meeting were Atty. Nicholas

Barry T. Hannon
Barbadoro of Quincy, vice president; Atty. Joseph R. Welch, secretary and Atty. Richard C. Monahan, treasurer.

Following the business meeting a dinner was held to honor retired Justice Paul C. Reardon of the Supreme Judicial Court and a former Quincy resident. About 200 guests were present at the dinner including Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti; Chief Justice Edward F. Hennessey of the Supreme Judicial Court; Judge Francis J. Quirico, associate Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court; Chief Judge Allan M. Hale of the Appeals Court; retired Chief Justice of the Superior Court, Walter H. McLaughlin; Judge James P. Lynch Jr. of the Superior Court; Chief Judge Alfred L. Podolski, Probate Courts of Massachusetts, and Judge Samuel R. Hoffman, Norfolk Probate Court.

Germantown Service Center Staff Tours State House

The staff of the Germantown Service Center were guests of Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] in a tour of the State House last week and Director Patricia Peers recommends it for more citizens and civic groups.

"They provide an excellent opportunity to enlarge our understanding of how state government works and how we can most effectively make our voices heard on Beacon Hill," she said.

The tours were introduced early this year by State Secretary Paul H. Guzzi to acquaint the general public with the procedures by which bills are introduced and how legislation travels through the House and Senate to become law.

Meanwhile, the program for next week at the Germantown Center, 9 Bicknell St., includes:

Monday - The weight control group meets at 10 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

Tuesday - Mothers of Pre-Schoolers Group meets for handicrafts and adult conversation at 9:30 a.m. while their children engage in supervised play. Kids-in-the-kitchen, a co-ed cooking class for 9 to 12 year olds meets at 12:30 p.m. under the direction of Mary Lou McGrath. Para Legal Aide Rosemarie Hanley of Greater Boston Legal Services will be available for assistance with problems of welfare, social security, veterans services, etc.

Wednesday - Family Planning

Clinic appointments from 4 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Thursday - Boy Scouts meet at 7 p.m. The Well Baby Clinic for preventive care and immunization opens at 1 p.m. at St. Boniface Church Hall, 26 Shed St.

Friday - Family Planning Clinic appointments from 11:45 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Other services, including nutrition information and budget counselling, is available daily from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The Family Planning Clinic is open daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. for counselling, referrals, and receiving appointments for pregnancy testing, pap tests, gynecology services and patient intake.

The Harborview Residents Committee meets in the Center at 8 p.m. on the second Tuesday and fourth Wednesday of each month.

Buttercup Bluebirds Visit Quincy Sun

The Buttercup Bluebirds of South Quincy visited The Quincy Sun recently to view the workings of a newspaper firsthand.

The Buttercups are: Darlene Clark, Cheryl Hanson, Peggy Keblin, Kimberly Mayberger, Jennifer O'Hare, Joy O'Hare.

Leader Mrs. Donald Mayberger, and assistant leaders Mrs. Alice Hanson and Mrs. Lucille O'Hare accompanied the girls on their tour.

Blue Jay Christopher Mayberger also joined the girls on their tour.

The youngsters first visited the editorial and advertising departments of The Quincy Sun.

Save Gas and Money ...
shop locally.

They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine. They also saw newstories being set on the CompWriter Junior.

The girls watched a paste-up artist fix their story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

They watched photographs being reduced and screened for publication by an Agfa Gewart Repromaster camera in the Sun's new camera department.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed, the girls asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each girl received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

Nearly 100 To Run In St. Mary's Race

Close to 100 runners are expected to answer the starting gun Saturday when St. Mary's of West Quincy sponsors its annual 10-mile road race at 1 p.m.

The runners will start in front of the church on Crescent St., go down Crescent St. to Hall Place and Furnace Brook Parkway to Newport Ave., to Adams St., to Whitwell to Granite, Quarry, Furnace Brook Parkway, Cross St., back to Crescent. After the second trip over the same route, the race will end in front of the church.

Lt. Frank Mullin will represent the Quincy Police Dept. and Jake Mahoney will represent Milton Police. Johnny Kelly the elder, who missed last year's race, expects to come up from the Cape to run again.

Frank DeLuca, a 10-miler from way back again is the race director. Entry blanks can be secured at St. Mary's Rectory or from DeLuca, 359 Franklin St. Each runner must be registered with the AAU and numbers can be obtained at St. Mary's at 11 a.m. Saturday.

The committee appeals to residents along the route to be out with hoses and water to help relieve the runners as they pass along.

The Bartholomew Flaherty trophy will again be awarded to the winner along with special trophies from Mayor Joseph LaRaia, Councillor James Sheets, School Committee candidate Joan Picard, the Diocesan Holy Name Society, and St. Mary's Holy Name Society. Prizes will be given to the first Quincy finisher, the first from St. Mary's, the first woman, and the first finisher over 40 years of age.

● Tennis

Quincy Happy Despite Tourney Loss

The Quincy tennis team didn't have a senior on the squad this spring and not too much was expected of the Presidents.

However, Wayne Hamilton's team tied for fourth place in the strong Suburban League, defeated Waltham in a playoff and qualified for the Eastern Mass. tournament.

The fact Quincy was eliminated in the first round by Weyland, 5-0, did little to dim Hamilton's happiness at this season's results.

"I told the kids just to hit the ball," Hamilton said. "We were here to learn. Learn from the exposure. We hadn't played in this kind of thing before. The kids knew they wouldn't go far and said they'll be champs next year."

We should really be super next season."

In the 4-1 playoff win over Waltham to make the tournament, Bottary and Wilcox won their singles matches while Ames lost. In doubles, which Quincy dominated in most of its matches, MacDonald and Todd, the first duo, and Karosis and Kelliher swept.

Quincy had defeated North Quincy, 4-1, to finish tied with Waltham for fourth place.

Oilers Hold First Workout

The Randolph Oilers of the Eastern Football League, with several former Quincy and North Quincy players among 45 players reporting, held their first workout last Sunday and will drill again Sunday at 10 a.m. at Randolph's Kennedy Junior High School.

Among those reporting were North Quincy's record-breaking place kicker, Ed McLaney and North's outstanding runner, George Wallace, and former Quincy stars Mark Buchanan, Mike Farrell, Ted Meyers and Ed Silva.

Meyers and Silva starred for last year's Oiler squad which finished third and did well in the playoffs.

Central Sweeps To 3rd Junior High Title

Central, relying on a sweep of the eighth grade events, won its third Quincy Junior High track championship in four years last week, piling up 83½ points to win easily. Atlantic-North had 34 points, Broad Meadows 33 and Point 32 in a fierce battle for second place. Sterling had 19½ points.

One record was broken and another tied. Burke of Central broke the eighth grade shot put record with a toss of 43-½ and Jack Leone tied the eighth grade high jump mark at 5-2.

Seventh grade winners were Finlay of Meadows in the 50, Kerasas of Sterling, 440; Wesley Paul of Central, long jump; Wood of Central, high jump and Nivens, Meadows, shot put. Central won the relay.

In the eighth grade, Demole of Central won the 100, Shaun Burnes, the only double winner, long jump at 17-7½ and 880 at 2:16.7.

Ninth grade winners were Paul Tocchio, 100; John Furey of Central, mile in 5:01.6; Leif Thornton of Atlantic, long jump (he has won the event every year and owns the seventh grade record); Tommy Pound of Atlantic, high jump, and Petrillo of Meadows, shot put. Sterling won the relay.

The city-wide meet this year was the best organized in years and was organized and directed by Quincy High Coach, John Lavery. He was assisted by North Quincy Coach Lou Tozzi, Joe Catalano, Jeff Hennessy of the Quincy Track Club and members of the Quincy and North Quincy High teams.

Linda Cellini Places 5th In State 440

Linda Cellini of Quincy closed out her high school season with a fifth place finish for Abp. Williams High in the state 440 at Andover High School Saturday. Her time was 59.9 seconds.

Linda placed in every big meet this season and was named All-Catholic in the Catholic Central League.

Karen McCarthy of Quincy and Abp. Williams finished fourth in the states. The 14-year old freshman also was named to the All-Catholic team.

Five girls, students at the Mass. Fields School, placed second in the National Postal Six-Minute Run sponsored by Startling Line Magazine of California. All were sent plaques and certificates which will be presented to the girls by Principal Robert D'Andrea.

The girls are Sheila Barrett, Suzanne Libby and Linda Mahoney, sixth grade; Bernadette Murphy, fifth grade, and Geraldine Murphy, fourth grade. They ran a combined total of 16½ laps.

The competition was organized by Quincy Track Club coaches Jeff Hennessy and Patrick Murphy.

Saville Third In 2-Mile State Run

Quincy High junior John Saville placed third in the two-mile run in the state schoolboy meet last Saturday at Andover and qualified for Saturday's New England meet at Bowdoin College.

Saville, who was unbeaten during the Suburban League season, covered the distance in 9:39.2. The winner, Newton North's Scott Duncan, did 9:28.2. In a three-mile run Saturday in Dorchester, North Quincy's Marty Levenson was the winner in 14:55, followed by his brother Bob, who did 14:59. Both starred the past two years for the North Quincy High squad. More than 100 ran in the race.

Marty is going to Bates College and Bob to Boston University.

In a six-mile run in Dorchester, Mike Burke of Randolph won and Quincy's Jake Mahoney, a Milton policeman, finished 10th.

Quincy Eliminated From Girls Softball Tourney

The Quincy girls' softball team's most successful season came to a disappointing end last week when the First Ladies were eliminated in the opening round of the Eastern Mass. tournament by Dighton-Rehoboth, 13-8.

Barbara Webster's girls had won the Suburban League title for the first time with a 12-4 record and for the first time in history had qualified for the tournament.

But things didn't go well for the First Ladies and, after taking a 3-0 first inning lead, the roof collapsed and D-R erupted for seven runs on only three hits in the third inning and that was that.

"We are a lot better than we showed today," said a disappointed Miss Webster. "This is a good bunch of girls and they worked hard to get here. They deserved to be in the tournament."

Lois Malvesti, one of the league's top batters and pitchers, went three for four, including a home run, scored twice and drove in four runs.

Peg Thorley, another of the league's leading batters and pitchers, had her troubles on the mound but also had a good day at the plate with two for four, scored two runs and drove in a pair. Sophomore Debbie Russo also had two hits.

"Throughout the year, Lois (Malvesti) has been tremendous," Miss Webster said. "She is steady at shortstop and has pitched well. Marianne (McCarthy) is another standout. She is a quiet kid and you never notice her, but she goes out there and gets the job done." They are two of five seniors, the others being Thorley, Claire Oliverio and Tricia Connor.

Over $600 For Muscular Dystrophy

Police Bomb Firefighters 18-6, Council Edges Press, 14-13

The Police Department romped over the Fire Department, 18-6, and the City Council outlasted the News Media All Stars, 14-13, in a benefit softball doubleheader Saturday night at Adams Field, Quincy.

All proceeds—over $600 with some advance ticket returns still to be made—will go to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The doubleheader is the first in a series of special Quincy events planned in conjunction with the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Labor Day weekend telethon.

Frank Calabro and Matt Pollara combined on a nine-hitter to stop the Fire Department in the opening game of the doubleheader.

Bob Edgar, Terry Kelly and Ernie Field paced the police attack driving in four runs each. Gerry Nichol and Dick Crespi had three hits each. Frank Mullen, Dick Lacey and Mike Barry representing the department "oldtimers" turned in good performances both in the field and at bat.

Ed Needleton had the fielding gem of the day with a George Scott-like pick-up of a low throw from Calabro at first.

Paul O'Connell and Mark Franzoni shared the mound duties for the Fire Department.

The Firefighters got off to a fast start, scoring three runs in the first inning. The Police Department came back with two and tied it at 3-3 in the third. The police then took the lead in the fourth and held it.

Tommy Field had a double and single for the Fire Department. Other standouts were Charlie Walter, Dave DiTullio, Bill Lowry, Fred McRae and Eddie O'Toole.

City Council President Arthur Tobin and WJDA's Jay Asher were the opposing hurlers in the City Council-News Media co-feature with both going the nine-inning distance.

The News Media who at one time were behind, 8-1, came up with two big late inning rallies only to fall one run short.

After a scoreless first inning, the game turned into a slugging match.

Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall was the big gun for his alma mater City Council with a pair of homeruns. He and Councilor Jim Sheets had back-to-back round trippers.

Ray Cattaneo belted a home run as a pinch hitter for the News Media and the Quincy Sun's Henry Bosworth hit a triple and single. Mark Burns of the Sun drove in 5 runs with 4 timely hits. Sam Mele, former Red Sox star and sports columnist chipped in a double as a pinch hitter. The Sun's Dave Gray had a double and Paul Gorham a couple of singles and sparked at third base.

Standouts for the City Council team in addition to Tobin, Marshall and Sheets were Councilors Dennis Harrington, Warren Powers, John Quinn, Leo Kelly, Paul Harold, City Auditor Charles Shea, Richie Meade of the city planning department, George Roche, Bill Corliss, Steve Tobin and Mark Tobin.

Sparkling performances for the News Media were turned in by WJDA's Roy Lind and Charlie Ross, The Quincy Sun's Tom Brady, Tom Henshaw, Mike Wigdor, Art Milmore, Bill Gorham, and Bob Bosworth and Ed Cotter of the Associated Press.

Umpires were City Recreation Director Bob Beniers, Ray Cattaneo and George Fandel.

Dick Koch, Park-Recreation Board executive secretary, was the play-by-play announcer assisted by Tommy Koch.

David Donahue was in charge of tickets at the gate, assisted by Brian and Harry Donahue.

Warren Powers was chairman of the City Council-News Media game and Bill Lowry and Dick Crespi co-chairmen of the Police-Firefighters game.

Bosworth and Koch are co-ordinators of Muscular Dystrophy activities in the Quincy-South Shore area.

During the Jerry Lewis telethon over the Labor Day weekend, The Quincy Sun will be the Quincy-South Shore pledge center with 40 telephones manned by volunteers.

Going To Bat For Muscular Dystrophy

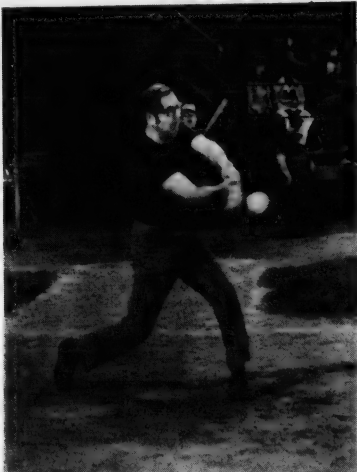

CHOOSING FIRST UPS for City Council-News Media softball game at Adams Field to benefit Muscular Dystrophy are, from left, Councillors Arthur Tobin and Warren Powers, City Recreation Director and umpire Bob Beniers keeping an eye on things; Quincy Sun's Henry Bosworth, Sam Mele, former Red Sox star and WJDA's Jay Asher.

YOU'RE OUT! Umpire Bob Beniers calls Councillor Leo Kelly out after Quincy Sun's Tom Henshaw put tag on him at homeplate, with a perfect strike from third base by Sun's Paul Gorham. Kelly attempts to steal ball from Henshaw but to no avail.

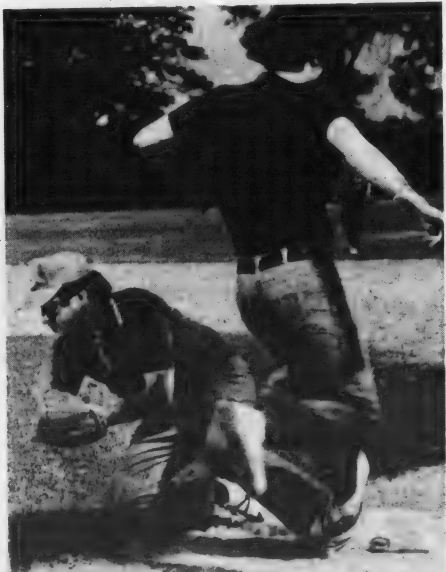

SAM MELE, former Red Sox star shows the old form as he waits for pitch from Arthur Tobin. Sam, pinchhitting for the news media, connected for double.

McNamara-Cascarano In One-Hitter, Keaney Fans 12 For Mets

The Pirates blanked the Yankees, 3-0, Sunday in the Quincy Triple A. Baseball League with Jimmy McNamara and Michael Cascarano combining for a one-hitter. Mike Barta hit a double for the winners.

Monday the Indians outlasted the Mets, 12-10, with Dale Adams the winner. John Cosgrove had two doubles and drove in two runs, Scott Barba had a double and scored a run, Jay DeAngelis had a hit and scored a run, and Jimmy McSweeney had a double. For the Mets Oliver Fahy had two doubles.

The White Sox edged the Tigers, 5-4, with Bob Maimaron the winning pitcher. Bobby Graham had three for four to spark the attack. John Burn had a triple and Chris Hurley went two for three. Kenny McDonald had 12 strikeouts in five innings. For the Tigers Tommy Murphy and Stevie Haews had two hits each.

The Pirates went on a spree to overwhelm the Dodgers, 28-7. Cascarano was the winning pitcher. Mike Barta was three for three, Mike McArdle had a double and triple and Greg Keefe had two doubles. MacLean had a triple with the bases loaded for the Dodgers.

Winning pitcher Gary Keaney had an inside the park home run, Dennis Downing had a triple and Jay Petrilli a double. Jamie Fennell struck out seven in the first three innings. Heather Slicis pitched the second three for the Dodgers and had six strikeouts.

Billy Cahill and Jeff MacLean were two for three each for the Dodgers.

The Yankees edged the Tigers, 10-9, with Frank Maloney, Willie Shumacher and Bob O'Brien each having a double, Anthony Befera had a double and triple and Tim Barry and Fred Cashman a double apiece for the Tigers. Mike Phelan was the winning pitcher and Ken MacDonald the loser.

The Yankees toppled the Indians, 9-7, with Shumacher the winning hurler. Schumacher, Charlie Duffy, Tom Schofield, Bob O'Brien and Jim Crossman each had a double for the Yankees. For the Indians Mike Barry had a triple and Dale Adams, Jim Grassi, Jimmy Garrity, John Cosgrove and Ken Wright a double apiece.

N.Q. Elementary League Basketball In Action

A new North Quincy basketball league for elementary school players was recently organized by North Quincy High Coach Ed Miller and his assistant, Paul Bregoli.

Seven teams make up the league: Mass. Fields A, Wollaston, Quincy, Beechwood Knoll, Montclair, Squantum and Mass. Fields B.

Wollaston defeated Beechwood Knoll with Kevin Greene and Chip Mallory pacing the attack and John Phelan leading Beechwood.

Wollaston also topped Mass. Fields B, 38-32, led by Tim Ryan's 14 points. Paul Ryan had two key baskets to solidify the win. Steve Hogan sparked the losers with 11 points.

Mike O'Hare had 28 points in Mass. Fields A's win over Mass. Fields B. O'Hare scored 13, Steve Racette and John Purland 12 each in defeating Squantum. John Panaro had four for Squantum. Mass. Fields A also topped Wollaston, 43-36, as Purland had 16 points and Wayne Ham excelled on the boards.

Quincy edged Mass. Fields B, 27-20, in overtime, as Greg DeBella scored all the points in the extra period. Paul Cahill played well for M. F. B.

Montclair defeated Mass. Fields B, 21-8, with Peter McGillicuddy scoring eight for the winners.

Beechwood Knoll topped Montclair, 36-16, with Ricky Radzik and John Phelan having 10 points apiece and Dwayne Wilcoxon nine.

Recently Mass. Fields A defeated Montclair and Squantum to improve its league-leading record to 7-0, putting it one game ahead of Wollaston: [6-1] as the first round ended.

Ham had 22 points, O'Hare 19 and Whitehouse 14 for the leaders against Montclair. McGillicuddy again paced Montclair with 14. Against Squantum the team was sparked by Purland's 14 points. Racette, while not scoring high, ran the attack perfectly hitting open men consistently with pin-point passing. O'Hare had an outstanding defensive game. For Squantum Dean Phillips led the attack with 12 points and Colin McLeod had a big day off the boards.

Miller's Wollaston team defeated Montclair and Beechwood Knoll. Ryan led Wollaston in both wins with 10 points against Knoll. Flaherty also played well in that game. Radzik paced Knoll.

Against Montclair Ryan and Flaherty again played well as did Kevin Greene, whose ball handling was outstanding. McGillicuddy again sparked Montclair.

Mass Fields B won its first game, topping Squantum, 27-17. Hogan led all scorers with 12 points and Tenney had nine. Dean Phillips paced Squantum with nine points.

Mass. Fields B lost to Beechwood Knoll and Quincy. An outstanding comeback by Knoll in the final three minutes was led by Phelan, Radzik and Mike Conlan, each of whom scored 12 points. Hogan scored 12 for the losers while Mark Hubbard had seven. Quincy had two much manpower for Fields B and won easily, 45-25. Quincy, led by Greg DiBella and Rick O'Sullivan with 10 and eight points respectively, was also helped out by Brian Reardon, Chris Flaherty, Tommy Benson and Bobby Doyle with six points each. Engrassia also played well. Paul Cahill had 12 and Scott MacTaggart 10 for Fields B.

Quincy also defeated Knoll, 25-24, in the most exciting game of the week. DiBella had 13 points and John Reilly, Reardon and O'Sullivan also played well. For Knoll Phelan had 11 points and Dave Marcham and Conlon played fine games.

The standings:

Warriors Take Two From Roxie's, J's Sweep Pair From Koch

The South Suburban Softball League race tightened up Sunday when the Warriors handed league-leading Roxie's its first two losses while runnerup J's swept two from Koch Club to move to within a half game of the leaders.

Roxie's is 12-2 and J's 11-2. The Warriors topped Roxie's, 11-8, in the first game of their doubleheader, and followed with a 15-10 decision.

Joe Wilkinson in his Warriors debut led the attack in both games and pitcher Spike Mitchell, now 9-5, earned both wins.

The Warriors overcame an 8-1 deficit in the first game by teeing off on pitcher Steve O'Rourke and taking advantage of shabby Roxies defense. Wilkinson and Al Rosey had three hits each for the Warriors and Kevin Smith had four for Roxie's.

In the second game an eight-run fifth inning put the game out of reach for the Warriors. Wilkinson, Kevin Murphy and Rick Lucas had home runs. Bob Bouchard had two homers, Pat Grahman one and Danny Minton his 12th of the year for Roxie's.

2-Way Tie For A.L. Top, Hancock Bank N.L. Pacer

Firemen's Local 792 walloped Houghs Neck Legion, 11-2, Sunday to move into a first place tie with Barry's Deli in the Quincy Babe Ruth League's American League.

Hancock Bank is the National League leader.

Greg Oriola was the winning pitcher as he pitched a seven-hitter in the replay of last Friday's 2-2 tie game. He struck out six and walked five. Firemen pounded out 13 hits, sparked by Greg Madden's three for three, four runs scored and four stolen bases. He also started defensively. Catcher Steve Notorangelo played his usual fine defensive game and hit well.

For Houghs Neck, Prescott and Matthews had triples.

Elks blanked VFW, 5-0, behind Bill Foley's four-hit pitching. He had four strikeouts and three walks while recording his third win in as many starts. Bob Dubois had a triple and single and drove in two runs. Bill Doyle, Steve Pecavich, Dean Zoia and Foley had the other Elks' hits. Pat Ennis, Jack Brown, Eddie Ryan and Andy Orrock had the VFW hits.

Houghs Neck defeated Golden Print, 9-5, with Tom McFarland the winning pitcher in relief. McFarland had a two-run triple to Here McFarland came on in relief, and did a brilliant job the rest of the way, giving up one hit over six innings. For Houghs Neck, Jeff Giordani had two hits and an RBI. Steve Priscella, McFarland and Mike Monahan had two hits apiece.

Granite City Electric edged Local 1139, 2-0, with Bob McCormick pitching three-hit ball and striking out 10 and loser Paul O'Toole allowing only four hits. Granite City, which scored both runs in the fifth, was sparked by the hitting and fielding of Mike Scurti and heads-up catching by Mike Stranburg.

Firemen's Local topped Morrisette, 7-2, with Madden hurling five-hit ball for his third straight win without a loss. He struck out six and walked two. Notorangelo had a triple and single. Losing pitcher Chris Segalla had a double and single.

Elks nipped Police Club, 4-3, as the Police scored twice in the final inning but just fell short. Dubois, making his first pitching start for Elks, pitched four-hit ball and struck out 10. Steve Healy and Dubois had the only Elks hits. For the Police, O'Connell had two hits including a triple and Costigan pitched well in relief.

Golden Print outslugged Local 1139, 10-8, rallying for five runs in the sixth to win it. Dan Flannery was the winning pitcher and Rich Hallberg the loser. Steve Picot, Dave Picot, John Todd and Brian Reale had the key hits in the five-run sixth. Flannery and Al Singh had two hits each.

Tom Richards, Brian Donovan and Mark Millane had two hits apiece for Local 1139.

and scored on DiNardo's sharp single to left. Sharon took a 2-1 lead in its half on three Quincy errors with two outs but Quincy took a 3-2 lead with two in the top of the second. Wilkinson singled as did Bob Jordan and McManis walked. Paul Graham hit a scorcher to second base but the second baseman, after making a fine stop, threw the ball away as two runs scored. Sharon tied it with a run in the bottom half.

Quincy took a 4-2 lead in the third on DiNardo's long triple and a single by Wilkinson. Tonight [Thursday] Quincy hosts Baintree in an 8:15 game under the lights at Adams Field.

Keohane's Takes Pair

Keohane's continues to roll along in the Quincy Junior Baseball League and two wins during the past week hiked its record to 8-2.

In its latest game Keohane's walloped VFW, 13-2, with Charlie Jaehnig improving his pitching record to 4-0. Tommy Corliss was three for four including his second homer, a double and single. John Balzano was three for three and Jaehnig helped his own cause with two singles. Steve Mallory made a brilliant catch in centerfield, a line drive going away from him that he caught at his shoetops.

Keohane's earlier bombed Sears, 14-0, with Balzano pitching his fourth straight shutout and second one-hitter. He struck out 14 and is averaging 12 a game. His record is 4-1. Corliss had three hits and three RBIs, Charlie Jaehnig a double and single, Jimmy Jaehnig a two-run double, Billy O'Brien two hits and Balzano and Peter Lynch also had hits.

Data Splits In Senior Babe Ruth Action

Quincy's Senior Babe Ruth League team, Data Services, broke even in its opening game last week.

Quincy went 13 innings to win its opener, 7-6, over South Boston Savings Bank in a game which started at 8:15 Thursday night and ended at 12:15 a.m.

Trailing, 4-0, Quincy scored three times in the bottom of the third as Mike Trubiano and Jerry Cronin walked and John DiNardo tripled. He scored on a wild pitch.

In the fifth Quincy added two runs as Mike Marella walked, Trubiano singled, both moved up on a passed ball and Cronin singled them in.

S. Boston tied it in the sixth and went ahead, 6-5, in the top of the eighth. Quincy came back to tie it when DiNardo and Harold McManus walked and Jackie Malloy singled.

Finally, in the 13th, Tom Wilkinson, who pitched 10 innings, striking out 12 and walking only three, singled, stole second and scored the winner on Marella's single.

Sharon scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth to hand Quincy a 6-4 loss on Sunday.

Quincy opened with a run in the top of the first when Trubiano walked, stole second

Hancock Paint Moves To Larger Location

Hancock Paint and Wallpaper store has moved to a bigger location for the second time in its nine years.

The original store was built from a converted garage in April of 1969. In three years, its 900 square feet was too small for its volume of business, and the store moved to a new building with 2,500 square feet of space.

Now, after five years, that location proved too small and the company built and moved into a store next door, at 714 Adams St., Quincy at the Milton line, that has a total of 5,400 square feet.

The store, managed by Rick

Kaufman, has a complete decorating center. Peggy Monahan is the decorating consultant, and the center includes a full line of Hancock paints, Cabot stains, Miniwax stains, vinyl wall covering, carpets, unfinished and wicker furniture and wicker accessories, window shades and sundry items. A display of carpets is featured on one wall. Thousands of rolls of wallpaper are in stock, including stock, Strahn and Wall-Tex brands.

Hancock paint is manufactured in Norwell. There are now 11 stores in the Hancock chain, Quincy's being the largest.

Chamber Breakfast June 23 To Take Look Into Future

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce 7:44 breakfast, scheduled for June 23, will feature a look into the future.

The meeting, to be held at the Sheraton Tara, Braintree, will be the forum for a report compiled by the Chamber's Board of Advisors on anticipated trends in business, social and ecological life between now and the year 2000.

Thomas J. Dunn, president of Interchange Sciences Corporation and chairman of the Board of Advisors, has supervised the 18 month-long project. Together with Chamber, Executive Vice-President Eric Swider he will present that board's predictions for the "South Shore of Tomorrow". Also featured will be detailed reports on both Massachusetts and the world in the year 2000.

The public is invited. For further information call the South Shore Chamber at 479-1111.

HOME-BLUE CHIP INVESTMENT

Despite all the talk these days about protecting your dollar, sound investments and hedges against inflation, the purchase of a home is seldom mentioned. Yet, a well-built home in a good neighborhood is one of the best hedges against inflation your money can buy.

In recent years of inflation, for example, home and land values have more than kept abreast of the general rise in prices. This means your home investment puts you considerably ahead of the game financially. Not to mention the pride and pleasure that home ownership can bring you.

There is no reason to believe that this situation will change in the near [or not-so-near] future. The government's tight money policies have put a crimp into single family home building starts during the past few years but the demand for these homes is constantly increasing. So, it looks like prices will continue to rise. Add to this the tax benefit of home ownership which allow you to keep more of what you earn. Look for the best home your money can buy and enjoy your inflation hedge.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

Phone or drop in. We are here to help.

2 Donations Boost Koch Scholarship Fund To $7,700

Recent donations of $100 from the Women's Bowling League and $25 from the Men's Bowling League have boosted the Koch Club Scholarship Fund to $7,700, according to Richard J. Koch.

The Fund was set up in 1973, the silver anniversary of the Koch Club, with a $5,000 grant from the Koch Club itself. In the past four years, $2,700 has been added through interest and gifts.

The first scholarships will be awarded in May, 1998, the Club's 50th anniversary, from the interest accrued the previous year.

Koch said the goal of the Club for 1978, its 30th anniversary, will be to increase the scholarship fund to at least

He said another goal for '78 is the establishment of a Koch Club Christmas Fund for the Needy with a $5,000 grant to become effective in December, 1998, with the interest providing assistance to the needy in the following years.

Meantime, the Club will continue to provide annual scholarship awards of $500 to boy and girl graduates of Quincy and North Quincy High Schools and the Vo Tech School.

Since the program was started in 1959, scholarships totalling $7,500 have been awarded.

Donations to the Koch Club Permanent Scholarship Fund may be mailed to City Treasurer Robert Foy, in care of City Hall.

Pollution Closeup:

After 20 Years He's Still Fighting The Stinking Brook

By SARAH RICHARDS

Few people encounter water pollution as a back-yard problem, but Al Pactovis, whose business is the Reliable Shoe Store at 1505 Hancock St., Quincy Center, has it worse:

The underground brook which flows beneath his store is occasionally so badly polluted with fuel oil that the stench infiltrates into his shop, annoying his employees and customers.

The pollution and smell, Pactovis explained, have been going on for at least "20 to 25 years." "In years past," he said, "the fuel oil smell used to come one or two times a month, sometimes once a week. In the last six or seven months it hasn't been near that often, but it's still noticeable."

"I have called the Fire Department about the problem," he added, "and for years they tried to locate the source of the oil, with no success. A few years ago I put a notice in the paper saying 'whoever's doing this will be prosecuted' but nothing happened."

The brook, which Pactovis believes begins at the Braintree Dam and which continues underground for most of its course, runs under innumerable streets and stores and has countless pipes leading into it, making a search for the source of the pollution extremely difficult.

The Reliable Shoe Store isn't the only shop with the problem, either, Pactovis said.

"The brook runs under Sawyer's (near his store) and they smell it there."

The problem worsened last Saturday, when a new smell began seeping into the store—the smell of turpentine.

"It was very bad. The turpentine would catch you in the throat and eyes... I had to leave early because of it, and then I couldn't eat for two-three hours after I got home. One customer walked in with a small child, and the child started to choke on the smell and they had to leave."

"The way I see it," he continued, "it's a costly thing, both for me and for the polluters. Fuel oil is expensive, and it's cost me money through the years. That's the point. If I could find out who's doing it, I'd probably sue. I wish there were some way of finding out how to stop it."

Michael Streutz of the Environmental Protection Agency reports that "if there is a discharge it's source should have a permit issued by both the State and the EPA. Technically there is no way of finding the source unless you inspect every inch of the brook," - virtually an impossibility.

If there is no permit, and if the source is found, the EPA must determine whether the discharge merits a "civil penalty or a criminal one." The civil penalty is for accidental discharges, and is a fine of up to $10,000 per day of violation of Federal control acts. The criminal penalty, for purposeful discharges, is a fine of up to $25,000 a day per day of violation and/or up to one year of imprisonment.

If anyone else notices the smell, they are urged to call Sabin Lord at the State Division of Water Pollution Control at 727-3855 to register their complaint and to get state investigative machinery going.

William Kennedy Receives Army Commendation Medal

Army Specialist Four William A. Kennedy, son of Mrs. Mary F. Kennedy, 65 Gladstone St., North Quincy, recently received the Army Commendation Medal in Kitzingen, Germany.

Kennedy was awarded the Commendation Medal for outstanding performance of duty while serving as a driver with the 15th Infantry in Kitzingen.

The Army Commendation Medal is awarded by authority of the Secretary of the Army to service members who distinguish themselves by meritorious achievement in the performance of their official duties.

During the same ceremony, he received the Good Conduct Medal.

Kennedy entered the Army in May, 1975. He attended Quincy Junior College.

A. 26" Pullman. For him or her. Carry a whole wardrobe. Garment straps make packing easy and help clothes stay wrinkle free.

B. Midi-Tote. Four big compartments, plus a zippered purse that's attached to the main compartment. Fully adjustable shoulder strap. Even doubles as a tennis bag.

C. Two-Suiter. Special hook and chain assembly lets you hang this case from any door for easy packing and unpacking. Five roomy compartments, adjustable shoulder strap and combination lock.

ENCORE

Timeless Casual Elegance by Airway

Encore offers a unique marriage of beauty, lightness and elegance combined with strength and durability. Richly textured Gran Corri vinyl is imported from Europe, where skilled leather tanners produce a finish as close to leather as technically possible. Even better, because the scuffs and scrapes of travel wipe clean with a damp cloth. The lining is 100 per cent nylon: completely washable—practically indestructible. The continental handle was designed for strength as well as comfort.

The Encore Collection includes:

21" Carry-On, 24" Jr. Pullman, 26" Pullman, 29" Overseas, Garment Bag, Two-Suiter, Four-Suiter CarryAll, Hand Tote, Mini-Tote, Midi-Tote and Maxi-Tote.

Merrymount Third Graders Do Own TV Newscast

Maybe they didn't sell much Supersonic Cereal or Big Bubble Gum but the kids in Kay Cotter's third grade class at the Merrymount School really told it like it was.

The youngsters video-taped their own 40-minute newscast, complete with commercials, a documentary spot on Quincy's architectural heritage and interviews with important neighborhood people -- their own parents, of course.

The big news that concerned the anchor team of Julie McCole and David Hack was construction of the addition to the school. They went out with camera and mike to interview the hard-hatted construction workers on the job.

Also interviewed was Ray Whitehouse, a science teacher at Central Junior High School, in connection with the effect of a possible offshore oil spill on Merrymount Beach.

Eddie Calley, Kevin Tobin and Paul J. Hussey obtained the thoughts of their parents on the American Revolution, which the class was taking up in social studies.

The sports spot on the telecast was handled by Kevin Tobin and the weatherman was Eddie Calley.

Commercials advertised Supersonic Cereal, Big Bubble Gum, Sparkle Shampoo and Crystal Toothpaste.

The newscast was shown to the school staff and the class over closed circuit television and then to their parents a week later. The class worked on the project off and on for about six months.

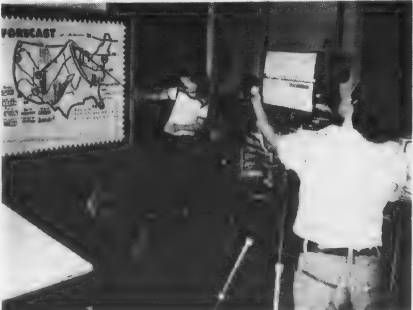

Taking part in the production were:

Rosemary Anglin, Kenny Boyce, Eddie Calley, Tommy Crassen, Hai Ja Curtis, Ricky Dunham, Lisa Fitzgerald, Lisa Goodfellow, David Hack, Kevin Haddigan, Paul Hussey, Paul Lewis.

Laura MacNeil, David Maimaron, Julie McCole, Donna McLaughlin, Mary McManus, Michael O'Connor, Donna Pecce, Jennifer Rusk, Mark Sandomato, Anthony Scala, Kevin Tobin, Lee Ann Weidner.

Sixth graders Michael Callahan, Michael Chenette, Kathleen Hussey and Tim Tobin handled the photography under the direction of Media Specialist Hef Fisher.

Reaction To LaRaia Proposal

Finn, Barry See Safety Commission 'A Step Backward'

By TOM HENSHAW

The chiefs of the Quincy Police and Fire Departments reacted in outspoken opposition to Mayor LaRaia's proposal for a three-member Public Safety Commission to supervise their operation.

Police Chief Francis X. Finn called the proposal "a step backward. It is an old hat that doesn't fit today. It smacks of a civilian review board over the Police Department which has been a disaster wherever it has been tried in the country."

Fire Chief Edward F. Barry called it "definitely not a step forward for the Fire Department." He launched a ringing defense of Quincy firefighters.

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, a frequent LaRaia critic and a candidate for Mayor, termed the move "another attempt by the Mayor to carry on his vendetta against the Police Department."

[A suit has been pending in Norfolk Superior Court for more than a year, filed by Chief Finn, to determine the extent of the Mayor's authority over the Police Department.]

Chief Finn said "it is incredible to me that anyone should feel the need for a Public Safety Commission.

"We recently have seen

City Asks Bids On Fire Alarm Systems At Adams Birthplaces

The Public Works Department is receiving bids for installation of a fire alarm system in the birthplaces of John Adams and John Quincy Adams on Franklin St.

The bids will be opened Friday, June 24.

At the same time, the Department will open bids for similar installations of fire warning equipment in the Thomas Crane Public Library on Washington St. and Gordon House, Main and Annex at Quincy City Hospital.

A campaign for installation of a fire alarm in the birthplaces, which are visited by some 8,000 tourists a year, was begun a few weeks ago by City Councillor Paul

D. Harold, when he asked for $3,000 in the city budget to cover it.

Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson said the money for the installation is coming from the equipment bond issue floated last year.

The lack of fire protection at the priceless historic sites was stressed in a Quincy Sun editorial two weeks ago and Grade 6 pupils at the Quincy School even raised $43.80 selling lemonade to help finance the installation.

Harold said he was pleased to hear that bids for the fire alarm system are being solicited but, he added, "it's unfortunate that the city had to be shamed into acting."

"Monies have been available for this work for over a year," he said, "yet after a number of attempts nothing has been done. A year is a long period for such valuable property to go unprotected.

"In the time it is taking for a fire alarm system to be installed in the birthplaces, the kids at the Vo Tech School could have developed a nuclear warhead."

Harold said the delay in giving basic protection "points up the overall problem of the city's maintenance and protection of the properties. In some matters it appears that everyone is responsible and at other times it

Dukakis To Sign Nut Island Bill Here

Gov. Michael Dukakis was due in Quincy yesterday [Wednesday] to sign into law a measure that would prevent the MDC from filling in 26 acres of Quincy Bay in order to expand the Nut Island Sewage Treatment Plant.

The bill was sponsored by Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy], allowing two acres of fill, and amended by Sen. Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy], banning fill altogether.

"This is a great day for Quincy," said Tobin, "particularly for shoreline residents who would have been most directly affected. This legislation will force the MDC to concentrate its efforts on expending the sewage system at Deer Island."

"I'm thrilled," said City Councillor Leo J. Kelly, whose Ward 1 includes Nut Island and who was among the first to suggest that Deer Island, across the harbor from Quincy, would be a better location for MDC sewage expansion.

"It would have been a disaster to have filled in 26 acres of Quincy Bay. Deer Island is the perfect place for expansion and I'm happy that more and more people have come to agree with me."

Raymond Commends Police For Shipyard Towing

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymond, has commended the Quincy Police Department for its "concerted efforts" to clear the streets and sidewalks of illegally parked vehicles in the area of the General Dynamics Shipyard.

Raymond noted that one of his first acts as a city councillor, was to re-introduce a towing ordinance that would empower the police department to remove illegally parked vehicles in certain tow zones. After much debate and controversy, the council recently passed the tow ordinance and the city has also been notified of the necessary state approval.

Raymond said an intensified effort this past week resulted in approximately 100 vehicles being removed from the streets and sidewalks in the shipyard area and stated further.

"There are ample parking facilities in this area and it is my intention to make sure that the towing of illegally parked vehicles will be an ongoing effort by the Quincy Police Department to assure that our streets and sidewalks will be clear in the interest of safety for the residents of this community," Raymond said.

"The people residing in this area, who are most affected by these illegally parked vehicles, will no longer tolerate abuse of the no parking regulations."

Kevin O'Connor Resigns As QHA Tenant Services Director

Kevin O'Connor, Director of Tenant Services of the Quincy Housing Authority has resigned his post for another opportunity in the Atlanta area.

Mrs. F. Jean Kennedy of Germantown will be interim director of Tenant Services.

In his letter of resignation, O'Connor said the Office of Tenant Services is doing an adequate job meeting the needs of elderly and family tenants.

He said although great sums of money are spent on physical maintenance of housing, the QHA has a responsibility to provide for social needs of tenants, and should not depend on outside agencies. By providing proper services within the QHA, tax monies from other agencies can go toward helping other poor people outside of public housing.

"Through funding sources such as Title XX, QHA can provide a comprehensive program to deal with all of their tenants' social needs, and save capital for other tenants' problems," he said. He suggested that the QHA and the Local Tenants' Organization together implement a program to care for tenants' social needs.

Sheets Candidate For Re-election

City Councillor James A. Sheets of 926 Furnace Brook Parkway has announced his candidacy for a third term on the Council from Ward 4.

Sheets, who is also a State Rep., said there are several major projects in the city that will take at least another term to either complete or have well on the road to completion.

One of the projects, he said, is the program to relieve flooding in West and South Quincy which is now in Phase Two and should be entering Phase Three by the end of 1978.

Sheets cited several major projects that have been accomplished during his term on the Council:

- Bringing the community development program to South West Quincy.

- Acquisition of community bond money for public works projects, specifically in South West Quincy.

- Completion of the park at the corner of Water and Pleasant Sts.

- Completion of various public works projects on Smith St., Dunn's Hill Rd., Penn St. and the MDC section of Bunker Hill Lane.

- Establishment of Operation Speed Watch.

He indicated that a number of projects will begin this summer, including:

- At tot park at the corner of Smith and Quarry Sts.
- Refurbishment of Grasso and Liberty Parks.

- Completion of a park at the old Lincoln School.

- New bleachers and benches for O'Rourke Field.

- New lighting for Kincaide Park.

- New tennis courts and basketball courts with lighting behind Sterling Junior High School.

- Completion of roadwork on Forest Ave.

- Paving of Doble St. and a section of Bunker Hill Lane and Ernest Ave.

- Screening of the Howard Johnson Parking area with hemlock trees on the city side of Rosemary Lane.

- Completion of the disposal report with the resulted changes of operation facilities.

Tobin Criticizes MBTA Services On Red Line

Senator Arthur Tobin [D-Quincy] has told MBTA Chairman Robert Kiley he was "concerned and disappointed in the low level of service on the Red Line to Quincy."

In a letter to Kiley, Tobin said:

"The breakdowns are frequent, and the commuters are frustrated. 'T' patrons on the Red Line faced insufferable delays this past winter, but to tolerate delays and poor service in the good weather is inexcusable. Just yesterday I received calls from two commuters who were late for work because of breakdowns - one of them was an engineer who thinks that the cars are too light for the air pressure - this situation should be corrected."

"I am concerned not only about the quality of the present service, but the future of Mass transit on the South Shore. It only takes two or three instances of a regular commuter arriving late for work due to 'T' breakdowns to put him right back in his car on the expressway.

"We cannot afford to be losing Mass transit riders at a time when we are planning an expansion of the Red Line to South Quincy and Braintree, and are repairing the Southeast Expressway. If the 'T' cannot manage the crowds and adequately maintain its Red Line equipment now, what will happen when two more stations are open?"

Tobin asked Chairman Kiley for a report on the frequency of breakdowns on the Red Line, the causes, and the steps being taken to correct the problems.

Over 60 S. Quincy Residents Discuss Problems With Sheets

More than 60 South Quincy residents met last week with City Councillor James A. Sheets to discuss a number of problems and programs in the South Quincy area.

Most of the discussion centered around the refurbishing of Grasso Park and the future of a triangular portion of land at the old Lincoln School.

Residents indicated that a variety of uses would be best for the Lincoln School area. The planning board is to come up with a new plan in cooperation with the people's desires within the next week.

Sheets indicated that any proposal would have to include a buffer zone of trees where private property abuts the school yard.

Discussion was also centered around the question of parking on Brooks Ave. and in the area of the Red Carpet. The councillor said he would recommend the establishment of tow zones in the area.

Improved lighting for several areas was also discussed and refurbishment of Liberty Park on Taber St. should begin within the next two weeks, Sheets said.

Stay Alive!

DEAD BEFORE FIRE

People who smoke before they doze off to sleep in bed or while sitting in a stuffed chair may be taking an enormous risk with a false sense of security. You may think that if you do fall asleep while smoking, you'll probably be awakened by heat and flames. Don't count on it, especially if you've been drinking.

Last year, 137,800 fires were caused by smoking. In fact, it was the number one cause of fire deaths in the United States. And in the majority of the fires where smoking was the cause, bedding or upholstery were the accomplices. Most of the victims were never even aware of a fire prior to death.

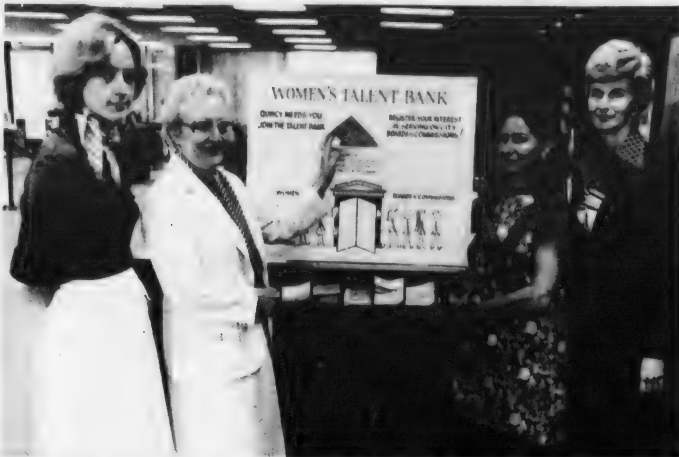

Why? In mattresses and overstuffed furniture, smoking materials usually start fires that smoulder rather than flame. This flameless combustion produces carbon monoxide and other poisonous gases. Many who fall asleep while smoking die - not from burns - but from the presence of toxic gases.

Mayor's Commission Project

'Talent Bank' To Help Place Women On City Boards

"Talent Bank" - a major campaign to give women a larger role in city government - has been launched by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

The city-wide effort is designed to encourage local women to become more active in the affairs of the city. Aim is to have qualified women available for appointments to various boards and commissions.

Mary E. Weafer, co-chairwoman of the woman's commission notes:

"Our research shows that only one-fourth of the board and commission members are women. In other communities, talent banks have been a good way to develop interest in serving the community. A talent bank increases women's awareness of opportunities and provides the city with a listing of qualified women willing to serve on the various boards and commissions."

The talent bank application forms are available at the main office of the Quincy Savings Bank, 1200 Hancock St., and at the Quincy branches, City Hall, Thomas Crane Public Library and its branches, the Quincy Junior College Women's Center as well as local businesses.

The Talent Bank application form asks women to provide pertinent biographical data as well as identify four areas of interest. Eighteen areas of interest such as health, education, housing, employment and legal services are offered.

Miss Weafer said that when "we are notified of a vacancy on a board or commission, we will notify all women expressing an interest in that particular area and ask them to submit a more detailed resume which we will forward to the appointing body." She said the women's commission will not screen applications or resumes.

"We are a conduit so that more women will have the opportunity to be considered for service to the city."

Funding for the program is by the Quincy Savings Bank. "We think a women's talent bank is a great idea and we're delighted to be of assistance," said Assistant Treasurer Donald Johnson. "Quincy has many talented women who can be of service to our community. We hope many of them will join the talent bank."

In addition to Miss Weafer, members of the special Talent Bank task force include Toby Felton and Carole Neitlich. Assisting with the distribution of applications are Christina Morrison, Janice D'Avignon, Deborah Merrill, Linda Stice and Tracy Buckley.

It is expected that more than 500 women will be included in the talent bank listing.

SOME GIFTS GATHER DUST IN THE CLOSET. THIS GIFT COLLECTS INTEREST IN THE BANK.

An account, any account, at Quincy Cooperative Bank, is the perfect way to say "Congratulations" or "Happy Birthday." Because people of all ages, life-styles, and differences of taste can watch it grow with interest. Or redeem it for cash at sometime, if needed, in the future.

And if recipients regularly add to their new Quincy Cooperative Account, they'll remember the gift from you for the rest of their lives.

Open, for example, a Regular Savings Account in any amount in the name of your favorite nephew or niece. It could be the ideal way to cap off his or her graduation.

And a Paid Up Share will receive a great reception as a wedding gift.

Other gift ideas are Quincy Cooperative Term Certificates, NOW Accounts, Paid Up Shares and U.S. Savings Bonds. All especially fine gifts for special occasions like anniversaries, birthdays, christenings, confirmations, bar mitzvahs and more.

So whatever the occasion, next time give someone special a special gift that will appreciate as well as be appreciated.

Quincy Cooperative will provide a handsome greeting card describing your gift—you can give it with your gift or we will mail it for you.

An Account in Quincy Cooperative Bank...

Mr., Mrs. Francesco LaRosa Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Some 300 guests attended a golden wedding anniversary party for Mr. and Mrs. Francesco LaRosa of Washington St., Quincy, given by their daughters recently at the Sons of Italy Hall, South Braintree.

The LaRosas, who emigrated from Italy in 1920, were married June 5, 1927, in Sacred Heart Church, Waltham.

They moved in 1927 to Quincy where Mr. LaRosa has been in the insurance business since 1938.

Mr. LaRosa is a member of the Sons of Italy, the Knights of Columbus, the Eagles, Torre dei Passeti Society, the Independent Agents Association and the Mutual Agents Association.

Mrs. Rosa LaRosa is a member of Quincy Aragona, Sons of Italy.

They celebrated their 50th anniversary with a Nuptial Renewal Mass at St. Joseph's Church.

The concelebrants were Rev. Joseph Greer, Rev. Robert Thomas, Rev. Louis Govoni, Rev. James McCarthy, Rev. Robert Bryson, Rev. Frank Silva and Deacon John Jeannette.

Mrs. Nancy Panzara, the maid of honor at the 1927 ceremony, was present as the matron of honor. The LaRosa's grandchildren served as ushers,

Paula Gold Tells QJC Grads

Demand Truth, Hard-Headed Practicality From Elected Officials

Paula W. Gold of the State Attorney General's office urged Quincy Junior College graduates last week to demand of elected officials "the same kind of hard-headed practicality that we demand of ourselves in moving toward our personal goals."

"We must demand that they tell the truth and not treat us to pie in the sky wishfulness," she said.

Miss Gold, who is chief of the Consumer Protection Division in the Attorney General's office, was the commencement speaker as 379 students were awarded degrees from the Junior College in ceremonies at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"Too often," she said, "laws are nothing more than public policy statements because of the lack of a realistic assessment of the cost of implementing and enforcing them."

"I believe that we sometimes find our elected officials passing this kind of legislation because they are afraid to tell the truth."

"They are afraid that their elections depend on people believing that all problems can and will be solved by government immediately."

She said the Attorney General's office will shortly begin a campaign to educate the public to consumer frauds. Its slogan will be "If it's too good to be true, it probably isn't."

"We should remember," she said, "that the same holds true as we listen to politicians who at times replace realistic judgments with promises."

Among the 379 students who received associate degrees were:

- A father and daughter team, Daniel and Carol Woods of Braintree, with degrees in business administration.

- David and Donald Cobban, twin sons of William Cobban of Quincy, with degrees in accounting.

- Jean and Kathleen Madden of Quincy, sisters who received at the same time degrees from the City Hospital School of Nursing and the Junior College.

- Joan Clifford of Quincy, who took her degree while her husband and eight children looked on.

- Joane Darvish of Weymouth, who graduated with a perfect 4.0 point index.

- Mary Forrester of Quincy, who received a degree in secretarial science, a year ahead of her daughter, who graduates next year.

- Cynthia Janshego, who accepted her degree from her father, Stephen, an instructor at Quincy Vo Tech School and an adjunct instructor at the Junior College.

The degrees were conferred by President Dr. Edward Pierce, who told the graduates that "what you face beyond these portals is more challenging and confusing than what previous generations witnessed."

"We are confident that you shall reach your goals, for you are well prepared as human beings in a world that has become devoid of human value. You have more than our best wishes; you have the wisdom which arose from those experiences which we shared."

Also taking part in the commencement ceremonies were Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, City Council President Arthur H. Tobin and James R. McIntyre, chairman of the Community College Association of Quincy and the South Shore.

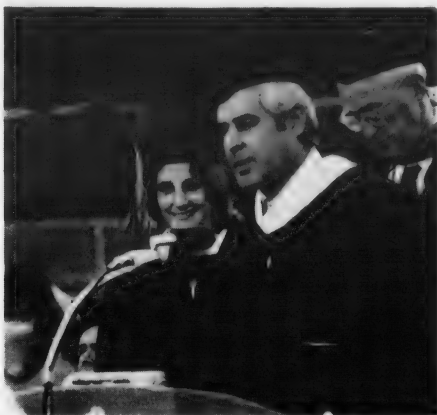

GUESTS ON THE DAIS at the Quincy Junior College commencement include Dr. Edward F. Pierce, president of QJC; Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, superintendent of schools; Paula W. Gold of the Attorney General's office, commencement speaker; and James R. McIntyre, chairman of the Community College Association of Quincy and the South Shore.

MARY NORTON smiles as she contemplates receiving her degree.

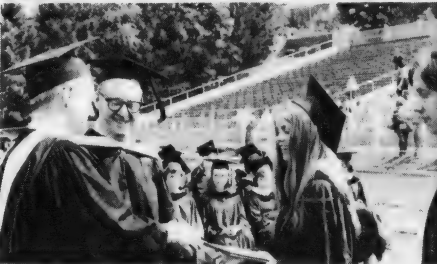

JOHN REPOFF of Quincy and classmates listen attentively to commencement speakers.

FRANK MITCHELL, vice president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank, presents scholarship to Beverly Dunn of Quincy as William O'Connell, bank director, looks on.

PAULA W. GOLD, commencement speaker, confers with Dr. Edward F. Pierce, Quincy Junior College president, prior to ceremonies.

politically on a national scale the disaster of department heads not having direct access to the chief executive.

"This particular scheme sets up such a buffer between the public safety department heads and the chief executive.

"The Quincy Police Department for which I speak has through its community programs made a direct impact in lessening major crime for three years in succession.

"We consider this Public Safety Commission an affront to our most sincere efforts to serve the people the best way we know how with the least amount of political interference."

Chief Finn ticked off what he called the recent accomplishments of the Police Department, including "a wonderful juvenile unit which has over 1,000 referral resources within and without our community.

"The new rape unit has been established to protect women and young children from savage sex assault and to help them during their terrible and emotional trauma which invariably follows.

"Our organized crime unit has dovetailed and worked in close correlation with all of the organized crime units on a federal, state and local level. It is a unit famous for smashing at the gut of those people who prey on the weak and the poor.

"Our drug unit is an organization whose information comes from the people of our community whose efforts have been directed at the drug pusher in their enforcement of narcotics violations.

"Our Neighborhood Watch Program has some 35 individual units already established in our community, each with a direct link to the Police Department, a unit which has helped the people of our city to help themselves to reduce major crime in their neighborhoods.

"These are but a few of our attempts to make the Quincy Police Department more of a part of this city than apart from it. We intend to make even greater strides to live up to our motto, to serve and protect."

Chief Barry said that "to establish such a commission over the Quincy Fire Department would, in my judgment, just add one more level to the bureaucratic process which would lead to inefficiency in the Fire Department and would restrain my hands as chief to operate the Quincy Fire Department effectively."

Barry said he was "disillusioned and disappointed" by the Mayor's proposal.

"It has been established by an independent survey conducted by the engineers of the Insurance Services Organization that the Quincy Fire Department is a good one. It is one of the best fire departments in the state of Massachusetts and this is a matter of record.

"Our tactical success in fighting fires of various magnitudes is well known and I have received many letters of commendations praising our fire efforts and services.

"Recently we were awarded the first Class 5 license in the state for our Rescue 1 vehicle. It has been most effective in fire and rescue work and as a secondary ambulance. It possesses well-qualified firefighters who are trained emergency medical technicians.

"Our firefighters are well-trained in tactics and fire suppression. We have a highly regarded Fire Prevention Bureau and it has participated effectively with its many recommendations for life safety to the State Building Code Commission.

"The Quincy Fire Department possesses through the cooperation of many elected officials and people of the community some of the finest fire fighting apparatus and equipment obtainable. For this, I am indeed most grateful.

"I feel the good record of the Quincy Fire Department speaks for itself."

Tobin said it is "ludicrous to think that a part-time commission the Mayor proposes is going to run the public safety departments of the eight largest city in the state with its 200 professional police officers and more than 200 professional firefighters."

He noted that Mayor LaRaia's stated reason for setting up the Public Safety Commission was to take the Police and Fire Departments out of politics.

"The best way to take politics out is to allow the professional officers to run the departments," Tobin said. "Why do we need another layer of bureaucracy over the chiefs?

"Who is going to be on the three-member commission? Will they have any background in police and fire work? Will they detract from the professionalism of the departments? Will they take away from department morale?"

Tobin did have one word of acclaim for the Mayor that he is seeking to replace in City Hall. LaRaia named a nine-member citizens' task force to screen candidates for the Public Safety Commission and other heads of departments to be named in the future.

"I commend him for this," said Tobin. "I was the first to suggest this when I called for a blue ribbon citizens' committee to screen appointments. He should have done this 18 months ago."

The Mayor's proposals for a Public Safety Commission and a Task Force on Appointments were announced Monday at a news conference in State Street South that attracted the portable news cameras of TV Channels 5 and 7.

He named the nine-member task force and most of them appeared at the news conference with him. The members are:

Ernest Aristide, president of the South Shore Quincy Civic Association; Vito Barresi, vice president of the North Quincy Business and Professional Association; Trudy Buckley, chairperson of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

Frank Buckley, president of the Quantum Community Association; Arthur Chandler, president of the Quincy Citizens' Association; Mary Flavin, president of the Quincy League of Women Voters.

Peter O'Connell, president of the Quincy Taxpayers Association; Benjamin Rudner, president of the Wollaston Park Association; and Madelyn Sibert, president of the Houghs Neck Community Council.

The Mayor said the Task Force "will have the sole responsibility of selecting the best qualified people to serve the city and its residents."

He said he formed the Task Force because "the continuing attacks on my administration concerning the so-called bad appointments are tarnishing the good image of the city of Quincy and placing a heavy burden, as well as casting a shadow, on all the dedicated and hard working employees in the administration.

"In an effort to restore dignity and pride to all of the faithful and sincere city employees in my administration -- and many of them are holdovers from prior administrations -- I feel it's necessary to establish the Task Force.

"The Task Force will have strength. It will have power and it will be the voice of the people."

He said the Task Force may propose the names of people to be appointed and the Mayor may propose some to the Task Force. He said he would not necessarily commit himself to the Task Force's suggestions "but I would more than likely support their recommendations."

He said the Task Force was not a reaction to Council President Tobin's proposal for a screening committee, adding, "I put this together over the last two months. We had to inquire who would like to serve."

LaRaia said that the first assignment for the Task Force "will be a major one, the selection of a three-member Public Safety Commission which will oversee the operation of the police, fire and civil defense departments, as well as the auxiliary forces."

He called the proposal for the Commission "another unprecedented action....which I am instituting to insure that all departments remain free of political influence. It is especially important that we keep politics out of our law enforcement and fire protection agencies.

"We have been very fortunate in Quincy. The men serving in all these departments have done an outstanding job over the years, but we must insure that we continue to receive the best possible protection available for every citizen as well as maintaining a high level of morale within the departments.

"The members of the Public Safety Commission will serve on a part-time basis. They will meet a minimum of twice a month and will have a multitude of chores and assignments. They will be the final word in dealing with the police, fire and civil defense departments."

He said the Commission would be created through a special act of the legislature or through a referendum vote. The City Council, he said, would have no voice to approve or disapprove of appointees to the Commission.

Members of the Commission would serve three-year terms, staggered so that one member would be appointed or reappointed each year. A member could be removed for cause by the Mayor, with the approval of the City Council.

The commissioners would be paid salaries to be determined by the Mayor and the Council.

The Commission would be "answerable to the Mayor for the proper discharge of its duties" and "shall answer directly to the Mayor and indirectly to the City Council for the proper management of the finances of each department under its jurisdiction."

The Commission would make decisions of departmental policy, but would "not make duty assignments for individual employees nor issue orders nor assignments on the daily operation of departments."

It would "consult with the chief or director in appointing or removing the heads of departmental divisions. However, the assignments of other supervisory personnel in charge of offices, units, patrols and details shall be left to the chief or director of each department."

Text Of Mayor's Proposal

Here is the text of Mayor LaRaia's proposal to set up a three-member Public Safety Commission to oversee the operation of the Police, Fire, Civil Defense and other public safety departments.

ORGANIZATION

The Public Safety Commission shall consist of three commissioners. Each shall be appointed by the Mayor for a three year term, and shall answer to him for the proper discharge of their powers and duties. For purposes of appointing the first full commission, three commissioners shall be appointed during the first year, one of whom shall serve a one year term, one of whom shall serve a two year term, and one of whom shall serve a three year term. As a term expires a commissioner shall be appointed without unreasonable delay to fill the three year term. If a seat on the commission becomes vacant before completion of the term the Mayor shall appoint a new commissioner without unreasonable delay, to serve for the remainder of the term. Each term shall run from the first Monday in February of the first year of the appointment to the first Monday in February three years hence.

The Mayor shall annually appoint one commissioner to serve as chairman of the commission for a one year term.

A commissioner may be removed for cause prior to the completion of his term, by the Mayor, with the approval of a majority of the City Council.

The commission shall meet at least twice monthly and keep records of all its procedures and actions.

The commission shall adopt rules and procedures for its own deliberations and actions.

Each commissioner shall receive such compensation as may be determined by the Mayor and City Council.

The commission may request and receive such budgetary items for its own operation as may be determined by the Mayor and City Council.

POWERS AND DUTIES

The Public Safety Commission shall be answerable to the Mayor for the proper discharge of its duties and shall make available to him the information necessary for the Mayor to insure the same. The Commission shall answer directly to the Mayor and indirectly to the City Council for the proper management of the finances of each department under its jurisdiction in accordance with city ordinances and state laws regarding municipal finance.

The Public Safety Commission shall be responsible for the operation of the Police Department including the General Services Division, the Fire Department including the Fire Alarm Division, and the Department of Civil Defense, including the Auxiliary Police Department, Auxiliary Fire Department, the Rescue Division, Underwater Recovery Division, and all volunteer units of the above departments, for the good of the citizens of Quincy.

The chief or director of each department shall be directly answerable to the Public Safety Commission and shall follow the proper mandates thereof. Heads of departmental divisions shall be answerable to the Public Safety Commission through their chief or director. The chief or director of each department shall be responsible for individual duty assignments, day to day operations, criminal investigations, and the execution of departmental discipline, organization and policy as promulgated by the Public Safety Commission.

The Public Safety Commission shall be the appointing authority for all departmental positions and act as such in all Civil Service proceedings.

The Public Safety Commission shall consult with the chief or director in appointing or removing the heads of departmental divisions. However, the assignments of other supervisory personnel in charge of offices, units, patrols and details shall be left to the chief or director of each department.

The Public Safety Commission shall not make duty assignments for individual employees nor issue orders nor assignments on the daily operation of departments.

The Public Safety Commission shall decide departmental policy, and promulgate rules and regulations for each department which shall be enforced by the chief or director of each department.

The Public Safety Commission shall be responsible for the development and maintenance of an efficient organizational structure of each department.

The Public Safety Commission shall coordinate the departments under its jurisdiction with each other and with other city departments in developing and maintaining up to date city wide emergency and disaster plans.

The Public Safety Commission shall be responsible for the preparation of departmental budgets as well as its own budget, which shall be submitted to the Mayor for approval or alteration before submission to the City Council.

The Public Safety Commission shall have the power to review all records and actions, and question all departmental employees in all matters subject to the duties of the Commission.

Few Business People Turn Out To Hear Candidates

The Quincy Business Council invited business people to meet the candidates last week. The candidates responded in number. The business folks did not.

Martha Reardon of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce called the turnout for the hour and a half session at State Street South, "terrible."

She estimated that there were about 20 businessmen present at the start of the session. She was generous. At the end, the candidates were gamely talking to one another.

Here, in order of their appearance, is what the candidates had to say about the future of the city:

ARTHUR H. TOBIN, candidate for Mayor: "A return to sound fiscal policies...no tax rate increase of $34...appointment of competent department heads...an open door policy between business and City Hall."

He said he would place "heavier reliance on the business community to advise the city on financing," revitalize the downtown area, work to synchronize traffic lights throughout the city and install better lighting in the business area.

GEORGE M. TULL, candidate for Mayor: "I got in the race because I am concerned with what is happening to our city. The city has natural advantages, yet it is deteriorating, down, down, down. And all I hear is a lot of talk."

He urged more cooperation between businessmen and city officials to restore Quincy.

"Any candidate who tells you that he can solve the problems himself is giving you a con job. A Mayor needs the help of the business community. The city needs coordination between City Hall and the businessmen of the city."

THOMAS M. BARRON, candidate for Mayor: "The city is not as much in decline as some people believe, but we need a long-range plan under which to grow."

"In order to draw investment to Quincy, we have to have a well-run city. We can't do it when the city has an image of corruption and inefficiency."

He envisioned a city "run as a corporation with elected officials similar to a board of directors responsible to the people."

"Quincy has no vast areas to be developed. We have to make sure we get the best return on our tax dollar. We have to run a tight ship."

JOHN J. QUINN, candidate for reelection as City Councillor-at-large: "It hurts me to hear people say that this community is going down." He prefers to think of it as a city "in evolution with social and economic changes that have been going on for some time."

He said that as chairman of the Council's finance committee, he presided over a $2.7 million cut in the city budget, "the biggest in the history of Quincy. It represents about $10 on the tax rate."

"The Mayor has said that the tax rate may go up as much as $7. Now he says $5. With the $2.7 million that we cut, the tax rate should go down $5. I hope he can reduce it this year."

He placed himself in opposition to the $25 million arena the Boston Celtics propose to build near State Street South, saying "it doesn't seem to me to be a good financial investment. I like to have someone prove to me otherwise."

SABINA STENBERG, candidate for City Councillor-at-large: "Companies are leaving the city. More people from South Boston and Dorchester are coming here, running away from the problems of Boston."

"We are slowly losing Quincy Square to Braintree (South Shore Plaza). We are turning more and more to office buildings and banks. What happened to the merchants who were there? My taxes are up thousands of dollars. I'm struggling."

"We have a good city. We don't want another South Boston here. But it is coming, let's face it. We need clout. We need politicians who will stand up and say it, who do not care if they are disliked."

Loser in a previous bid for the City Council, she said, "If I lose, in two more years I'll try again."

DENNIS E. HARRINGTON, candidate for City Councillor-at-large: "The Quincy business community has not always been responsive to the neighborhoods."

"Quincy is basically residential. If I were going to locate a store in North Quincy I would want the residents to be happy, to be pleased to shop there. When a businessman has supported the community, then the community supports the businessman."

JOHN J. LYDON JR., candidate for reelection as City Councillor from Ward 3: "I was the first city councillor to take a position on the proposed arena in North Quincy. I am opposed to it. Boston has done four studies on stadiums and every one of them has shown it to be a loser. It is not a thing for the city to be involved in."

DANIEL G. RAYMOND, an unannounced candidate for reelection as City Councillor from Ward 2: "The business community is not something that exists outside of Quincy. The issues that concern the people and the City Council are the issues that concern the business community, too. We are the same people. We have to work together."

One of his concerns on the City Council, he said, is keeping city finances under control. "Every businessman knows that if you decrease overhead, you increase the profit margin. It should be that way in the city, too."

LEO J. KELLY, candidate for reelection as City Councillor from Ward 1: "Quincy is on the move and the City Council and the Mayor of the future had better be ready to move with it. With the depressed MBTA tracks and the Upland Rd. extension, developers are waiting to come in and develop. The people in government had better be prepared for it."

JOANNE CONDON, candidate for City Councillor from Ward 6: "In order to get business improvements, the support of the people of the community is needed. The way to get that support is to involve the people. Too often people are merely asked what they think of a proposal after they have had no part in planning it."

"Development has to take place. But the residents have to be told the facts of life of it. It is the job of the business community to communicate with the people during the planning stages of a project. We must promote cooperation, not confrontation."

MICHAEL KELLY, candidate for City Councillor from Ward 6: "Downtown Quincy must be developed, but we can't forget the small businessmen in places like Wollaston and Quincy Point. A poll shows that 72 percent of the people in the North Quincy area want to see Norfolk Downs redeveloped."

"The city must take a more businesslike approach to its problems. Some of the problems are so large that rhetoric will not resolve them. The City Council cannot be a debating society where problems are kicked around but not solved."

WALTER J. HICKEY, candidate for City Councillor from Ward 6: "The key to success in a city as well as in business lies in planning. The vitality of our city 10 years from today will depend in large measure on the plans we make now. What do we want Quincy to be in 10 years? A high rise bedroom for Boston? Or should it have a life of its own?"

"A prime example of an opportunity that seems to have been muffed is State Street South. Somewhere the planning went wrong. This fine complex is isolated from the rest of the city. There is no place for the workers to mingle with the rest of us. Think of what could have been drawn into the State Street South orbit if this marvelous complex had been built closer to where the action is."

Awards Presented During Koch Flag Day Ceremonies

Over 2,000 boys and girls from every section of the city paid tribute to the 200th anniversary of the Stars and Stripes Tuesday evening as The Koch Club of Quincy sponsored its 26th annual Flag Day Parade in Quincy Center.

The flag used in a ceremonial Flag Raising at Veterans Memorial Stadium, which was flown over the United States Capitol Building in Washington, D.C. during the Bicentennial year, was presented to The Koch Club by Congressman James A. Burke in honor of the organization's 25 years of Flag Day observances.

During the ceremonies awards were presented by The Koch Club to its 1977 scholarship recipients including, Kathy Collins and Michael Cruise, graduates of North Quincy High, Sheila Blake and Lyle D. Morrison III of Quincy High, and Daniel R. Jankins and Susan Casterly of Quincy Vocational Technical School.

Also attending were the winners of The Quincy City Club sponsored Flag Day Essay and Poster contest in which some 750 elementary and junior high school students participated.

Essay contest winners were Kathleen Curtin of Quincy Point Junior High School first place winner of the essay contest, and Lisa DiGiusto of St. Joseph's Parochial School runnerup. Kathy Donnelly of Mass Fields School was winner of the poster contest with Matthew Roche of St. Mary's School, West Quincy, runnerup.

The parade of over 2,000 marchers proved to be the most colorful in years as 1,500 members of The Koch Club's boys baseball and girls softball leagues carried 12" x 18" United States Flags presented to them as momentos of the 200th anniversary of the Stars and Stripes.

Units of the Girl Scouts, Brownies, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, and St. Ann's baseball leagues joined to make the parade this year one of the largest in youth participation.

Adding to the program were the musical organizations of North Quincy High School, The Renegade Senior Drum and Bugle Corps, Sir Thomas More Drum and Bugle Corps, The Renegade Drifters, and Milton Town Band.

The Police and Fire Department Color Guards led the long parade line while the U.S. Navy Recruiting, and 126th Signal Battalion of the Massachusetts National Guard provided the military touch.

Houghs Neck American Legion Post 380 joined in with a unit of Color Guard, Women's Auxiliary, and antique fire engine.

A color guard from the William R. Caddy Detachment, Marine Corp League also participated, along with the Quincy schools Air Force Junior ROTC Drill Team and Color Guard.

Along the parade route wreaths were placed at the tomb of John Adams and John Quincy Adams in the Church of the Presidents, and a special stop was made at the John F. Kennedy Health Center in recognition of the late beloved President, the only honorary member of The Koch Club. This membership was conferred in 1958 when then Senator Kennedy visited the club at Cavanagh Stadium.

'Project Burn Prevention' Workshop Here Thursday

"Project Burn Prevention" dedicated to reducing fire and burn injuries in Quincy, will sponsor a workshop today (Thursday) from noon to 2 p.m. at the Lincoln Hancock Community School, 300 Granite St.

The workshop will introduce the burn injury problem and suggest ways to share this information with other people, organizations and neighborhoods.

The workshop is a preliminary to the experimental educational campaign which is funded by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission and which will be in full swing in October. Quincy is the model city for the program, and if it is successful here, the program will be repeated across the nation.

Shriners Burns Institute and Education Development Center are attacking the burn problem jointly. Shriners Burns Institute is monitoring records of burn injuries in the area. Education Development Center is developing the educational materials needed for media, school and community use. With this information, the project hopes to instill correct preventative behaviors towards fire in project participants.

Quincy To Receive $2,412,000 For PW Program

Quincy will receive $2,412,000 to fund construction and rehabilitation projects for the Local Public Works jobs program, said Congressman James A. Burke (D-Milton).

Burke said, "The state's larger cities and towns weren't treated fairly when the money was allocated last year by the Economic Development Administration, and I think this new allocation helps rectify the situation."

Other communities and counties on the Commonwealth will split up Massachusetts' share of the $4 billion national authorization of $132.4 million.

Fanning The Flames

Mayor LaRaia, who has had his problems trying to give his turbulent administration a progressive image, came up with a couple of instant-mix plans this week as election time nears.

One of them has considerable merit: a nine-member citizens task force to help select future department heads in his administration.

Unfortunately it comes 18 months late. It is too bad the Mayor did not give priority to something like this rather than to the so-called "January Massacre" when he first came into office. The "Massacre" triggered the turmoil we still have today.

Coincidentally, City Council President Arthur Tobin—the biggest obstacle to a second-term for LaRaia—put forth the same citizens panel idea a few weeks ago. It is nice to see they agree on something.

The Mayor's other proposal—a three-member Public Safety Commission to oversee the operation of the Police and Fire Departments and the Civil Defense units may look good at first glance but should be looked over carefully, however.

LaRaia says the commission would insure that the departments "are free of political influence. It is especially important that we keep politics out of our law enforcement and fire protection agencies."

Certainly, politics should be kept out of these two departments that daily affect the lives of all Quincy residents and businesses.

Interesting words by the mayor, though, who has done a bit of political meddling of his own in the Police Department since he took office. Right now he and Police Chief Francis Finn are battling in the courts for control of the department.

LaRaia has assigned a lieutenant who in effect outranks captains. This doesn't do much for the morale of a department. And when the chief fought back, the mayor retaliated by ordering him to wear his police uniform on duty. No Quincy police chief has had to do that in years. To many that edict by the mayor was "bush" and did not do anything to improve working relations.

You can't help wonder what would have happened if the late William Ferrazzi were alive and still chief and LaRaia ordered him to wear his uniform.

A Public Safety Commission raises a few questions:

- What qualifications would the three members have to oversee the Police and Fire Departments and the Civil Defense units? Could they tell the chiefs how to catch a thief or put out a fire?
- What guarantee would there be that the commission would prevent rather than cause more political interference in these departments?
- Under Quincy's charter, public safety includes not only police and fire but buildings. So, eventually, wouldn't the commission also rule over the Building Inspector, the Wire Inspector and the Plumbing Inspector?
- And couldn't it lead to the mayor's control over the City Licensing Board?
- Would a three-man commission be the forerunner of a one-man commissioner who would be a political appointee and have vast controls under the mayor regardless of qualifications?
- Would the commission have access to confidential police records?
- And, do we really need more bureaucracy? Aren't we bogged down deep enough in it now?

LaRaia basked in the limelight of TV cameras as he announced his plans Monday. And completely ignored both Police Chief Finn and Fire Chief Edward Barry. Neither of them knew anything about the proposed Public Safety Commission until newsmen called them for comment.

LaRaia did not even bother to ask their opinions. He would do it later, he said, in response to a reporter's question.

Why have a police chief or a fire chief? Why not just let the mayor and committees run those and other departments? Why let professionally trained people do it?

The police and fire chief should have the right to run their own department. If he isn't doing the job right, then the mayor has the right to bring him up on charges, or to fire him with cause. Otherwise the mayor should keep his hands off.

LaRaia succeeded early in alienating members of the Police Department. Now he apparently is going to do it in the Fire Department and probably the Building Department.

You can imagine what an inspiration it would be to career officers in these departments to work their way up through the ranks to the top. And when they finally get to the top, find the mayor and a three-member commission still on top of them.

The mayor seems to have a natural talent for helping to keep the city in turmoil. After 18 months of bickering and feuding with a number of people, he comes up with something new to fan the flames.

Even if his Public Safety Commission proposal was the greatest idea in the world he didn't do it the right way. He could have at least informed the two department heads in advance before rushing off to the TV cameras.

It just doesn't seem the way to run a city, or help put an end to all the feuding.

The Liberty Bell cracked in 1835 when it tolled during the funeral ceremony of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court John Marshall.

Quincy Not Prepared For Sports Arena

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

We have been hearing about the proposal to construct a sports arena on the State Street property in North Quincy. I hope the people of Quincy will realize the effect this would have on the entire city.

Twenty-one thousand people leaving a congested area, heading in all directions at once. There are not enough streets or trains to handle this type of crowd in Quincy. Is the MBTA capable of keeping their stations clean and free of vandalism with the extra load?

There is not enough room for cars to park and I'm sure all the side streets will be lined with cars.

Quincy is a city of homes and families, and is not prepared or capable of handling large crowds of people. The land abuts homes that don't want their neighborhood littered with broken beer bottles and cans.

Who will have control over rental of the arena. We may end up with rock concerts and conventions. We will have nobody to blame but ourselves.

If it can happen in North Quincy, it can happen anywhere in Quincy.

Now is the time for people in Quincy to decide what the future of our city will be. Do we want a residential community or do we want big business running our city?

Let the City Council and the Mayor know how you feel about the development of Quincy.

Ambler Criticizes Article On House Redistricting

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In your Thursday, May 26, 1977, edition of the Quincy Sun, Mr. Tom Henshaw, apparently a staff reporter for your weekly newspaper, wrote an article concerning the recently concluded House action on the redistricting of the Massachusetts House of Representatives from 240 member districts to 160.

As he has done in past articles on this subject, Mr. Henshaw had made reference to my name without granting me the courtesy to respond - an opportunity he has granted to others. I am, therefore, using this method to advise you of the facts.

Mr. Henshaw reported Rep. Cerasoli as saying that the original Quincy-Weymouth district as proposed by the Redistricting Committee "was changed after Fitzsimmons threatened to move into Ambler's district and run against him." The facts are that the original plan broke up the North Weymouth community into two legislative districts - a fate unacceptable to the people of that community and to myself.

The Redistricting Committee set a primary policy of keeping neighborhoods whole wherever possible - a policy they had followed for Quincy Point [Ward 2]. I argued that North Weymouth should receive the same consideration. After a great deal of research, particularly on the question of contiguity, the committee came up with a plan to keep the Weymouth and Quincy neighborhoods intact. That is the plan finally accepted by the House and the sole reason for its acceptance.

Mr. Henshaw injected his opinion, stating, "If the Weymouth precincts hadn't been juggled and gerrymandered Cerasoli might have wound up as opposition to Ambler, the veteran who is chairman of the House Committee on Government Regulations." The conjecture of Mr. Henshaw is pure speculation at best because the fact is that the Redistricting Committee never entertained a plan of this type; if they did, it is odd that they never discussed it with me. I believe this statement was poor reporting on the part of your staff reporter - a case of accepting information without substantiation.

May I also point out that 14 of 23 House Chairmen have been placed in the same legislative districts with another incumbent. This is a much larger proportion than that of the non-leadership representatives who will face incumbents, so it is somewhat unfair of Mr. Henshaw to infer that chairmen are receiving special treatment.

Also mentioned in the article is a myth, apparently perpetrated by Rep. Cerasoli, that he is in the doghouse with the democratic leadership because he is always opposing them. His consistent record of support for the democratic leadership's positions is clear and a matter of public record; for example, in the last legislative session he voted with the democratic leadership on over 80% of all roll call votes. This year, apparently deciding it would be more popular to be anti-leadership, he is only voting with the democratic party 56% of the time.

The remainder of Mr. Henshaw's story carries more misinformation and poor reporting but I will not comment on that because those matters are concerned with Quincy politics. I think it is about time you insisted on factual reporting. Your readers would then more fully understand what redistricting and the House cut are all about, and that each legislator is going to fight for the community where he lives and serves. Speaking for myself, I used every skill that I have learned over my years in public life in order to have my community fully represented based on its true population of approximately 65,000 people.

I have no quarrel with any Quincy legislator, or any legislator for that matter, who sincerely works to protect his community. That is what good representation is all about. I want to compliment Representatives Sheets, Morrissey and Brownell for the high level in which they have conducted themselves throughout the redistricting debate. Quincy has always been their first concern and I respect that. I also respect reporters who report the news as it actually happens instead of sensationalizing to fabricate controversies.

Burgin Recalls Conditions On Which Presidents Adams Birthplaces Were Turned Over To City

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

With the recent publicity regarding the needed repairs to the Adams Birthplaces it might be of interest to your readers if I set forth some information concerning just HOW the City of Quincy received these houses, WHEN they were received, and WHY. Also, of further interest would be under what conditions they were given to the city.

In checking my files I find that it was back in 1940, during my fourth term as mayor, that these two historic houses came into Quincy's ownership. The following account may help to clarify the situation.

The late Charles Francis Adams [former Secretary of the Navy] called on me at the mayor's office to discuss the future of the homes. Representing the Adams Family he suggested that in view of the historic value of the houses the family would like to give them to the city under certain terms and conditions which could be developed later. Following his visit I discussed his gracious offer with the city council and we all felt it would be a fine thing to own and preserve the birthplaces of TWO presidents of the United States [side by side] since there wasn't another situation like it in the country. It should be remembered that Charles Francis Adams had served as mayor of Quincy prior to the turn of the century.

I enclose a copy of the official records pertaining to the acceptance of the gift which I hope may be made a part of this letter and which I trust will be of particular interest to our mayor and city council who I know have the same feeling of pride that I do in Quincy's rich heritage.

November 24, 1959

The birthplaces of John Adams, second President of the United States, and of his son, John Quincy Adams, our sixth President, have been owned by the City of Quincy since June 1940, when title to the properties was passed to the City by a deed executed by Charles Francis Adams and Henry Adams as Trustees for the Adams Family. The said deed contains the following covenant: "TO HAVE AND TO HOLD the granted premises with all the privileges and appurtenances thereto belonging to the said City of Quincy but in trust to preserve and maintain such premises with any additions thereto or improvements thereon as places of historic and public interest and not for profit, with the purpose of fostering civic virtue and patriotism, and to the extent with the right to acquire and place in or about the premises personal effects and property of historical value and interest and, in general, to do all things which may be necessary or proper to preserve said premises and the buildings now built thereon and the personal property which may from time to time be placed thereon or therein."

The property was accepted in behalf of the City by the following order of the City Council accepted and approved by the Mayor:

City of Quincy
In Council
June 18, 1940

ORDERED:

That the deed from Charles Francis Adams and Henry Adams, Trustees, to the City of Southern Artery Widening Brings Mixed Reactions

A State proposal to widen Southern Artery between Sea and Washington Sts., at a cost of $568,000 if Quincy would take the land for about $100,000 drew mixed reactions from city officials and citizens.

"It doesn't really make sense," said City Councillor Thomas S. Burgin, noting that the widened road would merely link two bottlenecks. "It seems to me like almost an unnecessary expense on the part of the Commonwealth. We don't want a super highway inside the city."

On the other hand, George A. Yarrington, executive director of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, predicted that if the state's offer were turned down "it will be the most tragic blunder made by any City Council in the past 20 years."

"Some of these glorified hot dog stands that are complaining so loudly today," said Yarrington, "will be able to sell out at a 100 per cent profit 10 years from now."

DIGS START AT IRON WORKS

Roland W. Robbins, an archaeologist from Lincoln, began work on a $6,800 project to excavate and develop the historic John Winthrop Jr. colonial blast furnace in West Quincy, the first to produce commercial iron in America.

Robbins said he hoped to complete the project in about two months, with most of it finished in time for the Historic Quincy Festival in July.

BUILDER, PLANNERS FEUD

A long simmering feud between Anthony Spinelli of Milton, developer of Furnace Brook Acres, and City Planning Director Regis J. Harrington broke out into a heated battle of words.

"That skunk threatened to throw me out of his office," Spinelli told the City Council. "They only harass people up there. I wouldn't hire any of your planning directors for $50 a week."

"I didn't threaten to throw him out," responded Harrington coolly. "I threatened to have him thrown out."

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

Federal Minimum Wage: Its Impact On Massachusetts

An increase in the minimum wage is not like an increase in welfare payments.

Wages are paid on the basis of the value of a worker's contribution to a product or service that a consumer is willing to purchase. Consequently, government-directed increases in wages make it impossible for business to hire inexperienced or less skilled workers. As a result, these workers become discouraged and can not find jobs anytime now or in the future.

This is a key reason why participation in the labor force and unemployment rates remain unsatisfactory even during good times and why public sector jobs are proposed by the same lawmakers that caused the problem by increasing the minimum wage.

Rep. Dent [D-Pa.] and the AFL-CIO support an increase in the minimum wage from $2.30 to over $3, an hour with a built-in automatic increase each year to maintain the minimum wage at 60% of manufacturing wages, elimination of the tip credit, and elimination of a lower minimum wage for youth workers.

Applying the best study available, if the reaction to this increase is similar to what resulted from minimum wage increases in the past, this proposal could cause the loss of 2 million job opportunities that will not be created as a result of the higher minimum, plus 700,000 layoffs, 4.4% higher labor costs for all businesses, but 5.4% higher labor costs for small businesses which would reduce competition, and 2.9% higher consumer prices for all Americans.

Massachusetts could lose about 73,000 jobs - 19,000 jobs for adult women; 5,000 jobs for blacks and other young male minorities [through age 24]; and 3,000 jobs for older workers [65 and over].

Massachusetts would also experience a 4.2% increase in labor costs for all businesses; 5.2% increase for small business; and 3.0% increase in consumer prices. Of those workers still employed and at or near the minimum wage, only about one-half would be from households receiving low incomes. Increases in the minimum wage is an undesirable and cruel way to help a few households increase low incomes.

The Administration proposes a more reasonable increase in the Federal minimum wage from $2.30 to $2.50 with automatic adjustments to maintain 50% of average manufacturing wages, even this seemingly moderate increase could cause a loss of 900,000 full and part-time jobs, an increase in labor costs of 1.4% for all businesses and 1.8% for small businesses, and an increase in consumer prices of 0.9% for Americans.

Under this proposal, Massachusetts would lose about 23,000 jobs: 6,000 adult women; 10,000 white teenagers; 1,000 non-white teenagers; 4,000 white workers ages 20-24; 400 non-white workers ages 20-24; and 1,000 older workers [over 65]. Labor costs would increase by 1.4% for all businesses, 1.7% for small businesses, and consumers would have to pay about 1.0% higher consumer prices.

By way of contrast, the stimulus program proposed by President Carter in January was expected to create about the same number of jobs. What government giveth, government can taketh away.

Massachusetts would be better off without an increase in the minimum wage. If an increase is enacted, it should be modest, not tied to automatic adjustments and recognize the importance of retaining a full tip credit and provide a 25% youth differential.

At a time when the nation is already plagued with unemployment and the growing threat of another round of severe inflation, it's clear that Congress should not be considering minimum wage legislation that will only make bad matters worse.

Nevertheless, Congress is being placed under increasing pressure to pass such legislation by a new coalition of labor and civil rights organizations, organized for the express purpose of lobbying for the highest possible minimum wage increase.

Those who advocate increasing the minimum wage argue emotionally that a higher level is essential to "provide a decent living, free of welfare reliance" and "to restore the buying power lost to inflation."

What they overlook, or ignore, is that an increase would harm many of the very people it's supposed to help by pricing them out of current or future jobs and making them more dependent on welfare. And those who remain at work would face still more inflation generated by the minimum wage boost.

Ironically, the major beneficiaries would be the higher paid union members - because a minimum wage increase traditionally gives unions more leverage for negotiating higher wages for unionized workers to preserve their wage differentials.

Atlantic House Painting Project Starts Third Year

Mrs. Joanne Condon, Chairman of the Atlantic Self-Help Committee, announces the Atlantic House Painting program, a cooperative effort between the city of Quincy and the Atlantic Neighborhood Association has begun its third year.

The program, funded through the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, has enabled 100 homeowners to have the exteriors of their homes painted.

This voluntary program is open to any eligible homeowner in the Atlantic section. Although past income guidelines have stated that the gross income of a participating family of four could not exceed $13,700, new income guidelines, in keeping with the upward cost of living, will be announced by the government at the end of the month.

Interested homeowners can apply at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 150 East Squantum St., between 7 and 9 p.m. Thursdays and 9 a.m. and noon, Saturdays, through the end of June.

Too Few Facts On Celtics Sports Arena, Says Hickey

Walter J. Hickey of Huckins Avenue, Squantum, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat, has issued a statement on the proposed sports arena for the North Quincy area. It follows:

"Many residents of Ward Six have asked me what my stand is on the proposed sports arena that has been in the news lately. My response is that at this juncture I do not see how anybody can take a stand for or against the project. All we have are a lot of loose statements about what a boon the arena will be for the city.

"To be sure, you cannot scoff at a $35 million project which -- one report says -- this will be. Nor should anybody find fault with our city officials for trying to attract new enterprises.

"But right now we have too few facts. As a professional engineer, I am not impressed with claims, however enthusiastic. They must be buttressed with cold hard facts.

"This strikes me as another example of the shotgun catch-as-catch can approach that has marked so many other proposals. A 3,000-unit housing complex at the Boston Harbor Marina, a prison on Long Island, a shopping plaza on Quincy Shore Drive and now the Arena.

"There has been no long-range planning -- no concern for the long-range impact on our city. Has anybody said exactly where the arena would be built? Has anybody considered its effects on the neighborhood? And, what about parking? Will we have cluttered streets and blocked driveways as a legacy for the neighborhood taxpayers? What extra burdens will such a project impose on our fire and police departments? And, will the arena sit idle all summer when the basketball season is over?

"These are some of the questions that need answers."

Registration For Golf Classes At Atlantic

The Atlantic Neighborhood Center is starting new classes in golf Saturday, June 18, under the direction of Art Ciconni, the pro at the Wollaston Recreational Facility, 357 West Squantum St. Those interested may sign up today (Thursday) or tomorrow, at the Center, 150 East Squantum St., or by calling 328-1708.

House Budget and Auto Insurance Reform

The House approved an over $4 billion dollar budget for Fiscal 1978 and sent it to the Senate for their consideration. The Senate Committee on Ways and Means is now in the process of scrutinizing this budget. The House recommended lowering the meals tax from 8% to 5%. It also included $30 million in local aid, $8 million for County Court costs and made a start at fully funding the State Pension System. The Senate will work out their own budget and a compromise between the two bodies will be made in the next couple of weeks.

This week, the House will consider a $107 million supplemental budget for Fiscal 1977. I will have more on the outcome in my next article.

The Governor signed the Redistricting bill into law last Friday.

The most important issue to be considered this week will be auto insurance reform. The Insurance Committee will have presented its bill to the full house for their consideration.

The red-lining issue will again be before the House. Red-lining occurs when banks refuse to grant loans in run-down neighborhoods because of the high risk.

If I can be of any assistance, please don't hesitate to call me in the State House at 727-7035 or at my District Office, 328-0900.

My District Office is 69 Billings Road and is open M-W 8:30 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. and W-F 9 p.m. to 9 p.m. Volunteers staff the office every evening except Friday.

Den 3, Pack 412 Cub Scouts Visit Sun

Cub Scouts in Den 3, Pack 412 of Hull visited The Quincy Sun recently to view the workings of a newspaper firsthand.

The scouts, sponsored by the Hull Women's B'nai B'rith, are: Terrence Adams, Ronald DeRosa, Thomas Godek, Matthew Hall, Dennis Nardo, Joseph Pitaro, Ronald Smith, Andrew Dinga, and David Miller.

Den leader Elaine Nardo, and assistant den leader Joan Pitaro accompanied the scouts on their tour.

Webeio scout Charles Nardo, Suzanne Nardo, Donna Pitaro, and Valerie Furlong, also joined the tour as guests of the scouts.

The group first visited the editorial and advertising departments of The Quincy Sun. They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine. They also saw newstories being set on the CompuWriter Junior.

The scouts watched a paste-up artist fix their story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

They watched a photograph being reduced and screened for publication by an Agfa Gevaert Repromaster camera in the Sun's new camera department.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed the boys asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each scout received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

S.S. Collaborative For Career Education Underway

The South Shore Collaborative for Career Education, developed during the last year for implementation in the Hingham, Quincy, Scituate and Weymouth School systems for the 1977-78 school year, is underway with the first South Shore Leadership Conference for Career Education.

Charles Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank and president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, was one of the more than 100 community leaders attending the meeting, and opened the conferences' morning session. Pearce pledged both his own efforts and those of the Chamber to the successful growth of the South Shore Collaborative for Career Education.

Carmen D'Olympio, president of the Building and Construction Trades Council of Quincy, also played an active role in the meeting.

During the meeting, conference members discussed the program's goals, the commitments and problems that arose from them, and ways to solve them.

Squantum Association Collecting Funds For July 4th

The Squantum Community Association is collecting funds this week to finance its July 4th celebration.

Families are asked to contribute at least a $3 donation.

A Contributor prize will be awarded to the Squantum resident whose name is drawn from those who give during collection week.

Squantum residents can register for the Road Race, July 3 at 1:30 by calling Robert Murray at 328-4552 or on the day of the race in front of the Squantum School. Costumed marchers, entrants for the Doll Carriage and Bicycle Parade for children 6 and under should register at the Squantum Fire Station on June 18, from 1-4 p.m. and June 19 from 11 a.m.-1 p.m.

The Golden Ray's Drum and Bugle Corps will put on an exhibition at the playground immediately following the Parade.

Joseph Brett Scholarship Winners Announced

Quincy Citizens Association announces that Margaret Romig of Quincy High School and Maryanne Malzone of North Quincy High were the recipients of the first annual Joseph E. Brett Scholarships.

The scholarships were awarded on the basis of potential for excellence, financial need and service to the school and community. The recipients were chosen from 43 applicants.

Miss Romig plans to study at Quincy Junior College the field of legal secretary, and Miss Malzone will study radiologic technology at Northeastern.

Councillor Paul D. Harold is chairman of the QCA scholarship committee.

seems no one is responsible.

"In both situations — when we have monies appropriated, as with the fire alarms, or when there is no monies appropriated, as with maintenance — we reach an impasse. Perhaps it is impossible for a part time commission to deal effectively with day-to-day problems.

"It has become apparent to those who are concerned with the preservation of the birthplaces that despite the best intentions on the part of the city government, it is not capable of providing the amount of money or the degree of expertise necessary to preserve the properties in the proper manner."

William A. O'Connell, president of the Quincy Historical Society, supported Harold in his concern for maintenance and security of the birthplaces.

"The general maintenance and appearance of the birthplaces has deteriorated as the city's responsibility for care has been lost in the shuffle of establishment and reorganization of agencies with history related responsibilities," he said.

"The lack of adequate fire and burglar detection equipment leaves the houses vulnerable to both natural and man-made disaster. To make no effort to protect these buildings against vandalism and the inevitable damage from their urban environment is indefensible."

O'Connell noted that specifications for the preservation of the structural integrity of the birthplaces were drawn up in July, 1975, by the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities.

"As of this writing," he said, "two years later, the recommended actions have seemingly been ignored. The structural problems grow worse with every change in season and with every visitor to these historic homes.

"The Society feels it is necessary to once again reinforce that immediate steps must be taken to stop the rapid deterioration of these buildings and to properly preserve what is of great importance to the city and nation."

The youngsters from the Quincy School presented $43.80 to Mrs. William A. O'Connell, who is chairman of the House Committee. They told her they read of the plight of the birthplaces in The Sun.

Representatives of the two sixth grade classes were Monika Reilly, Brian Reardon, Vernon Brown and Richard O'Sullivan.

The money was raised by selling lemonade at their annual Dance Festival held last May for the 47th year on the school grounds.

David Crowley, Jr. Ward 1 Council Candidate

David J. Crowley Jr., 30, of 882 Sea St., son of a former City Councilor announces his candidacy for City Council from Ward 1.

Crowley described the basic principles of his candidacy as "stabilized taxes, efficiency in government and cooperation with the Police Department to reverse the tide of deterioration in our neighborhood business centers."

"We should make better use of our sea coast," he said. "Commercial fishing and lobstering is an industry Quincy has ignored and consequently lost to Boston Harbor."

"A commercial wharf area is one relatively inexpensive way for government to help our local economy through expansion of private enterprise."

Crowley said his candidacy was "brought forward by the need for an honest, sincere spokesperson for the people." He promised "a positive independent voice and a responsive ear in the community."

Crowley is the son of David J. Crowley, who served on the City Council from 1946 through 1955, two terms from Ward 1 and three terms at-large on the Plan E Council.

His mother, Roberta M. Crowley, is a former city treasurer.

Young Crowley is a graduate of the Mass Maritime Academy with a Bachelor of Science degree in Marine and Electrical Engineering. He has also attended graduate programs in business administration at Babson College and political science at Boston State.

He is married to the former Peggy Carroll-Smith. They have one child and live at 882 Sea St., across from the Houghs Neck Shell Station they own. He is a life-long resident of Ward 1.

Carl Awed, Jr. Candidate For Council

Carl A. Awed Jr. of 580 Furnace Brook Parkway, a student at the University of Massachusetts Boston campus, announces his candidacy for an at-large seat on the City Council.

Awed, a resident of Quincy for all his 21 years, pledged that "with young and new ideas we can revitalize our stagnant situation and bring forth a proud and united working force expressing the will of the Quincy people."

"I intend to discuss city problems with all concerned citizens of Quincy," he said. "I see the need for a wider base of participation, with more opinions and discussion taking place, than we have at present."

"More participation will allow for a wider understanding of the questions and problems of our city. For if Quincy is to solve its biggest problems the people must work together to find the answers."

Awed, who was president of his senior class at Quincy High School in 1974, is majoring in political science and philosophy at UMass-Boston. He also works part-time with the elderly at the Presidential Convalescent Home in Wollaston.

Morrisette Edges Dedham, 6-5, Quincy Bows To Hingham, 1-0

By TOM SULLIVAN

Morrisette Legion's baseball team got off on the right foot Monday as it opened its quest of a 21st Zone 6 championship as it edged Dedham, 6-5, at Adams Field.

Ron Donovan pitched a strong game, but weakened in the last inning as he gave up a walk and a double with one out. Mark Giordani came on in relief with the tying run on third and one out, and on an attempted squeeze play, the batter popped to Jim Maze, who threw to Dave Perdios for a double play ending the game.

Morrisette scored a run in the first on a walk to Don Perdios, a double by Chuck LoPresti and a single by Dave Perdios. The champs exploded for four in the third when Donovan reached on an error, Don Perdios singled, stole second and LoPresti walked to fill the bases. Dave Perdios singled for two runs, Dave Perdios scored on a force play and LoPresti scored on Dave King's single. In the sixth, Don Perdios doubled and scored on Mike McCormack's single.

Dedham scored once in the first, again in the second, twice in the fifth and once in the seventh.

Don Perdios had two hits and scored three runs. King had two hits. Both were playing their first games in a Morrisette uniform. Dave Perdios drove in three runs and McCormack drove in the winning run.

Meanwhile, Quincy Legion, with a good nucleus of veterans, received outstanding pitching in its opener but dropped a 1-0 decision to Hingham on Mark Morrison's homer in the last inning.

Dave Raftery and Kurt O'Sullivan combined for a three-hitter, but O'Sullivan had the misfortune of pitching the home run ball. Quincy was held to three hits, one apiece by Rick Gilbody, Lew Fishman and Higgins.

Friday, Quincy hosts Canton at 8 o'clock under the lights at Adams Field and Morrisette plays at Scituate at 6. Sunday, Quincy is home to Dedham at 8 at Adams, Monday, Morrisette is at Holbrook at 8:30, Wollaston hosts Hingham at 8 at Adams and Quincy is at Scituate at 6. Tuesday, Wollaston is home to Milton at 8 at Adams.

Morrisette has won the Zone 6 crown 20 times in 31 years and won the title the past two years, going to the World Series two years ago.

However, Coach Ray Cattaneo has a real job on his hands this year as he strives to add another zone title.

Although Morrisette has nine players returning from last year's championship squad, Cattaneo lost many of his top players including:

The two outstanding pitchers, Tim Clifford and Pat Gibbons, who pitched 16 of the team's 17 wins; Steve McKinnon, one of the top catchers in Legion ball. Third baseman Jim Roberts, who this year starred for Brandeis University's Division 3 northeast champs and national runnersup. Shortstop Paul Messina, outfielders Dennis McGuire and Paul Jackmauh and pitcher Brian Corcoran.

Returning from that squad are infielder Dave Perdios, who played for Brandeis this spring; outfielder-pitcher Chuck LoPresti, who played for Northeastern and saw action against the Red Sox in an exhibition game; pitcher John Wilkinson, North Quincy High; first baseman Mike McCormick, North Quincy; infielder Jim Maze, Quincy High; pitcher Ron Donovan, infielder-outfielder Peter Niosi, pitcher-outfielder Mark Giordani and catcher Sal Coscia, all of Quincy High.

"We have picked up some very promising young players," Cattaneo said. "They include two good looking youngsters, infielder Fran Donovan and pitcher, Dave Austin from Broad Meadows Junior High."

"We have a young pitching staff, but most of them pitched in high school this year and their experience should give us a little more depth than a year ago," Cattaneo continued.

The Morrisette coach has been pleased with the hitting in practice games and Dave Perdios, LoPresti, Maze, Niosi, Sal Coscia, Ron Donovan and McCormick have hit well.

"If our pitching holds up, we will be right in the thick of things," Cattaneo concluded.

Keohane's Wins Pair

Keohane's continues as one of the hottest teams in the Quincy Junior Baseball League with a 10-2 record following two more wins during the past week.

In its latest game, Keohane's topped Foley Chrysler, 11-8, with John Balzano hitting two towering home runs over the center field fence, one a grand slam and the other with one man on base. He also had a two-run double for eight runs batted in. Dennis Cronin pitched the first inning and gave way to Charlie Jaehnig, who picked up his fifth win. Balzano came in to pitch to the last batter and earn a save.

Keohane's also nipped the Elks, 3-2, with Paul Scibilio pitching the first three innings of scoreless ball and Cronin pitching two and a third innings before being lifted in favor of Balzano. Balzano earned his fifth win as compared with one loss. Cronin and Billy O'Brien had the RBIs. Balzano had two hits and Charlie Jaehnig also had one.

● AAA League

All Star Games Saturday

The Quincy Triple A Baseball League will hold its annual all-star games Saturday at 9 a.m. at Artery Field.

Two 12-year old and two 11-year old teams were selected from the National and American Leagues.

The National League team will include: Rosendo Castilla, Larry Costello, Peter McCarron and David Coulter of the Braves; Jimmy McSweeney, Michael Cataldo, Dennis Downing and Jon Sheehan of the Mets; Timmy McNamara, Brian Gibbons, Gary Brown and Richie Mahoney of the Pirates.

The American Leaguers will be: Dale Adams, Kenneth Wright, James Grassi and Chip Griffin of the Indians; Tom Murphy, Ken McDonald, Tim Barry and Steve Grazioso of the Tigers; Bob Maimaron, Bob Graham, Joe Donovan and Chris Hurley of the White Sox.

In league play, the Braves defeated the Mets, 7-3, with Timmy Ryan the winning pitcher. He had seven strikeouts in four innings and also singled twice and scored two runs. Castilla pitched the last two innings. He also had a double and scored a run. Billy Mayo tripled and scored a run. Downing was two for two for the Mets and Jay Petrilli had a double and triple.

The White Sox blanked the Braves, 4-0, sparked by doubles by Ted Stevenson and Paul Egan. Joe Donovan had a single. Mayo had two for three for the Braves. Ryan and Castilla pitched for the Braves and combined for eight strikeouts.

The Pirates bombed the Mets, 10-1, with Michael Cascarano the winning pitcher. Jimmy McNamara had a home run and double and Mike Hennessey and Tom Scolaro went two for two. Cataldo, McSweeney and Bill Foley had the Mets' hits.

The Pirates blanked the Yankees, 3-0, with McNamara, the winner, and Cascarano striking out nine. Mike Barder had a double and Hennessey a triple. Michael O'Brien had nine strikeouts pitching for the Yankees.

The Yankees exploded for a 16-8 win over the Tigers with Willie Schumacher the winner. He also had a double and triple and Bob O'Brien two triples. Jackie Gabriel had a double for the Tigers.

The Indians nipped the Pirates, 4-3, with winning pitcher Dave Venezia striking out eight. Dale Adams, Grassi and Teddy Wright had doubles. Cascarano pitched for the Pirates and struck out eight. Tom Scolaro had a double and single. Barder two singles and Gary Brown a single.

Mass. Fields 'A' Rolls To 10th

Mass. Fields A, coached by Ted Stevenson, continues to roll along at the top of the North Quincy Youth Basketball League with a 10-0 record following three wins during the past week.

Mass. Fields nipped second place Wollaston, 44-40, in one of its most exciting games. Losing by five points in the third period, the league leaders surged, paced by John Purland. Purland scored 21 points and Mike O'Hare had 12. Paul Ryan led Wollaston on offense while Jim Flaherty played a fine defensive game.

Mass. Fields also topped Quincy, 42-30, and Mass. Fields B team, 26-16.

In the Quincy game Purland had 14 points, Wayne Ham scored eight and Jimmy Whitehouse had seven. Greg DiBella sparked Quincy with 14.

Mass. Fields held the league leaders to their lowest point total of the year, but did not have the offense to upset them. John DeForge and Frank Maloney excelled for the winners, while Denis Cronin, Brian Gibbons and Mark Hubbard paced the losers.

Squantum captured its first win of the season, defeating Montclair, 25-16. Dean Phillips was outstanding for Squantum and scored 16 points. John Panaro also did well for Squantum, while Paul Foley and Scott Smith paced Montclair. Beechwood Knoll, coached by Steve Miller, came up with two wins, defeating Montclair and Squantum.

John Phelan had 16 points, Rick Radzik 14 and Mike Conlon 12, in the win over Montclair, while Peter McGillicuddy sparked the losers. Phelan had 10 to pace the win over Squantum and Vic DiGravio had six. For Squantum, Phillips had 10 points and Colin McLeod also played well.

In other action, Wollaston romped over Mass. Fields B, 50-17. Tim Ryan, with 16 points and Bob McElaney and Paul Ryan with 12 each paced Wollaston. Paul Cahill had nine for Squantum. Cronin continued to play excellent all-around ball and Andy Duplain had a fine defensive game and came up with many steals.

Girls Soccer Next Season At Quincy, North

Girls' field hockey, started only a few years ago at Quincy and North Quincy High schools, has made a speedy departure but will be replaced next fall by a new sport, girls' soccer.

Quincy and North will join Newton North, Brookline, Weymouth North and Weymouth South in the Suburban League.

Coaching the Quincy girls will be Ron Martin, who coached the boys' team for eight years before resigning last year, and the North coach will be Jim Piccini, who had coached at Central Junior High. Martin said the girls will play an abbreviated schedule of 10 games the first season, then increase the number of contests as more schools join the program.

"The sport is new for the girls, and I look at it as a challenge," Ron said. "I think it is about due. I've refereed girls' games in the Needham-Wellesley area, and they are really proficient.

"I think it is a good sport for girls. Some have equated it with ballet. There can be something graceful about it and I think it will catch on. So far, the interest is good and thirty-five girls have signed up.

"I would like to see girls' soccer introduced into the junior high program in two years, and I consider it a distinct possibility.

"I wasn't satisfied with the way boys' soccer was treated, but this is a new program and hopefully it will start off right."

Martin resigned as boys' coach (Lou Ioanilli also quit at North at the same time) and said that he didn't feel soccer in Quincy was getting the support it deserved, nor that the salary was up to par with others in the league. He, as well as Ioanilli, hopes both situations will be remedied in time.

Uhlar Aids Boston To Shootout Title

Some of the best schoolboy basketball talent in the country was on display last week at Boston University's Case Center when the Shootout returned to Boston after a year's absence.

Jack Uhlar, 6-6 Quincy center, who broke all school records this year and who has received a full scholarship to Boston College, played a prominent role in helping Boston to its second championship.

Although not scoring high,

Uhlar was outstanding off the boards and defensively and in the championship win, 93-92, in overtime, over Georgia Jack scored a key basket which tied the game at 78-78.

Detroit defeated Chicago, 106-91, in the consolation game, and Washington topped Providence, 110-100, for fifth place.

Boston, with its finest lineup in several years, had walloped Connecticut, 116-81, in its opener and downed Detroit, 99-90, in the second round.

The Boston squad was coached by former Celtic Rick Weitzman and his assistant, Al Kinnet.

Among the former Shootout stars are such college and pro standouts as Adrian Dantley, Ron Lee, Bo Ellis and Ricky Green.

Furnace Brook Golf Winners

Carmella Corbin and Marie Corayer were co-champions.

In the first of the weekly mixed Scotch foursomes, Paul and Kay O'Leary shot low gross of 44 and Amy Stearns and Bob Donoghue had low net of 32.

Dot and Matt Smith, Joe Barranco and Joyce Serafini and Joe Fitzgerald and Marie Corayer tied for second net of 33 and Ed and Priscilla O'Neill had third net of 35.

Priscilla O'Neill, Mary Donoghue and Jeff Bailey were co-champions.

NQHS 1967 Football Champs Reunion July 8

The undefeated North Quincy High football team of 1967, Greater Boston League champion and state Class A co-champ, holding a 10th anniversary reunion July 8 at Fore River Clubhouse, is still seeking some members of that team.

All senior, junior and

Malvesti, Henry Softball All-Stars

Shortstop-pitcher Lois Malvesti of Quincy and outfielder Linda Henry of North Quincy were named to the Suburban Softball League all-star team. Malvesti was sophomore members of that team are invited and those not contacted by the committee can call Ken MacPhee at 472-2152, John Magnarelli, Fred Cobban or Carl Leone.

Information can also be obtained by calling the North Quincy High school office.

selected as the shortstop.

Quincy pitcher Peggy Thorley and North second baseman Tom Alibrandi were named to the second team.

Babe Ruth Baseball

Elks Take A.L. Lead, Police N.L. Pacers

The Quincy Elks have the American League lead with a 6-2 record and the Police Club paces the National League with a 5-3 mark in Quincy's Babe Ruth League.

Local 1139 and the Hancock Bank went nine innings Sunday before Kevin Howlett's towering 400 foot triple drove in three runs to give Local 1139 a 5-4 win. After regulation time it was 2-2, but in the top of the ninth Hancock scored twice for a 4-2 lead. Paul O'Toole was the winning pitcher with 14 strikeouts. Paul King pitched a strong eight innings for Hancock but tired in the ninth. Mark Millane had three hits to spark Local 1139 and Bob Biagini went four for five for Hancock.

In another Sunday game, Granite City Electric nipped Sons of Italy, 4-3, with Steve White pitching a three-hitter. Mike Stranburg, in addition to his usual fine catching, drove in three runs and Shawn Murphy had two hits. Joe Crifo, Mike Scurti, Tony Camillo, Mike Connelly and Tom Smith had one hit each. Jim DiPietro drove in a run for S. of I. to tie the score at 2-2 in the fourth. Bob Hayes had the other two hits, a triple and single.

Bryan VFW Post scored 15 runs in the first inning and trampled Granite City, 19-1, in a game called after four innings. Every VFW batter had a hit with Jim Hacunda, Andy Orrock, Roger Perrault and pitcher Gordon Spencer, who hurled a two-hitter, having two apiece. Jack Brown drove in three runs with a home run. Camello and White had the Granite City hits and Paul Earle pitched well in relief.

Police Club outslugged Barry's Deli, 9-8, with Billy O'Connell earning the win. Police came from behind to tie the score with three runs in the sixth. Ron Pettinelli singled, John Sweet doubled and O'Connell doubled home the two runs. He scored the tying run. In the bottom of the seventh, Costigan walked, stole second and scored the clincher. Billy Deitsch and David Rowell had the key hits for Barry's.

VFW walloped Firemen, 10-4, with seven runs in the sixth inning. Orrock was the winner and Artie Roberts the loser. Jim Hacunda had three hits and Spencer two. Hacunda scored four runs, reaching every time up. Orrock, with a four-hitter, won his first game after losing two previous four-hitters. He drove in three runs with a double in the sixth. Greg Oriola and Greg Madden starred defensively for Firemen.

Elks easily topped Morrisette, 9-1, behind Billy Foley's five-hitter. Mike Crowley had two triples and a single and drove in six runs for Elks. Dean Zoia had two singles as did Terry Hogan. Steve Healy had one. Fred Palmer was outstanding in the field. For Morrisette, Bob Craig had a triple and Segalla had a single.

Elks also waltzed by Sons of Italy, 8-0, with Bobby Dubois pitching six-hit ball. Dubois also sparked the attack with three hits, one a long triple. Hogan had two hits and Crowley a double. Billy Doyle made some excellent plays in center field. Hayes had two hits as did John Vespaziani and Eric Green had a single for S. of I.

Police Club topped Golden Print, 12-7, as Gary DiNardo, O'Connell, Bobby Cronin, Costigan and Mark Baker had two hits each and Pettinelli and Sweet one apiece. John Todd had three hits and Bob Quinn two for Golden Print.

Police also defeated Fire Dept., 4-2, behind Costigan's one-hitter. In the sixth, DiNardo's single, a walk to O'Connell and Cronin's double for two runs broke up a tie game. Sweet had two hits and an RBI.

For Fire, Phil Caggiano had the only hit, while Oriola and Bobby Notarangelo excelled on defense. In makeup games Saturday, Local 1139 will play Barry's at 10 at Adams Field and Granite City will meet Houghs Neck at 1 at Adams.

League President Sal Salvatore announces that tryouts for the two games with Canadian teams which were rained out last weekend will be held Sunday at 5 at Merrymount Park.

Quincy Drops 2 In Senior Babe Ruth Action

Quincy's Senior Babe Ruth League team, Data Services, received outstanding pitching last week but its hitting was stopped cold as it lost to Weymouth, 2-0, and to Braintree, 2-1.

The losses dropped Quincy's record to 1-3.

Against Weymouth, Bob Jordan was the hard luck loser as he gave up only three hits, struck out four and walked four. Quincy was held to one hit, a single by Jack Malloy. Both Weymouth runs came in the first inning on two Quincy errors and a triple.

In the Braintree game, Braintree scored a run in the sixth to win it. Tom Wilkinson pitched no-hit ball for Quincy over five innings, walking three and striking out four. John Keane came on in the sixth and gave up all three hits, two of them bunts. Braintree scored a run in the second without a hit, two errors and a stolen base accounting for it. Quincy tied it in its half as Wilkinson singled, stole second and scored on a pair of Braintree errors. Wilkinson had two of Quincy's three hits.

Tonight (Thursday) Quincy will host Roxbury at 8:15 at Adams Field and Saturday will play a doubleheader at 5 and 7 o'clock at Dennisport.

O'Brien Club Finishes With 64-5 Record

The O'Brien Club basketball team of Quincy, winner of the Cranberry and TARO League championships, recently ended its most successful season with a brilliant 64-5 record.

The O'Briens, coached by Leo Papile, ended their year by winning their fifth tournament title, the Hayden Tournament at Lexington.

In addition to its five tournament crowns, the Quincy team lost by a single point in the finals of two other tournaments.

Making up the team were Capt. Allan Dalton, Gary Bowen, Rico Cabral, Bob Carrington, Mike Dunn, Jim O'Brien, Mark

Raterink, Kevin Shea and Brian Hammel, chosen the Hayden Tournament MVP.

The O'Briens won the Hayden event with a 117-97 win over the MSBA All-Stars in the finals.

Carrington had 39 points, Hammel 29, O'Brien 15 and Dalton 12.

In the semifinals the Quincy powerhouse topped Blue Magic, 119-93, in which Papile considered "our most significant win of the season."

"We had only five players for the first half. Raterink arrived, although he was ill, for the second half. Blue Magic had defeated the Quincy Nets to win the TARO Tournament and had easily won the —Norwood and Lynn Tournaments, which we were unable to enter because of conflicts in playing dates.

Hammel scored 37 points, Carrington 36, Dalton 19 and Shea 13, while Dunn and Raterink were outstanding on the boards.

In the quarterfinals it was O'Brien Club 114, Parkway 102, with Carrington having 42 points. Bowen had 19, Dalton 17 and Hammel 15.

The O'Brien Club opened the tournament with an easy 108-77 win over Hancock All-Stars, as Hammel scored 21, Shea 19, Dalton 16 and Carrington 14.

Damigella Wins $500 In Bowling Tourney

Tony Damigella of 28 Janet Rd., Wollaston, recently won the first prize of $500 in the second annual Greater Boston Junior Bowling Tournament after a tie-breaking rolloff.

Damigella, a senior at Boston College High School, bowled six games and took a two-hour academic exam to tie for first with Jim Breen of Somerville. He won the rolloff, 603-567.

He will use the scholarship money to attend Northeastern University where he will major in chemistry.

Sterling Wins Junior High Baseball Title

The Sterling Junior High baseball team, behind the five-hit pitching of Ed Tinney, defeated Broad Meadows, 7-1, to win the city championship.

Sterling, which ended the season with a 7-1 record, was sparked by Andy Carrera, Greg Oriola, Steve Picot, Leon Frazier and Kevin Howlett.

Red Cross Aquatic School Enrollment Still Open

'Clean Air Award'

Procter & Gamble Honored For Anti-Pollution Efforts

The Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Company of Quincy is one of four Massachusetts industrial concerns recently honored for their successful efforts in combating air pollution.

The Quincy firm received the American Lung Association's "Clean Air Award" from Governor Dukakis in ceremonies at Faneuil Hall. Last year, the Quincy Steel Casting Co., received a similar award.

S. Alan Becker, president of the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association, the local Christmas Seal organization, represented the group at the ceremonies. David Lord, Plant Manager, and E. Phillip Condon, Plant Engineer, received the award on behalf of the company.

The other firms cited for "Clean Air" are located in Lawrence, Western Massachusetts and Boston.

The occasion was a program on "Air Quality in Massachusetts", sponsored by the Mass. Department of Environmental Quality Engineering, The Environmental Protection Agency and the local Lung Associations.

Since 1940, Procter & Gamble's Quincy Plant has been manufacturing soap and detergent products for distribution throughout the northeast United States. The Plant's program to reduce odor discharge reflects P & G's commitment to improve environmental conditions as part of the continuing process of upgrading its manufacturing facilities.

Any manufacturing plant is likely to have certain characteristic smells coming from the kinds of materials it uses in its products. Soap plants are no different. A major contributor to the intermittent, but noticeable, odor concern in the surrounding community was a cooling tower used in processing fats and oils, and designed to protect the quality of the Weymouth Fore River by circulating cooling water, not discharging it.

To reduce odor and insure continuing compliance with air and water discharge regulations, a unique heat transfer device and an air scrubbing system were developed which eliminated the cooling tower.

The new environmental control system eliminates more than 99% of the odor discharged, while further improving the quality of the water adjacent to the plant.

HOW MUCH HOT WATER

One of the items frequently overlooked when remodeling or buying a new home, is the capacity of the hot water heater. First notice of this oversight normally is discovered while under a hot shower when it turns ice-cold prematurely. But, then it is too late. So, here's a short course on the subject.

The capacity of storage water heaters is rated in two ways and is usually imprinted on the nameplate of the tank. One number tells you the capacity of the tank, and the other number shows the recovery rate per hour. The sum of the two numbers gives you the number of gallons of hot water a tank can supply in one hour.

A tank of 50 gallons capacity with a recovery rate of 40 gallons will supply 90 gallons an hour which should be plenty for a family of five in a home with two baths and an automatic dishwasher and clotheswasher. A family of four without the dishwasher should be able to get by on a 30 or 40 gallon tank with 30 gallon recovery.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

The Quincy Co-operative Bank believes that the future of the communities we serve is in the hands of our young people. The Quincy Co-operative Bank believes, too, that our schools provide the surest guarantee of future excellence of community leadership through the learning processes.

Some months ago, when the statute was changed to allow co-operative banks to provide scholarship funds, we moved quickly to set up $100 scholarships in the high schools of the communities where we have our main office and our branches. In addition, we provided a $1,500 scholarship for the Quincy Junior College to help a graduate go on to a four year college after completion of two years of studies here. We were happy to learn that this is the largest scholarship offered by the Quincy Junior College.

We left the choice of all scholarship winners to each school administration. Naturally, we called the scholarships "The Quincy Co-operative Bank Josiah Quincy, Jr. Award". The awards were made for scholastic excellence and outstanding citizenship through school and community activity.

Josiah Quincy, Jr. was the father of co-operative banking, and we named our Bank for him. Because our scholarship program is totally consistent with his ideals -

We know that Josiah would have liked that.

[Some days ago we honored our scholarship winners at a luncheon. Each winner was accompanied by his or her Headmaster. Take a look at these fine young people whose pictures are displayed here; we are sure you will agree with us that the South Shore's future is in good hands.]

For Finn Fight, Mid-Term Address

LaRaia Hit On Using SOL Funds To Pay Aides

By TOM HENSHAW

The LaRaia Administration has used $4,242.50 from the Quincy Sons of Italy Capital Improvement Fund for the City of Quincy to pay parttime city employees whom the City Council refused to fund.

The sum includes payment for at least seven hours of work done by Alphonse W. Query of Walpole, the parttime assistant city solicitor, on LaRaia's legal fight with Police Chief Francis X. Finn over control of the Quincy Police Department.

It also includes $247.50 to Creative Communications, Inc., a Boston public relations firm with a Quincy office, for nine hours of work on the Mayor's midterm address, delivered last January.

There was nothing illegal about the transaction, according to the Mayor's office, but City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi, who brought the matter up at Monday's Council meeting, said he questioned the propriety of making such use of the funds.

Arthur Casey, the Mayor's executive secretary, conceded that money from the Sons' Fund had been used to pay the city's parttime labor negotiator and assistant city solicitor.

"Legally, we can use it," he said, "but we intend to make adjustments. There will be an excess in the solicitors office and at the end of the year we'll transfer the money back."

"It was simply the most expeditious way to pay the guys."

A. Mario Salvatore, grand venerable of the Quincy Sons of Italy Lodge, declined to comment on Raymondi's charges until he could talk to the Mayor, but, he added, "He

Finance Committee Session Monday

Angry Council To Meet On Supplementary Salary Budget

The City Council's Finance Committee will meet Monday, June 27, to consider Mayor LaRaia's $3 million supplementary salary budget which was greeted with anger, suspicion and much bombast by the Council Monday night.

The budget, Xeroxed and pasted together and some parts of it handwritten in pencil, was submitted to the Council about 10 p.m. Monday, only an hour before its 11 p.m. adjournment deadline.

Labor Negotiator Sanford Kowal explained that seven of the contracts with city employee labor unions had been signed only that day so the Mayor was unable to get the budget to the Council earlier.

Budget Coordinator Sarah Saccone told the Council that the Mayor preferred not to send the supplementary budget to the Council piecemeal but waited until the entire document could be presented.

"I think it's going to be job enough to understand what's in front of you without bringing it in in drabs and drabs," she told Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi. "That's a complete package and that's the best way to handle labor negotiations."

Raymondi didn't think so.

"How can you expect the City Council to comprehend what's in this document when we have to adjourn at 11 o'clock this evening and we get it at 10 o'clock?" he asked. "I'm not going to begin to look through this."

With that, he slammed the patched-up document on the desk with such force that it upset Councillor Leo J. Kelly's glass of water.

There was considerably more anger when the Council discovered that, mixed in with the contract pay increases, were salary hikes for department heads as well.

They included a $6,208 raise for City Hospital Director Anthony DeFalco, a $3,372 raise for Miss Saccone, and a $1,570 raise for the Information Officer, a post that the Council, with much fanfare, had already cut out of the budget.

Kowal explained that in some cases labor negotiations had raised the pay of subordinates higher than the salary of the department heads, which

LaRaia's Candidacy Sets Stage For Clash With Tobin

A head-to-head clash between Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and City Council President Arthur H. Tobin was assured Sunday when LaRaia announced that he will be a candidate for re-election.

LaRaia and Tobin, leaders of rival factions in the city government, will face off in the preliminary election Sept. 20 along with attorneys Thomas M. Barron and George M. Tull.

The Mayor, citing what he called his development of sound fiscal policy and initiative in urging citizen participation in government over the past year and a half, made his announcement at a $50 per ticket reception of some 700 supporters at State Street South.

"When I took office 17 months ago," he said, "the city was in serious financial difficulty. The previous administration neglected to hike the tax rate and as a result

Tobin Cleared Of LaRaia Unethical Conduct Charge

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin says the Board of Overseers of the State Bar Association has cleared him of any unethical conduct for predicting more indictments to come in the LaRaia Administration.

Tobin, who is a candidate for Mayor, made the prediction in a speech April 29 to the Quincy Taxpayers Association and five days later LaRaia wrote to the Bar Association asking sanctions against Tobin, who is a lawyer.

The Mayor said Tobin violated the responsibility an attorney has to confidentiality by using the process of the courts as campaign rhetoric.

Tobin said a letter from Atty. Robert J. DiGiacomo to LaRaia, dated June 9, said there is no substance to the complaint.

"The letter said the board thoroughly reviewed and investigated the complaint and determined that such conduct does not constitute a violation of the canon of ethics," said Tobin.

He called LaRaia's complaint "a desperate attempt by this administration using the dirty tricks so prevalent in the Nixon Administration to smear my character, integrity and standing in the community."

"This coupled with the dirty tricks from the Post Gazette, shows how desperate this administration has become. It shows how those who dare to speak out against what is going on in Quincy are made to suffer the consequences."

Wollaston Beach Sub-Station To Be Discussed With MDC

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has invited Quincy legislators to attend a meeting Monday, June 27, with MDC Commissioner John Snedecker to discuss Wollaston Beach, particularly the police sub-station to be built on the old Kimberly site.

Morrissey noted that some nearby residents have expressed concern over a temporary facility, a trailer on blocks, that has been installed on the Kimberly site.

"The trailer will be down there no longer than two months," Morrissey promised. He said construction of a permanent facility is supposed to begin in the fall.

"The trailer will provide comfort stations, administrative office space with a telephone for emergencies and will also contain limited first aid equipment," said Morrissey.

A spokesman for the MDC said the trailer is part of a campaign for "the most intensive police presence" against drinking, disorderly conduct and vandalism on Wollaston Beach.

"It will be there for the summer," he said.

Bus Taking Residents To Hearings On Welfare Cuts

A bus will leave the Germantown Service Center, 9 Bicknell St., at 9 a.m. Friday with welfare recipients and other concerned citizens to attend the hearings on proposed welfare cuts in the State House.

Seats may be reserved by calling 471-1189.

Bryan Maranhao of the Mass Social and Economic Opportunity Council recently spoke at the Center against the proposed "workfare" and cuts in the emergency assistance program from the welfare budget.

Maranhao called "workfare" a violation of federal law. He said passage of the proposal would require a waiver from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Such waivers have been granted in the past in California and New York.

"Both were fiascos," he said, "which actually cost those states more to administer than they could justify in benefits."

Adams School Youngsters In Salute To Red, White And Blue

The Adams School paid tribute to the red, white and blue in annual Flag Day ceremonies.

The school celebrated the occasion with a special program reminiscent of bicentennial events. Sixth graders performed a choral reading of "My Country 'Tis of Thee", explaining the meaning of freedom and honoring some famous persons who led the colonists to unite.

In a skit by third and fourth graders, George Washington visited Betsy Ross to enlist her help in the fight for freedom; and she sews the first United States Flag.

A special Flag Day chorus, made up of children from each class, led a tribute to the "Grand Old Flag".

During the performance, slides of students' drawings of flags and the men who fought through the years to defend it were flashed on a screen.

To finish the program, Hingham Militiaman James Jamieson, dressed in 1776-style clothing, explained the importance of the common man in the early struggles for freedom, and demonstrated the use and care of the musket.

$140,000 In Grants For Quincy College Students

More than 300 students in three Quincy colleges are expected to share in nearly $140,000 in federal grants and loans for tuition from the U.S. Office of Education, according to Cong. James A. Burke, [D-Milton].

Eastern Nazarene College: 85 students in work-study programs, $37,327; and 86 students in supplementary educational opportunity grants, $46,277.

Quincy Beauty Academy: 50 students in national direct student loans, $18,478; and 19 students in supplementary educational opportunity grants, $10,046.

Quincy Junior College: 62 students in work-study programs, $27,229.

Tobin Seeks TV Monitoring Cameras At Quincy MBTA Stations

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy], has asked the MBTA to install television monitoring cameras in Quincy MBTA stations to protect the public and MBTA employees against criminals.

In a letter to MBTA Director Robert Kiley, Tobin noted that such television monitors are to be installed in the Braintree MBTA station, and that they will be connected to the Braintree police department so that police can observe the station at all times, and respond instantly to emergencies.

"With the rising tide of street crime, and the experience of assaults and handbag snatches in urban transit stations, it seems an excellent investment in public safety to install such monitors," Tobin said.

"I applaud the plan to install these monitors in the Braintree station, but would also urge that they be immediately installed in all Quincy MBTA stations and planned for the Capens Bridge Station, so that the citizens who use these stations can do so with the same safety as those who will use the Braintree station."

He advised Kiley that he has already consulted with Quincy Police Chief Francis X. Finn, who has endorsed the idea of television monitors in the transit stations connected to police headquarters.

Tobin said he hoped the monitors could be installed in the existing Quincy stations immediately, so that they will be in use by the late summer or fall.

He also suggested that the cameras be installed so that they would allow police to observe parking areas and walkways around MBTA stations, as well as interior areas, and that signs be installed warning potential criminals that these areas are under constant police surveillance. He said these measures would add to the deterrent effect of the monitors.

Mary Walsh Honored By Girl Scout Council

A Quincy woman was awarded the Certificate of Appreciation at the Blue Hill Girl Scout Council's recent annual meeting. One of Girl Scout's highest awards, it went to Mrs. Mary Walsh of Quincy. The award was presented by Mrs. Marie Maier of Dover, third vice-president of the board of Directors.

The Certificate of Appreciation is given to an individual in recognition of distinguished service of a high level and are awarded only with the approval of the Board of Directors of the local Council.

The award is determined by factors reflected through Scouting such as personal qualities, service, responsibility, years in scouting and accomplishments, and how the lives of others have been affected by the person.

Blue Hill Girl Scout Council is a United Way Agency and a member of Norwood United Fund, serving over 9,000 girls in Quincy and the South Shore area.

QCAO Conducting Canned Goods Drive

During June, the Quincy Community Action Organization will conduct a canned goods drive to replenish their food supplies at the South-West Community Center, 372 Granite St., and the Germantown Service Center, 9 Bicknell St.

Due to the continued high rate of unemployment in the area, and the hardships of the past winter, many people have found themselves in crises situations, the QCAO notes. In the past, QCAO has been able to help with the assistance of the community - many of those in need.

Those who wish to donate canned goods or staples may bring them into the two Service Centers, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., or they may call 471-0796 or 471-1189.

ON ALCOHOLIC SMOKERS

Last year, 137,800 fires were caused by smoking an average of more than 375 a day. The careless use of smoking materials is the number one cause of fire deaths, accounting for 31% of the total and leading all other causes by an enormous margin.

In the majority of fires where smoking is the culprit, alcohol and bedding or upholstery are accomplices. The victim is often not the smoker but someone else, many times an innocent child. One such case occurred in Pennsylvania where an intoxicated mother dropped hot ashes on the mattress of her 11-month-old daughter resulting in the baby's death.

A study of fire deaths found that 14 out of 16 persons who died while smoking in bed had been drinking. The risk of fire deaths increases with any increase of alcohol consumption.

If you have suicidal tendencies, marry an alcoholic who likes to smoke in bed.

Today's Women

Morrison, Weafer To Head Group

Women's Commission Elects Officers For 1977-78 Season

Election of officers highlighted the final meeting of the season for the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

Christina Morrison will chair the Commission during the 1977-78 season and Mary Weafer will be co-chairwoman. Serving as recorder will be Toby Felton and Elizabeth Van Twuyver will be correspondent.

Outgoing officers honored at the meeting were Trudy Buckley, chairwoman, Rhonda Merrill, correspondent and Ann Aronson, recorder.

The activities and accomplishments of the Commission were presented June 11 to the City Council by Mrs. Buckley. Noting that the Commission had worked to further the role of women through task forces and cooperative efforts with community groups and agencies such as the public libraries and the Women's Center, she outlined the specific programs:

WOMEN AND WORK: Co-chaired by Toby Felton and Janice D'Avignon, this task force sponsored the first all-day conference for women in the city. Co-sponsored by the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College, the special Woman-to-Woman Day featured six workshops including Career and Goal Setting, Credit, Services for the Rape Victim, the Job Search, Women as Entrepreneurs, and Resources for Battered Women. The program, attended by more than 200 persons concluded with a social sponsored by the Quincy Cooperative Bank.

WOMEN AND MONEY: Five monthly workshops designed to educate women on money management were co-sponsored by this task force with the Quincy Cooperative Bank. Topics included budgeting, taxes, credit, mortgages and investments. Chaired by Elizabeth Van Twuyver, the task force also included Linda Stice and Pat Callahan.

WOMEN AND SOCIAL SERVICES: The problem of battered wives was the prime focus of this task force chaired by Anne Keating. Work consisted of research, meetings with existing support groups, and a special workshop on this problem. As a result of the group's efforts, an Assistant Attorney was appointed to prosecute cases involving battered wives. The task force intends to work towards the establishment of special services for abused women.

directory of social services available to women on the South Shore. Where Do I Turn? provided a comprehensive listing of services available to women. Compiled by the Community Services Task Force last year, this booklet has proven to be an invaluable resource for community as evidenced by its second printing and continued demand.

LEGISLATIVE TASK FORCE: The campaign for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, which the Commission unanimously supported, was a major objective during the fall of 1976. Work included a special program Aug. 26, "In Celebration of Women", aimed at building support for the ERA, as well as many other supportive activities.

"Our efforts paid off when the ERA passed in Quincy as well as in the Commonwealth," said Mrs. Buckley.

To insure the proper implementation of the ERA, a task force consisting of Janice D'Avignon, Shirley Dunbar and Susan Buckley was formed. This group monitors legislation, conducts research and makes recommendations to the Commission on all bills affecting women.

T A L E N T B A N K : Recognizing the need to continually reach out to the women in the City, the Commission has recently established a Talent Bank. Designed to facilitate the process for women applying for appointments to city boards and commissions as well as to aid the city by identifying women who are interested in serving the City, the Talent Bank is an effort to involve more women in the affairs of Quincy. Open to all Quincy women, the program is financed with a grant from the Quincy Savings Bank.

Mrs. Buckley stressed the importance of cooperative ventures with public and private groups and agencies. Joint efforts with the Quincy Public Libraries through the efforts of Ann Aronson were cited. These included a film festival on women's issues, collection of literature on women's concerns, and an innovative program of dramatized readings from the letters and diaries of a 19th century feminist, Angelina Grimke Weld entitled, "Freedom and Angelina."

The activities of the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College, under Director Alicia Coletti, were also highlighted. An open house featuring a series of workshops, a women's issues discussion group, an assertiveness training program, interest inventories and the establishment of a scholarship were some of the many activities at the Center designed to serve women.

Mrs. Buckley noted that two members of the Commission had been appointed to serve on two important boards. Mary Vallier represents the Commission on the Hospital Building and Medical Needs Advisory Committee and is now serving on the Gordon House Committee. Carol Mahoney is the Commission's representative on the Norfolk County Rape Crisis Center. Through this type of participation, the Commission continues to broaden its areas of involvement.

"Through our programs, we have reached the lives of many women and have begun to build a network for women who share a common concern for their role in the community," said Mrs. Buckley.

Beverly Dunn Wins $1,500 Quincy Cooperative Scholarship

Beverly Dunn of Quincy has won the Quincy Cooperative Bank's $1,500 scholarship to further her education following her graduation from Quincy Junior College.

The award was made by Bank President John R. Herbert to the student who demonstrated strong academic achievement and has contributed to the college or community in extra curricular, student government, social service or other civic activities.

Ms. Dunn, student government president and associate member of the School Committee, maintained honor grades while enrolled in the QJC business management program.

A graduate of North Quincy High School in 1974, she decided to work for a year before attending College in order to better define her goals.

"I felt I was not ready to continue my education and thus would not get the full benefits of college," she says.

"When I was ready I chose Quincy Junior College because it is a small, personable college with a good academic reputation."

She plans to go on to the University of Massachusetts.

Ms. Dunn said that during her two years at QJC she liked "the closeness of the College community, the ability to establish friendly, warm relationships with the faculty and administration. There are always people here if you want to talk to them."

She not only maintained a 3.5 grade point index, she also devoted much of her time to providing social activities to students and helping to initiate and review college academic policies.

"I became active," she says, "because I wanted to get as many experiences as possible out of college. I wanted to get involved and see how things run. This is my general attitude in anything I do."

"Beverly's contribution to Quincy Junior College has been outstanding in all respects," says Dr. Edward Pierce, QJC president.

Ed White, student government advisor and Quincy

Junior College faculty member, recalls that "Bev has probably been the best Student Government President we've ever had. She got things done, yet continued to maintain a high academic average."

SOME GIFTS GATHER DUST IN THE CLOSET. THIS GIFT COLLECTS INTEREST IN THE BANK.

An account, any account, at Quincy Cooperative Bank, is the perfect way to say "Congratulations" or "Happy Birthday." Because people of all ages, lifestyles, and differences of taste can watch it grow with interest. Or redeem it for cash at sometime, if needed, in the future.

And if recipients regularly add to their new Quincy Cooperative Account, they'll remember the gift from you for the rest of their lives.

Open, for example, a Regular Savings Account in any amount in the name of your favorite nephew or niece. It could be the ideal way to cap off his or her graduation.

And a Paid Up Share will receive a great reception as a wedding gift.

Other gift ideas are Quincy Cooperative Term Certificates, NOW Accounts, Paid Up Shares and U.S. Savings Bonds. All especially fine gifts for special occasions like anniversaries, birthdays, christenings, confirmations, bar mitzvahs and more.

So whatever the occasion, next time give someone special a special gift that will appreciate as well as be appreciated.

Quincy Cooperative will provide a handsome greeting card describing your gift—you can give it with your gift or we will mail it for you.

An Account in Quincy Cooperative Bank...

Josiah would have liked that.

Another little thing that makes us big:

A dozen new recipes for a hometown chef. The fellow with the smile is Fred G. Salowitz. He works as a chef right here in Quincy. Fred came to us for an interest-paying REDI-NOW account. And ended up with a few new recipes as well.

Financial recipes, that is. Thanks to our free Financial Recipe Book, Fred learned all about REDI-CASH. A total banking program that combines REDI-NOW checking, the REDI-TRANSFER money manager and the REDI-CREDIT "write yourself a loan."

"Imagine," says Fred. "A bank that can give me new recipes!"

We're glad to be of help, Fred.

Elks To Host 500 At CP Outing June 26

More than 500 cerebral palsied children and adults, together with members of their families, will attend the 18th annual summer outing to be held at the South Shore Plaza Twin Drive In Theatre, Braintree, Sunday, June 26, at noon.

The event is sponsored annually by the Quincy Lodge of Elks headed by John MacPherson, Exalted Ruler, and George C. Fay, Chairman of the Elks Cerebral Palsy Committee and member of the CP Board of Directors.

The entertainment will consist of singing, professional acts, clowns and rides on the amusements which are part of the "Drive In" Theatre. Refreshments including hot dogs, hamburgers, tonic, milk, candy, watermelon, cookies, potato chips, popcorn, ice cream and other goodies will be served promptly at noon.

Arthur Ciampa, Executive Director, and William J. Trifone, President of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc., and other members of the Board of Directors will officially represent the organization at the Outing.

Any CP child or adult who lives in the South Shore Area is invited to attend the picnic. In addition to the outing, the Quincy Lodge of Elks sponsors the annual Christmas Party which provides social and personal experiences for the extremely handicapped victims of Cerebral Palsy and their families and furnishes camperships for the needy cerebral palsied.

SSARC Plans Benefit Yard Sale

A yard sale sponsored by the Friends of the South Shore Association for the benefit of Retarded Citizens [SSARC] will be held June 25 from 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. at the SSARC Workshop, 1201 Commercial St., East Weymouth.

The sale will feature hand-made items, home-baked products, home-grown plants, novelty items, gift items, and "White Elephant" objects.

Proceeds from the sale go towards the Nike Site building Fund to help in the repair and rehabilitation of the Nike Site Building deeded to the SSARC by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The building will be the future base of operation for the Association and will house the SSARC offices.

The SSARC, now in its 26th year of service to the retarded of all ages, serves Quincy and eight other South Shore communities.

Quincy residents who are chairing the event are Mrs. Esther Durning, handmade items; Mrs. Ruth Moore, home-baked products; and Mrs. Sylvia Roberts, "White Elephants."

Nice guys finish first.

It's that attitude that is making us first in the minds of our customers. But we're a long way from being finished. We want you.

We've got 16 convenient branches to offer you the results of our "Nice guy" approach to banking. We have a variety of savings accounts ranging from Passbook Savings to 90 Day Notice, Certificate of Deposits and Automatic savings plans. And our rates are competitive.

After all, all commercial banks have savings accounts and their rates are pretty much the same. The difference is in the people... the people at our bank care about their customers. We feel it's important to be one of the nice guys. There is so little competition when it comes to that. How is your bank treating you?

Marvin O'Toole Receives Degree

O. Marvin O'Toole Jr. of 100 Dayton St., West Quincy, received a Bachelor of Science degree in Babson College's 58 annual commencement exercises. He is one of 681 1977 graduates of the school.

Ronald Iacubucci Boston College Graduate

Ronald P. Iacubucci of 10 Hyde St., Quincy Center, graduated recently from Boston College.

Iacubucci was president of the Undergraduate Government at B.C., and during summer months worked in the office of Lt. Gov. Thomas O'Neill.

In high school, Iacubucci interned in the Washington office of Congressman James Burke and in the state house office of Senator Arthur Tobin. As an intern in Tobin's office, Iacubucci became the first high school student in the state to draft legislation which subsequently was signed into law. The law, recorded in Massachusetts General Laws Chapter 51 section 42C, establishes the right for students to register to vote in their high schools.

In Quincy, he has worked as a part-time correspondent for The Quincy Sun, and was recently elected chairman of the Lincoln Hancock Community School Council.

Iacubucci plans to attend Boston College Law School in the fall.

Den 4, Pack 412 Visits Quincy Sun

Cub Scouts from Den 4, Pack 412 of Hull visited The Quincy Sun recently to view the workings of newspaper firsthand.

The scouts are Mitchell Doren, Craig Johnson, James Kane, Michael Logan, Blake Hoening, Earle McLeary and Edward Whalen.

Assistant Den Mother Diane Logan accompanied the scouts on their tour.

Marie Logan and Michelle Logan also accompanied the boys.

Den Mother Sandy Doren and Scout Alan Beck were absent from the tour.

The boys first visited the editorial and advertising departments of the newspaper.

They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine. They also saw newswriters being set on the CompuWriter Junior.

The scouts watched a paste-up artist fix the story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

They watched photographs being reduced and screened for publication by an Agfa Gevaert Repromaster camera in the Sun's new camera department.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed the boys asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each scout received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

Amity Means Friendship

Foreign Exchange Students Discover Americans Really Aren't Robots

By SARAH RICHARDS

"Amity" means "friendship," several Quincy host families and four foreign exchange students learned over the past four months through a program called "Amity Aids" administered in the Quincy School System.

The program, in its eighth year in Quincy, provides foreign students with an opportunity to live with a Quincy family, sharing, culture, ideas, and friendship. This year, students from two continents participated: Urs Schellenberg of Switzerland, Beatrice Guillou of France, Marcela Matienzo of Argentina and Ruben Munoz of Chile.

The students arrived in Quincy in late January, and began immediately to feel quite at home here. They attended North Quincy High, travelled around Quincy, Boston, Cambridge, and surrounding towns, and participated in everyday American activities. Urs and Marcela had stayed in other parts of the country for a few months previous to their sojourn in Quincy, but they still found Quincy to be a different experience.

The students thought North Quincy High School and its students very different from their native countries' schools. "There's a lot of freedom for the kids," Ruben explained. "I think that's good." Urs believed "Yes, they do have freedom but they don't take advantage of it, they don't see the opportunity."

Marcela saw the school as a reflection of the Quincy community and society.

"In some ways, Quincy's more conservative than Boston or Cambridge. In the school, the students were much easier to get to know than they would have been in my country. But the families we stay with are the ones we know best and love most."

"We are very glad we came," Ruben added. "We love our American friends, we like Quincy, and I think each of us wants to return."

"Our impression of Americans has changed. In South America, the people think Americans are robots who only want to make money. Well, people have to experience it. The program is great. We each had the opportunity to be involved in society. We would like to thank all the people here - they made us like citizens. I'm very happy to be a Quincy citizen," Marcela explained.

The host families, whom the students would like to thank also, are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sheehan of Adams St., Quincy, [Ruben]; Mr. and Mrs. Peter MacDonald of Presidents Lane and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sherring of Botolph St., [Marcela]; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gifford of Bellevue Rd. and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Swanson of Hingham [Urs]; and Mr. and

Mrs. Walter Pomarole of Park Ave., [Beatrice].

The students will be leaving Quincy within the next two months, each of them planning on travelling more in the U.S. before they return home.

When he returns to Zurich, Urs will resume his studies at the University of Zurich, where he is majoring in English Journo-Linguistics. He is hoping to earn enough money teaching English to be able to come back soon. Beatrice will return to the University of Toulouse, and also hopes to come back to her American friends. Ruben wants to get a degree as a teacher of English in Chile, and Marcela hopes to return to Wisconsin, where she stayed before she came to Quincy, to live.

A farewell dinner for the Amity Aids was held two weeks ago, with Mayor Joseph LaRaia, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon, school committee members, teachers, and host families attending.

"One thing to remember," Marcela added "Amity" means "Friendship."

Wollaston Baptist Youth Fellowship

Raises $500 For Gift Heifer

The Baptist Youth Fellowship of the First Baptist Church of Wollaston raised $500 during a 24-hour fast for hunger held recently at the Church to send a heifer to an Alabama family.

The heifer will be sent to Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, which will train the family to care for the animal.

Vickie Saunders, president of the Baptist Youth Fellowship, said that during the fast, the young people compensated for the lack of food by busying themselves with painting projects and recreation.

A heifer, similar to the one to be donated, was on the church lawn June 12 to enable the entire congregation to visualize the real gift.

LaRaia Snubs Council On City Hall Annex

It couldn't have come at a worst time — about 1:30 a.m. of a morning on which City Council nerves were rubbed raw and tempers flared at the drop of a new city job.

Councillor James A. Sheets was sitting on a resolution that would split up the city's share of federal public works money [$2.4 million] among a lot of little projects in the wards.

Suddenly, Planning Director L. Norman Lundin dropped the information that the Mayor had already decided, without consulting the Council, to spend the money on an annex to City Hall.

Councillors were of the opinion that they had a commitment from Mayor LaRaia, given to them only 10 days before, that he would take no action with the money until he had consulted with the

"I'm deeply disappointed," said Sheets, understating the expression on his face, "that no one saw fit to inform the Council that the decision was made. There isn't anyone here who doesn't have the right to be kept informed."

The brunt of the verbal assault fell on Lundin, who was the only official of the LaRaia administration left in the chamber after a long evening of angry exchanges between councillors and department heads.

Lundin said that his department had already begun preparing plans for a 32,000 square foot annex behind City Hall. Application must be submitted to the U.S. Economic Development Administration by July 5, he said.

Center Garage To Be Swept

MBTA Parking Lots To Be Cleaned 32 Hours A Week

By MICHAEL WIGDOR

Three Quincy MBTA parking lots at North Quincy, Wollaston, and Quincy Center stations will be cleaned 32 hours per week between them, and an industrial sweeper is planned for use at the Quincy Center garage.

The new agreement was made at a meeting this morning at North Quincy station between Reps. Michael Morrissey and Thomas F. Brownell, Walter Henneberry, MBTA director in charge of leasing, and John Kane, representing Opcoa Inc., which cleans the lots.

Morrissey said he was assured from Henneberry that the additional hours for cleaning the lots was going to be put in writing.

Morrissey said the meeting was a final attempt by the Quincy delegation to get the lots cleaned up. The MBTA lots were inspected three weeks ago, Morrissey said, and trash and bottles were found then. The MBTA had a June 9 deadline to clean up the lots, when the legislators would block them off, if the matter wasn't taken care of.

Kane said that in viewing the lots this morning, North Quincy was excellent, and Wollaston was clean. He said Wollaston was difficult to keep clean because "kids cause trouble leaving litter and bottles around."

Rep. Brownell said he was pleased to see a man on duty at Quincy Center, and he said he received a commitment from MBTA officials to bring in a sweeper to clean the garage at Quincy Center.

Both men said there was a vast improvement in the cleaning operation, but said the effort could be improved. Morrissey said that pressure from the Quincy delegation caused the clean-up that hadn't previously been done.

Morrissey said he further wanted the North Quincy lot spruced up, by getting mulch, cutting the grass, trimming hedges, and removing old trees.

It Kind Of Makes You Wonder

"We've been robbed!"

The near hysterical voice on the phone was my wife's. She had just arrived home and found the house ransacked and looted.

They had forced a rear window, searched the house, carried off their loot—all in broad daylight.

We're still discovering things missing and probably will for sometime yet.

Many other people have been put through this. And many more will go through it. But you really don't know what its like until it does happen to you.

When the initial shock wears off, anger sets in. You're not just a little angry, but damn angry.

Creeps have invaded your home, snooped and prowled about, stolen valuables you worked hard for. But worse—the sad part—is the loss of sentimental valuables an insurance policy cannot replace. Cherished mementos like your wife's charm bracelet with a special charm for each of the five children's birth. The Christmas. Father's Day. Mother's Day. birthday gifts—each with a very special meaning. Gone!

Next you find yourself wondering if justice isn't just a little mixed up these days. You remember what some of the people in the business community have been telling you. These people—daily targets of gunmen, punks, shoplifters, con artists, etc.—think courts are a big reason for a lot of crime because they are too soft on those who get caught at it.

And, you recall police officers agreeing.

Some judges, both feel, bend too far to give a break to too many defendants coming before them. To show their gratitude some of those who get a break go out and do it all over again.

So, why not bust into someone's home or store and help yourself to everything you can? If you don't get caught, you've got the loot. If you do get caught, you might be lucky to go before a lenient judge who will tap you lightly on the wrist and tell you not to be naughty again.

No doubt some defendants straighten out when given a second chance. But that doesn't mean they all do. Why let them loose on society time after time, to go out and repeat the particular crime they do best or to try out another one?

Some Supreme Court rulings in recent years make it more difficult for police to catch and convict the guilty. If police apprehend someone in the act of committing a crime they can lose him in a courtroom on a technicality. Or so it seems.

And if police manage to get them behind bars they're out before you know it. Or you've got to listen to them complain about how inhumane prison life is, how lousy the food is, how old the movies are, how embarrassing it is to have to wear prison uniforms or how mean the warden is because he insists their cells be locked at night.

If they yell loud enough, they soon have an army of do-gooders crusading for them and their rights as human beings.

But what about the rights of the victim and his or her family. Nobody seems to get excited about their rights. What about, for example, the girl who is raped and murdered? Some of the do-gooders should be invited to view the body of a girl slain by an animal-like fiend. It would be one helluva education.

Sometimes the way we treat the guilty seems to border on the ridiculous. I wonder, for example, if I had arrived home the other day to walk in on the break and was able to hold one of them for the police. The guy probably would have filed an assault and battery complaint against me.

We seem to have gone far overboard for the guilty. Whatever happened to the rights of the law-abiding majority?

There's a new privacy law which makes it difficult if not impossible for employers to look into the possible criminal background of prospective employees.

Punks can invade your home and walk all over your privacy and get a break from the courts. A housebreak is dismissed as lightly as a common cold. But thanks to the privacy law, a child molester can get a job as a school bus driver without anyone knowing he's a child molester. An embezzler might even land a job as a bank teller or a rapist as a gardener at an all girls school.

Everything just seems to be out of whack these days.

The law-abiding majority's rights seem to keep on shrinking. If the law abiding get ripped off, so what? That's life, baby. But let's take care of the guilty.

The way things are going, we may soon all be packing guns like they did in the old west.

And if you happen to shoot someone for any reason don't worry too much about it. You might be guilty of something but some nice lenient judge might give you another chance.

The shortest lived U.S. denomination was the 20-cent piece issued only in 1875 and 1876.

READER SPEAKS OUT

Responds To Sunbeams Comments On Police Dept.

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I read your article in the "Sun Beams" in your June 16, 1977 issue and I thought I would reply to it. Especially when I read your paragraph and I quote "You can't help wonder what would have happened if the late William Ferrazzi were alive and still chief if LaRaia ordered him to wear his uniform."

You, of all people, and anyone that ever worked for the late Chief Ferrazzi know quite well that if he had been ordered to wear his chief's uniform while on duty by any mayor, he would have complied with that order, for the simple reason that he was proud of it. To compare the administration of the police department under Chief Ferrazzi with that of the present chief is utterly ridiculous.

Chief Ferrazzi had a few minor problems with politicians over the years but he met with them face to face as a man should, and settled the differences accordingly. There isn't one person in this city that could say that Chief Ferrazzi would have run to the courts and pleaded with a judge that the mayor was picking on him. Evidently there is something about the chief's uniform that makes Chief Finn very uncomfortable when he's wearing it in public. I wonder if it's because he feels he shouldn't be wearing it.

If you check some of the back issues of your paper you will find that a couple of years ago, Chief Finn ordered the captain in charge of the detective bureau to wear his uniform while on duty. This was a very "bush order" on the part of the chief because detectives do not wear uniforms while working. That's just plain common sense.

Chief Ferrazzi surrounded himself with professional police officers while the present chief surrounds himself with a group of "chorus girls" who do nothing but pat him on the back and tell him what a wonderful chief he is; and how much his game of tennis is improving.

Chief Ferrazzi carried a police department issued snub-nosed revolver while the present chief has three specially purchased fire-arms issued to him. I don't know if he carries all three of them at the same time. It would certainly be interesting to find out.

Under Chief Ferrazzi, any person in the city, or any member of the department, who had a gripe could go into his office, at any time, without an appointment, and argue their case with him. Whether you won or lost the argument, there was never any doubt in your mind that you had been dealing with a real man. Under the present chief, members of the department are denied access to him for indefinite periods of time.

The present chief has an alarm button under his desk in case he is attacked in his office. Chief Ferrazzi felt no need for such a device.

Chief Ferrazzi, under no conditions, would have assigned a police officer to duty in the mayor's office when he had reasonable grounds to believe that this officer was in any way involved in the commission of a criminal act.

I hope you will not interpret this letter as a condemnation of the men of the Quincy Police Department. They are a good group of hard working cops, who do the best they can under this weak and ineffective administrator. Any working cop will tell you that it is impossible to do good police work without the proper backing from the chief.

Chief Finn gave up control of the police department to the politicians as soon as he got the job, and has since become nothing but a puppet. In my opinion, Mayor LaRaia is trying to wrest control of the police department from the political hacks who now control it and make the department answerable to the citizens of the city to whom it rightfully belongs.

Bob Warmington
Retired Sgt. QPD
35 Dale Ave., Quincy.

[Editor's Note: The writer of the above letter is a retired Quincy Police sergeant whose bid for reinstatement on grounds that he is once again physically fit was blocked by the Quincy Retirement Board.]

Mr. Warmington and the editor of The Quincy Sun agree that the late William Ferrazzi was quite a police chief. But the editor still thinks Chief Ferrazzi, whom he fondly remembers, would have had a few candid comments if he had been ordered by a Mayor to wear his uniform on duty.]

Weymouth Reader Speaks Out On House Redistricting

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

After reading several letters by Quincy residents in your column regarding the House Redistricting, I felt sufficiently motivated to sit down, take out paper and pen, and express my feelings, as a Weymouth resident.

Apparently, many Quincy residents are upset with Speaker McGee's interference in the plan for the express purpose of protecting certain favored politicians on Beacon Hill. I also get the feeling that the residents are genuinely concerned for their State Representative Robert Cerasoli.

As a Weymouth resident, I would like to reply by saying to them, "Do not be concerned, you have support from Weymouth." I am from Weymouth, and I am well aware of what has transpired in recent weeks regarding the Quincy-Weymouth District represented by Bob Cerasoli.

Representative Cerasoli has never been favored by the House leadership and therefore I am sure was thought to be expendable. That is where politicians make errors in judgement. It is not they who decide what Representatives are expendable. They are not the ones that have the choice of electing fine young men like Representative Cerasoli to office. We, the people, have the final right to elect individuals we expect will act in our best interests. It is too bad that politicians do not remember this more often.

In the upcoming state election, however, I am sure that Weymouth people will hear the question asked, "Why elect a Quincy man to represent us, why not a Weymouth man?" To those readers who feel that "where a man comes from," as opposed to "how much he CARES," is important, I would say; ask North Weymouth's people how Bob Cerasoli has represented them for the past two years. Ask them who fought for North Weymouth on issues, such as, the proposed "Tem Harbor Marina Restaurant," the "Billboard" question and the Nut Island sewerage treatment plant. I am sure the answer will be "Bob Cerasoli". I am also sure they will tell you that he has provided them with the best representation they have had in years. As an East Weymouth resident, I wish I could feel that my representation was as fair and unbiased.

Believe me, because a man lives in a town does not necessarily mean that he will represent the interests of the people of that town, as opposed to his own. In fact, I question whether Representative Cerasoli's opponent in the next State Election will really represent the people's interests? I question this, because I have observed several inconsistencies displayed by Representative Mark Fitzsimmons of Weymouth lately.

Fitzsimmons, a young representative, recently elected to the House, was very vocal in his criticism of senior Representative Robert Ambler's interference with the Weymouth portion of the House Redistricting plan just a few short months ago.

Representative Fitzsimmons claimed that Ambler's interest in changing the Weymouth districts was self-interest rather than concern for what was best for various neighborhoods in Weymouth [Patriot Ledger, March 12, 1977]. He also indicated to many townspeople that he might move and run against Ambler.

Now, a few months later the freshman legislator has supported an amendment with the same Robert Ambler and Speaker McGee that would have left Cerasoli with only a portion of the 18,000 people in Quincy, he now represents. The amendment was withdrawn, however, when Representative George Keverian [the man in charge of House Redistricting], would not speak in favor of it.

Two months ago, Fitzsimmons was confronted with a plan that still included a North Weymouth precinct represented for the past two years by Cerasoli. With the elimination of that precinct, [thanks to the perseverance of Representative Ambler], and the addition of a South Weymouth precinct he campaigned in, Fitzsimmons, in my mind, has apparently decided that Self-Interest is not so bad after all.

In conclusion, I would like to reassure the citizens of Quincy that more Weymouth residents than you realize are concerned with the quality of representation they will be receiving, and will vote accordingly in next year's State Election.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS By Tom Henshaw

3,000 Shipyard Workers On Strike

More than 3,000 workers at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Fore River Shipyard went on strike seeking a 13-cent an hour pay raise.

"The attitude of company representatives over our demands leads us to believe that the strike will be long and costly," said John McGonagle, national representative of the CIO Marine Shipbuilding Workers Union.

"Shipbuilding in this country is nearing extinction due to high wage rates," said Bethlehem Vice President Joseph M. Larkin.

There was a difference of opinion over current wage rates. The union said they ranged from 96 cents to $1.38 an hour while Larkin said the average hourly wage at the shipyard was $1.53 an hour.

FIREMEN EXONERATED

Civil Service Director Thomas J. Greehan exonerated nine Quincy firemen of any wrong doing after solving the mystery of how an extra piece of paper was found in an envelope containing their examination papers for chief.

Seems the exam monitor took the papers home over the weekend and her brother, a Boston fireman, opened one of the envelopes to see what the Quincy exam was like. He copied some of the questions and answers and one of his papers got in the envelope by mistake.

SCHOOL RAISES FOLTO

The School Committee was discussing plans to ask the State Attorney General to force the Quincy city auditor to honor $200 pay raises given to School Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard and Asst. Supt. Albert H. Cochran.

The City Council objected to the pay hikes and directed Auditor Leo E. Mullen not to pay them.

SQUANTUM WINS BIG

The Squantum Community Association baseball team collected 35 hits in weekend victories over the Braintree White Sox, 13-2, and the Weymouth Town Team, 17-5, to remain one point behind the Milton Merchants in the South Shore League race.

Johnny McDonald hit safely four times in five trips to the plate in the Braintree game while Jack Casey went six-for-six and John [Buddy] Warstler four-for-six for Manager Don Frazer club against Weymouth.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By Eric Swider

Saving Trees Could Cost Us Jobs

A bill has been introduced in Congress to double the size of the existing Redwood National Park in California that, if passed, could jeopardize future manufacturing jobs on the South Shore.

Arcata National Company owns Halliday Lithograph Corporation, with plants in West Hanover and Plympton, that employs 900 here. Their annual payroll is estimated to be over $10,000,000. The fast growing company could be severely impacted if H.R. 3813, introduced by Congressman Philip Burton [D-Calif.], was adopted because it would take Arcata Redwood's, its most valuable timberland and sawmill, and thus, according to company officials, could impact on Halliday's potential growth here in Massachusetts.

According to the company, expansion of Redwood National Park makes neither economic nor environmental sense for a number of reasons.

First, there are already more than 181,000 acres [283 square miles] of prime redwood timberlands preserved for future generations in over 100 parks and reserves in California.

Second, the existing Redwood National Park is more than adequate in size and composition. Within the boundaries of today's Redwood National Park lies a large natural prairie, a scenic river valley, a scenic river mouth, rugged seacoast, the entire watershed of 8 streams, a major geologic fault, the first, second, third and sixth tallest trees in the world, a lagoon, a resident herd of Roosevelt Elk, and a variety of plant species, virtually the entire natural spectrum of the redwood forest is represented here.

Third, the Park is protected. All of Arcata's timber operations [as well as those of the other major companies operating in the vicinity of the Park - Louisiana-Pacific Corporation and Simpson Timber Company] are conducted in strict conformance with the California Forest Practices Act, which is recognized by conservationists and the industry alike as the most stringent timber practices legislation found anywhere in the United States.

In March of 1976, Arcata announced the voluntary imposition of a highly restrictive set of timber management practices governing all their operations adjacent to the Park.

In November of 1976, they signed an agreement with the National Park Service, which provides for detailed on-the-ground reviews, inspections and observations before, during and after proposed timber operations.

This February, the National Park Service testified before the House Government Operations Sub-committee on Environment, Energy and National Resources that they are pleased with the cooperation of the timber companies and that at this time no damaging logging practices are being conducted on the lands surrounding the Park.

Fourth, the cost to expand the Park would be tremendous. By the Department of Interior's own estimates, it would cost an additional $600 million to accommodate Rep. Burton's bill to enlarge the existing Park.

In 1968 Congress authorized $92 million for the formation of the Park; today the cost has already reached $172 million, with $110 million more pending on court claims.

Redwood is not only the most expensive Park in American history, it also costs more than Yosemite, Yellowstone and all the others combined; and as of September 1976, it has cost more than twice as much as all the other National Parks in America combined.

Fifth, the impact of a moratorium on logging or an expansion of the Park would have a devastating effect on the local economy. An estimated 2000-3000 timber industry and related jobs, more than 44,000 man-years of meaningful employment, would be lost in an area where the unemployment rate is already at 15% - twice the national average.

This would entail an annual loss of $13 million in timber industry payrolls and $35 million in total regional income.

It would also entail a loss over the next two decades of one billion 800 million board feet of logs [through the removal of 74,000 acres of timberland from production], or enough lumber to build approximately 200,000 homes.

Promises that these deleterious effects would be offset by benevolent government giveaway programs must be viewed skeptically since not one such promise made at the time of the creation of the Park has been kept.

Additionally, the taking of our most productive timberlands would force the abandonment of carefully prepared, long-range forest management programs designed to insure sustained yield operation.

The former Secretary of the Interior projected total visitor traffic to the Park of 950,000 visitor days per year; however, in 1976 there were a scant 34,867 visitor days. This is really not unexpected: a hospitable climate for the world's tallest trees - fog, rain and cold - is just not attractive to the tourist.

Thus, the most expensive Park in the nation's history is one of the least visited parks in America.

In conclusion, the expansion of Redwood National Park just doesn't make good economic or environmental sense for America or the South Shore.

Montclair Pupils Offer Tips On Conserving Water

The third grade pupils of Miss Julie O'Hara at the Montclair School read about the drought in California and they got so concerned about the possibility of Quincy drying up that they collected ideas on how to save water.

The result is a coloring book listing nine ways to save water. Here's how:

- Turn off the water while brushing your teeth. Use a paper cup to rinse with.
- Put out pails to catch the rain. Save this water for house plants and for the garden.

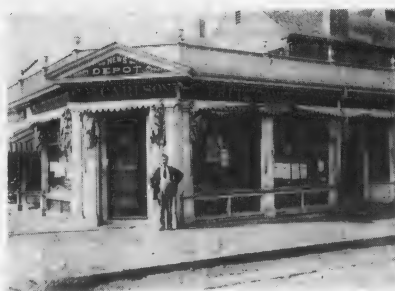

- Keep a pitcher of water in the refrigerator for cold drinks instead of running the water until it gets cold.
- Put a brick in the back of the toilet. It saves gallons of water.
- Keep drinks in the refrigerator, cold enough to drink, then you won't need as many ice cubes.
- Fill up the dishwasher before using it. Try to use it just once a day.
- Take a short shower.

Showers use up to 10 gallons a minute. When shampooing turn off the water.

- Fix all leaky faucets. One small drip can waste 25 gallons a day or 9,000 gallons a year.
- If you have a dehumidifier at your house, save the water that is collected and use it on house plants.

There may not be a drought in Quincy yet but the kids in Room 10 have a lot of good ideas.

Morrissey Commends Mayor, Council For Arena Opposition

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) has commended the Mayor and the City Council for their strong opposition to a proposal by the Boston Celtics to build a 21,000-seat arena near State Street South in North Quincy.

Morrissey said he was afraid that such an arena might "strap the taxpayer with higher taxes." He warned that, in order to make money, "events, such as concerts, would have to be booked and access to the area would increase the burden of traffic."

"Such a complex could cause an increase in city services such as police, fire or public maintenance," said Morrissey. "A large influx of traffic on local streets could change the auto insurance rates in Quincy."

Mayor LaRia has directed city officials to stop negotiating with the Celtics about the arena and City Councilors John J. Lyden and Dennis E. Harrington have led the council fight to have the land rezoned.

"The City Council has been a real credit to the best interests of Quincy," said Morrissey. "The Council's plan to change the zoning of the land to Planned Unit Development (PUD) will insure that they have adequate say in any future negotiations."

He said there was a lack of information available to residents and city officials about the project, adding that there were many hidden costs and disadvantages that were not brought out.

Wollaston Association Plans July 4th Field Day

Turn Lunch Trays Into Cash

64 Squantum School Pupils Recycle 300 Pounds Of Aluminum

By MICHAEL WIGDOR

The Squantum Community Association awarded certificates recently to 64 children from the Squantum School's 4-H Ecology Club who recycled approximately 300 pounds of aluminum this school year at the Reynolds Aluminum Mobile Recycling Unit at the South Shore Plaza, Braintree. The children recycled aluminum lunch trays which were washed, dried, and stored until they were brought to the Reynolds Center. The center paid 15 cents per pound originally but has raised the price to 17 cents per pound for cans and clean aluminum such as trays, food containers and foil. Money raised went toward a party for the children.

The program, into its second year, was arranged by Mary Gougian, incoming president of the SCA, and Jean Green of the school's environmental committee. There were two lunch programs, for grades 1-3 and grades 4-6.

"Kids have signed up for September," Mary said. "The program is something they like to do, evidently."

"Recycling pays because you can make money, avoid litter, and conserve energy," she said.

"Aluminum is completely recyclable. It shrinks when recycled, unlike when it is produced when there is much waste. For every ton of aluminum made, there is three tons of waste."

"The children met to recycle aluminum once a month, as the Reynolds Center in Braintree is open on the first Friday of every month from 1-3 p.m."

She said she would like to see a recycling program started in other schools.

"It gets kids thinking in direction of the environment. We can't be a nation of throw-aways," she said.

MONEY TALKS

Don't Wait For Falling Interest Rates To Buy A Home

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings

and Loan Association
of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

If you are deferring the purchase of a home until interest rates come down, you get an "A" for trying to make the most of your money but an "F" for making the wrong decision.

The question here is not so much if and how far interest rates will decline as how much housing prices will rise.

Long-term interest rates such as those applicable to home mortgage loans are slower to change than the short-term interest rates which make the news headlines. They don't hit the same extremes.

Economists specializing in the home mortgage market anticipate a decline in interest rates of not more than one-quarter to one-half a percentage point over the next six to twelve months.

On the other hand, home prices are increasing at an average annual rate of approximately 10 percent. There is little likelihood, with increasing lumber prices, labor costs, zoning laws, building codes, and environmental restrictions, that this annual rate can be slowed down.

If you believe that the ceiling has been reached on how much the home buyer is willing to pay, take a look at the experience of our Canadian neighbors. In mid-year 1976, the least expensive lots in Vancouver, British Columbia, ranged from $34,000 to $37,000 for a 33-foot lot. The largest increase in residential land prices was in an area where in nine months a 60 to 70 foot lot increased 23 percent to a minimum $80,000. The average price of real estate sales handled through the Vancouver multiple listing service was $68,900.

Economists for the United States League of Savings Associations have tabulated break-even points between declining interest rates and rising housing costs. Their tables show that if you are interested in a $40,000 home, for which you have $10,000 available for down payment and can obtain an 80 percent loan at 9 percent, and you decide to wait a year in hope of getting a mortgage loan at 8 percent, the house must appreciate in value 7.243 percent [considerably under the average] in the 12-month period for you to come out even.

If the mortgage rate dropped to only 8.5 percent within a year, the house you desire would have to appreciate only 3.483 percent in market value or you would be a loser.

Similarly, at a current mortgage loan rate of 8.5 percent, a drop of a hoped-for full point to 7.5 percent in the next year would have to be paralleled by a below-average rise of 7.473 percent in the house sales price for you to break even.

Home ownership, now rather than later, continues to be a good investment, just as it has been for anyone whose memory goes as far back as the 1930's.

Wollaston Recreational Facility Superintendent Receives Certification

James Fitzroy, superintendent of the soon to be opened Wollaston Recreational Facility, has received certification from the Golf Course Superintendents Association of America.

Professional certification requires a minimum of six years experience and the passing of an examination covering all aspects of recreational management from "pesticides to personnel".

Fitzroy, 30, who has been with the Wollaston Recreational Facility since its early planning stages two years ago, previously had been head Superintendent at the Cazanovia Country Club, Cazanovia, N.Y., and the Pleasant Valley Country Club in Sutton. He holds a B.A. from the University of Massachusetts and lives in Franklin.

Fitzroy said he is "very optimistic" about the first full season at the facility. The new Presidents Golf Course will not officially open until on or about the July 4th weekend, but the tennis courts which were opened last year, have been in operation since April.

For the past month, the facility has been hosting high school tennis matches. Later on, Fitzroy hopes to offer a program of lessons.

The 10 asphalt plexi-coated courts are lighted and open from 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily. Fees for court use for county residents are $2, during the day and $3, after 5 p.m. For non-county residents, the fees are $1 dollar higher.

When it is fully opened, the Wollaston Recreational Facility will offer a clubhouse, dining area, locker rooms, a golf and tennis pro shop, shuffleboard courts, horseshoes and picnic areas for the general public.

The facility is a division of Norfolk County and operated by the County Commissioners, James J. Collins of Milton, Thomas K. McManus, Norwood and George B. McDonald, Quincy.

Three graduates of the Quincy Public High Schools recently were awarded $500 musical scholarships in recognition of their outstanding musical abilities and achievements.

Given in conjunction with the Quincy Savings Bank, the second annual Quincy Symphony Scholarships were presented to Kathryn Engлке of 59 Longwood Rd. Merrymount; David Leone of 19 Pray St., Quincy Point, and Celeste Rioux of 3 Bayside Rd., Squantum, at the orchestra's annual dinner meeting by Donald Johnson, Assistant Treasurer of the bank.

Miss Engлке has performed four years in the Quincy High School Band, two years with the Quincy High School Orchestra, two years in the Southeast District Concert Band, and one year with the All New England Festival Chorus. She will continue her musical education on flute and on music history and theory at the University of Massachusetts.

Mr. Leone, a graduate of the Quincy Vocational Technical School, has performed as a clarinetist and drummer with the Quincy High School Band for three years and the Quincy High School Orchestra for one year. He will attend Berklee College of Music, majoring in music education.

Miss Rioux was president of the North Quincy High Concert Choir and Madrigal Singers, and is a member of the National Honor Society. She was selected to perform with the All Eastern District Choir representing the Northeastern part of the United States. Miss Rioux participated in the Southeast Music Festival for two years and the All State Music Festival for two years. She will enter the University of Lowell in the fall, majoring in voice.

Freedom Park Delegation Approves John Adams Statue

A delegation from the Freedom Park Association's Adams Statue Committee visited Barre, Vt., recently to approve the clay model for the statue of John Adams that will be placed in Freedom Park in September.

The group included Dr. Donald

MacLeod, president of the Freedom Park Association; Mark Feevey, treasurer; William A. O'Connell, president of the Quincy Historical Society; Mrs. Linda Montillo of Monti Granite, prime contractor; the Rev. John Banks, Mrs. Joyce King, Mrs.

Claire Hanlon and Mrs. Gertrude Roy.

The statue will be carved of fine-grained Westerly granite from Rhode Island with Quincy granite used for the base. Quincy granite is too coarse grained for

Disappointed In Reaction LaRaia Seeks Bellotti, Barry Advice On Safety Commission

Mayor LaRaia is taking his proposal for a three-member, part-time Public Safety Commission to the highest law enforcement officials in the state for their advice.

The Mayor said he plans to confer this week with Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti and Public Safety Commissioner Charles V. Barry to seek their advice on how to establish such a commission.

"I will request a review of all the legalities involved in setting up the Commission as well as the powers I have proposed for the commission which will oversee the Police, Fire and Civil Defense Departments," said LaRaia.

"Similar public safety commissions are proving extremely beneficial in other communities throughout the Commonwealth, such as Malden, Springfield, Westfield and Fall River.

"The city of Cambridge, with a total population only slightly higher than Quincy, has recognized the importance of such additional positions, and is presently favoring a full-time police commissioner.

"There is a definite need. A public safety Commission will enhance the accountability and efficiency of the Police, Fire and Civil Defense Departments. It is unreasonable to charge the police and fire chiefs with the sole responsibility of their respective departments."

The Mayor said he was disappointed by the negative reaction of Police Chief Francis X. Finn and Fire Chief Edward Barry concerning his proposal for a public safety commission.

"It appears their statements were made too hastily," said LaRaia. "I'm confident that once they study my proposal, they will learn it is not my intention to take away any of the powers they require to direct their respective departments."

"They will also learn that the proposal for the Public Safety Commission certainly was not intended as criticism of either department. I am very knowledgeable about the city's assets — the Police and Fire Departments."

"The most specific aims of my proposal for the Commission are to eliminate unnecessary burdens for the Chiefs and to isolate them even more from political influence."

"Budgets for each department have increased $2.1 million over last year, pushing the total well over $10 million annually. As a result, paper work has become voluminous."

"By relieving the police chief and fire chief of the arduous and time-consuming tasks of lobbying for their budgets, contract involvement, participation in Civil Service hearings, civilian controversies and other managerial chores, they will be able to concentrate fully on law enforcement and fire protection."

"With the rate of inflation the way it is in this era, it is becoming an almost impossible task for one man to administer a department the size of our police and fire departments. We must look ahead, we must prepare for the future."

displayed publicly.

Preliminary carving and shaping will be done in Quincy, and the final work in Barre, Vt. It is planned to have it in position at the southern end of Freedom Park by Sept. 10, with dedication following shortly after.

The statue will be paid for by an $8,000 grant from the American Revolution Commission with matching funds raised by the Freedom Park Association through individual business contributions.

Morrisette Defeats Holbrook, Wollaston Wins, Quincy Bows

By TOM SULLIVAN

Morrisette Legion's baseball team, seeking its 21st Zone 6 championship in 32 years, is off to a fast start with a 4-1 record following a 7-4 win Monday night over Holbrook.

Quincy was edged by Scituate, 5-4, Monday, to drop its record to 3-2, and Wollaston topped Hingham, 7-4, for its first win, making its mark 1-3.

Friday, Morrisette and Wollaston clash at 8 at Adams Field and Quincy plays Randolph at 6. Sunday, Wollaston is home to Weymouth at 8 at Adams. Monday, Wollaston hosts Dedham at 8 at Adams and Morrisette is at Braintree at 6. Tuesday, Quincy entertains Weymouth at 8 at Adams and Wednesday it will be Quincy and Morrisette at 8 at Adams and Wollaston at Scituate at 6.

Monday, Ron Donovan pitched well for Morrisette until the sixth when Holbrook scored three runs on two hits and two walks. John Wilkinson came on and struck out three of the four batters he faced. Dave Perdios was the big hitter with a homer and triple and three runs batted in.

Tom LaBlue pitched well in Wollaston's first win over Hingham and Bob Stack led the batting with two triples and Bob Lindenfelder had a triple. In losing to Quincy, Canton and Holbrook, Wollaston hit well but its pitching collapsed.

In its previous game, Morrisette had edged Randolph, 5-4, with two runs in the final inning. Dave Perdios reached on an error to open the inning. Steve Cook doubled home the tying run. Mike McCormack singled and on a wild pickoff throw by the catcher, Fran Donovan, running for Cook, scored the clincher.

Peter Niosi and McCormack had two hits each for Morrisette. Wilkinson was the winning pitcher in relief of Mark Giordani.

In earlier games, Morrisette had defeated Milton, 7-5, and lost to Scituate, 4-3, when Scituate's Jim Jenkins hit a 400-foot triple in the fifth inning to drive in the winning run.

Quincy, last Friday, topped Canton, 3-1, with Dave Raftery pitching outstanding ball, Dan O'Leary, Mike Murphy and Lew Fishman coming up with brilliant defensive plays and Fishman providing a thrill by stealing home.

Raftery pitched a three-hitter, struck out nine and gave up just two walks. Fishman hit a long triple in the fourth and stole home with two outs with the winning run.

In its previous game, Quincy had defeated Dedham, 6-2, with Kurt O'Sullivan allowing only three hits and striking out 10. O'Sullivan started a fine double play in the fourth, throwing to Murphy, whose relay to Fishman at first completed it.

The big hit for Quincy was Greg Zoia's booming triple to deep center which scored O'Leary and Zoia then scored on a passed ball to give Quincy a 2-1 lead.

Quincy, this year, has 11 returnees from last year's strong club which handed champion Morrisette two of its three defeats.

The veterans for Coach Gerry O'Leary's team are outfielders Zoia, Rick Gilbody and Fred Kussman, infielders Murphy, Dave McLaughlin and Fishman, who also plays in the outfield and pitches, catchers Steve Bell and Brian Jolley and pitchers Raftery, Art Davis, O'Sullivan and Fishman, who played freshman ball at Northeastern.

O'Leary and his assistants, Dave McMillan and Bob Brill, have a number of fine newcomers who could make Quincy a Zone 6 contender again.

They include Matt Higgins from Don Bosco High, Lou Matthews, who played at Broad Meadows Junior High, O'Leary from Quincy High, Joe Waterhouse and Dave Cramond from North Quincy High, Jim Deitsch, a fine catcher who formerly played with Barry's Deli in the Babe Ruth League, and pitcher-infielder Ron Prezioso from Abp. Williams.

HN Legion, Keohane's Roll Along

Keohane's and Houghs Neck Legion continue to roll merrily along in the Quincy Junior Baseball League.

Keohane's leads the National League with a 12-2 record and HN paces the American League with an 11-3 mark.

Houghs Neck romped to a 17-3 win over Foley Chrysler last week with Marty McLaughlin pitching four-hit ball and striking out 11. HN continued its torrid hitting as hitting as Mark Rhigini was three including his third homer. McLaughlin was four for five including his sixth homer. Kevin White had two doubles and Glen Oriola, Steve White, John Phelan and Dick Comeau a hit each.

Oriola turned in a key play to break up a Foley rally with the score 3-3 at the time. White, who fractured his skull in a freak accident, is fully recovered and is four for eight, including a homer and three doubles, since his return.

Earlier, HN, the defending city champions, walloped Bryan Post, 12-0, with Oriola pitching an outstanding game. Rhigini, McLaughlin and Oriola had two hits apiece, Rhigini and McLaughlin hitting homers as did Comeau. Steve White and Phelan contributed singles.

The defense was outstanding with Mark Abboud, Kevin Tenney, Donny Kelly and Jim McPartland coming up with clutch plays.

HN has 19 home runs. Dom Peters, Comeau, John O'Connor and Mike Notorangelo have contributed solid hitting and good defense plays.

Keohane's topped Colonial Federal, 8-3, for its 11th win as John Balzano pitched a no-hitter. All three runs were unearned. He had 10 strikeouts in making his record 6-1. Balzano also had three doubles, Jimmy Jaehning had a three-run homer and Dennis Cronin and Paul Scibilio had timely hits. Balzano has 70 strikeouts on the year, averaging 10 a game.

Keohane's 12th win was a 5-3 decision over Kiwanis with Charlie Jaehning hiking his record to 6-0. Jerry Frazier drove in the first run and Jaehning aided his own cause with a two-run double. Balzano and Corliss also had hits.

Mass. Fields 'A' Wins Title Despite Upset Loss To Beechwood

John Phelan's 16 points led Beechwood Knoll to a 36-30 upset win over Mass. Fields A in the North Quincy Youth Basketball League.

It was the only loss in 12 games for Mass. Fields A, which won the league's first championship.

Rick Radzik, Steve Canty, Mile Julian and Vic DiGravio were other key players in the upset. Wayne Hamilton had 10 points for Mass. Fields.

Mass. Fields A clinched the title with a win over Montclair, giving it a final 11-1 record to Wollaston's 10-2 mark.

Mike O'Hare scored 18 points in the win over Montclair, while Jim Whitehouse had 13 and Steve Racette 10. Also playing well were John DeForge, Jim McNulty and Frank Maloney. Montclair was sparked by Eric Peterson.

Beechwood also registered wins over Mass. Fields B and Quincy to wind up with five wins in a row. In the 57-39 win over Mass. Fields B Radzik had 15 points and Phelan had 13.

DiGravio also played well and added seven points. Kevin Tenney had 12 and Steve Hogan nine for Mass. Fields and Dave Oxner, Paul Cahill and Steve Libby also had good games.

In the win over Quincy Phelan again was high scorer with 14 points and Canty had 12. Ed O'Donnell was strong off the boards. Greg DiBella led Quincy with 15.

Mass. Fields B finished up with two wins over Montclair and Squantum. Against Montclair Mark Hubbard had 12 points and Brian Gibbons added eight. Denis Cronin was strong on defense. Eric Peterson paced Montclair with 10 and Scott Holmes played well.

Gibbons had eight points in the 29-21 win over Squantum. Tenney and Cronin played well at guard and Scott MacTaggart was outstanding on defense. Dean Phillips led all scorers with 13 for Squantum and Colin McLeod had eight.

Wollaston clinched second place with wins over Squantum and Montclair. Tim and Paul Ryan led the team against Squantum while Phillips and McLeod again paced Squantum. Against Montclair Denis Downing and Jim Flaherty paced the attack and Montclair was led by Dan Baker and Peter McGillicuddy.

In the most exciting game of the final week Alex Coutts scored with one second left to push Quincy by Squantum, 22-20.

Coutts finished with six points as did John Reilly. Squantum was led at guard by Chris Pappas and John Panaro. Phillips led all scorers with 12 for Squantum.

Elks, Police Club Setting Hot Pace

The Elks and Police Club are leading the American and National Leagues respectively in the Quincy Babe Ruth League, the Elks with a 9-2 record and Police with an 8-3 mark.

Morrisette nipped Granite City Electric Sunday, 6-5, with Andrew Carrera the winning pitcher. In his first start, Andy had nine strikeouts and allowed six hits and also contributed two hits himself. Mark Messina stole home with what proved to be the winning run. Robbie Craig, Messina, Chris Segalla, Glen Segalla and Rich Finnegan each had a hit. Joe Crifo had two hits for Granite City and losing pitcher Bob McCormick had 11 strikeouts.

Morrisette also defeated Houghs Neck Legion, 7-0, with Finnegan hurling a one-hitter and striking out six. Mike Sullivan had three hits and Glen Segalla, Craig, Carrera and Finnegan one each. Dean Prescott had the only HN hit.

Elks topped Local 1139, 8-5, although outthit, 10-8. It was the seventh win in a row and Bob Dubois pitched his third straight win, striking out seven and walking only one. Fred Palmer and Terry Hogan led the Elks with two hits apiece and Bill Foley had a bases loaded triple. For Local 1139 Bob Howlett had three hits and Mark Millane had two.

Golden Print walloped Bryan VFW, 14-3, scoring six runs in the first and six in the last inning. John Todd was the winning pitcher, giving up eight hits. Golden pounded out 17 hits off two VFW pitchers. Paul McConville was the losing pitcher. Scott Lowell had four hits and Dan Flannery, Todd, Dan Molloy, Al Singh and Brian Reale had two each. Sean Martin and Molloy hit home runs. Pat Ennis had four hits for VFW and Jim Perrault had two.

Elks defeated Golden, 8-4, with Mike Crowley pitching a one-hitter. He had a no-hitter going into the last inning but had control trouble and was touched for an infield single by Martin in addition to walking three. Steve Healy came in and got Molloy on a fly to right field and the runner was doubled off first for a game ending double play. Hogan led the Elks with three hits, while Dubois and Steve Pecevich had two each. Palmer, Doyle and Healy had one apiece.

Sox, Indians In Showdown, Pirates In N.L. Runaway

First place in the Quincy Triple A loop's American League will be at stake tonight [Thursday] at Artery Field when the White Sox and Indians, tied at 9-3, clash.

The National League race is a runaway for the Pirates, 10-2.

The Indians outslugged the Yankees, 12-11, with Scott Barber going three for three with two RBIs, Dave Adams having a double and triple, Kenny Wright a double and single and Jimmy Doherty a double and single. Jeff Bonarovich had a three-run homer. Jim Wilson, Tom Schofield and Bob O'Brien had doubles for the Yankees.

The White Sox nipped the Indians, 2-1, with Bob Maimaron the winning pitcher. Paul Egan had a double and drove in both White Sox runs in the third. Barber had a double to drive in the only Indians run.

The Tigers walloped the Mets, 10-5, with Kenny McDonald the winner. Rich Coscia was two for three and drove in the winning run. Fred Cashman had a triple and Tommy Murphy a double. For the Mets George Woodman was two for two and Jimmy McSweeney had a double.

The Pirates defeated the Braves, 12-9, with Jimmy

DD's, Jimmy's Pacers, Bocce Defeats Balducci's

Bocce Club and Balducci's Pizza, contenders for first place in the American League West, went into overtime in a heated game before Bocce Club pulled out a 12-7 win in the Game of the Week in the Quincy Women's Softball League.

The win pushed Bocce Club ahead of Balducci's in the division, with an 8-2 record to Balducci's 7-2.

Dee Dee's leads the American League East with a 10-0 mark. Jimmy's, 9-0, leads the National East and Wollaston Credit Union paces the National West with a 3-5 mark.

Bocce's Sandy Sacchetti hit a three-run homer in the second inning for a 3-0 lead but Balducci's came back with five in the fifth for a 5-4 edge as Bocce added one in that inning. In the sixth Dawn Gillespie hit a triple to send home two runs for Bocce and then scored herself on an error to put Bocce up, 7-5. Balducci's bounced back with two to tie it up on Judy Balducci's two-run triple.

The seventh inning saw good defense for both teams as shortfielder Kathy McConerty and Karen Malvesti coming up with fine plays for Balducci's and Barbara Donnelly and Joann Arcana for Bocce Club.

In the eighth Bocce Club broke it open with five runs, all with two outs. Cindy Maze hit a double and scored on Rona Schmitt's hit. Denise Goodrich doubled home the second run and, with two on base, Susan Smith slammed a home run to make the score 12-7.

Bocce Club is coached, by Everett Goodrich and his players are Schmitt, Goodrich, Diane Costa, Smith, Bev Bergman, Arcana, Donnelly, Margie Durante, Sacchetti and Maze.

Billy Towle coaches Balducci's. His players are Balducci, McConerty, Cissi Leonard, Eileen Amorilla, Denise McGann, Ann Cantrambone, Malvesti, Diane

Roxie's, J's Continue Battle For Top

Roxie's and J's continue their red hot battle for first place in the South Suburban Softball League with Roxie's having a 14-2 record and J's 13-2.

Sunday Roxie's swept a double header from Wollaston Bowladrome, 18-10 and 14-1.

Roxie's just had too much power as it pounded out 22 hits in the first game and 16 more in the nightcap.

However, J's kept pace with the leaders with a sweep of Gutz, 23-5 and 6-4.

In the first game Roxie's Raiders jumped off to an early lead, holding a 10-5 edge after two innings, and were able to hold off numerous Bowladrome threats.

John MacFarlane paced the first game attack with four hits, while Ron Bouchard and George Matheson had three apiece.

The second game was a runaway as Roxie's pulled away to a 12-0 lead before Bowladrome scored its only run.

Chip Harding and Matheson had three hits apiece and Walsh drove in four runs. Minton hit his 13th homer of the year and pitcher Steve O'Rourke returned to form with a four hitter, allowing only an unearned run. He now has an impressive 8-1 record.

Quincy Bay Safe From Landfillers

Quincy Bay is safe from the landfillers at last.

Gov. Michael Dukakis came to Quincy last week [by MBTA, no less] to sign a bill that prohibits the filling of 26 acres of the Bay to provide for expansion of the MDC's Nut Island Sewerage Facility.

Or, rather, he signed a facsimile copy.

The original, he told the crowd in the City Council chamber, was signed the day before and had to be sent to the State Archives.

"You can keep this one as a memento of a strong community effort," he said.

It was presented to Lois Murphy, Pam Craig, Debby Timcoe and Dave Colton, all of Houghs Neck, leaders in the fight against the landfill.

"This is what can happen when the state is responsive to a community," said Dukakis. "In 2½ years we have established links between the State House and the cities and towns. It is important that we are sensitive to suggestions."

"Quincy Bay and Boston Harbor are precious resources. San Francisco is fighting now to save its bay. I hope we don't have to go through the same thing."

Council On Aging To Meet Thursday

The Quincy Council on Aging will hold its monthly meeting today (Thursday) at 2 p.m. at Martinsen Street.

Mrs. Eileen Kirby, director of the Home Care Services and Nutritional Program, will be the guest speaker.

Sabina Stenberg, chairwoman of the Council on Aging invites the public to attend.

LaRaia Hit On Using SOI Funds To Pay Part-time Aides

usually sends me a letter to tell me what the money is used for."

The Quincy Sons of Italy, who have contributed more than $100,000 to charitable and scholarship causes over the past five years, donated $10,000 to the Capital Improvement Fund last November.

City Auditor Charles Shea said that Query received $600 from the Fund, Sanford A. Kowal, the city's labor negotiator, received $2,900 and Creative Communication's got $742.50.

Kowal became labor negotiator for the city on a partime basis after the firing of Joseph P. McParland, who had held the job fulltime until last spring.

Query was named to the post of partime assistant city solicitor following the dismissal of Robert Fleming, who also had held the post fulltime.

Both McParland and Fleming were holdovers from previous administrations.

Shea said the bills approved by his department showed Query received $600 for four legal conferences with the Mayor and other city officials and four appearances in court, three of them in connection with the Finn case.

Creative Communications was paid a total of $302.50 for 14 hours work on advertisements, $247.50 for nine hours work on the midterm address and $192.50 for seven hours of consultation and business development.

Kowal was paid $2,900 for 58 hours of work negotiating labor contracts at $50 an hour.

Shea said he questioned the payment of the bills from the Fund because "it is usually used for capital improvements or charitable purposes." The city solicitor gave his approval, Shea said.

He said the Mayor told him he wanted the bill paid from the Fund but, added Shea, no one said the money would be paid back. He said he doubted that it could be returned without City Council action.

Shea said other disburseals from the fund included $950 to entertain the elderly, $1,240 to refurbish the Adams tombs in First Parish Church and $811.73 to buy oil for needy families during the past winter.

Raymond, who is a member of the Quincy Sons of Italy, said he did not think that the lodge intended for the money to be used to pay Query, Kowal and Creative Communications. He called it "a slap in the face to have it used this way."

Usually, he said, it had been used for such things as new equipment at City Hospital, or to refurbish the Adams tombs in First Parish Church, things that "are a positive force in the community."

"It might cause them to discontinue the payments," he said. "Other organizations might be cautious in their gifts to the city if they knew their money was being spent on this kind of thing."

"How much time did the partime city solicitor put in on the Chief Finn case," he said. "Do the Sons want to get involved in that? They are interested in good works, not corruption."

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, who is a candidate for Mayor against LaRaia, termed it "another way to circumvent the City Council when we question his bills and his consultants."

Survival Programs Topic At Germantown Center

Peter Carter-Donnelly will explain the programs at Survival, Inc., since its founding seven years ago during an in-service training session Tuesday, June 28, at 10 a.m. at the Germantown Service Center, 9 Bicknell St. The public is invited.

Other programs next week at the Center include:

Monday - The weight control group meets at 10 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Rd, Quincy Point.

Tuesday - Kids-in-the-Kitchen, cooking lessons for boys and girls ages 9 through 12, at 12:30 p.m. Rosemarie Hanley of Greater Boston Legal Services is available with legal assistance in welfare, social security, veterans services, etc. 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Wednesday - Family Planning Clinic appointments, 4 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Peter Carter-Donnelly will speak on Survival, 10 a.m.

Thursday - Boy Scouts meet at 7 p.m. The Well Baby Clinic for preventive care and immunization is open at 1 p.m. at St. Boniface Church Hall, 26 Shed St. Macrame classes, adults 10 a.m., children 3 p.m.

Friday - Family Planning Clinic appointments from 11:45 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Harborview Residents Committee, Inc., meets at the Center on the second Tuesday and the fourth Wednesday of each month at 8 p.m.

Supplementary Budget Meeting

everyone agreed was hardly fair. The explanation drew what he termed "a snicker" from Council President Arthur H. Tobin.

"The reason I am snickering," he said, "is because I recall a young man sitting in this chair who was running for Mayor criticizing the then-Mayor for giving us the same explanation for raises."

"At the 11th hour during the election he sent out flyers criticizing him. And now you are giving us the same argument."

It was deduced that Tobin was referring to Mayor LaRaia since he [Tobin] was sitting in Councillor Dennis E. Harrington's chair which was occupied by LaRaia when he was a city councillor running for Mayor.

Councillors, in an angry mood for the entire session which ended at 1:55 a.m., also criticized the fact that the budget was fed, a page at a time, to The Patriot Ledger, starting at 7 p.m., so that it could be in print as a legal notice Tuesday as required by law.

"They were feeding it to the Ledger at 7 but they didn't give it to the Council until 10 o'clock," fumed Tobin.

The high point of the evening for the councillors, who were doggedly scanning the budget for possibly newly created jobs, came when Harrington got Miss Saccone to admit that $12,000 in the City Solicitor's budget was for "a parttime job you'll be asked to create."

Still another little thing that makes us big:

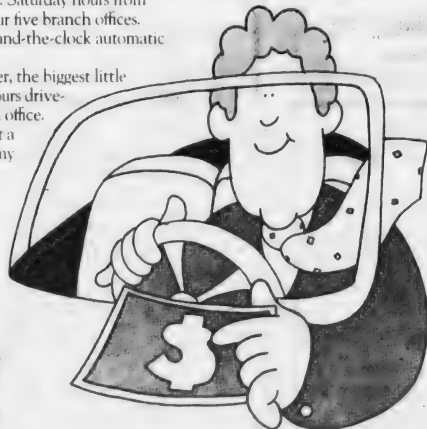

The drive-up teller at our main office. The big reason Dave Martin comes to Quincy Savings is the interest we pay him on his regular savings account — 5.25%, compounded daily for an effective annual yield of 5.47%.

But Dave says there are a few little things we do that matter almost as much. One of them's convenience. For Dave that means five offices in Quincy and one in Hanover. Saturday hours from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at our five branch offices. And Plus 24, our round-the-clock automatic teller.

For Dave, however, the biggest little thing is the extra-hours drive-up teller at our main office. Why? "Because I get a chance to show off my new car. Which I bought with a loan from Quincy Savings."

Glad to help you get the wheels to drive up to our drive-up window, Dave.

Realtor's Tip

Turn Off Water While Brushing Teeth

Turn off the water when you're brushing your teeth and save both money and this precious natural resource.

If you allow the water to run while you're brushing your teeth, you waste 2½ gallons of water, says the National Association of Realtors. For a family of four, brushing their teeth twice a day, that is a waste of 20 gallons a day.

For a year, that is a waste of 7,300 gallons. In a city of 100,000 people, if everyone let the water run while they brushed their teeth, that community would waste 730,000,000 gallons of water annually.

WRONG PRICING LOGIC

If you try to sell your home yourself, how do you set a realistic price? Most people base their price tags on the only facts known to them: original price, cost of improvements, and hoped-for profit. Then they adjust to bring their figure in line with what they think similar homes are bringing. Sounds reasonable, but three of the basic facts are irrelevant, and the fourth is highly dubious.

How then do you set a realistic price? By consulting a local Realtor whose business it is to know how much property can bring and will bring. His knowledge of the market is invaluable.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Q. I was born on January 31, 1950 at 6:39 P.M. in Brighton, Mass. I think I have a Leo Ascendant. Would you tell me what would be beneficial for me in regards to friendships and Career?

S.F.C.

A. If you were born exactly at 6:39 P.M. Eastern Standard Time then the twenty ninth degree of Leo was in your Ascendant. However if you were born only four minutes later, at 6:43 P.M. or later, then the Sign of Virgo would be on your Ascendant. Your Sun, Venus and Jupiter were all in Aquarius; the Moon and Uranus were in Cancer; Pluto in Leo; Saturn was in Virgo; Mars and Neptune were in Libra and Mercury was in Capricorn.

Friends and friendships will always be very important to you all through your life and in all your relationships. This horoscope indicates that your wish is that parents also be friends; that your husband be mate and friend; co-workers, superiors, bosses, in fact all relationships, whatever they be, be friends.

You will always be desirous of companionship, be very considerate of the feelings of others and wish others to understand your own sensitive feelings. Your Sun, Venus and Jupiter in your Sixth House also indicates a friendly attitude to those who serve you and the feelings that are reciprocated.

You are likely to marry one who is or was a friend or meet your husband through a friend. It would be unfair to pick a particular Sun Sign for compatibility without considering the other persons complete horoscope.

Career wise, since you have a special talent for sensing the needs of others, you should do well in any occupation or service that reaches the public, preferably through progressive organizations or in some kind of social service work.

For questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

Quincy Track Club Registration Saturday

The Quincy Track Club will begin its fourth summer with registration Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

More than 300 registered last year. The club is defending N.E. age group champions in outdoor track, indoor track and cross country.

This year the club will send a team to try out for the Boston Jesse Owens team which will go, all expenses paid, to Los Angeles for the national Jesse Owens Classic at UCLA. Joanne O'Leary was the sole club member on the 1976 team which went to Philadelphia. She came in fifth in the 12-13 long jump.

The QTC will also send a team to try out for the Boston Youth Games team, which will go to the nationals at New Haven. Last year club members picked up a gold medal and two silver medals while representing Boston.

More information can be obtained by calling Mrs. Irene Kelly, 65 Copley St., Quincy, [479-7032].

North JVs Win Suburban Championship

For the past several years North Quincy's junior varsity baseball teams have had outstanding records under Coach Lou Ioannilli and this spring was no exception.

The young Raiders won another Suburban League championship with a 15-3 record, led by pitchers Bob McCabe, 5-0; Gary Earle, 5-3; Harry Donoghue, 3-0, and Bob Thomas, 2-0.

The team had an outstanding .318 batting average with 13 players hitting more than .300.

Key performers on this year's club were Larry Baker, Kevin Cobban, Brian Condon, Dave Cramond, Sean Donaghy, Harry Donoghue, Earle, Pat Ennis, Jim Flaherty, Dave King, John Lothrop, Greg Madden, McCabe, Bob Nolan, Tom Quinn, Bob Stevens, Thomas, Joe Waterhouse and Greg Zoia.

"Many of these boys saw some varsity service and should do very well on the varsity team next season," Ioannilli said.

expenditures were considerably higher than the city's income.

"It was a serious financial condition we had to face immediately. We were running a huge deficit. It was a disturbing situation. We alerted the residents of the problem immediately.

"Taxes had to be increased, there was no other way to make ends meet. We instituted a cost-saving program and streamlined several departments, the combination of these actions has enabled us at long last to have a budget within reason.

"Despite the many cutbacks we were forced into making, we have been fortunate that we haven't had to reduce the services to the residents of the city.

"While the financial task received top priority, it did not deter my administration from moving forward and tackling the many programs that needed attention. I believe, that during the past 17 months we have transformed Quincy into a progressive city, an active city and an alive city.

"We created a Central Maintenance garage to handle all of the city's motor vehicles and this has immediately proved an economic boost. The addition to North Quincy High, instead of the construction of a new facility, saved millions of dollars as well as eliminating the need for double sessions.

"A 24-hour emergency ward as well as improved maintenance has enhanced the City Hospital. And soon, we expect a major Boston medical school will become affiliated with the hospital to make it even more serviceable for the residents of the city.

"The management at the hospital, under my direction, has reduced the deficit considerably during the past several months and we expect even greater financial gains in the months ahead.

"None of these programs could have been accomplished without the participation of the residents who have accepted my invitation to serve on various citizen committees which I have established.

"Quincy residents are concerned citizens. They are responsive, aware and dedicated. They enjoy challenges. Their input has been beneficial and enlightening. It is a great experience for me to work with them.

"It is these people who have enhanced my confidence and generated my enthusiasm and my desire to continue in office.

"I intend to continue this rapport with the people through these committees because it is a direct line of communication to all of the residents of the city.

"Quincy is no longer a closed door operation. The people—the residents, the taxpayers, the young and the old—are participating. That's the way it should be. That's the way I want it to be.

"I have appointed more citizen committees than any prior administration. There are no cliques, no intrigue. Anyone and everyone has access to the mayor's office."

LaRaia told the guests at the reception that he rejected a proposal for a 20,000-seat arena at State Street South because it was "too sketchy and was not a sound financial investment for the city.

"I welcome any type of business or industry that will produce revenue for the city and relieve the burden of the home owner," he said. "But I will not engage in any risky venture that could prove a detriment."

LaRaia-QHA Court Battle Resumes

Mayor LaRaia's suit to force publication of the Quincy

Housing Authority's eligibility lists will resume Friday morning in Norfolk Superior Court in Dedham.

The jury-waived trial opened last week before Judge Robert H. Beaudreau but was continued to enable the Mayor's attorney to obtain testimony about the State Department of Community Affairs [DCA] regulations.

LaRaia filed suit after the QHA refused his request for eligibility lists as of Jan. 1, 1976, and April 8, 1977, and lists of those persons accepted for senior citizen housing between Jan. 1, 1976, and April 8, 1977.

Paul A. M. Hunt, attorney for the QHA, argued last week that making the lists public would violate the right to privacy law, which, he maintained, superseded DCA regulations.

3 Indicted In Line For Pay Increases

$600,000 'Mistake' In Mayor's Salary Budget

By TOM HENSHAW

The City Council spent the better part of the past week trying to find Budget Coordinator Sarah Saccone in order to get a fix on specific details in Mayor LaRaia's $3 million supplementary budget.

She was at the South Shore Music Circus in Cohasset when the Council wanted her Friday night. She couldn't be found on Saturday. And Monday night, Arthur Casey, the Mayor's executive secretary, disclosed that she was on vacation.

So the Council, with the aid of City Auditor Charles Shea and some department heads, calculated the budget on its own and found that Miss Saccone apparently had overestimated budget needs by more than $600,000.

Three persons currently under indictment for extortion or theft apparently would receive retroactive cost of living pay increases under the package submitted by the Mayor's office.

Council President Arthur Tobin called it "ludicrous".

Councillor John J. Quinn, chairman of the Finance Committee, reminded the Council that more than $600,000 is equal to about $2 on the tax rate, using the rule of thumb that $270,000 in the budget equals $1 on the rate.

Casey, while conceding that he had nothing to do with the budget figures, said that Miss Saccone's figures were estimates since many labor contracts containing wage hikes were not signed until last Friday when the

Downtown Redevelopment Plan Brings Mixed Reaction

Downtown Quincy merchants have reacted to Mayor LaRaia's multi-million dollar redevelopment plan with what may best be described as cautious enthusiasm.

The master plan, which would take at least 15 years to accomplish, includes an enclosed shopping mall and an international merchandising mart. Several business buildings would be taken to extend McGrath Highway through downtown Hancock St. to the planned Upland Rd. Extension.

Sternest opposition came from Jack London of Quincy Furniture, whose building would be one of those demolished.

"I'm opposed to it 100 per cent," he said. "It would take this building away. There's talk of removing Kincaide's along Revere Rd. and I'm across the street. Where is the plan? I haven't seen any plan. Nobody knows what's going on. What we should have is a change in cosmetics."

Charles Ryder of Ryder's curtain store, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, called the plan "a little grandiose. I would question its practical application."

"But we certainly have to do something. But I'd like to see more details."

Ryder's store also would be demolished to make way for the project.

"I don't look forward to it," he said. "They would provide relocation but the cost factor can be exorbitant. If I got a secondary location I might suffer businesswise."

Ove Strandkov, manager of Sears Roebuck, was the most enthusiastic.

"I think it's terrific," he said. "I think it would help business. I don't think it would be too expensive. Part of the plan is we don't disturb Sears. We would love more competition. The more businesses, the merrier."

Jason Feldman of Jason's Luggage and Music Shop: "I'd like to see it get started. Anything that will bring new people into the community is good for the community. If it brought in major retailers it would spice things up. It would help the tax base and it would help everybody in Quincy."

City Payment Of LaRaia Ad In Sun Comes Under Council Fire

An advertisement that appeared in the Quincy Sun on Jan. 20, 1977, and billed as "paid for with private funds," actually was paid for with city funds that were paid back when the error was discovered, Arthur Casey, the Mayor's executive secretary, said Monday night.

The full-page ad, in which Mayor LaRaia listed the accomplishments of his Central Automotive Maintenance Division, was called "a paid political ad" by City Council President Arthur H. Tobin when he brought the matter up at a meeting of the Council's Finance Committee. The ad was signed by former Sheriff Charles W. Hedges.

Tobin is challenging LaRaia for the Mayor's office in next fall's election.

"Once they found out that taxpayer's money was used to pay for this ad," said Tobin, "an attempt was made to retract the check and pay it in cash but the cash was refused."

"And then subsequently to that another check was produced to the same amount and signed by the executive secretary and handed to the treasurer to reimburse the city for the $200 payment."

Casey explained it like this: "The bill was sent to the Mayor's office and it stated 'bill to Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, City Hall, Quincy, Mass.' and there was a bill for $221, I believe. It stated the size of the ad and $200. It didn't say what the ad was placed for. And $21 for a smaller ad, I believe it was a legal notice."

"The clerk that handles the Mayor's billing in the Mayor's office saw this as a bill addressed to the Mayor at City Hall with no description on the bill itself that this was to be paid for privately."

"She made an error and she put it through on a warrant, which was unchecked until Mr. Shea [Auditor Charles Shea] notified us. The day he notified us we corrected the mistake."

"I offered the money to Mr. Bosworth [Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Sun] and explained the entire

Walking Tours of Historical Sites Initiated By Historical Society

The Quincy Historical Society has initiated a walking tour of the historic sites of downtown Quincy similar to Boston's Freedom Trail.

It's off to a modest, inexpensive start with a simple sheet of directions on how to get to the various places from a standing start at the Historical Society's Museum and Library in the old Adams Academy Building.

Eventually, it will be funded by the Society with a matching grant from the Norfolk County Development and Tourist Council.

"Now that Quincy Heritage has been terminated, we have to do something to keep the tourists coming to Quincy," said William O'Connell, president of the Historical Society.

The first major expense will be signs to be placed in front and back of the Adams Academy identifying it as the Quincy Visitors Information Center to travelers on Hancock and Adam Sts. and Freedom Park.

"We hope to have something up at the MBTA station, too," said O'Connell. "We have found that an increasing number of people who come to Boston for conventions and the like come to Quincy by the MBTA to see the sights."

The new trail, which is known officially as the Historic Quincy Center Walking Tour, includes the Adams National Historic Site, the Quincy Homestead, the Adams Academy, First Parish Church, City Hall and the Hancock Cemetery.

It is recommended that visitors travel to the Adams Birthplaces by car.

$126,405 In Wiring

The Department of Wre Inspection issued 81 permits for wiring estimated to cost $126,405 during the month of May, Inspector William H. Pitts reported.

The major wiring projects for the month were a new building for Bay Bank Norfolk Trust at 56 McGrath Highway, a new 67-unit apartment building at 995 Southern Artery, and a new building for Presidential Press at 94 Columbia St.

The Department collected $1,930 in fees, issued 34 certificates of approval, made 145 inspections, noted 12 defects, made 10 re-inspections and answered three fire calls.

Money Used To Pay Aides

Questionable Whether $4,242 Sons Of Italy Money Can Be Restored

A question still remains on whether or not the LaRaia administration will be able to restore $4,242.50 that was taken from the Sons of Italy Capital Improvement Fund to pay parttime city employees.

Arthur Casey, the Mayor's executive secretary, told The Sun last week that "we intend to make adjustments. There will be an excess in the solicitors office and at the end of the year we'll transfer the money back."

The money was used to pay for the services of Sanford Kowal, the city's parttime labor negotiator, and Alphonse W. Query, the parttime assistant city solicitor, and to a public relations firm for advertising assistance and help on the Mayor's mid-term address, after the City Council refused to get up the money to pay them.

Monday night, Casey, Council President Arthur H. Tobin, and City Auditor Charles Shea, got into a hassle over the reimbursability of it all.

TOBIN - I read in the paper last week that the executive secretary made a statement that the funds that were taken out of the Sons of Italy monies were only borrowed. They're going to be put back. I ask you at this time, Mr. Auditor, does any member of this City Council have the authority to vote taxpayers' funds to put money back in a charitable account of the Sons of Italy? Yes or no.

SHEA - No.

TOBIN - I think that ought to put that issue to rest, once and for all.

But not in Casey's mind, at least. Later on in the meeting, he sought to correct it.

CASEY - Mr. Shea said that the city council could not transfer the funds but in a meeting in the Mayor's office, Charlie, you said that, come the end of the year, we would be able to replenish the Sons of Italy account with monies in an account that had an excess.

SHEA - I said, now bear with me, and I explained this to Sen. Tobin this afternoon. I said that if an expense account were funded for the payment of those charges that a recoding could be made on the Sons of Italy account and charged to another account but I never said we could appropriate money...

CASEY - I didn't say appropriate but we could replenish that account.

SHEA - Not by appropriation and that's the question Councillor Tobin asked me.

CASEY - Well, it's a play on semantics. In other words, the money could be replaced in that account.

SHEA - If the council appropriated a sufficient amount of money to cover those bills and put it into another expense account, they cannot put it back into the charity fund.

CASEY - But in the meeting we had in the Mayor's office you state we could replenish the account by recoding.

SHEA - If you had the money in another account I said that you could recode it. That's exactly what I told Councillor Tobin today. But I did say that you could not appropriate money into that account.

School, Jennifer McCauley of Atherton Hough School, and Cindy Olsen of Snug Harbor School.

Brian Murphy and Susan Calahan of Broad Meadows Junior High School were presented medals and American Legion citations, and had their names engraved on a plaque which is kept at the school.

The flag essay contest is sponsored each year for fifth and sixth grade students by the CASEY - We never asked to appropriate money. We just asked could it be replenished at a later date and your answer was, yes, by recoding. That was the meaning of my statement in the paper.

TOBIN - Now, how in heaven's name is any member of this city council going to that [transfer the money] when they wouldn't even vote to appropriate the funds from the solicitor's account to begin with. Even before the Mayor's office went to the Sons of Italy account the Mayor's office couldn't get the votes on this council to pay these bills from the solicitors account so how are we going to replenish it at a later date. Where are we going to manufacture these votes?

CASEY - Where are we going to pay a labor negotiator.

TOBIN - Then they shouldn't have made the statement to terminate the position saying all contracts were negotiated. It's quite obvious that this is an attempt to circumvent the actions of this City Council by the Mayor's office bringing in consultants. And every time you want to bypass the bidding law of this city you declare it an emergency. There is a pattern here, a deliberate pattern. The office of the Chief Executive has just said "To hell with this Council. I'm going to bypass it." And because the Council reacts in a different way, then they're going to bring in consultants. And then at the last minute they're going to ram these consultants payments through this Council. Good luck to them, if they can get the votes.

'Sometimes I Wanted To Pull My Hair Out'

Mother Of 7 Finds Time To Graduate From Nursing School

By SARAH RICHARDS

"She's really terrific," the voice over the phone said, "the kind of person she is and what she did. She had her family, and she always wanted to be a nurse, and she went ahead and did it."

"She" is Nurse Madeline Burke of 24 Webster St., North Quincy, mother of seven children ranging in age from nine to 17, and a May graduate of Laboure Junior College's two-year nursing program. The voice belongs to one of her friends and former neighbors, who preferred not to have her name mentioned because, she said, "I'd like to have her guess."

Madeline herself minimized the difficulties of being a mother and training for another job.

"Sure, it was hard. But I always wanted to be a nurse, and I honestly believe if there's something a person wants to do, he can do it. There were a lot of times I wanted to pull my hair out, but the kids were pretty good and the end was always in sight."

The nursing program Mrs. Burke enrolled in was in intensive, largely "theory of nursing" one which met virtually all day five days a week.

Classes, and the night and summer-time she spent studying, all detracted from her motherly and housewifely duties, but, she reported, "everyone at home pulled together to help out. The kids are normal kids, yelling, screaming, and the like, and we had to let the housework go a little bit, but we got the important things done."

Nursing, for Mrs. Burke, is something "I always wanted to do." The motivation came three years ago, when she was over at a friends house.

"She was making a cake

PROUDLY DISPLAYING her diploma from the Laboure Junior College is Madeline Burke, mother of seven who recently completed Laboure's intensive two-year nursing program. for a friend of hers who had just become an LPN, and I said that nursing was something I always wanted to do. My friend said she had always wanted to do it, so she made a few phone calls. We went to Quincy Junior College for a year, and then to Laboure."

"I feel I owe a lot to Quincy Junior College - it started me. I owe a lot to my husband, too. He gave me the green light - he thought it was a joke at first, but now, well, he knows it's for real!"

Madeline now has an associates degree in Nursing, and will take the state board exam in early July, which if she passes will qualify her to be a Registered Nurse [RN].

"I wouldn't have done it if the kids hadn't all been in school. I feel it is really important to be home when the kids are little."

She will be taking the summer off, "to give everyone a break," before she goes to work in an area hospital. "I'd love to work at Quincy City Hospital, or Carney Hospital, but I feel I need a little more clinical practice and I'd get that at Lemuel-Shattuck Hospital."

"Madeline's a special person," the mystery caller said regarding her, "warm, loving, very bubbly, always ready to lend a helping hand or a good ear to listen. The hospital that gets her will be very lucky."

Madeline is the wife of James Burke. Their seven children are Christine, 17; Jimmy, 16; Dianne, 15; Kevin, 13; Steven, 11; Keith, 10; and Timothy, 9. Keith and Timothy are Quincy Sun newboys, and won the second prize television set in The Sun's recent subscription drive competition.

- Take care of your keys; don't give others a chance to duplicate them.
- Outside, don't let your house look unoccupied. Keep things from piling up. Have your lawn mowed and snow shovelled while you're gone.
- Put a light on while you're away - preferably one with an automatic timing device.
- Think twice before letting strangers know when you'll be away from home, or before letting one in.
- Have police and a trusted neighbor check your home while you're away for more than a few days.
- Insure your possessions and keep an up-to-date inventory of them.
- Ethc an identifying number on items that a thief might steal.
- Keep valuables in a safe deposit box.
- Find out about burglar alarm systems and install one.

Peter MacDonald Elected Red Cross Chapter Chairman

Peter F. MacDonald was elected chairman and 102 groups received recognition for their bloodmobiles and blood donor recruitment efforts at the recent annual meeting of the Greater Quincy Chapter, American Red Cross at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Outgoing president Stephen T. Keefe Jr., was also honored.

Since July 1, 1976 the 91 groups in the Chapter area have recruited 8,018 donors, of which 1,382 were first time and yielded 6,598 units of blood.

The Quincy School Department, Quincy Recreation Department, and the Braintree Park Department were awarded certificates "in grateful appreciation for sponsorship of American Red Cross Safety Program Courses to promote safety and training among the citizens of the community so they may care for the sick and injured."

Radio Station WJDA, The Quincy Sun and The Patriot Ledger were honored for their support of Red Cross activities and telling the Red Cross story.

Tim M. Hurst, Administrative Director of the Northeast Regional Red Cross Blood

Program, spoke about changes going on in this, the largest Red Cross Blood Program in the U.S., with a need of 368,000 units of blood a year. He stressed the need for dependable quality blood supply from volunteer donors during the summer months.

Keefe, who retired as chapter chairman after serving from 1971, was honored with a citation and a plaque by the board of directors, volunteers of the Chapter and representatives of American National Red Cross.

Irving J. Boyes was chairman of the event and Kenneth P. Fallon Jr., of WJDA was toastmaster.

In addition to MacDonald other officers elected were:

John Allegrini, vice chairman; George S. Bennett, vice chairman; Leslie M. Brierley, treasurer; Susan Murdock, assistant treasurer; and Mrs. Hilding Carlson, recording secretary.

The following were elected to the Board of Directors for a term of three years: Mrs. Carol Hills, Susan Murdock, Mrs. Hilding Carlson and Thomas Lyons.

Boston Gear of North Quincy will observe its 100th anniversary during July and August with a display of historical memorabilia at the Quincy Historical Society's museum in the Adams Academy building.

Boston Gear, today a leader in the sale of standardized gearing, was founded in Boston in 1877 by George Grant, who sold the business 14 years later to Frank Burgess.

Burgess moved the universal joint and automotive steering gear manufacturing operations to a small, two-story wooden building in North Quincy in 1906, then built a new factory and moved the rest of the business.

The new building was destroyed by fire on Thanksgiving eve, 1909 but in less than three months, with the help of its 125 employees, a new building was erected, machinery rebuilt and production resumed.

Noting repeated demand for the same or similar gears, Burgess began stocking and cataloging certain products, a standardized approach that proved successful and is the backbone of the company's business today.

Boston Gear was a major supplier of parts to the government during two World Wars and reached its highest level of employment during the Korean War at which time facilities were expanded to provide space for manufacture of helicopter transmissions.

Burgess died in 1929 but the business was continued by his wife with Harry Hamilton Kerr operating it for many years as general manager.

Boston Gear was purchased in 1946 by the Murray Co. of Texas, which in turn was acquired by Rockwell Standard Co. in 1965. Through mergers, Rockwell Standard evolved into North American Rockwell and finally Rockwell International.

When Rockwell International decided to concentrate on aerospace, automotive and consumer products in 1975, Boston Gear was sold and became a key element in a new corporation, Incom International Inc.

As part of its 100th anniversary, the company is seeking memorabilia, such as newspaper clippings, photos and old products, for display. Anyone who has such things should contact Martha Flynn in the Personnel Department.

Wollaston Beach Police Substation Plans Due Soon

Members of the Quincy legislative delegation met with MDC officials Monday to discuss a number of Wollaston Beach problems, particularly those arising from the proposed police substation on the site of the old Kimberly's Restaurant.

Harold Coose, an aide to Sen. Arthur H. Tobin, said the MDC people assured Quincy legislators that preliminary design specifications for the substation will be out in a week or so.

After that, the Quincy delegation and MDC officials will meet once again to approve the specifications, which, said Tobin, will not be approved unless they contain toilet and first aid facilities and "a police presence".

The MDC officials were asked to expedite the design of the permanent building so that a trailer, now housing temporary facilities on the site, can be moved as soon as possible.

They were also asked to place a sign on the trailer indicating that it is an MDC facility and to install a telephone in the trailer since the nearest emergency phone is now two blocks away.

The MDC people told the legislators that it is hoped all summer help will be on the job cleaning up Wollaston Beach by July 5 and that the broken-down sanitizer has been repaired and is once again sweeping the beach.

Attending the meeting were Reps. Michael W. Morrissey and James A. Sheets, Thomas McDermott, administrative assistant to the MDC commissioner; Robert Freeman, assistant director of MDC parks; and Richard Zelin, chief engineer. Coose represented Sen. Tobin.

34 Graduate At Gridley Bryant As DiMartinis Bids Farewell

Thirty-four grade six students of Gridley Bryant School, West Quincy, graduated recently in ceremonies which also marked the end of Principal Louis DiMartinis' final year at the school.

After three years at Gridley Bryant, DiMartinis will become principal of the Snug Harbor School in Quincy. Principal Gerald Gowan of the Snug Harbor School will become the principal of the Gridley Bryant School.

"It's an excellent school, a very community-involved one," said DiMartinis. "The parents are very co-operative. I'll miss them."

The graduating students are: Eric Abba, Brian Anderson, Lisa Belmonte, Erik Densmore, Kevin Dunn, George Gardiner, Thomas Gillis, Julie Hannon, Sandra Harris, Mary Ann Higgins, Elizabeth Hill, and Kevin Johnson.

Edward Johnston, Tamar Kliphan, Andrew Krause, Judy Lowell, Joseph Madden, Michael Mahan, Brenda McCormick, Michael McGrath, James McSweeney, Ann Mulligan, Caroline Newcomb, Glen Oriola, Kimberly O'Tool, David Polk, Lynn Remick, David Shannon, Paula Tausevich, Thomas Walsh, Robert Wilson and Gary Dalton.

The glee club and the entire sixth grade entertained the audience during the ceremony with several songs.

New President Elected

3 First Parish Delegates Attend Unitarian Universalist General Assembly

Three delegates from United First Parish Church here helped elect a new President of the continental Unitarian Universalist religious denomination and set the social concerns policy for the following year at the 16th annual General Assembly of the Unitarian Universalist Association.

United First Parish delegates attending the week-long Assembly on the Cornell University campus in Ithaca, New York, were:

Rev. and Mrs. Keith C. Munson of 65 Dixwell Ave., Quincy Center, and Mrs. Howard Davidson of 35 Windsor Rd., North Quincy. Delegates ended the week by electing Dr. Paul N. Carnes, minister of the Unitarian Universalist Church of Buffalo, New York, as President of the Boston-based denomination.

Among a number of significant stands taken by General Assembly delegates were resolutions supporting the passage of an Equal Rights Amendment, a stand against the initiation of a Constitutional Convention on abortion, and for the establishment with Canada of a grain food bank.

Delegates attended a full agenda of meetings, worship services, workshops, and heard a round of speakers including Dr. Arthur S. Fleming, Chairman of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights; Dr. Milton Konvitz, professor emeritus of industrial and labor relations and of law, Cornell University, and Dr. James Luther Adams, professor of divinity emeritus, Harvard Divinity School, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

During the assembly sessions Rev. Mr. Munson presented the Sermon of the Year Award to Rev. Oren Peterson of the Unitarian Church in Duxbury. This award was given in memory of the late Dr. Clarence R. Skinner, dean of the Theological School at Tufts University. Mr. Munson had been appointed as Chairman of the Sermon Contest Committee.

Also attending the Assembly, with non-delegate status, was Mrs. Gretchen McKay, a church member and Coordinator of the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee Action Leagues. Mrs. Margaret Winchester, the church's Director of Religious Education, participated in many of the programs for religious educators.

On the denominational level, delegates filled the position of moderator of the Board of Trustees, elected two trustees-at-large, and filled positions on internal Unitarian Universalist Association committees.

The Unitarian Universalist Association at 25 Beacon St., Boston, is the continental headquarters of the religious denomination whose Universalist side dates formally back to 1793 and to 1825 for the Unitarians. The two denominations merged in 1961 in Boston, Massachusetts. There are one thousand Unitarian Universalist societies in the United States and Canada which profess a firm commitment to freedom for all individuals as the hallmark of the faith.

Quincy Delegates Attending Lutheran N.E. Synod

The Rev. James L. Kimmell, pastor of the Faith Lutheran Church, and Mrs. Lorraine Blake and Mrs. Anneli Johnson will attend the New England Synod of the Lutheran Church in America which began today in Bridgeport, Conn.

Business sessions of the convention will be held through Saturday at the University of Bridgeport while festive service of Holy Communion will be at the Salem Lutheran Church.

5 Sacred Heart Students Win Essay Prizes

Five students from the Sacred Heart School, North Quincy, were honored recently for their award winning essays in the "Books for Brotherhood" program sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Noreen Rogers, grade eight, who wrote on the book Karen by Marie Killilea and William McKeon, grade seven, who chose Cross-Fire by Gail Graham, each won first place awards for their essays. They both received a Certificate of Recognition and a check.

Placing second was Kathleen Latus, grade eight, who wrote on Brian Piccolo by Jean Morris. Two third place winners were Joseph Paglierani, grade seven, The Cay by Theodore Taylor and Maureen O'Toole, grade eight, Bound for Glory, by Ruth Chessman. Each of these students received a Certificate of Recognition and a copy of the Guinness book of World Records.

Over 2,100 children competed for the fifteen awards presented by the Conference, making The Sacred Heart School and its five winning student's accomplishments all the more impressive.

Mrs. Mary Raux, Children's Librarian of the North Quincy Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library, a participating librarian in the program, submitted the Sacred Heart entries and received a Certificate of Recognition and two checks with which to purchase books for the North Quincy Branch Library.

The awards were presented to the students by Philip McNiff, Director of the Boston Public Library, in the Children's Room of the Boston Public Library.

Germantown Bloodmobile Saturday

The Germantown Service Center will sponsor a bloodmobile drive in conjunction with St. Boniface Church Saturday [July 2] from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Church Hall at 26 Shed St.

"The need for blood is often highest in the summer months when vacationing children are more susceptible to accidents," said Patricia Peers, director of the Center, in urging support for the drive.

The Center will start a new summer feature, a story hour for children ages 6 to 8 years next Tuesday [July 5] at 10 a.m. Youngsters may register by calling Sheila Jordan at 471-1189.

Programs for the week at the Center, 9 Bicknell St., Germantown:

Monday - Closed for the holiday.

Tuesday - Kids in the Kitchen, a cooking class for boys and girls, ages 9 to 12, at 12:30 p.m. Rosemarie Hanley, a paralegal aide with the Greater Boston Legal Services, is available for assistance with problems, 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Wednesday - Family planning clinic appointments, 4 p.m. to

Quincy Residents Graduate From Bentley

Kenneth P. Corley, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Corley of 19 Lyons St., West Quincy, and William M. Ferrazzi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mario Ferrazzi of 113 Brooks Ave., South Quincy recently graduated from Bentley College.

They received their Bachelor of Science degrees in Accounting. Both students were on the dean's list for the fall and spring semesters and graduated with honors. They are members of the Bentley Honor Society.

3 On Franklin Dean's List

Three Quincy residents have been named to the Dean's List at Franklin Institute of Boston.

Students in Automotive Technology, Kevin J. Fitzgerald of Wallace Rd., West Quincy, Robert Buono of Butler Rd., Quincy Center, and John Holbrook of Sherman St., Wollaston, all achieved grades over the 3.00 mark for the spring semester.

Stephen Byorkman Receives Degree

Stephen H. Byorkman of 104 Wesson Ave., West Quincy, has received a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from the University of Hartford, Hartford, Conn., in the University's 20th annual commencement exercises held recently.

Friday - Family planning clinic appointments from 11:45 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Harborview Residents Committee, Inc., meets at the Center on the second Tuesday and the fourth Wednesday each month at 8 p.m.

John Applegate, director of the Children's Project at the Protestant Social Service Agency, described the agency's mission as a non-sectarian social service organization at a recent in-service training session at the Center.

"The Children's Project maintains a liaison with the school system and the courts," he said. "The basic type of referral is usually an 'acting out' client, one who expresses anger in a destructive way. We work with the child and his family where possible to help both understand the nature of each other's unmet needs."

Representatives of the Germantown Center and the South West Community Center attended a conference on health and law recently at the University of Massachusetts' Park Square campus in Boston.

The focus of the conference was on the problems of obtaining adequate health care for the poor.

Those attending the conference heard Frances Miller, a professor at the Boston University School of Law, assert that "more dollars is not the answer to the medical needs of the poor." The solution is "reallocation of the dollars already committed."

He said the nation already has enough money invested in health care but the poor are still falling below the level of adequacy because those in the higher income brackets are wasting medical resources.

"President Carter," he added, has backed way off from national health insurance and is focusing on cost control first."

George Annas, director of the Center for Law and Health Sciences at BU, spoke on the use of the complaint process of the Board of Registration of Physicians to enforce the right of medicated patients to treatment.

Annas is a member of the Board of Registration.

Dr. Bernard McNamara Graduates From U-Mass Medical School

Bernard T. J. McNamara, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard T. McNamara of 36 Glendale Rd., Quincy Center, was one of 39 members of the fourth class to graduate from the University of Massachusetts Medical School in Worcester.

Dr. McNamara, a 1968 graduate of North Quincy High School and a 1972 graduate of Colgate University, will start his internship June 24, at the University of Southern California-Los Angeles County Medical Center in Los Angeles.

He also attended the University of Munich, West Germany, during his third year at Colgate and did post-graduate work at Boston University where he received a teaching fellowship as a Ph. D. candidate in biochemistry.

His grandmother, Mrs. Umberto V. E. Giarrusso, lives at 103 Standish Ave., Wollaston, and a sister, Mrs. Michael Arpaio, lives in St. Albans, W. Va.

John, Francis McGregor Receive Northeastern Degrees

Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. James McGregor of 53 Forest Ave., West Quincy, have received degrees from Northeastern University and Babson College.

John McGregor, who has a bachelors degree from Northeastern, received a masters in business administration from Babson. A loan officer in the First National Bank of Boston, he lives in Milton with his wife, Linda, and their daughter, Melissa.

Francis McGregor was graduated summa cum laude from the Criminal Justice School at Northeastern. He and his wife, Joan, and their children, Lori and Michael, live at 15 Merrymount Ave., Wollaston.

Ruth Gordon Joins Fight Against Mandatory Retirement

Ruth Gordon, Quincy's 80-year-old teen-ager, has wowed them on Broadway and in the movies for well over a half-century.

She recently "played" Washington and showed she certainly hasn't lost the old magic.

Miss Gordon appeared before the House Select Committee on Aging along with former Gov. Averell Harriman, 86, of New York and fried chicken magnate Col. Harland Sanders, also 86, to speak in opposition to mandatory retirement at any age.

The trio, incidentally, are anything but the Over The Hill Gang. They got their message across. Especially Miss Gordon whose Fountain of Youth is keeping busy.

In the same week she spoke at the House Select Committee hearing, she was speaker at commencement ceremonies for a girls' school in Ontario.

She told the committee:

"That is a lovely set of engagements and where would I be without that?" she asked. "I would be dead.

"I would not be without that, because I would have to work, and if I was in a profession that would fire me, then I would have to find another profession, because there is no use saying, 'I am smart as a whip,' but I would not know how to fill in my time if I did not work.

"I am writing a new book called 'Ten Lessons.' Doubleday just bought it. They haven't seen a scrap of anything on paper but they have confidence in me. They believe that not only am I talented at 80 but that I am going to live until I finish the book. That is a lovely thing."

Miss Gordon, who is the wife of playwright Garson Kanin, alternately charmed and edified the members of the committee with anecdotes and asides, including stories about growing up in Wollaston.

"I come from hard-working people," she said. "It never occurred to me not to work. My father was a foreman of a food factory. He got $37 a week out of that. He supported me, supported my mother. He gave me $400 to go on the stage and to be taught drama.

"He wanted me to be a physical-cultural instructress, but I did not want to do that. I did not care for bloomers, dumb bells and Indian clubs. I wanted something a little more jazzy and I went on the stage.

"My father and I never saw $400 before but he got it together, he took me to New York, and I said, 'Papa, why are you doing this? You don't think I am going to be an actress.' He said, 'Everybody has a right to his chance,' and I subscribe to that.

"If we want to work, if we want to live, then we have a right to that.

"At the end of the year the drama school kicked me out. They said I was the only one who did not show any promise, and so forget that. Later, when I got through drama school, I did show some promise.

"Work is life and life is work.

"I do not know what people do who are born rich because I was not. I do not think they enjoy life as much as I do."

Miss Gordon told the committee that her new book "is all about what it is that keeps you going."

"The answer to that is stay up to date," she said. "I was up to date when I was four years old. I will be up to date 100 years from now. I am up to date right now because if you're up to date you know enough to hang in with people and people want to hang in with you."

She told of walking down New York's Fifth Ave. with her husband on a cold day and stopping for a cup of tea in "a place called 'Cafe.' It was a tough looking place, tough customers, tough waitresses, tough bathroom."

Two of the tough waitresses, she said, recognized her and got into an argument over whether or not she was 80 years old.

"She's no more 80 years old than I am," said the cynical one. "She says she is 80 years old so she can get her name in the paper."

"That was her compliment to me," said Miss Gordon, "and I took it as a compliment. She hung in with me, because she knew there was nothing old about me, and if I wanted to say that for publicity, okay."

"You are wonderful, Miss Gordon," said Committee Chairman Claude D. Pepper of Florida, a mere youngster of 76 himself.

"I love it! I love it!" said Miss Gordon.

She noted for the committee that she is now a legal resident of Martha's Vineyard, the Massachusetts island with secessionist tendencies, which led Cong. Robert F. Drinan [D-Newton] to inquire:

"Why are you not leading the rebellion of Martha's Vineyard?"

"I am going to, dear," replied Miss Gordon. "I will be, but you see I am earning my living. Thornton Wilder said, 'There is nothing more dignified than earning a living.'"

"I am on the ferry boat going up to Martha's Vineyard June 12 and I will be down there doing my part."

Martha's Vineyard may never be quite the same once the gal from Wollaston kicks up her high heels.

The song, "Home Sweet Home" has been popular for over 150 years. It was written in 1823.

$600,000 Budget 'Mistake' Would Mean $2 Tax Hike

DENNIS HARRINGTON

"Are we going to get an explanation..."

SARAH SACCONNE

She's on vacation and...

DANIEL RAYMONDI

"It gives the administration a blank check!"

budget was submitted.

He said she deliberately estimated high to make sure that all the city's salary needs were covered. He said also that Miss Saccone may have made a "formula mistake" in calculating the figures.

The Council was particularly angry that Miss Saccone, for the third time, failed to appear before it Monday night to explain her figures, as this exchange between Councillor Dennis E. Harrington and the harassed Casey indicates:

HARRINGTON - Mr. Casey, is Miss Saccone going to be here today?

CASEY - No, she is not.

HARRINGTON - Will you tell us why she is not going to be here?

CASEY - The Mayor granted her a vacation.

HARRINGTON - This list of figures that we have before us, this hand-written appropriation order for $3 million, she developed each and every one of these figures?

CASEY - That's correct.

HARRINGTON - And this order has to be voted on in order to protect the employees by Thursday evening?

CASEY - Right.

HARRINGTON - Are we going to get an explanation from her between now and the time we vote as to how she developed these figures?

CASEY - No.

HARRINGTON - She is not going to provide any explanation for these figures?

CASEY - Not between now and Thursday. No.

HARRINGTON - And she was the only one who developed them?

CASEY - That's correct. Her and I believe, Sanford Kowal [labor negotiator].

HARRINGTON - Mr. Kowal said that he had nothing to do with the figures.

CASEY - I think he provided what figures she needed to work with. Whether he actually got involved in the computations, I don't think he did. I think that's what he meant.

HARRINGTON - Is the lady ill?

CASEY - No, she's on vacation and I can explain that, too. Her mother is ill. Her mother was in the hospital with a serious diabetic condition and when she came out of the hospital Sarah had asked for a vacation at that time. She worked at home preparing the supplementary budget to present to the Council, which she did and now she's asked for that time that she worked as vacation time.

HARRINGTON - And there's no arrangement that could be made that would take care of her obligation to her mother by your office in order to have her here for a couple of hours to explain every one of these figures that's incorrect?

CASEY - We felt that we imposed on her enough just to do the supplementary budget at home during this time. I have been in touch with the auditor twice today to explain to him the feeling of the Mayor's office concerning this order.

HARRINGTON - You indicated that this Council may be jeopardizing pay raises for 3,000 city employees and benefits due their families and you can't get this woman here to explain how she put together a $3 million order when almost every figure in the order is incorrect.

CASEY - There is a consistency to those errors and that....

HARRINGTON - Well, then, she ought to be able to explain it in a five minute appearance. Is she going to attend the Music Circus every right this week.

CASEY - No, I don't believe so.

COUNCILLOR DANIEL G. RAYMONDI - Arthur, I think we can all understand the difficult situation that we're all being placed in with respect to this appropriation that's before the Council. But the main thing that disturbs me, are you making the admission at this time that the appropriation order that is before the Council is inaccurate?

CASEY - It's an estimate. The accurate figures will be determined by the auditor and the department heads, which I related to Charlie Shea this afternoon.

RAYMONDI - So the three-page document that was presented to the Council officially at last Monday night's City Council meeting was an estimate.

CASEY - Correct. There was not enough time to give you actual figures on that because the contracts were not finalized until late that evening.

RAYMONDI - It reads that on the request of the various department heads and with the recommendation of his honor, the Mayor, the sum of $3 million some odd thousand dollars be and is hereby appropriated to the following accounts. Then the bottom line, Mr. Casey, indicates that the same to be charged to the revenue of 1977-78. Correct?

CASEY - Correct.

RAYMONDI - And you're aware that every additional $270,000, that this Council appropriates affects the tax rate $1?

CASEY - Correct. RAYMONDI - So if this appropriation, which does not read as an estimate, if this is off a half million dollars and so forth then it would be $2 on next year's tax rate, correct?

CASEY - Correct.

RAYMONDI - And last Friday evening, when I indicated to the Council that I wanted to go line by line down this entire appropriation order with you to justify those figures you were prepared at that particular point in time to justify each and every line item, correct?

CASEY - To the best of my knowledge.

RAYMONDI - To the best of your knowledge. And at Saturday morning's meeting there was no more enlightenment with respect to the figures before the Council, correct?

CASEY - I believe there was. I believe a lot of explanation came out at that time.

RAYMONDI - How about specific figures?

CASEY - No specific figures.

RAYMONDI - I didn't hear what happened over the radio this morning but I hear from some of my colleagues that you weren't too kind to the Council with respect to this appropriation order. From Day One when this appropriation order came before the Council, the one thing I asked the administration to do is to justify every single penny. And now you're telling the Council after two or three meetings at which you indicated we must vote the entire amount of $3 million that it's critical, it's important, we must quickly advertise it and vote for it, now you say it's just an estimate. But this morning, as I understand it, you criticized the City Council for delaying this particular appropriation.

CASEY - You're in error, councillor.

RAYMONDI - Well, that's what I'm asking you to explain. Could this City Council have voted any sooner than this particular meeting this evening because we have not had any specifics with respect to any line item?

CASEY - Well, I believe that Mr. Kowal a week ago tonight stressed that the Council had 10 days to go over this request and make whatever cuts they felt were necessary. There was no pressure being brought on the Council to act on this that night because everyone realized they had to be advertised for 10 days.

RAYMONDI - Did you make any statements this morning with respect to this appropriation?

CASEY - About this appropriation, yes, I did.

RAYMONDI - What statement did you make about the appropriation that's before the Council? Did you say that the Council is jeopardizing the pay increases to the city employees?

CASEY - If it was not passed on the 30th, yes.

RAYMONDI - Did you also

Nation's 150th

Quincy observed the 150th birthday of the United States with parades, bonfires, fireworks, patriotic speeches at the birthplace of John Adams and baseball games in every park, playground and vacant lot in the city.

Mayor Perley E. Barbour, Cong. Louis A. Frothingham and Henry Adams, a descendant of the Second President, spoke from a temporary platform set up on the lawn of the Adams Birthplace where a parade of 3,000 marchers disbanded.

The holiday, observed on Monday, July 5, began with a huge bonfire on the banks of the Neponset River, continued through a band concert at Merrymount Park and concluded with fireworks set off from Pine Island.

Thirty seven rounds were fired from a 77 millimetre gun during the celebration at Atlantic Playground and Mrs. James Leslie Kerr Jr., regent, led the Abigail Adams Chapter DAR in ceremonies at John Hancock's grave in Boston.

The city of Quincy sprung for all the ice cream the kids could eat and, since it was dispensed in Germantown at 10 a.m., Wollaston School at 2 p.m. and Coddington School at 3:30 p.m. a kid with a strong pair of legs could put away a lot.

The new Adams Playground on Bradford St. was dedicated by Park Commissioner William J. Spargo and the playground in Squantum was formally named for John Wendell Moses, who was killed in the Argonne Forest in France on Oct. 23, 1918.

Art White's homer and a pair of doubles paced the Quincy AA to an 18-4 victory over the Weymouth Wanderers at Ward 2 playground and the Squantum AC won three weekend games, beating South Quincy, 13-11; Fort Banks, 20-5; and the Charlestown Marines, 8-7.

Police raided a candy store on Washington St., Quincy Point, and seized what they called "the most dangerous collection of fireworks seen here in many years," including 200 bombs of the type that blew two fingers from the hand of a Weymouth boy.

And an overenthusiastic Ward 6 Committee faced a $345 deficit after spending some $1,300 on its celebration. The city donated $300 to each ward but Ward 6 collected only $700 in public subscriptions to make up the difference.

COPELANDS TIE GIANTS

Lou Courtney tripled with two on and two out in the last of the ninth to lift the Copeland Club of Quincy into a 5-5 tie with the Philadelphia Colored Giants at the Ward 4 Playground.

The famed battery of Will Jackson, pitcher, and Burlin White, catcher, worked for the Giants.

The lineup for the Copelands included: O'Hare 3b, Boardman 2b, Courtney ss, Tucker lf, McGuinness 1b, Connolly rf, Bennett cf, Peterson cf, Walsh c, Horan p, Allen pr.

'Now Of Questionable Value'

Harold Criticizes Lateness (1½ Years) Of Annual City Report

The Annual Report of the City of Quincy is hot off the press.

Well, maybe not hot. Maybe lukewarm.

It's the report for 1974-75. City Councillor Paul D. Harold, noting that the report is a year and a half behind schedule, called it "a recording of recent history rather than a valuable resource."

Walter J. Hannon was Mayor of Quincy during the period of time covered by the latest report.

Harold, who has been prodding the Mayor's office about the reports for the past year, observed that the lateness of the report "makes it of questionable value."

"The report is required by statute and in the past it has served as a valuable source of information for the taxpayers," he said. "They could find out how their tax money had been spent and it was a method of keeping their elected officials accountable."

Harold said that in April, 1976, when he called for the Council's Oversight Committee to look into the delays in publishing the reports, he was told that the LaRaia Administration would make them priority items.

"Unfortunately, that has not been the case," he said. "We were told the 1974-75 report would be published in the summer of 1976 with the 1975-76 report scheduled for September publication. This timetable would have brought the city back on line as far as the publication of reports."

"Even after a second prodding by the City Council

Dec. 20, 1976, the city report is one and a half years behind schedule and one year behind the date set by the Mayor's executive secretary."

"Since 1888, through wars and depressions, the city has been able to compile this information for the information of the taxpayers. There seems to be no justifiable reason why we cannot expect this minimal level of service."

The 1974-75 report differs from preceding reports in that there is no listings of city officials [except for the City Council], boards and commissions. The Mayor's name [Hannon] appears only once and that on the title page.

And the reports of the Police and Fire Departments make no acknowledgment that their respective chiefs were Francis X. Finn and Edward Barry.

Robert Beniers Ward 2 Candidate

City Recreation Director Robert K. Beniers of 12 Beacon St., Quincy Point, announces his candidacy for Ward 2 City Councillor.

Beniers, who is also owner of Beacon Sporting Goods, Quincy, said, "It will be my goal as the Ward 2 Councillor to re-establish the traditional ward councillor role within city government in order to solve the various local problems confronting my friends and neighbors in Quincy Point and South Quincy."

"I believe that we have not received representation in local problems in our area. Local concerns should be emphasized and an end should be put to the negativity so that the concerns of Ward 2 can once again become paramount."

Beniers said he does not have plans at the present to take a leave of absence from the city job he was appointed to by Mayor Joseph LaRaia.

"I may have to take a leave sometime in the final two months of the race," he said however. "If the campaign starts to interfere too much with my duties here, I will take a leave of absence, but I do not foresee that happening until the end. I can't say right now, because I have never run for office before and I don't know the time commitment it involves."

Beniers will be challenging incumbent Daniel Raymond...

one of Mayor LaRaia's severest critics.

Beniers is a graduate of Santa Clara University with a B.S. in Economics, and attended Archbishop Williams High School.

He is married to the former Catherine Tocchio, a registered nurse at Quincy City Hospital, and is the father of four children, Catherine, Robert K. II, Jonathan and Julie.

He is on the advisory board at the Wollaston Recreational Facility, Youth Commission, and Council on Aging. Beniers is a member of the Sons of Italy Quincy and Knights of Columbus North Quincy Council 2259.

Weekly Blood Pressure Clinic 'Overwhelming Success'

The weekly blood pressure clinic at the John F. Kennedy Health Center screened 279 people in its first three weeks and Health Commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon has pronounced it an "overwhelming success."

The clinic is held every Tuesday from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. by the Health Department's nurses in cooperation with the Quincy Red Cross, the American Heart Association and nurses from City Hospital.

Many of those screened were found to have blood pressure problems and were referred to physicians.

"We are proud of the tremendous response we have had from all physicians in our city to become involved in this program," said Dr. Solomon. "We now have an updated list of Quincy physicians who are cooperating in this program."

Dr. Solomon emphasized that the clinic is a screening function only, providing no treatments, but referring those with problems on to a doctor of their choice.

Barron Favors More Women On Municipal Boards

Atty. Thomas M. Barron, a candidate for mayor, says he favors increasing the number of women appointed to the 18 boards and commissions in the city.

The present figure of one quarter of the membership of these boards and commissions being filled by women was inadequate, he said.

"Since many of the decisions made by the members of these boards directly affect women, it is only right that more women be involved," he said. "There are many talented women in the city who are not being chosen for membership simply because the city is not aware of their interest."

Barron said he would like to see more women stepping forward to help serve the city. He urged all women who are available to submit their names and fields of interest to the "Talent Bank" being conducted by the Commission of the Status of Women.

"Women should be encouraged not only to seek membership on various boards and commissions but to run for all political office," he said. "The city could use the talents and ideas of this often times silent majority."

Kelly Calls For More Police Visibility At Wollaston Beach

Michael J. Kelly, a candidate for City Council from Ward 6, has called for greater police visibility at Wollaston Beach to reduce traffic safety problems and control groups of unruly people who congregate in the area.

"With the coming of the summer months and the resulting increase in usage of Quincy Shore Drive there is a dire need for increased police visibility in the area," he said in a letter to MDC Commissioner John Snedeker.

"In addition to more police visibility, an additional step could be taken to reduce traffic safety problems. That step would be the conversion of all the traffic lights on Quincy Shore Drive to working traffic lights.

"This step has been taken on a small portion of Quincy Shore Drive, and it is my contention and that of the people in the area that all of the lights should be similarly converted.

"In combining increased police visibility with working traffic lights along the entire length of Quincy Shore Drive, traffic safety problems could be greatly reduced.

"In addition, the combining of police visibility and strict enforcement of existing laws could resolve the second area of concern of the residents of the North Quincy community, that being the general safety of the Wollaston Beach area.

"Many of the residents of North Quincy are afraid to use Wollaston Beach. This is the direct result of the numerous groups that congregate along the entire length of the area.

"Increased police visibility in the area could control the activities of the groups thus making Wollaston Beach safe for usage by the residents of North Quincy."

Little Katchina Doll Bluebirds Visit Quincy Sun

The Little Katchina Dolls Bluebirds of Wollaston visited The Quincy Sun recently to view the workings of a newspaper first hand.

The girls are: Traci Gordon, Kelly Bagley, Susan Kelly, Karen Fernick, Marie D'Attilio, Valene Schuetz and Carolyn Hannan.

Brian Gordon and Bret Gordon accompanied the girls on their tour.

Leader Mrs. Bruce Gordon also accompanied the Bluebirds on their tour.

The girls first visited the advertising and editorial departments of The Quincy Sun.

They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine. They also saw new stories being set on the CompuWriter Junior.

The scouts watched a paste-up artist fix the story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

They watched photographs being reduced and screened for publication by an Agfa Gervat Repromaster camera in the Sun's new camera department.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed the girls asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each Bluebird received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

Auto Insurance Reform

The Massachusetts House and Senate have been considering an auto insurance reform bill for the past week. The two branches have not been able to agree on the level of the cap or the amount of money to be returned to the people of the Commonwealth. This deadlock has created a Conference Committee made up of three members of the House and three members of the Senate. It is these six people who are entrusted the task of working out a compromise. The compromise solution can not be amended or changed. Each branch must vote for it or against it.

The Budget for fiscal 1978 has also seen two different versions between the House and Senate. A conference Committee has been set up to work out a solution acceptable to both branches. The Budget will probably be before the House by the end of this week.

Binding arbitration for police and fire department employees, which was passed by the House and Senate, will be vetoed by Governor Dukakis. Both branches are expected to over-ride the veto and extend binding arbitration for 2 more years.

The Committee on which I am a member, Urban Affairs, is currently setting up a Water Study Commission to investigate Massachusetts levels of supply and demand in future years. I will have more on this study later.

If I can be of assistance, I can be reached at the State House by calling 727-7035 or in Quincy by calling 328-0900.

My district office, 69 Billings Road, is open every evening. I hold office hours on Monday, Wednesday and Friday 8:30 - 10:00 A.M. and Wednesday 6:30 - 9:30 P.M. Please feel free to stop by.

$600,000 'Mistake' In Mayor's Supplementary Budget

indicate to the public in that statement that the administration has not been cooperating with the Council in the light of the fact that you have not presented the Council with any specific figures? Did you give the Council's side of this whole story?

CASEY - I don't believe that we have been uncooperative.

RAYMONDI - I'm assuming that we're going to get some figures tonight.

CASEY - We are.

RAYMONDI - Okay. What I'm asking, are these going to be the administration figures that Sarah Saccone will stick by, that Arthur Casey will stick by, that the Mayor's office will stick by? Are we going to get those figures from the administration who put this entire package together?

CASEY - I have not seen the figures.

RAYMONDI - Do you have any figures?

CASEY - I don't know. I've never been involved in the figures.

RAYMONDI - So what the administration has done, in a sense, is given the City Council 25 pages of documents and has a blank check.

CASEY - No. Not at all.

RAYMONDI - What's the bottom line on the check that you would like to see the City Council write for the administration. Do you have a figure?

CASEY - No. I don't. The city departments have been working on that today.

RAYMONDI - Where did Sarah come up with this figure here?

CASEY - Again, she estimated those. She put estimates on each department and I believe we have it narrowed down that she possibly used the wrong formula and ...

RAYMONDI - But, Arthur, the thing that disturbs me is that this has been in this committee for over a week. It is just beyond me why the administration hasn't done its homework in the past week. Why, at this late hour, you cannot come to the City Council with specific figures on every line item, on every contract, on every agreement? I don't think it's fair that you drop everything in our hands and in a sense say, "we can't put it together; Sarah's not here; this person isn't here. It's up to you people to come up with the figures."

CASEY - The entire problem this year was just a matter of circumstances where all the contracts seemed to be signed on the very last day. We didn't get them signed until Monday. So everything was compiled on that last day. Figures had to be put together. There was no way you could determine 3,000 salaries, individual salaries ...

RAYMONDI - But you've had a week and there are many, many people in the administration that could be placed to this kind of task, that we just don't have that capability. If you really believe that the monies that are due and payable to the city employees is in jeopardy, if I was the Mayor of this city I would make sure I had figures presented to the City Council, not Monday next, but the Tuesday after the Monday that I presented it to the City Council so that I couldn't be blamed for dragging my feet or for wanting the City Council, for lack of information, not to vote for this appropriation.

I'm not all that clear that what the Mayor of this city wants, is for the City Council, for lack of proper information, not to grant some of these particular raises. And that's what bothers me. I can see the box being built right now. Someone should be here at this late hour with some figures, with some specifics, with respect to all these items.

Harrington, who was acting chairman of the Finance Committee Friday night when he called the Music Circus in Cohasset to have Miss Saccone paged unsuccessfully, pursued the matter.

HARRINGTON - Based on your testimony, Sarah is the only one in the city that knows exactly what's on this $3 million budget?

CASEY - In detail, yes.

HARRINGTON - Based on your testimony, you know that she made some mistakes, some formula mistakes.

CASEY - It appears that way. HARRINGTON - And we've known, based on what we've learned, that that mistake is at least a half million dollars, quite possibly it could be more. Correct?

CASEY - Correct.

HARRINGTON - I'd like to know one thing. Do you think that since we've developed the fact that she made a mistake, since she's the only one who knows the total picture of the figures, since that mistake is a half a million dollars, do you think it was unreasonable Friday night when I had her paged down at the Music Circus to come here and explain her hand-written order?

CASEY - Honestly, councillor?

HARRINGTON - Yeah.

CASEY - Yes, I do. Because at that time you did not know what the mistake was or even if there was a mistake.

HARRINGTON - I'd like to know one thing, Arthur, before I form up a solid opinion. Is she hiding from Joe and us or is she hiding from just us?

CASEY - Councillor, I don't know.

During the course of Auditor Shea's line-by-line correction of the budget figures, it was discovered that the figure for the Highway Department was $358,000, including $50,000 for summer help. Shea figured it to be $185,000, not including summer help.

SHEA - In public works, my amount was $185,000. And the commissioner's amount was $185,000 to meet with the provisions contained in the contract.

RAYMONDI - But the figure that was given to the Council by the administration outside of summer employment, was $308,000.

SHEA - That is correct.

RAYMONDI - And the figures that you and the department head came up with is some $123,000 less than what this City Council was led to believe in the beginning?

SHEA - Yes.

RAYMONDI - And can you justify that by saying it's a formula mistake? That's a mistake of almost 50 per cent.

SHEA - I can only repeat that I don't know how the original one was computed, councillor.

RAYMONDI - When you talked to the commissioner of public works, did you have the feeling that you were the first person to ask him about any figures?

SHEA - I did not speak to the Commissioner directly. But from what I gathered today from the phone calls that were put into my office, it was the first time that the departments were asked to compute what this salary adjustment was going to cost their departments.

RAYMONDI - And when you called the hospital department, which has a figure here in excess of $1.2 million, did you have the feeling that you were the first person to make contact with the Hospital Department to try and figure out the correctness of that figure?

SHEA - I was informed by the Hospital Department that they were the ones that had worked out this figure and when I asked them for the papers as to how they arrived at this figure by department, they can't find the papers. That's what they told me at 4:30.

RAYMONDI - Arthur, has the administration made any contact whatsoever to justify these figures or to ask the department heads what their figures would be at all since last Monday when it was brought before the Council?

CASEY - No, we haven't.

HARRINGTON - I'd just like to offer a brief comment. It's pretty obvious why Miss Saccone went to the Music Circus rather than come here Friday night. It's pretty obvious why she went on vacation. The explanation is a formula mistake was made and estimates were used. To have a 130 per cent error in a request is impossible. And that's what we have in one department. And to estimate a department with a 95 per cent error, such as the health personal services, is an impossible estimate. To have a $123,000 mistake in the highway personal services is impossible. These figures must have been taken out of thin air. I would say anyone who alleges that a formula mistake or estimates produced these figures is only trying to cover up one of the colossal errors that's been made in this city in the past year.

Council President Arthur H. Tobin noted that many of the raises for city employees contained in the budget were retroactive to July 1, 1976 and Shea confirmed that the retroactive money could go to employees no longer working for the city.

TOBIN - Based on what you have just informed the Council, I'm going to ask you specific questions and I'd like a yes or no answer whether the following individuals have been granted a retroactive pay raise by the LaRaia administration. Mr. Herbert Reppucci. Is he eligible under this proposal before the City Council?

SHEA - I couldn't find the assistant director of RSVP on this particular ordinance that was advertised.

TOBIN - Mr. LoCicero?

SHEA - He was commissioner of public works close to six months during this period of retroactive pay. I would say he would be entitled to receive payment ...

TOBIN - My question to you, Mr. Auditor, are the members of this City Council being asked to vote a cost of living pay raise to Vincent J. LoCicero? Yes or No.

SHEA - Based on the knowledge I have, I would say yes.

TOBIN - Is this City Council being asked to vote on a cost of living pay increase for John Tocchio? Yes or No.

SHEA - Based on this ordinance, I would say yes.

TOBIN - Is this City Council being asked to vote a cost of living retroactive pay raise for James Short? Yes or No.

SHEA - No.

TOBIN - Is this City Council being asked to grant a retroactive pay raise to Mr. McGinley, the superintendent of the cemetery?

SHEA - Based on the knowledge I have, I would say yes.

TOBIN - So in answer to my inquiry, you have said yes to three of the appointees of the administration who no longer work for this administration. If this appropriation act is voted as is by this Council will the receive retroactive cost of living increases?

SHEA - It's my answer yes. Unless the ordinance is amended, yes. I would say they're entitled to it.

TOBIN - I think this is absolutely ludicrous. We're being asked to accept this $3 million package and we find out at this late hour that there are cost of living retroactive pay raises to people that were appointed by this administration who have been arrested for extortion, presently awaiting trial. One individual was under indictment before he was even appointed by this administration and this is the type of government that is in this city at this time.

But it was the effect of the supplementary budget on the tax rate that intrigued most of the councillors, particularly Harrington.

HARRINGTON - Mayor LaRaia said there was going to be a $5 to $7 tax increase this year. Is that still correct? Is that still his opinion?

CASEY - Yes, it is. HARRINGTON - We just cut $2.20 off the supplementary budget tonight, will that reduce the $5-$7 by $2.20?

CASEY - I have no idea. HARRINGTON - When the City Council cut $2.7 million out of his first budget request, $10 on the tax rate. Will that reduce his opinion or his estimate by $10?

CASEY - I believe after you made the cuts he made the statement that the tax rate would be less than $5.

HARRINGTON - Before we made them he said $7.

CASEY - Less than $7, is correct.

HARRINGTON - But you do agree that this Council, in its first action and again tonight, and we're not through yet, has a total of $12.20 cut off your budget requests. $12.20 off the top of the tax rate. There's no doubt about that, is there? Can you give a direct answer to that?

CASEY - You're looking at it from an expense point of view. You're not looking at estimated receipts or income the city would take in to offset these expenses. You're looking strictly at the expense side of the ledger.

HARRINGTON - What estimated receipts are going to be up over last year?

CASEY - I have no idea. I am not an assessor.

Morrisette Snaps Braintree, Quincy Bows To Randolph

Morrisette Legion's baseball team continues to roll along in Zone 6, and raised its record to 7-1 Monday with its biggest win of the year, a 7-4 decision over previously unbeaten Braintree.

Friday, Morrisette hosts another of its closest rivals, Weymouth, at 8 at Adams Field. Quincy plays at Holbrook at 8:30 and Wollaston is at Randolph at 6. Tuesday it will be Hingham at Quincy at 8, Adams Field; Morrisette at Randolph, 6, and Wollaston at Braintree, 6. Wednesday, Wollaston will host Quincy at 8 at Adams.

Morrisette started fast Monday with four runs in the first inning at Braintree. It added three in the fifth on Chuck LoPresti's long home run over the center field fence.

Braintree rallied for three runs in the last inning including a tremendous homer by Kevin Buckley, but 16-year old Gary Earle relieved another 16-year older, Ray Coscia, to retire the final batter.

Ron Donovan was the starter and winner, going five strong innings. Don Perdios, LoPresti and Steve Cooke had two hits each for Morrisette. Jack Casali, son of Quincy Central Junior High coach Mike Casali, was four for four for Braintree.

In its previous game, Morrisette had rallied to score eight runs in the sixth inning and defeat hard luck Wollaston, 10-4.

John Wilkinson got the win, pitching four innings of relief. Don Perdios, Dave Perdios, Dave King and Wilkinson had two hits each and LoPresti drove in three runs. For Wollaston, Bob Lindenblauer had two doubles. Tom LaBlue was the losing pitcher.

Earlier, Morrisette had defeated Hingham, 6-0, with Earle pitching three-hit ball and LoPresti driving in three runs.

Quincy's record dropped to 4-3 last Friday when it lost to Randolph, 4-1. Quincy had only four hits off Mark Young and Randolph scored all its runs in the first inning. Dave Raftery was the losing pitcher.

Wollaston this year has seven returnees from last year, infielders Bob Stack of North Quincy and John Houten of Quincy, outfielders Bob Stevens, Josh Alberti and John Andrews, all from North, and pitchers LaBlue of Quincy and Steve Jaehnig of North.

Newcomers are Tom McBride of Worcester Tech, Lindenblauer of B.C. High and Brian Condon of North. Sean Conaghey and Dennis Doherty of North and Jim Travers of Quincy and pitcher Bob McCabe of North.

"We won only one game a year ago with an extremely young and inexperienced team, but I think we will do better this season," Coach Bob Jordan said. "We still have a young team, but we have more experience and the boys have been playing good ball."

Boating, Sailing Registration

Registration for the Quincy Recreation Department's Instructional Boating and Sailing Program will be Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., at the William F. Ryan Boating and Sailing Facility at Blacks Creek.

The program, open to Quincy residents aged eight - adult, features instruction in Basic Seamanship and Rowing; Basic, Intermediate, and Advanced Sailing; and Basic Canoeing. Because the Recreation Department has added a new fleet of sailboats and the canoe program, participation in the already popular program is expected to increase.

Program instructors are all trained by the American Red Cross. Participants must qualify for the program by passing a swimming test.

The Ryan Boating and Sailing Facility is located off Southern Artery at the eastern end of Merrymount Park. The facility is open daily from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., and Sundays from noon to 6 p.m. Day time hours are reserved for children's classes; adults instruction is in the evenings. The weekend schedules are designed to allow adults and families to participate - and develop skills and interests in safe boating.

Three types of memberships are available - family, adult and youth. A registration fee is payable at the time of enrollment.

32 Playgrounds To Open

The Quincy Recreation Department announces it's 32 playgrounds will open July 1, for an eight-week period during July and August.

Recreation Director Robert K. Beniers, said each playground will be staffed with two leaders from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, and each will offer a wide range of activities. They include: baseball, basketball, softball, trips, family evenings, special events, games and other sports. In addition to the regular playground leaders, specialists will visit each area on a regular weekly schedule offering instruction in golf, archery, tennis, nature study, arts and crafts, music, drama and dance. City wide tournaments, performances and exhibits climax each of these activities.

Playground registration is offered at the following locations: Russell Park, Forbes Hill, Stoney Brae, Whitwell, Wollaston, Atlantic, Bishop, Myles Standish, Squantum, Welcome Young, Baker, Chapel, Taffrail, LaBreaque, Riverview, Snug Harbor, Allerton, Beechwood, Heron Road, Mass Fields, Fenn St., Perkins, Elm St., Faxon Park, Fore River, Pollard, Pond St., Adams, Kincaide, Grasso, O'Rourke and Shea Rink.

Playground Leaders Training Program

The Quincy Recreation Department announces playground leaders will undergo an intensive two-day training institute Wednesday and Thursday, June 29 - 30, at the Quincy Vo-Tech gym in preparation for the 1977 summer playground season.

Recreation Director Robert K. Beniers said leaders under the direction of Frank Brillo, assistant director and institute director, will attend sessions on first-aid playground safety, arts and crafts, music, drama, tennis, archery, golf, nature, officiating, group dynamics, leadership training, tournament and league organization, games and relays.

Keohane's Defeats Elks In Junior Baseball

Keohane's improved its Quincy Junior Baseball League record to 13-2 with a 7-5 win over the Elks.

Paul Scibillo was the winning pitcher, working the first three innings and Dennis Cronin took over and pitched into the bottom of the sixth when he gave up two hits to put runners on second and third with no outs. John Balzano was brought in and struck out the side to earn a save.

Jimmy Jaehnig hit a towering home run and O'Brien, Balzano and Corliss also had key hits.

Mike Gill Wins $200 Scholarship

Michael Gill, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gill of 69 Young St., North Quincy, recently received a $200 scholarship given by Parents and Friends of North Quincy Basketball.

Mike, who will attend Fitchburg State College in the fall and major in elementary education, was a starter for the North Quincy High basketball team which this year qualified for the state tournament. The honor roll student averaged nine points a game for the Raiders.

Elks, Police Continue To Set Hot Pace

The Elks and Police Club continue to pace the Quincy Babe Ruth League. The Elks leading the American League with a 10-4 record and the Police leading the National League with a 9-3-1 mark.

Last Sunday, Morrisette Post clobbered Bryan VFW, 17-5, with Chris Segalla the winning pitcher and Pat Ennis the loser. Segalla hiked his record to 3-2 with a six-hitter and also had two hits including a first inning home run. Robbie Craig had three hits including a triple and scored three times. Morrisette collected 14 hits with each starter having at least one.

Quincy Local 1139 defeated Sons of Italy, 6-3, with winning pitcher Richie Hallberg pitching a six-hitter. Bob Howlett, Chris Petrillo and Gerry O'Rourke had two hits each. For Sons of Italy, Bob Hayes and Dennis Howley had two hits apiece.

Granite City Electric bombed Hancock Bank, 18-6, with a 17-hit attack and four-hit pitching by Bob McCormick. McCormick also had two hits and Mike Scuti had a home run and was outstanding in the field. Mike Stranberg, Sean Murphy, Mike Conley and Mark Andrews also played well. Kavanaugh's two hits drove in three of Hancock's runs.

Golden Print topped Firemen, 4-2, behind Dan Flannery's four-hit pitching. Art Rooney was the loser. Flannery, Dan Molloy and Brian Reale had two hits each and Mark Roberts and Al Singe one apiece for Golden. Singh, Reale and Sean Martin gave Flannery excellent support. Art Roberts, Greg Oriola, Steve Notorangelo and Dan Sullivan had the Firemen's hits.

Granite City rolled over Barry's Deli, 12-0, with Steve White pitching a two-hitter. McCormick led the 11-hit attack with three hits and five RBIs including a home run. Conley had two hits and Tony Camillo, who was outstanding at first base, Scuti, White, Stranberg, Joe Crifo and Bob Bertazzoni all had hits. For Barry's, Bill Deitch and Baker had the only hits.

Hancock Bank toppled Golden Print, 7-2, with Pat King keeping 11 hits well-scattered and getting backed up by fine defense and the hitting of Bob Biagini and Mike Ford with two hits each and a clutch bases-loaded hit in the fifth by Craig DiBona icing the game. John Todd pitched creditably for Golden.

Hancock also upset the Elks, 8-5, with Kavanaugh the winning pitcher. Kavanaugh also had a home run, triple and single to go along with his four-hit pitching. Joe Phelan and Biagini had two hits each and Phelan's booming triple turned the game around. The defense shut the door on the Elks the rest of the way.

Morrisette walked all over Sons of Italy, 19-2, with another awesome batting attack (22 hits). Rich Finnegan was the winner with a one-hitter. The one hit by Hayes came with two outs in the final inning. Again, every Morrisette player had at least one hit, with Andy Carrera and Mark Messina having four each. Finnegan has allowed only that one hit in his last 12 innings.

The Police Club outlasted Local 1139, 8-7, with Billy O'Connell and Gary DiNardo having three hits each, Kevin McKinnon and Bobby Cronin two each and McKinnon four RBIs and John Sweet a hit. Police won the game on four walks in the bottom of the seventh. Petrillo had three hits and Bobby Howlett two doubles and 2 RBIs for Local 1139. Losing pitcher Paul O'Toole had 15 strikeouts.

Elks rolled over Granite City, 14-1, with Bill Foley hurling a one-hitter for five innings for his sixth win without a loss. Fred Palmer had five hits for the Elks, a home run, two doubles and two singles. Paul Earle had the only Granite City hit.

Morrisette and Police battled to a 10-10 tie. Carrera had three hits including a double to spark Morrisette. Messina had two hits including a double, as did Jim Hensley, Chris and Glen Segalla, Gus Gonzales, Finnegan each had a hit. Finnegan's was a triple.

For Police, Cronin had two hits and DiNardo, Sweet and Costigan had one each, Costigan's being a long double.

Sons of Italy nipped VFW, 10-9, with John Vespaziani leading the way with three hits and two runs batted in. Dan Boyle had two hits including a bases loaded triple to put S. of I. ahead to stay. Ennified VFW with three hits and three RBIs. Boyle was the winning pitcher.

In one of the season's better played games, Local 1139 edged Houghs Neck Legion, 1-0, as Mark Millane pitched a one-hitter and Bob Nagle lost a five-hitter. Bob Howlett continued his hot hitting with two for two and Kevin Howlett, Milland and Richie Hallberg had one hit each. Mark Giordani, Bob Priscella and Dean Prescott played outstanding defensive ball for Houghs Neck.

Morrisette, one of the League's hottest hitting teams, walloped Barry's Deli, 13-4, with Chris Segalla the winning pitcher. Jim Dodd was two for three and Craig, Segalla, Hensley, Finnegan and Jo Jo Gonzales had a hit each. Deitch, Billy Roche and David Walsh sparked Barry's. Walsh had two hits.

Granite City topped Houghs Neck, 10-8, with a fine team effort. All 15 Granite City players saw action. White had four hits and four RBIs, Hugh Campbell and Murphy had two each, and Scuti, Stranberg, McCormick and Conley one apiece. McCormack was the winning pitcher with fine relief from John Goodwin. Prescott had two hits.

Firemen's Local 792, just one game behind the Elks, topped Sons of Italy, 11-6, with Artie Roberts the winning pitcher. Notorangelo had two hits, Beniers a double and single, Caggiano two doubles and Sullivan two singles and a triple. For S. of I. Hayes, Vespaziani and Cappola each had a double and single and Conti and Doyle singles.

Firemen then moved closer to Elks by topping the leaders, 5-3, with both teams displaying good pitching and good defense. Oriola was the winner. Notorangelo continued his fine catching, and Sullivan played strong defense with four assists to stop Elks' rallies. Palmer and Crowley pitched well for the Elks but heads-up base running by the Firemen made the difference. Foley was three for three for Elks, Palmer had a triple and Hogan drove in two runs with his single.

Pirates Bomb Mets, 11-2, Indians Unravel Sox, 8-1

The Pirates and Indians are leading the Quincy Triple A baseball league, the Pirates with a 12-2 mark in the National League and the Indians with a 10-3 record in the American.

The Pirates mauled the Mets, 11-2 with Ricky Mahoney the winning pitcher. Mike Barter went three for four and Mike Hennessey, Tom Scalaro and Mahoney had two hits each. Mahoney pitched for the first time and had 10 strikeouts. Dennis Downing went two for two and Jimmy Sullivan had a double for the Mets.

The Indians rolled over the White Sox, 8-1, behind the outstanding pitching of John Cosgrove, who struck out eight. Dale Adams was two for four

Jimmy's Defeats Dee Dee's, 15-10 In Game Of Week

It was undefeated Jimmy's National League East leader and unbeaten Dee Dee's, the American League East pacesetter in last week's Game of the Week in the Quincy Women's Softball League.

Dee Dee's was 10-0 and Jimmy's was 9-0 going into the game, won by Jimmy's, 15-10. The rivals had played an exciting playoff series last year before more than 150 fans.

Jimmy's scored six runs in the final inning to overcome a 10-9 deficit and pull out the win.

Jimmy's scored three runs in the second on hits by Claire Coyne, Susan Galvin, Elaine White and Fran Walden. Dee Dee's tied it in the third with Joyce Flynn and Gigi Wallace driving in the runs. Jimmy's regained the lead, 5-3, in its half of the third.

Dee Dee's exploded for seven runs in the fourth. With the bases loaded, Tricia Bartolini hit a double for two runs. Nancy Willard and Jonlynn Riley followed with doubles for three more runs. Joyce Flynn singled for the sixth run and Wallace's sacrifice fly accounted for the final run.

In the sixth, Jimmy's scored four runs to move to within a run. Coyne's triple brought home three runs and Terry Ferenzei's single drove home Cathy Tobin.

A.L. Junior Farm All-Stars Win 14-13

In a thrilling Junior Farm League all-star game last Saturday at Faxon Field, the American League came from behind to edge the Nationals, 14-13, before a large gathering of families and friends.

The Americans led throughout most of the game only to see the Nationals explode for eight runs in the fifth for a 13-9 lead. The Americans were not to be denied and scored twice in the fifth and three times in the sixth for the win.

The key hit was delivered by Pete Furtado of the Red Sox, who drove a single up the middle to score the tying and winning runs. He had two other hits and was voted by the managers as the game's MVP.

Other outstanding players for the Americans were Jimmy Arroyo of the Indians with three hits and also pitched three excellent innings; Tim Kirby of the Yankees and Greg McGlame of the Orioles with triples and two runs batted in each; Joe Avitable of the Tigers with two doubles and the League's "Six Million Dollar Boy," Steve Austin of the Yankees, was the winning pitcher.

For the Nationals, Jim Mayo of the Braves, John Carroll of the Cubs, Shaun Flavin and Chris Doyle of the Pirates all had two hits and George Hartford of the Dodgers hit a bases-loaded double in the eight-run inning. Manager Bob Burgess of the Indians finally got his all-star win. Red Ferrand of the Pirates was the National manager. His team won the farm league crown this year.

Swimming Registration Friday

The Quincy Recreation Department will hold registration Friday between 9:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. for swimming lessons that will begin next week at several beaches around the city. Registration will be at the beaches.

Instruction is offered from

Harvey's Veterans Fishing Trip July 14

Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club of Houghs Neck will hold its annual Veterans' Day fishing excursion July 14, leaving Harvey's Wharf at about 9 a.m. and returning at 3 p.m.

Past President Frank Locke said the club will take 50-55 veterans from the Chelsea non-swimmer to advanced levels, on a schedule according to the tide beginning July 5. The Red Cross-trained instructors will teach classes for an eight-week period during the summer.

The thirteen swim locations holding registration are Avalon, Rock Island, Fenno, Nickerson, Soldiers Home, 20-25 amputees from the Brockton VA Hospital and 10-15 from the West Roxbury VA Hospital.

Traditionally, when the party returns to Harvey's after a day of fishing, the veterans are treated to a roast beef dinner with fixings.

Baker, Perry, Elm, Mound Street, Edgewater, Snug Harbor, Adams Shore, Bayfield and Orchard.

The program is open to Quincy residents, free of charge.

Suburban Softball League

Red Hot Roxie's, J's Sweep Doubleheaders

Roxie's Raiders and J's continue their red hot battle for the South Suburban League lead as each swept a doubleheader last Sunday.

Roxie's, with a 16-2 record, still leads J's (15-2) by a half a game.

Roxie's swept Happy Chef. Roxie's was awarded a forfeit in the first game, as Happy Chef was unable to field a full team, but in the second game, Roxie's romped, 20-6. A six-run fourth put the game out of reach. Kevin Smith and Ron Bouchard led a 24-hit assault with four hits apiece. Danny Minton had a three for three day including two RBIs, giving him an incredible 48 runs batted in in 16 games. Mike McAuley had three hits including his first home run. Pitcher Pete O'Rourke recorded his sixth win in seven decisions.

Gutz defeated Presidential Pub, 8-5 and 9-0. Gutz (11-7) clinched the first win with three runs in the sixth on timely hitting by Ray Beane, Mike Henry, Paul Veneto, John Donovan and Dom Perella. Pitcher Andy Guerini, John Sullivan, Jim Dern and Jim Doherty also sparked.

In the second game, Dern pitched a two-hitter and Gutz scored all the runs it needed with two in the first on hits by Henry and Veneto.

Gutz struck again in the third

Track Club Opens Summer Season July 6

The Quincy Track Club, which held its registration last weekend, has been holding workouts all this week and will open its summer season next Wednesday and Thursday at Veterans Memorial Stadium with its first development meet.

Field events will be held Wednesday at 5:30 and the running events Thursday night.

The club is looking for more boys and girls 12 to 15. Anyone interested in registering for the QTC can do so at Veterans Memorial Stadium any night except Friday from 6 to 8. Fee is $2.00.

Applications are available for the Jesse Owens tryout meet.

At the Boston Youth Games tryout meet eight QTC members qualified for the team, the most ever. Mike Williams and Rich McCarthy are the lone boys, qualifying with Sheila Barrett, Denise Santo, Sherri Grochowski, Nancy Chludzinski, Karen McCarthy and Linda Morash.

Santo set a club age group record for 12-13 years old with an 11.9 effort in the 100. Rich McCarthy set a boys' record in the 12-13 high jump with a 5-4 leap. Karen McCarthy set a 14-15 long jump record of 16-3/4. Chludzinski set a 12-13 shot put record of 29-5/8.

Nancy competed in the 14-15 group, as her birthday is July 8, at the New England AAU Women's meet at Boston University. Linda Cellini placed third in the 800 meters with a club record and personal best time of 2:19.5.

At a Baintree age group meet Michelle Milane recorded the best 12-year old discus toss of the year in the country with a brilliant 96-9 throw. She placed second in the women's open division.

Give Pesky, Mele Hunk Of Credit For Sox Sock

By TOM SULLIVAN
Quincy Sun Writer

Until they were swept by the Yankees in New York last weekend, everything had been coming up roses for the Red Sox.

They broke all kinds of home run records, the pitching had come around and the defense had been strong.

Many fans, including those who gave the Sox little chance at the start of the season of unseating the Yankees as American League champions, has been conceding them the Eastern Division title, despite a long summer ahead.

Until they lost the three games in New York, the Sox had won seven in a row over their closest contenders, the Yanks and Orioles, and had broken eight records and tied another in hitting 33 home runs in 10 games.

One of those given a lot of credit for the surge is first base coach, Johnny Pesky, who also is the batting instructor.

Jim Rice was having his troubles... and Pesky straightened him out. The young star at this writing was batting .309 with 18 home runs.

Even the venerable captain, Carl Yastrzemski, who at 38 is having one of his better years with a .308 batting average, 14 home runs and his usual brilliant play in left field, was aided by Pesky when in the throes of a bad slump.

"Johnny noted that I was backing away from certain pitches and he worked with me and I've been more comfortable than ever at the plate," Yaz said.

Pesky has all the credentials to be the outstanding batting instructor he is.

He had 205 hits and batted .331 in his rookie year, 1942, with the Sox, and had 208 hits with a .325 average in 1946 when he returned from the service and 207 hits and a .324 average in 1947.

Pesky also batted .306 in 1949, .312 in 1950 and .313 in 1951 before being traded to Detroit. His 10-year lifetime batting average is .307 and he had 1,455 hits.

In 1975 Johnny returned to the Sox as a coach where he is much more at home than he was the previous six years in the television booth as color commentator.

Pesky and Quincy's Sam Mele, who played together with the Sox in 1947, 1948 and part of 1949 before Sam was traded to Washington, spent considerable time with such young Sox players as Rick Miller, Dwight Evans, Rick Burleson, Fred Lynn, Rice, Butch Hobson and others.

Pesky and Mele, a special assignment scout who works with the Sox minor league batters each season, form a mutual admiration society.

"The Sox couldn't have a better batting instructor than Johnny," Sam lauded and Pesky returns the compliment. "The speedy progress of the Sox younger players shows what a tremendous batting coach Sam is," he said.

Both Pesky and Mele have coached for the Sox team in the Florida Instructional League in the fall. This team, the youngest in the league, won the championship each of the past two years.

The Sox pitching and defense have been outstanding. But Pesky and Mele have played a major role in bringing along the hitters.

Hancock House Awarded $51,542 For Solar Hot Water System

Hancock House, 45 School St., Quincy has been awarded $51,542 to help build a solar hot water system, Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] announces.

The grant, from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, will allow the 92-unit multi-family mid-rise to participate in HUD's Solar Heating and Cooling Demonstration Program. The program is part of the federal government's commitment to exploring alternative sources of energy, and is geared toward demonstrating whether solar technology can be effective for builders and developers.

Burke noted that New England is more dependent than any other section of the country on expensive types of energy, and that solar energy is only one of many sources which might be used to remedy that situation.

Hancock Group Dividend

Hancock Group, Inc., Quincy-based parent company of Hancock Bank, has declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents to holders of common stock on June 23, payable June 30, according to William E. Kelley, president.

This dividend will increase to 60 cents the total dividend payout so far this year.

Hancock Bank operates 16 banking offices throughout Norfolk County stretching from Plainville to Quincy.

James Noviasky District Manager For Friendly

James Noviasky of Dedham has been promoted to the position of District Manager - Northeast Region of the Friendly Ice Cream Corporation.

In this position, Noviasky will oversee the operation of six Friendly Fine Food and Ice Cream Restaurants in Quincy and Stoughton.

Tax-Free House Sale If Over 65

A homeowner who is over 65 or older may be able to avoid all income taxes on the profit from the sale of his home if he meets certain requirements. The two main ones are:

The house must have been used as the taxpayer's principal residence for five of the eight years preceding the sale.

The adjusted sales price of the house must be $35,000 or less. If you sold for more than $35,000, you can still avoid tax on the gain attributable to the first $35,000 of the sales proceeds.

If husband and wife own the house jointly, only one has to be 65 or older for the rule to apply. Unfortunately, this tax exclusion can be used only once.

You make the election to exclude the profit by attaching a signed statement to this effect with your tax return. Check with an accountant or Internal Revenue Service for details and form numbers.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

Phone or drop in. We are here to help.

City Payment Of LaRaia Ad In Sun Under Council Fire

 circumstances to him."
 "Did the money come from Mr. Hedges," asked Tobin.
 "No, it didn't," said Casey.
 "There was no record where the $200 came from," said Tobin.
 "I paid the $200 out of my own checking account," replied Casey.
 "So the ad in the Quincy Sun that was signed and paid for privately by Charles W. Hedge..." began Tobin.
 "It didn't say paid for privately," said Casey. "It said paid for with private funds. It didn't say whose."
 Casey continued:
 "Mr. Bosworth, when I offered him the $200 to compensate for the error and fully explaining it to him said it would be best if I came back Wednesday and deal directly with his bookkeeper because he did not have the books in front of him.

 "At that time I had no bad feeling for Mr. Bosworth. Mr. Gillis [City Clerk John Gillis] went over with me to talk to him about it. It appeared we would be able to go back Wednesday and correct the error. It's just a simple error that has been blown out of proportion."
 Councillor Daniel G. Raymond pursued the matter.
 RAYMONDI - You went down to Mr. Bosworth with $200 in cash or a personal check?

 CASEY - $200 in cash.
 RAYMONDI - And this was out of your own pocket?
 CASEY - No it wasn't. It was out of committee funds.
 RAYMONDI - Committee to Reelect Mayor LaRaia?
 CASEY - No, the original committee to elect.
 RAYMONDI - How did you get that money? Did you withdraw it from the bank?
 CASEY - No. Miss Barry [Ginny Barry, the Mayor's secretary] gave it to me. She had it in an envelope that was to pay for that ad. And she didn't. The simple error...

RAYMONDI - You were acting on behalf of the Committee to Elect, to pay the bill.
 CASEY - To correct an error.
 RAYMONDI - And you were of the opinion you could pay cash for this particular item?
 CASEY - Yes.
 RAYMONDI - After Mr. Bosworth indicated he would not accept the cash...
 CASEY - He did not say that. He just said that his bookkeeper wasn't there and he wanted me to come back when his bookkeeper was there.
 RAYMONDI - When you went back Wednesday, did you have cash?

already been paid with city money?
 CASEY - Right.
 RAYMONDI - Mr. Shea, does that money go into the E and D fund? The money is gone forever, correct, until the next fiscal year?
 SHEA - I believe it's been put back into the Mayor's expense account.
 RAYMONDI - Mr. Casey, have you been reimbursed by the Committee?
 CASEY - No, I have not been.
 RAYMONDI - Do you anticipate being reimbursed by the Committee?
 CASEY - I've never asked.
 RAYMONDI - Are you being recorded on the Committee's official papers as making a donation of $200?
 CASEY - I have no idea. I'm not the treasurer.
 RAYMONDI - You just made out the check on behalf of the Committee. Is that being recorded?

RAYMONDI - I didn't go back Wednesday. When I came back here, I told Mr. Gillis that I wanted to correct this problem that day. I didn't want to let it hang any longer. Then I thought why couldn't I reimburse the city...
 Councillor Leo J. Kelly interrupted at this point to suggest that Casey was "travelling into an area where he should have some legal advice" before he continued to answer the questions. Casey chose to continue.
 RAYMONDI - Did you ever go back to the Sun at some later point in time?
 CASEY - No, I didn't.
 RAYMONDI - How did the bill get paid?
 CASEY - I reimbursed the city directly.
 RAYMONDI - How did you do that?
 CASEY - With a personal check. And I did that at Bob Foy's [city treasurer's] recommendation that a check would be better than cash.
 RAYMONDI - It wasn't a Committee to Elect?
 CASEY - No, it was a personal check.
 RAYMONDI - Your personal check went to the treasurer's office of this city. The ad had will be passed on to the treasurer of the Committee.

 The Quincy Sun's records indicate Mayor LaRaia was billed for the ad first at his home address and then at City Hall.
 The ad was paid for in May with a check from the city of Quincy for $210. The sum of $200 was for that ad and the $10 for another smaller ad.
 After the city check was received, Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth asked the city auditor to obtain for The Sun's records a written explanation from the mayor's office as to how the ad came to be paid for by city funds, when the ad said it was being paid for by private funds.
 The written explanation has not yet been received.
 Purchase order 017817-3 from the City Purchasing Department to The Quincy Sun dated April 22 spells out the fact that the ad was about the Central Maintenance Garage.

 Harold: Slate, an attorney who has large landholdings in downtown Quincy:
 "I'd like to reserve comment until I see the details of the plan. The overall plan looks like it can serve Quincy well. From what I

 Summer Cohen of Kincaide's Furniture: "I haven't been able to get details but my first reaction is pie in the sky. It will cost a half billion as I understand it. It would probably double or triple in 15 years. We've been here since 1932 and wouldn't like to see the road go through. It's nice to talk about things like that but how would they fund it?"

Thomas McHugh 5th Mayoral Candidate

The preliminary election is still some 10 weeks away but already there are five candidates in the race for Mayor plus contests for all seats on the City Council except the one in Ward 3.

The five candidates for Mayor, who have either announced for the spot or have taken out nomination papers, are:

Joseph J. LaRaia of 54 Grogan Ave., the incumbent; Arthur H. Tobin of 58 Huntley Rd., president of the City Council; Thomas M. Barron of 48 Summit Ave., an attorney; George M. Tull, of 29 Russell Park, an attorney; and Thomas P. McHugh of 292 Quincy Ave. The latter is the latest to enter the Mayoral race.

For the at-large seat on the City Council:

John J. Quinn of 86 Grand View Ave., an incumbent; Dennis E. Harrington of 10 Hillcrest Rd., current Ward 6 councillor; Sabina Kavanagh Stenberg of 141 South Central Ave., businesswoman; Michael E. Faherty of 28 Furnace Brook Parkway, a retired State Police captain; Carl A. Awed Jr., of 580 Furnace Brook Parkway, a student.

Of the incumbent councillors at large, Arthur H. Tobin is running for Mayor and Paul D. Harold has not yet made his plans known.

For the Ward 1 seat on the City Council:

Leo J. Kelly of 44 Littlefield St., the incumbent; James F. Miller Jr., of 54 Yardarm Lane, a housing coordinator; David J. Crowley Jr. of 882 Sea St., a gas station proprietor; David MacMillan of 17 Bell St.

For the Ward 2 seat on the City Council:

Robert Beniers of 12 Beacon St., city recreation director; Patrick J. Faherty Jr. of 47 Faxon Park Rd. Incumbent Daniel G. Raymond has not yet announced but has appeared on candidate's programs.

No one has announced or drawn papers for the Ward 3 Council seat but incumbent John J. Lydon Jr. has appeared at candidate's nights.

For the Ward 4 seat on the City Council:

James A. Sheets of 926 Furnace Brook Parkway, the incumbent; George J. Barry of 89 Gilbert St.

For the Ward 5 seat on the City Council:

Stephen J. McGrath of 36 Bass St., a student. Incumbent Warren A. Powers had not yet made his plans known.

For the Ward 6 seat on the City Council:

Walter J. Hickey of 155 Huckins Ave., an engineer; Harold J. Gallagher of 28 Kendall St., owner of a heating company; Mrs. Joan Condon of 70 Botoolph St.; Michael F. Kelly of 2 Huckins Ave., a marketing representative; Patrick H. Conroy of 272 Billings St.

Incumbent Dennis E. Harrington is relinquishing the seat to run for the Council at large.

For School Committee:

Frank Anselmo of 77 Adams St., and John J. Sullivan of 23 Marion St., incumbents; Mrs. Mary Collins of 116 Lansdowne St., a housewife; Mrs. Joan C. Picard of 61 Rogers St., owner of a nursery school.

Charles T. Sweeny, the third incumbent whose seat is up for election, has not yet made an announcement.

Saccone Refuses To Speak

LaRaia Scores 'Courtroom Atmosphere' Of Council's Hearings

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor LaRaia has scored the "courtroom atmosphere" that prevailed in the City Council Chamber during the Finance Committee's 10 days of hearings into his $3.4 million supplementary budget.

The Council wound up its deliberations by appropriating $2.6 million for union employees salary increases and placing it in a reserve account and leaving the rest of the budget request in the Finance Committee.

The Council acted after Sarah Saccone, the budget coordinator, refused to speak in support of her budget figures unless the Council permitted her to read a statement apparently critical of the Council's treatment of her.

"Sarah was justified in doing that in her own behalf and on behalf of others in the administration," said an angry LaRaia. "She is one of several department heads who have been harassed and intimidated by the Council."

"We have reached the point where department heads are not shown the proper respect."

"Too often the Council Chamber becomes a courtroom scene where witnesses are told to 'answer, yes or no,' and 'speak only when you're ordered to.'"

"This is most beneficial to a prosecuting attorney but not to a 'defendant'. I don't like to use the term defendant but that's what you are when you appear before this Council."

"It's unfortunate that they have to use those tactics but most of the Council is affiliated with the courts."

At a previous meeting, the Council discovered what it called a $600,000 mistake and overestimate in the Mayor's budget but when Councilors sought to question Miss Saccone on the details, Sanford Kowal, the city's labor negotiator, attempted to insert himself in between, relaying questions and answers to and from Miss Saccone.

But the Council would have none of it and Miss Saccone flatly refused to testify.

At one point in the proceedings, Council President Arthur H. Tobin suggested that the Council invoke a little known state law under which it could summon witnesses and administer an oath to them.

"Maybe we ought to consider this and then we'll get the testimony we're looking for," he said. "Then if individuals refuse to testify and answer questions by the City Council they can be ordered to do so."

"I am prepared to sit here into the wee hours of the morning."

[Cont'd on Page 12]

Stipulates Contingency

Shea Thinks City Hall Addition Fees 'A Little High'

City Auditor Charles Shea has signed contracts totaling $435,000 with an architect and a construction management firm involved in the proposed City Hall addition even though he says he feels the sum is "a little high".

Shea said he agreed to sign the contracts late Tuesday afternoon after holding them up for four days so that Mayor LaRaia and Planning Director L. Norman Lundin could have them in Philadelphia Wednesday when they confer on a federal grant.

He said he signed with the contingency that the contracts are acceptable to the federal government, which is being asked to supply $2.4 million for the City Hall addition under an Economic Development Administration grant.

Shea said the architects contract was with L. Owen Trainor of Quincy for $220,000 plus $7,000 in other fees, and with Construction Planners Inc., also of Quincy, for $150,000 plus $58,000 in other expenses.

Both contracts, he said, are contingent on Quincy obtaining the federal grant of $2.4 million.

LoCicero Extortion Trial Set For Oct. 11

Suspended Public Works Commissioner Vincent LoCicero will go on trial for alleged extortion on Oct. 11 before Judge Walter J. Skinner in Federal District Court in Boston.

Clerk for Judge Skinner said it was not determined if Herbert Reppucci, former assistant director of RSVP in Quincy, would go on trial on the same date.

LoCicero and Reppucci were arrested last December on charges of extortion and conspiracy for allegedly taking $7,000 from a Natick contractor in connection with a $1 million contract for an addition to the Merrymount School. Both have pleaded innocent.

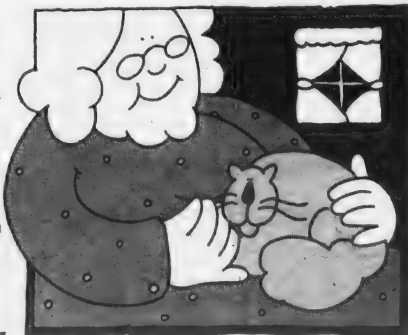

Another little thing that makes us big:

Keeping the Security in Social Security. Mrs. Ruth Staple has lived in Quincy all her life, and she's been a customer of ours for over 32 years. Last August she came to us and asked... but we'll let her tell it in her own words:

"What I needed was a safe, convenient way to get my Social Security check to the bank once a month. So Quincy Savings told me about Social Security Direct Deposit."

I signed up right away. Now my check goes straight into my N.O.W. checking account every month. I earn 5% interest, and I never have to worry that my check will be lost or delayed. So thanks, Quincy Savings. Thank you very much."

Thank you, Mrs. Staple.

Germantown Representatives At Nutrition Conference

Director Patricia Peers and aide Mary Lou McGrath of the Germantown Service Center attended a two-day conference of nutrition educators, conducted by the Norfolk County Extension Service.

"Budget counselling and nutrition education are a high priority at the Germantown Service Center, said Peers. "Most of the families we service live on limited incomes. One of our goals is to help them cope with inflation by promoting basic understanding of nutrition and budget conscious shopping habits."

Mrs. Stokinger, who has been a trainer, troop consultant and junior leader, is chairman of the Nominating Committee and a member of the Quincy Service Team.

Summer Story Hours For Youngsters At Germantown Center

Summer story hours for youngsters 6 to 8 years of age have begun on Tuesdays at the Germantown Service Center, 9 Bicknell St. Kids may register by calling Sheila Jordan at 471-1189.

The program for next week at the Center:

Monday - Weight control group meets at 10 a.m. in the Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

Tuesday - Kids in the Kitchen, a cooking class for boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 12 years, will be held at 12:30 p.m. Para-legal aide Rosemarie Hanley of Greater Boston Legal Services will be available for assistance in problems with AFDC, SSI and Veterans Services until 12 noon. Summer story hour for children at 10 a.m.

Wednesday - Family planning clinic appointments from 4 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Thursday - Boy Scouts meet at 7 p.m. Adult macrame class, 10 a.m. Children's macrame class, 3 p.m.

Friday - Family planning clinic appointments from 11:45 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Grocery orders for the Food Coop may be placed daily until 12 noon with Karen O'Neill.

The Harborview Residents Committee meets at the Center on the second Tuesday and the fourth Wednesday of each month at 8 p.m.

A number of Quincy Community Action members from the Germantown Center attended a recent public hearing in the State House on proposals to eliminate the emergency assistance program from the state welfare budget.

Patricia Peers, director of the Center, testified to several cases of hardship which Quincy agencies had to deal with last winter that required emergency assistance.

She criticized present state welfare policies requiring families to receive shut-off and eviction notices before becoming eligible for help.

"The state has failed to adequately inform welfare recipients of their eligibility for certain benefits," she told the hearing. "We urge you to find a way of informing those in need of their rights."

"We also urge you to consider what curtailment of emergency assistance would do to people who have no alternative resources."

Peter Carter-Donnelly, a counselor with Survival, Inc., explained at a Center in-service training session how his organization branched out from its beginnings as a drug rehabilitation center to include many categories of counseling.

He told of the 24-hour crisis line, the Joseph H. Whitman Treatment Center, and the multi-service center, which provides evaluation, referral services, advocacy, and individual, group and family therapy.

"There is still no charge for any of these services and they are available to all South Shore residents," he said.

Patricia Peers discussed her goals for the Center at the in-service session.

"Through in-service training sessions with organizations like Survival, Inc., we hope to develop our Center into a well-functioning liaison between the people of our community and the resources and expertise which exist to help them through the difficult moments in life," she said.

"When they don't know which way to turn with a problem, we want to be able to show them."

3 Cadette Girl Scouts Receive First Class Awards

Three Quincy Cadette Girl Scouts received the First Class Award in Scouting at ceremonies held recently at the Quincy Point Congregational Church in Quincy.

Recipients were Debbie Barkhouse of 2 Keyes St., Quincy Point, Lisa Coste of 58 River St., Quincy Point, and Theresa Lomanno of 907

Southern Artery.

The First Class Award is the Girl Scout equivalent of the Eagle Scout Award for boys. To qualify, each girl must earn badges in the areas of arts, home, citizenship, international friendship, health, safety and the out-of-doors.

They must also meet challenges in Social Dependability, Emergency Preparedness, Active Citizenship, and Implementation of the Girl Scout promise.

Each girl will receive a note of congratulations from President Carter.

Blue Hill Girl Scout Council, a United Way Agency and a member of Norwood United Fund, serves over 9,000 girls in 19 communities south and west of Boston.

Kathleen Kelley Re-elected

Boston Teachers Union Representative

Kathleen Kelley of Quincy was recently re-elected to the post of elementary field representative for the Boston Teachers Union (BTU).

More than one-third of all union members voted in the election, the largest ever, casting over 2,000 ballots at BTU's new Bayside Mall offices.

Miss Kelley is currently on leave of absence from the Leen School in Dorchester, where she taught first grade, in order to serve with the BTU.

She is also a vice-president of the Massachusetts Federation of Teachers, BTU's parent organization; last year she chaired their education and Research Committee. Miss Kelley was also elected to serve as a BTU delegate to the upcoming convention of the Union's parent organization, the American Federation of Teachers.

Kathleen Kelley holds a B.S. in education from Boston State College.

IF YOU DRINK, DON'T DROWN

Everyone knows that alcohol is an important factor in highway deaths, but the role of alcohol in drownings has been neglected. A study of drowning accidents in the Baltimore area showed that 47 percent of the victims had alcohol in their blood. Most of them had more than .10 per cent, making them legally impaired in driving ability in most states.

Some public health officials who are on the scene of drownings or near drownings not only confirm the results—they make 47 percent sound like a modest figure.

The problem of drinking swimmers can be controlled to some extent through regulations that prohibit the use of alcohol on the beach.

Drinking boaters are not so easily policed, and beach officials agree that they are an ever-present problem. Driving a boat under the influence can be as risky as driving a car.

The easiest way to solve the drinking and drowning problem is to eliminate one of the dangerous elements. If you drink, don't go in the water. If you're going to go in the water, don't drink.

Historical Society Annual Tea At Adams Birthplaces Sunday

The Quincy Historical Society will hold its annual tea and open house Sunday, July 10 from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Adam's Birthplaces, Franklin St.

The tea, which is traditionally scheduled for the Sunday nearest John Quincy Adams' birthday, July 11, is open to the members of the Quincy Historical Society and their guests.

Special invitations have been extended to members of city government because the city is responsible for the preservation of the birthplaces. The city owns the houses, having received the deed from the Adams family in 1940, and the society manages the programs of the houses. The Society has operated the John Quincy Adams house since 1897, and the John Adams house since 1950 on a non-profit basis.

Chairman of the event is Kathleen O'Donnell.

The Chairman of the House

Committee, Mrs. William O'Connell will be arranging the tours, and will present the program of the day.

Chairman of the refreshment committee, Mrs. David Day, will be assisted in serving the punch and pastries by Mrs. Robert Kilbourne. The punch bowl will be the one won by English Aviator Claude Graham in 1910.

Musical selections will be performed by violinist Joseph Leary of Marblehead.

Still another little thing that makes us big:

The drive-up teller at our main office. The big reason Dave Martin comes to Quincy Savings is the interest we pay him on his regular savings account—5.25%, compounded daily for an effective annual yield of 5.47%.

But Dave says there are a few little things we do that matter almost as much. One of them's convenience. For Dave that means five offices in Quincy and one in Hanover. Saturday hours from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at our five branch offices. And Plus 24, our round-the-clock automatic teller.

For Dave, however, the biggest little thing is the extra-hours drive-up teller at our main office.

Why? "Because I get a chance to show off my new car. Which I bought with a loan from Quincy Savings."

Glad to help you get the wheels to drive up to our drive-up window, Dave.

CD Block Grants were

Tobin State Budget Amendment To Help Slash Hospital Deficit

An amendment sponsored by Sen. Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy] that would provide $15 million to reimburse municipal hospitals for services to welfare patients has survived to be included in the state budget.

Tobin's amendment' came amid an ongoing controversy over a $2 million deficit at Quincy City Hospital, largely due to services to general relief recipients.

Quincy's share of the $15 million fund could wipe out the deficit, or at least make a substantial reduction, and give the hospital a chance to operate in the black once again, Tobin said.

"This is a major break through toward getting this city hospital back on its feet," he said. "I hope the city takes full advantage of these funds."

He said the reimbursement formula is still being worked out but "the city ought to keep on top of the situation, so Quincy can be first when the funds are available."

The Dukakis Administration has in the past refused to reimburse municipal hospitals for services to relief recipients, even though the state took over welfare costs several years ago.

However, Sen. Tobin said the fund, as a state budget item, is now a mandate by the Legislature to make these reimbursements.

City To Receive

$1,022,000 Block Grant

Congressman James A. Burke announces Quincy will receive $1,022,000 over the next fiscal year in Community Development Block Grant funds from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

CD Block Grants were established in 1974 by Congress, and combined several previously-existing federal urban development programs into one single category. Quincy anticipates using its money to continue community programs in the Houghs Neck, Southwest, and Atlantic areas of town.

Chapter 766 Full Funding Bill Gets Favorable Report

The House Committee on Education has reported favorably on a bill that would insure full state funding for the Chapter 766 special education program and return to cities and towns monies they spent in fiscal 1976-77 because of underfunding by the state.

Unfortunately, said Rep. James A. Sheets, a member of the committee, the estimates for Quincy for fiscal 1976-77 were fairly accurate and the city probably will not receive a windfall reimbursement from the $23 million jackpot.

Sheets said that because of the favorable report on the bill, the prospect for passage by the House is very good, meaning that full state funding of Chapter 766 will be assured and the additional burden will not fall on the local taxpayer.

Awards Presented

At Central Assembly

Four top students gave speeches, and awards were presented to 14 others at Central Junior High School's final assembly recently.

Elan Ezickson spoke on Competition and Cooperation; John Kavanaugh, on Achievements; Thomas Rand, on The Value of Education; and Michael Ricciuti on Responsibilities during the assembly.

Principal Vincent Moscardelli presented the Principal's awards to Daniel Flannery, Richard Finnegan, Linda Kelliher, Michael Ricciuti, Patricia Murray, Juli Mullin, Carolyn Dunn, Joseph Irvine, Glenn Ross and David Howley.

James Meehan was awarded the Hallem Haddad Memorial Award, given in memory of Mr. Haddad, a science teacher at the school who died last year. The award is given to a student whose enthusiasm for science and respect for learning are outstanding.

The Walsh award, presented to the student who best exemplifies citizenship in the American Democratic Tradition, was given to Patricia Miceli.

The American Legion Award for outstanding scholarship and citizenship was awarded by Robert Eng to Mary Schiarizzi and Thomas Veale.

2 North Quincy Sisters Drown In Cape Pond

Two North Quincy sisters, Michelle McCauley, 4, and Danielle McCauley, 7, drowned Saturday afternoon in a holiday mishap at Peters Pond, Sandwich.

The girls, the only children of Robert and Ellen McCauley of 92 Botolph St., North Quincy, were reportedly playing on sand dunes beside the pond less than 25 feet from their parents and apparently slipped into deep water below the dunes.

McCauley, 31, said he jumped into the pond to try and save the girls but was unable to find them. Their bodies were later recovered by another vacationer with diving equipment in 25 feet of water.

The girls were declared dead at Cape Cod Hospital. At Quincy Sun press time funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Other Deaths

Miss Mary E. Dunham, 78, of Quincy, at the Quincy Nursing Home, June 30.

Survival Seeking Host Homes

Survival, Inc., is seeking families in the South Shore area who are willing to act as temporary hosts to young people who are in crisis situations under the Host Homes Program of short term foster care.

The Host Homes staff is currently developing a network of host families who, after taking part in a training session, will take in youth aged 12-18 who need a place to stay for one to 45 days.

Families who wish to participate should call Virginia or Gunther at 471-8400.

Ruth Johnstone President Protestant Social Service Bureau

Miss Ruth V. Johnstone of 32 Reservation Rd., Milton was elected president of the Protestant Social Service Bureau at its 30th anniversary meeting at the Neighborhood Club.

Miss Johnstone has been a member of the Board of Directors for nine years, serving two years as secretary. She has been vice president of the board and is a member of the Bureau Drawer Committee, a thrift shop that brought $2,333 into the treasury of the agency last year.

She is a member of the East Congregational Church, Milton and a graduate of Radcliffe College. She was formerly on the staff of the Dean of Women at Boston University. She was a staff member at Clinton Community Center, an experimental project sponsored by the New York City Board of Education and the Y.W.C.A.

The Protestant Social Service Bureau is located at 776 Hancock St., Wollaston and provides family and group counseling and adoption services, placing in adoptive homes 64 infants and hard to place children since the fall of 1974.

The Protestant Social Service Bureau was started in 1948; after the need for its services was stressed by a court judge. The first meeting was held at Bethany Congregational Church and the first office was opened in the YMCA building. The first contribution of $25 came from St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church in Quincy. The new President is only the second woman to serve as President. The first one was the outgoing president, Marjorie Bowker of Braintree.

Other new officers installed were the Rev. Edwin Moyer of Randolph, second vice-president; Rev. Elden D. J. Zuern, Brockton, formerly of Quincy, secretary; Roy L. Wooldridge of Wollaston, treasurer, and John H. Fredrickson of Quincy, assistant treasurer.

New Directors elected are M. Ena Fredette of North Quincy, Theodore Heidenreich, North Scituate; Frances Martin, Wollaston; Rev. J. Scott Newell, Jr., Weymouth; Stewart Sargent, Cohasset; Edith Snow, Braintree; Florabel Stevens, Wollaston and Ralston Yocum, East Weymouth. Miss Mary Lou Glaman, Quincy was chairwoman of the 30th anniversary dinner.

Support for the Protestant Social Service Bureau comes from more than 50 Protestant churches in Quincy and the South Shore.

Flood Disaster Relief Donations May Be Sent To Quincy Red Cross

The American National Red Cross has pumped more than one million dollars in disaster relief into a five-state region in Southeastern United States devastated by recent spring flooding.

According to Dr. Frank Stanton, National Chairman, Red Cross efforts may reach $10 million before operations in Alabama, Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia and Virginia are completed.

Early estimates point to more than 40,000 families who have suffered losses and nearly 35,000 homes damaged in the wake of the Appalachian flood and tornadoes.

Red Cross emergency operations in the stricken areas are expected to continue into June. Teams of Red Cross relief workers have been working around-the-clock providing food, clothing, shelter, and emergency medical assistance.

As work continues throughout the hard-hit areas, the Red Cross itself is in need of assistance, as disaster relief funds are nearly depleted.

Tom Lyons, Disaster Chairman, said that the Red Cross is accepting contributions and that checks, made payable to American Red Cross Disaster Services, may be sent to Greater Quincy Red Cross, 57 Revere Road, Quincy, Mass. 02169.

3 Quincy Residents Honored By St. Coletta Day School

Braintree St. Coletta Day School has honored three Quincy residents for their "Outstanding Volunteer Service" to the school.

Receiving plaques from the school recently were Sibohan Nolan of 113 Standish Ave., and Irene Gallagher of 96 Assabet Rd., both of North Quincy. Lina Simkus of 1492 Quincy Shore Drive was presented a certificate of appreciation by the school.

RSVP Elects Officers, Board Members

The South Shore Retired Senior Volunteer Program elected new board members and officers at its annual meeting recently for 1977-1978.

Elected to a three-year term were:

Gertrude Ready, Quincy Volunteer; Arthur Ciampa, director of Quincy Cerebral Palsy, James Cooper, Randolph Volunteer; Helena Parrish, Hingham Volunteer; Esther

Weiner, Hull Volunteer; Catherine Clougherty, Braintree Volunteer; Rev. A. Paul Gallivan, Rector, St. Claire's Parish, Braintree.

Two-year term members are: Toby Felton, Asst. to President of Quincy Junior College; and Gordon Snow, Weymouth Volunteer.

One-year term members are: John Mahoney, Quincy

Volunteer; Lydia Chisolm, Quincy Volunteer and Natalie Lorizio, Avon Volunteer.

Chair officers are: John Burke, Quincy Volunteer, Chairman; Claire O'Connor, Director of Volunteers at South Shore Hospital, vice-chairman and Toby Felton, secretary.

RSVP plans increased activity along the South Shore during coming fiscal year.

Braintree Hospital Seeking Volunteers

The new Director of Volunteer Services at the Braintree

Hospital, Diane Cortesi, asks those who wish to become volunteers or to learn about the volunteer program at the hospital to contact her at 848-5353, extension 113.

Food, Nutrition Course Completed At Germantown

The Norfolk County Extension Service concluded a six-week course in food and nutrition at the Germantown Service Center recently with a tour of the Federal Food and Drug Administration laboratories in Boston.

Attend Panel For Right To Read

Dr. Mary Baran, research assistant, and Janet P. DiTullio, coordinator of language arts for Quincy schools, recently attended an administrators' panel for the Massachusetts Right to Read Council in West Boylston.

Dr. Baran and Miss DiTullio discussed the activities of the Council in Quincy.

The group was guided through the labs by William Adams, supervisory chemist with the FDA, who described the work of his group as both regulatory and educational.

He said that many products are not now required to list their ingredients on the package but that continued consumer demand for disclosure could bring about a change in the law.

The visitors from Germantown expressed concern that the FDA has such a comparatively small staff to supervise a big operation.

40,000 Bees Crash 4th Of July Party

By SARAH RICHARDS

Fourth of July festivities and family reunions can be hectic and should leave a host and hostess prepared for anything.

But Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wiltshire of Braintree Ave., Adams Shore, still weren't expecting the approximately 40,000 angry party-crashers who swarmed onto their property during their family picnic last Monday.

Thirty-five members of the Wiltshire clan were enjoying themselves peacefully in the Wiltshire's pool and back yard when a huge swarm of honeybees, filling the air with a black and noisy cloud, buzzed over their heads and settled on a pine tree in their yard.

Mrs. Wiltshire was in the kitchen preparing the picnic lunch at about 2 p.m. when her six-year-old niece, Laurie Ann Papkey of Quincy, looked up from the swimming pool where she was playing and cried "Oh, look at the bugs!" It was rapidly ascertained that the bugs were bees, and the entire family quickly headed for the house - except for the Wiltshire's daughter and grandson, Judy and Joseph Bevilacqua, who were trapped in the supply shed near the pool. Searching in the shed for a life jacket when the bees arrived, the two had to stay there until help arrived.

Watching the "cloud of bees" covering the landscape, Mrs. Wiltshire said her first thought was of the movie "Killer Bees" which was on television several years ago.

"It was something else. All of us were on the porch trying to see, and lots of our neighbors were on the porch next door. The bees settled on two branches of the pine tree which leans into our property, but they were buzzing around for a long time.

Mrs. Wiltshire called the police for help, and they called in two professional beekeepers from Weymouth, Robert Brown and Paul Thomas.

The beekeepers arrived wearing special beekeepers netting and clothing designed to keep out angry bees, and with a ladder, a pair of pruning snips, and a hive base got to work.

"We set up the ladder right near the swarm," Thomas, a professional beekeeper for 16 years, said.

"Mr. Brown went up the ladder with the snips and cut off the branch the bees had swarmed onto just above the swarm, and dropped it into the hive base. Half the swarm fell on the ground and had to be picked up, which was hectic for a few minutes - Mr. Brown had to spray the bees with water to calm them down."

Thomas, who is called to do this kind of removal "frequently in June, July and August, in hot weather when bees will swarm," plans to keep the bees and raise them, with his other hives.

"They're a valuable insect, the chief pollinator of vegetables and flowers," he explained, "an I keep them for that reason mainly, although the honey is good too!"

Bees swarm in hot weather when there are two queens in a hive. One takes off with up to two thirds of the worker bees in attendance, flies away, settles somewhere for two or three days while the worker bees search for permanent home in a tree or someone's attic, and then leaves for that home with her attendants.

"There was no particular reason why the bees [which are believed to have come from a neighbor's hive] stopped at the Wiltshire's. It was just a chance. They only swarmed from a hive four houses away, but a swarm from Weymouth just might have landed in that same place. It all depends on the Queen bee."

The chance which left the swarm in the Wiltshire's back yard created a memorable Independence Day picnic, disrupting the Wiltshire's holiday schedule completely. Lunch was not eaten till 6:30 p.m., after the beekeepers, and most of the 40,000 bees, had departed. The remaining bees reformed into a "pine cone shaped swarm that hung down from the tree," according to Mrs. Wiltshire. "After dusk my husband went out and killed them with an insecticide."

Mrs. Wiltshire and her daughter Judy are former Quincy Sun newspaper carriers, and Joseph Bevilacqua was The Quincy Sun New Year's "cover baby" four years ago.

Capt. Robert Babcock Receives MIT Degree

Army Capt. Robert T. Babcock, whose wife Jane lives at 77 Adams Pl., Quincy, has received a masters degree in electrical engineering from MIT while serving as an instructor at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

Capt. Babcock, who is from New London, Wis., is a graduate of West Point.

Awed Petitions For Special Voter Registration

Carl A. Awed Jr., who is a candidate for an at-large seat on the City Council, has rented the George F. Bryan VFW Post Hall from 7 p.m. to 12 midnight July 14 in order to register new voters.

He is awaiting approval from the registrars of Voters.

Awed sees the evening as sort of a party for unregistered voters, complete with entertainment. They may arrive unregistered but it is Awed's hope that they will leave fully qualified to cast ballots in the Sept. 20 election.

"A great deal of young people are unregistered and their numbers are continually rising,"

2 From Quincy On Bowdoin Dean's List

Two students from Quincy have been named to the dean's list at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine, for the second semester of the 1976-77 academic year.

They are Carl L. Leinonen of 8 South Junior Terrace, South Quincy, and Christopher M. Toy of 79 Roberts St., South Quincy. Both are seniors.

said Awed, who is only 21 himself. "I see this as a very unhealthy sign towards the future of our community."

With this in mind, he filed a petition requesting the registrars of voters to attend the meeting at the Bryan Post.

"A successful registry drive will be a shot in the arm to the democratic expression of our city," said Awed. "If Quincy is going to maintain a healthy environment it is essential that the unregistered youths get some incentive and come out and register.

"The message to the unregistered voters is clear: One can only better themselves and their community by seeking involvement, which begins in the form of registration.

"I realize that the first step is most often the hardest. For this reason I am going all out to do my part in getting people out to register. But it is the people's cooperation and participation that are the key to success."

Why The Poll For Paul Harold?

Don't look now, but is Paul Harold toying with the thought of stepping into this year's mayoral ring as an 11th hour candidate?

He isn't saying yes, no, or even maybe. But—
A professional poll commissioned by him to measure his performance in office has been recently completed and is now going through the analysis process.

Some 400 voters were polled by telephone over a week and a half period by a Cambridge research firm. The 400 queried represented a cross section of the city, sampling each area, age group, political and ethnic backgrounds.

Does a city councillor-at-large take such a poll merely to see what his chances of re-election are? Or is he really looking for a reading on the mayoral scene to find a few encouraging signs that maybe this might just be the year to get into the mayor's race?

It would seem Harold is doing a little checking on the mayoral picture because the poll questions appear designed not only to measure Harold's own performance in office but others—including Councillor Arthur Tobin and Mayor Joseph LaRaia.

Those called were also asked what they think are the main issues in the city today, and how they think the city is being run.

Questions also sought to determine the degree of alienation between the voter and the present city government.

Ask Harold if he is considering stepping into the mayoral ring as an 11th hour candidate and all he will say is: "I have nothing to say about it right now."

His entrance would certainly put some added zip into a race that already has all the earmarks of being an election that will long be remembered.

Whether he gets into the race this year or doesn't, one thing seems pretty sure: he will be a candidate one of these years soon. Maybe two years from now.

CONGRESSMAN James A. Burke [D-Milton] is resting at his Washington home following an eight-day stay in Bethesda Naval Hospital for treatment of an infected foot.

Edward Moore, Burke's aide, said that the 67-year-old Congressman was told "to take it easy" during the current 10-day Congressional recess so that he will be ready when the sessions resume.

WOMAN'S TOUCH: Those rose bushes on the traffic divider along Hancock St. in Quincy Sq. were suggested by former City Councillor Edna Austin. They were planted during the Plan E term of William Deegan back in the early 1950's. The strip became known as "Deegan's Park". Mrs. Austin, the only woman ever to serve in Quincy's City Council, suggested the roses to dress it up.

WELL, now there are two office holders in City Councillor Warren Powers' household. Pretty wife, Holly, has been elected president of the St. Mariann's.

YOU'VE GOT to admit that Rep. Michael Morrissey rarely misses a public relations opportunity. Travelling the city over the weekend was a truck with this message from him: "Have a happy Fourth of July".

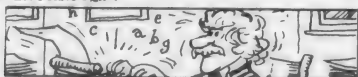

THE NAME MARK Fitzsimmons will be on the Quincy political scene next year. Fitzsimmons who now represents Weymouth in the state House of Representatives, will be wooing votes in Quincy's Ward 2 area. That's one of the new districts. Fitzsimmons thus will battle Quincy's Robert Cerasoli for the new seat. Fitzsimmons says he's a definite candidate. Cerasoli is expected to run although there has been some speculation he might go for the country treasurer's post instead.

JERRY FOLEY, the Quincy Cooperative Bank's marketing manager also manages pretty well on a golf course. Foley shot a four-above par 76 at the Colonial Country Club in Lynnfield to win the Massachusetts Cooperative Bank League championship. The league has 131 membership banks. A FUND-RAISING dance for Ward 6 City Council candidate Harold Gallagher is set for July 13, 8 p.m. at the Fore River Club House, Quincy Point. Tickets at $2.50 available by calling 328-8588 or 328-8555.

TIME DOTH FLY - In 1932 Pete Zoia was playing baseball for North Quincy High School. This year, 45 years later, his son Greg played baseball and football for North. Pete, incidentally, was one of the stars of North's first football team in 1933.

SAY, how would you like a nice little bunny. Not the Bunny Club variety but the four legged kind. Joan Picard, candidate for school committee, has a litter of five white bunnies born to Snow Ball and Marshmallow. They're all white. They're free but Joan wants to be sure they get a nice home. She is insisting whoever gets them must have a hutch. The rabbits were born at her nursery school called "Let's Have Fun".

LaRaia Scores Council On 'Courtroom Atmosphere'

Fortunately, the rest of the Council was not so prepared and Tobin's suggestion was politely rejected.

Play by play of the high points of the Finance Committee's meeting, with Councillor John J. Quinn in the chair and Councillors Dennis E. Harrington and Leo J. Kelly joining Tobin in the questioning, went like this:

KOWAL - We are prepared tonight to go over the disputed areas and let you come to a conclusion on them. I am asking you, if you would do the courtesy ... Sarah Saccone has been under enormous pressure and a lot of criticism and has been under a lot of push - so that in order that we can do this properly I've asked the department heads to be here so that I can consult with them, that we have one spokesman for the city. I've been working with her all day long. I'm prepared to discuss the items. She's prepared to consult with me. We want one person talking. I'm prepared to answer the questions about the items, present the numbers. Now, Sarah's right here, she'll talk. So there'll be no personalities involved, so that people won't criticize. I am very concerned about the talk about putting the money in the budget reserve for a legitimate labor relations reason. Now we had two points of views expressed ...

TOBIN - I don't think that's a topic of discussion.

KOWAL - Well, it's very important whether or not we meet our obligations. I believe that if we don't ...

TOBIN - We'll discuss that at a later time.

QUINN - I wish you'd stick to the answers to the questions and don't try to interpret how this committee is going to act here this evening.

KOWAL - Whenever you're ready I want to address that item.

HARRINGTON - Point of order!

QUINN - Councillor Harrington.

HARRINGTON - Mr. Chairman, I appreciate Mr. Kowal's talent but he is not going to set ground rules ...

KOWAL - No, sir, I'm not.

HARRINGTON - ... for this City Council. I wish the chair would instruct him not even to suggest that he might.

QUINN - I'm going to respond to that. That is exactly what I said, Councillor Harrington, and I did give you a little more latitude than I intended to. What I wish you would do is address yourself to the answers to the questions that are put to you and not go beyond the answers to those questions.

KOWAL - May I finish?

QUINN - We'll get to the root of all the problems that we have to resolve in an orderly fashion. We already had a preliminary exercise on this many hours last Saturday. Let's do the same thing, all right? Without going through some of the things we went through.

KOWAL - Will the Council address that issue to me because ...

TOBIN - Mr. Kowal, the chairman has so stated and I concur. That's what my very next statement was going to be and I'm just going to drop it. But we will set the guidelines ...

KOWAL - Absolutely.

TOBIN - ... of how the Council meeting will be conducted tonight. I appreciate how hard you and Sarah have been working but I just want to remind you that every member of this Council, including myself, rearranged our schedule every night this week to be here

... KOWAL - That's a very ...

TOBIN - ... when we were looking for everybody else.

KOWAL - Sir, I was here Saturday morning and I didn't see you here.

TOBIN - Let me just tell you

... KOWAL - That's a very unfair

... TOBIN - Let me just tell you! Let me just tell you!

KOWAL - I was here at 9 o'clock!

TOBIN - Let me just tell you something, all right? Let me just tell you something about that.

KOWAL - Please, tell me.

TOBIN - The councillors knew where I was and said if I was needed they'd pick up the phone. They said I was not needed, there was no continuation of the meeting, it was going to be recessed. Now that's the truth. Every member of this Council was on call near a telephone if we were needed.

KOWAL - Mr. Tobin, I didn't raise the issue, sir ...

TOBIN - You just did. You raised the issue when you said how hard you were working, putting figures and numbers together and you were insinuating ... I'm telling you that we've been here every single night.

KOWAL - That is not true.

TOBIN - Okay, every night ...

KOWAL - Let me be clear.

TOBIN - ... waiting ...

KOWAL - Excuse me, Mr. Tobin.

TOBIN - ... waiting patiently for someone to come forth and explain what is in the proposal that was dumped on that desk at 10 minutes of 10 in the evening. Now that's the truth.

KOWAL - That is not the truth.

TOBIN - That is the truth.

KOWAL - I was here Saturday morning when you asked me to be here ...

TOBIN - You were here one morning.

KOWAL - ... at nine o'clock in the morning. I was the only one in the chamber and by 11 we had three councillors and I left my family to be here.

QUINN - Mr. Kowal, would you please answer the questions and not get into a controversy over ...

KOWAL - In regard to the question you're asking ...

TOBIN - I haven't asked you any questions. I just informed you that we will set the ground rules.

QUINN - Councillor ...

TOBIN - And you will answer the questions.

QUINN - Councillor Tobin, would you listen, too, please. I'm in the chair. While I'm in the chair I'm going to be extremely fair about trying to give you all the latitude to get to the root of the questions. And I think we've belabored the point about how many times we've been available to one side or the other. I would like to instruct you, Mr. Kowal, your purpose in standing before us on this podium is to answer the legal questions from the union negotiated or the ordinance point of view. So far as the financial aspect of it is concerned, I've already had a conference with Arthur Casey, the executive secretary to the Mayor, and we've agreed that Sarah Saccone would come before us to answer questions on the financial aspects of it and that is all.

KOWAL - May I ...

QUINN - And those will be questions and answers without going into personalities and I will not allow any more personalities here. We've got too much of a problem without getting involved in a lot of personalities. Now you will kindly stay to the guidelines that I have instructed you to do, otherwise I'll rap my gavel. When I rapped my gavel one time in the past I broke it. I hope I don't have to do it in your case or anybody else's case.

KOWAL - May I respond. This afternoon, in regard to this matter, I have been in contact with the Mayor and in contact with Miss Saccone. Because of some of the personal matters that have been involved I have been asked to prepare myself to respond to any issue, financial, legal or whatever, about these contracts and to have Sarah available to consult. She has asked if she could please be excused from getting involved in any further interplay between the two parties and, if you would be so kind, to permit me to act as spokesman for the Mayor. The Mayor has agreed that this is what he wants done, so we will have no problems. She finds it difficult at this point ... I'm not trying to protect her or anything, believe me. She gave me the answers and any one I can't answer I'll get from her right in front of you. And I would ask you if you would help us in that respect ...

QUINN - All that I am looking for, and I know the members of the Council are looking for, is the correct, accurate salaries that are in the ordinance ...

KOWAL - I hope ...

QUINN - ... this is specifically what we are looking for and I think that to stretch it out into a lot of words, I would rather reduce it to the dollars and cents and the answers to specific questions ...

KOWAL - We're ready.

QUINN - Do you have any further questions, Councillor Tobin?

TOBIN - I'll yield to Councillor Raymond.

QUINN - Councillor Kelly has the floor next.

KELLY - Mr. Kowal, I just want to get something straight in my mind. We've been told for the last 10 days that when we received this financial order that, as you put it to us, we've got 10 days to work on it. We've worked on it for 10 days. In fact, talking about people losing sleep and putting their time in, I think people are paid quite adequately in the city of Quincy to put that time in. I know the auditor put in three days of time over the weekend with about three hours sleep so, I mean, let's get off that kind of stuff, huh.

KOWAL - Very happy to.

KELLY - That's what we're here for.

KOWAL - Very happy to.

KELLY - Mr. Kowal, I'm surprised that you are going to answer questions on the financial list here seeing as we've been told here for the last 10 days that the only one who knows what's in it or knows anything about it is Miss Saccone.

KOWAL - That's why we've been working eight hours today to get ready.

KELLY - I wish you had done it prior to the last Council meeting so that you could have answered questions then and saved us this 10 days.

KOWAL - We couldn't do that until we had some kind of checks by the city auditor and he's been very cooperative with us and he's given us his numbers

New Haven RR Subsidy Bill Ruled Constitutional

The Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court ruled constitutional a measure that would provide a $900,000 subsidy to the New Haven Railroad to keep passenger trains running on the Old Colony line, for one year.

Service on the Old Colony ceased for 24 hours but resumed after the New Haven obtained a promise to push subsidy legislation from Gov. Foster Furcolo, House Speaker John F. Thompson [D-Ludlow] and Senate Minority Leader John F. Powers [D-South Boston].

"This is a temporary reinstatement of the Old Colony passenger service," said New Haven President George Alpert. "If the legislation is promptly enacted in the form I am now assured it will be presented then I feel the problem of continuing as provided in that legislation will have been solved for the next year."

Meanwhile, George A. Yarrington, executive director of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, warned that the subsidy bill would be a "dead duck" if Boston legislators succeeded in tying a so-called "MTA fringe bill" to it.

Such a bill would force Quincy and 13 other communities on the fringes of the Metropolitan Transit Authority to share in the MTA's huge annual deficit.

The subsidy bill raised such a storm in the legislature that Sen. Arthur J. Mullen [D-Fairhaven] reported that he and his family were threatened with "something drastic" unless he ended his filibuster against it.

FREE FOR ALL IN 13TH

The impending retirement of Cong. Richard Wigglesworth [R-Milton] from the 13th Congressional District seat drew a field of at least six Democrats and four Republicans in the race to succeed him as the deadline for filing in the primaries approached.

The Democrats included: Rep. William A. Connell Jr. of Weymouth, Richard E. McCormack of Braintree, Michael A. DeSimone of Boston and Hollis Mosher, Peter G. Fallon and James A. Burke, all of Milton.

Republican were: Rep. William W. Jenness and Joseph B. Grossman of Quincy, former Mayor Hjalmar Peterson of Brockton, and Asst. Atty. Gen. Harold Putnam of Needham.

State Sen. Charles W. Hedges, City Councillor Thomas S. Burgin and Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa, all of Quincy, all took themselves out of the running for the Republican nomination.

"LEGALIZED LARCENY?"

The City Council appropriated $13,530 for the purchase of the McCausland property to enhance the grounds of the Adams homes following out of court settlement of an eminent domain suit.

Owners of the property originally were awarded $8,250 and their suit for more was settled out of court for $21,900 by City Solicitor Douglas A. Randall, a move that drew the ire of City Councillor Carl W. Anderson.

"I'll not be party to legalized larceny," vowed Anderson as he cast the sole dissenting vote on the appropriation.

More Big Brother

In 1775, a harassed New England merchant complained:

"Men of war, cutters, marines with their bayonets fixed, judges of the admiralty, collectors, comptrollers, searchers, tide waiters, land waiters, with a whole catalogue of pimps, are sent hither not to protect our trade but to distress it."

Such a state of affairs was obviously intolerable, so we threw out King George and his "swarms of officers."

And now? Well....

Pity the poor Navaho Indian who was ordered by the government to install a two-way intercom in his mine...even though he works it alone.

He's as perplexed as the Portland employer who was told that 15 percent of his two secretaries and one bookkeeper must be of minority extraction. Fifteen percent of three people!

Then there's the small businessman who was fined for having too many fire extinguishers. That's right, too many.

In Chicago, they confiscated a batch of rubber squeeze toys...for squeezing too loudly.

The head of a meatpacking operation recalls being ordered by one federal agency to put an opening in a conveyor line, and being ordered to close it by another federal agency. "We have been told by various federal agencies," he says, "to provide smooth and rough floors in the same area, salt and not salt the same area, paint and not paint the same area, and so on."

Those are just the petty frustrations. Get into the excesses of the environmental protection movement and you make the big time.

The small darter - a small fish - has stalled a $116 million dam in Tennessee.

The Furbish housewort - a useless weed - blocks a $600 million Dickey-Lincoln hydroelectric project in Maine.

The soft-shelled clam has halted a $2 billion nuclear power plant in Seabrook, New Hampshire.

And a $3.5 billion coal-fired power plant in Utah was sacrificed on the altar of the black-footed ferret and the kangaroo rat.

Doesn't it boggle your mind - four major energy facilities being held up for petty reasons while the President reminds us of the energy crisis?

So far, no one in the bureaucracy has tried to make his horse a consul...but I expect it soon.

There is a move to legalize marijuana while at the same time they are outlawing saccharin!

This bizarre behavior is certainly reminiscent of the eccentricities of history's mad kings and emperors. And yet it occurs - with increasing frequency - right here in the democratic, middle-class U.S.A.

Estimates of the total consumer cost of government red tape vary widely. But the educated guesses usually run between $700 and $2,000 a year, for each and every man, woman and child in the country.

Who - I would like to know - is "protecting" the consumer from this?

In the words of Bert Lance, director of the President's Office of Management and Budget, "We consistently talk about "wages" and "prices" being the causes of inflation. [But] the most serious perpetrator of all is government itself."

QCAO Receives $122,000 For Heating Bill Assistance

Quincy Community Action Organization has received a Federal Energy Grant of $122,000, which will provide relief to families whose heating bills are 45 days in arrears or who are in jeopardy of a heating utility being disconnected.

QCAO's Advisory Committee will review applications and set priorities in order to determine that those with the greatest needs are served. The first priority will be to eligible elderly citizens. The Committee includes Thomas Nutley of Boston Gas Company, City Councillor Daniel G. Raymond, Kay Flynn of Germantown and Mary Legere of Southwest Quincy.

Applications will be accepted from July 6 to July 29, 1977. The acceptance of an application does not guarantee payment of back bills. The family will be notified that they have been approved for payment no later than September 2, 1977. The city and towns that are served are Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth and Milton.

Applications for eligibility to receive financial assistance are available at the Atlantic Service Center, Germantown Service Center, Southwest Community Center, and Council on Aging on Cliveden St. No applications will be taken by phone.

Necessary verification when applying includes: last five pay stubs; unemployment verification; Social Security or

S.S.I. award letter; AFDC-Medicaid card; all other income; and shut-off notice and energy/fuel bill.

Maximum amount paid on behalf of client to utility is $250.00.

Gross income guidelines based on family size are: one member, 3712.50; two members, 4912.50; three members, 6112.50; four members, 7312.50; five members, 8512.50; six members, 9712.50; and seven members, 10,912.50. For each additional member add 1,200 to total.

QCAO will also intercede with fuel dealers and fuel/utility companies to make a budget for the next heating season if the client wishes.

Tobin Urges Passage Of Bill To Create Jobs

Senator Arthur H. Tobin has urged passage in the Senate of pending legislation which would create jobs for Quincy workers and improve the neighborhoods of Quincy homeowners.

"This bill, (S-1712) creates a program to assist viable, working-class neighborhoods and owners of one to four family houses to attain financing for home improvements and home mortgages," Tobin said. In urging for passage of the act, to separate the home mortgage agency from the housing finance agency, Tobin stated "Local painters, contractors, masons, cement finishers, roofers and landscapers all have a stake in this legislation, and more construction jobs would be created. The ultimate beneficiary being the taxpayer homeowner." "Many of the residential units in our city could be eligible for this rehabilitation," Tobin said. "Supportive capital improvements such as street paving, lighting, community facilities, will stabilize our neighborhoods against deterioration, decay and abandonment."

MDC Facility Plans At Wollaston Beach Available For Viewing

Senator Arthur H. Tobin reminds residents a public meeting will be held Wednesday [July 6] at 7:30 p.m. at Atlantic Junior High School so that plans for the new MDC facility on the old Kimberly restaurant site at Wollaston Beach can be viewed by the public.

Following a meeting held June 27, with MDC officials, Senator Tobin, and Representatives Michael Morrissey, James Sheets and Thomas Brownell, the plans were expedited by the architect and are now ready to be viewed.

Tobin said it appears from the drawings that the MDC has made a decided effort to design the building for maximum service and in keeping with the character of the beach area. Because of the strong urging by the Quincy State House delegation a police presence has been designed for the interior of the building as well as a turn around for police and emergency vehicles on the exterior. The building accommodates mens and ladies comfort stations as well as first aid facilities.

The delegation was also advised that an emergency phone has now been installed in the trailer presently on the site at Wollaston Beach.

LaRaia Scores Council On 'Courtroom Atmosphere'

and we've run them through to see if we were off or he was off

KELLY - Okay. All right, Mr. Kowal. To just set the record straight, on Saturday morning I was here ...

KOWAL - Yes, you were.

KELLY - And we instructed the auditor to contact the department heads and go over the figures and for the department heads to then get back to the auditor and try to get that ready for the Monday night finance meeting. And, by the way, I don't know why it couldn't have been achieved before because the auditor did achieve it. But I just want to ask you one question ... you don't have to respond to everything I say, Mr. Kowal.

KOWAL - I just wanted to tell you that as of 3 o'clock this afternoon I got some changes in those monies from the hospital, as of 4 o'clock we had changes from the DPW ...

KELLY - We asked for the hospital, I believe, two days ago and 10 o'clock this morning was the first chance the auditor had to go over those. So let's set that record straight.

KOWAL - I know that.

KELLY - Okay.

KOWAL - And we had to go over it again this afternoon.

KELLY - All right. I'm just talking about the order and the City Council, I don't know what happens in the administration. I just wanted to ask you a question here on the Water Department.

KOWAL - Yes, sir.

KELLY - On this finance order that came in to us, it calls for an appropriation for the Water Department of $260,700.... Let me just get to it, I'll ask you the questions, Mr. Kowal. The auditor contacted the public works commissioner ...

[Kowal and Miss Saccone began conferring at the podium and Kelly apparently got the feeling that they were not paying attention to his questions.]

KELLY - I feel kind of stupid asking people ...

KOWAL - Please, go right ahead.

KELLY - I have to ask the question to you to Miss Saccone. I don't get the arrangement here.

KOWAL - I'm so sorry. Please ask me the question. I'm ready. She's just giving me the document so I can answer. I know there's a problem on the water thing and I've got it.

KELLY - I would just as soon then ask the question of Miss Saccone if I can.

KOWAL - I know what the answer is, I just wanted the money orders that have been placed ... so I could respond with the numbers.

KELLY - Let me ask the question of Miss Saccone then, please, Miss Saccone ...

KOWAL - As I've said, we've asked you if you would be so kind as to put the questions through me ...

KELLY - Oh, then you're going to ask Miss Saccone.

KOWAL - I know the answers to most of them and any I can't answer I'll ask her.

KELLY - I can't believe this. KOWAL - Go ahead.

KELLY - I absolutely can't believe this.

HARRINGTON - Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

QUINN - Councillor Harrington on the point of order.

HARRINGTON - It's the same point of order, Mr. Chairman. This gentleman is not going to set the rules for this Council and before we go any further I would just like to announce to you that I haven't given up my right to question any city employee regardless of how kind Mr. Kowal expects that I might be this evening. And I think we'd better stop now before we have a big problem.

KELLY - I certainly don't intend to give up my right ... Mr. Kowal, I've got the floor, please.

QUINN - Are you going to question Mr. Kowal?

KELLY - I'm going to ask the question of Miss Saccone. And I think Mr. Kowal ... I don't even mind him refereeing as to whether my question is gentlemanly or not. If he wants to referee that way, so be it, but I think I've always conducted myself in a gentlemanly manner and I'm a little bit sick of the Council being accused of personalities and that jazz. I haven't done it up here, Mr. Kowal, so let's set that record straight.

KOWAL - It has nothing to do with you personally, sir.

KELLY - Then I think personally I can ask Miss Saccone a question, seeing that we pay her salary to answer these questions.

KOWAL - May I ask you a question, then.

KELLY - Sure.

KOWAL - Does she have a right to address the Council and tell you how she feels about it? Because she would like to address you and tell you exactly why she has asked me, on behalf of the Mayor's office, to represent her and to answer the questions.

QUINN - Mr. Kowal, the chair's instructions are that the questions are to be put to you ...

KOWAL - I will be happy to ...

QUINN - ... or to Miss Sarah Saccone, as the case may be, to be answered and not beyond the answers to those questions.

KOWAL - I'll be happy ...

QUINN - We're just talking about dollars and cents ...

KOWAL - Ask me the questions. I'm ready to ...

QUINN - ... not personalities. We're talking about ...

KELLY - Mr. Kowal ...

QUINN - ... and nothing beyond that.

KELLY - Mr. Kowal, I have no ...

QUINN - ... like that I'm going to rule you out of order and I will not allow you to speak any further here this evening.

KOWAL - May I say ...

QUINN - Now don't try to come on too strong because I run a strict meeting and we have a very delicate situation that we're working on. Now will you stay within framework ...

KOWAL - I'm ready to answer any question on the Water Department budget.

KELLY - I'm asking the question of Miss Saccone, Mr. Chairman. I'm asking the question of you, Miss Saccone.

KOWAL - She does not wish to answer questions. I'm representing her. If you wish to press the matter she wishes to explain why.

QUINN - Mr. Kowal, would you kindly sit down please.

KOWAL - Surely.

QUINN - Thank you, Miss Saccone. Miss Sarah Saccone.

KELLY - Miss Saccone.

QUINN - Miss Saccone. Miss Saccone, would you take the podium, please.

KELLY - Miss Saccone, I have a very simple question.

QUINN - Before you start, please, the chair will give the instructions to Miss Saccone. We're going to ask you questions on the finances and how it pertains to the financial order that was presented to us by you. Now, would you be so kind as to answer the questions as they come to you from the various councillors. If you go beyond the answers to those questions, I will not allow it.

SACCONNE - If I may be allowed ...

QUINN - Now, Councillor Kelly will ask you some questions and you will answer the questions.

KELLY - Miss Saccone, on the Water Department, the budget that we received from you called for an appropriation of $260,700. We instructed the auditor last Saturday to contact the department heads and the figure that came back to the auditor from the public works commissioner and the head of the water department, they came back with the need of really $96,500. If you feel it's a true figure, could you tell this council why the difference here of almost $200,000 above the figure that was needed? Or are you above it?

SACCONNE - Am I allowed to speak now?

QUINN - You can answer the question.

SACCONNE - I refuse to answer the question until I'm allowed to state why I will not answer any of the Council's questions this evening. I am fully prepared to defend that $3 million, every penny of it, and I can do it, but I'm very upset ...

KELLY - That's what I'm asking you to do, Miss Saccone.

SACCONNE - ... by the attitude, by the remarks in the paper ...

QUINN - Sarah, you're going beyond the guide rules of this particular committee. The question was put to you and you either answer the question or you're not communicating with the Council. Now I wish you would ...

SACCONNE - I refuse to answer the question.

QUINN - You refuse to answer questions. The clerk of committees will put that on ... there will be a brief recess.

AN UNUSUAL get well card, a window shade, is supported by Phyllis Bagen and Ted Harrington, left, as Senator Arthur Tobin signs it at the Ward 2 Field Day, July 4. The shade is a "card" for Theodore DeCristofaro and Owen Eaton, both past presidents of Ward 2 Civic Association, who have been hospitalized recently. Owen was released Saturday after doctors learned a suspected possible heart attack was merely a reaction to too much stress and fatigue, and is now doing well at home. DeCristofaro is doing well after suffering foot injuries in power mower accident.

Visiting Poet's Workshop A Hit With Students

Quincy schools may hold a record for the longest "visit" by an artist.

Poet Diana Der Hovanessian has been a visiting artist at the Quincy Public Schools for the past seven years, conducting her workshops, "Poetry As Fun", in a number of schools.

In the past year, students at Atlantic Junior High School, the Lincoln-Hancock Community

School and the Willard School took part in workshops conducted by Miss Der Hovanessian, whose works last month appeared in Yankee, Nation and American Poetry review.

A number of Massachusetts schools have visiting artist programs under the theory that watching an enthusiastic artist or craftsman at work can communicate enthusiasm to the student. But no artist has "visited" for seven years.

This year, youngsters at the Lincoln-Hancock School wrote poems in which they guessed what kind of place Miss Der Hovanessian lived. On June 10, with teachers Lorraine Scholler and Gerry Butler, they took tea at Miss Der Hovanessian's home to see if they were right.

Katherine Bingham Exhibit At N.Q. Library

The watercolors of Katherine Schulken Bingham of Wollaston, a member of the Milton Art Association, will be on exhibition in the North Quincy branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library during the month of July.

Ms. Bingham, a native of South Carolina who has lived in Wollaston for four years, has won a number of ribbons and awards for her work, including a Junior Scholastic Gold Key while she was in high school.

She studied with Virginia Bolton of Charleston, S.C., Ronald Brake of Abington and Doris Ferrara of Squantum.

New Dressing Room For 1000 Southern Artery Auditorium

1000 Southern Artery, the senior citizen's housing complex, is adding a dressing room to its East Side Auditorium to facilitate future production of theatrical programs.

The dressing room will be financed with monies from the Senior Center budget.

Residents of 1000 Southern Artery will be able to participate in three different vacation trips next fall; two foliage trips to Vermont and a five day trip to Bermuda.

HELPING LIONS - Members of the Quincy Health Department and the Lion's Club staff the Glaucoma clinic held recently at the John F. Kennedy Health Center. Seated are William O'Connell, president of the Duxbury Lions, Mrs. Evelyn Fisher and Mrs. Dorothy Vinal, both of the Quincy Health Department, and [back to camera] Orville Caseley of Quincy, about to be examined. Standing, from left, are Arthur Gillis, Richard Jolls and Edward Denneen, all of the Quincy Lions Club.

Sabina Stenberg Clarifies Remarks About South Boston

Sabina Stenberg has issued a statement clarifying some remarks about South Boston that were attributed to her at a candidates meeting of the Quincy Business Council held at State Street South last month. Mrs. Stenberg, who is a candidate for an at-large seat on the City Council said she did not want anyone to think that she was demeaning the people of her native Southie.

In her address she said people were leaving the core city to escape the problems of heavy taxation and school busing and she does not want the Quincy tax rate to increase to the point where people will escape from Quincy.

"I was born and reared in South Boston, attended schools there and lived in Dorchester until about 14 years ago," she said. "I have never lost my roots in that community and have innumerable friends there that I visit frequently."

"I am concerned only with the problems that face the City of Quincy and I never intended to denigrate or criticize the citizens of South Boston. I salute the brave people of Boston who have undergone great stress in striving to solve their problems.

"At this time my interest is in the City of Quincy. As a business woman, I don't want to see exorbitant tax rates drive Quincy merchants and Quincy citizens out of the City to the suburbs."

"My candidacy is based on holding the line on the tax rate, preventing crime, serving senior citizens and providing community services for Quincyites. I hope that my neighbors and friends in South Boston will accept this explanation of my statements which were taken out of context at the candidates meeting."

Richard Tilley B.C. Silver Jubilarian Marshal

Richard R. Tilley of Sea St. Quincy, a member of Boston College class of 1952, served as a Silver Jubilarian Marshal at the College's Commencement exercises held recently.

As a marshal, he helped escort the degree candidates from the graduate and undergraduate schools onto the field for the ceremonies, and later helped form an honor guard for the honorary degree recipients and other distinguished platform guests.

Still another little thing that makes us big:

Letting you put your hands on a loan with the stroke of a pen. To tell the truth, we think REDI-CREDIT is a pretty big thing. Because with one application, you can add $500 to $2500 or more in reserve credit to your NOW account.

But the great little thing about REDI-CREDIT is how easy that money is to get to. When you're short of money, just write a check and you've got yourself a loan.

When you have REDI-CREDIT, why you need money becomes what it should be: your business, instead of ours. And REDI-CREDIT doesn't cost you a cent until you begin using it.

When you do run short of money and REDI-CREDIT comes to the rescue, the interest you pay is a low 1% a month (12% annual percentage rate).

And Savings Bank Life Insurance is included on all REDI-CREDIT loans at no additional charge.

Ever think a stroke of your pen could do so much for you?

NEW A & V HEALTH CLUB presents Mayor Joseph LaRaia with a plaque symbolic of a life membership in the health club. Presenting the plaque are co-owners and cousins, Vince Salvucci and Anthony Spadorcia. A&V Health Club Offers New Approach, Complete Services

By SARAH RICHARDS

The A & V Health Club is a "different kind" of health club catering to both men and women, according to co-owners Vince Salvucci and Anthony Spadorcia.

The new club, located on 11 Revere Rd., in downtown Quincy, offers full health services ranging from weight reduction and muscle toning through exercises, diet, and sauna; to health and beauty aids.

The spacious, two floor establishment will offer a steam room, whirl pool baths, a sauna, showers, and private dressing rooms, along with nutrition and exercise programs and the health and beauty aids.

The first and only health club of its kind in Quincy, the A & V Health Club will have its grand opening in September. The club already has at least one family membership: owners Salvucci and Spadorcia presented Mayor LaRaia with a plaque giving him and his family - and all future Quincy mayors, and their families, elected during Spadorcia's and Salvucci's ownership of the club - lifetime memberships.

"Our health club is unique in Quincy," explained Vince Salvucci, who, like his cousin co-owner Tony Spadorcia is a lifetime resident of Quincy. "My cousin and I want to do this right. We want to make this health club of community value, and we anticipate being here a good, long time."

"We have more than ample parking facilities just down the street. We have a staff of eight people, including a nutritionist, physical education instructors, and a doctor - D. Hank McNamara from Boston University, who has written several books on Health and who has made several TV appearances."

The club is for the average person who wants to keep in shape; according to Salvucci. "We are the only health club in Quincy besides the YMCA, and we'd like to help Quincy keep 'in shape'."

The club will be available for health services seven days a week, open three and a half days a week to members of each sex. "Women, for example, could come Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays, and Sunday afternoons, and men could come the rest of the time, or something like that. We haven't worked out the exact specifics," Salvucci elaborated.

The two owners and cousins are Quincy natives who "grew up in Quincy together, went to school together, and who have families here," Salvucci stated. They were active in sports while at Quincy High School, and both have been in the service. Tony Spadorcia served in the Vietnam war and won two purple hearts.

Pre-enrollment members are now being accepted, and are available by calling 472-2224.

Joseph Sullivan To Head United Way Labor Campaign

Joseph A. Sullivan of 44 Lorton St., South Quincy, has accepted the voluntary leadership position of chairman of the labor committee for the 1977 campaign of the United Way of Massachusetts Bay.

Sullivan, president of the Massachusetts State Labor Council, AFL-CIO, held the same position in last year's campaign which raised a record $17 million.

As labor chairman, he joins the Campaign Cabinet and will assist the General Campaign Chairman, Herbert Roth Jr. of Sherborn, in conducting the campaign. Money raised in the campaign helps to support 161 human care agencies serving 66 cities and towns in the Mass. Bay area.

A member of the board of directors of the United Way, Sullivan has served the state in many areas. He was a member of a commission which studied workers' compensation laws. He was on former governor Sargent's Advisory Council on

JOSEPH A. SULLIVAN

Vocational-Technical Education and was a member of the Committee on Racial Imbalance of the State Department of Education. In 1970 he served on a commission to investigate meat slaughtering.

He has also been chairman of the South Shore Committee on Alcoholism and assisted in planning with the Muscular Dystrophy Association, the Jerry Lewis Telethon.

Weymouth Savings Elects Ivan Nelson V.P.

Ivan A. Nelson of South Weymouth was elected vice-president of the Weymouth Savings Bank at a recent meeting of the Bank's Board of Trustees. He has served the bank for many years as Corporator, Trustee, and a member of the Board of Investment.

David Priestly Named Chamber Board Member

David Priestly, manager of Community Affairs for Boston Gas Company has been appointed to the South Shore Chamber of Commerce's Board of Directors, to fill out an unexpired term running to Jan. 1, 1978.

Priestly, a Needham resident, is a registered professional engineer in Massachusetts, and is also a past president of the Boston Chapter of the American Society of Heating, Refrigeration and Air-Conditioning Engineers.

SOME BENEFITS OF AGE

If you want more house for your dollar, you have good cause to look over older houses. But there are other good reasons for shopping the old ones too.

For one thing, there are simply more old houses than new ones. For every new house that will go up this year there are some 45 existing homes already on the market.

Many older homes, especially those built before World War II, offer more abundant space than new homes do - a special attraction if you have a large and growing family, but a limited budget.

Most old homes are in well-established, well-developed neighborhoods. There will be no waiting for streets to be paved, sewers to be connected or schools to be built. All that is going to grace the neighborhood is probably already there, so that worrying about the future will have been done for you already.

... ..
Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Young Morrisette Club Setting Zone Pace

Morrisette Legion's baseball team, one of its youngest in years, didn't figure to win another Zone 6 championship this year, mainly because of a young and inexperienced pitching staff.

But, with the schedule's first round over, Morrisette, seeking its 21st zone crown in 32 years, is in first place, two games ahead of Quincy, title favorite Weymouth and Scituate.

The second round got underway Tuesday night. Friday Morrisette plays at Dedham at 6 p.m. Quincy hosts Braintree at 8 at Adams Field and Wollaston plays at Canton at 6.

Monday it will be Morrisette at Milton, 6; Quincy at Dedham, 6, and Holbrook at Wollaston, 8, at Adams.

Tuesday Morrisette will host Canton at 8 at Adams and next Wednesday it will be Scituate at Morrisette, 8 at Adams; Quincy at Canton, 6, and Wollaston at Milton, 6.

Last Friday Morrisette could have taken a big step toward the zone crown but Weymouth climbed to within two games with a 7-2 win at Adams Field.

Morrisette had a 2-0 lead after two innings but fell apart in the fourth when Weymouth combined three hits with three errors, two wild pitches and a passed ball for six runs and the game.

Starting pitcher Mark Giordani was the loser. He was relieved by John Wilkinson and Ray Coscia. Morrisette had only six hits, two by Chuck LoPresti, including a long triple, and one each by Don Perdios, Steve Cooke, Dave King and Giordani.

Quincy nipped Holbrook, 2-1, in a well-played game as Lew Fishman continued his outstanding pitching with a three-hitter. He struck out seven and walked two.

Quincy won it in the first inning when Rich Gilbody singled, stole second and went to third on Dave McLaughlin's sacrifice. Greg Zoia walked and when a pickoff throw got by the Holbrook second baseman, Gilbody scored and Zoie went to third from where he scored the winning run on Kurt O'Sullivan's single.

Wollaston was awarded its second win via the forfeit route when Randolph was able to field only eight players.

Morrisette Coach Ray Cattaneo has a large group of 16-year olds this season, and one of them, Gary Earle, a southpaw from North Quincy, has been pitching brilliant ball.

Last week he hurled a four-hitter as Morrisette squeezed by Quincy, 2-1. He struck out five and walked four.

Dave Rafferty pitched well for Quincy, giving up only six hits, but Morrisette scored the winning run in the seventh on LoPresti's bases loaded single. Dave Perdios had two hits and Niosi and Jim Maze each had one. For Quincy, Mike Murphy had two hits and McLaughlin and Dan O'Leary one apiece.

Earle had blanked Hingham on three hits in his previous start and then had a save against Braintree.

Earlier Quincy had upset Weymouth, 4-3, with O'Sullivan pitching a five-hitter, striking out seven and walking just one.

Quincy broke a 3-3 tie in the sixth when McLaughlin walked, was bunted to second by Zoia and scored on Fishman's long double to left center. Fishman had two hits and Zoia, O'Leary and Brian Jolley one each for Quincy.

Wollaston continued to play in tough luck and dropped an 11-10 decision to Dedham in an extra-inning game.

Wollaston scored three runs in the second for a 3-2 lead on a hit by Jim Flaherty, walks to Josh Alberti and Dennis Doherty and John Andrews' hit.

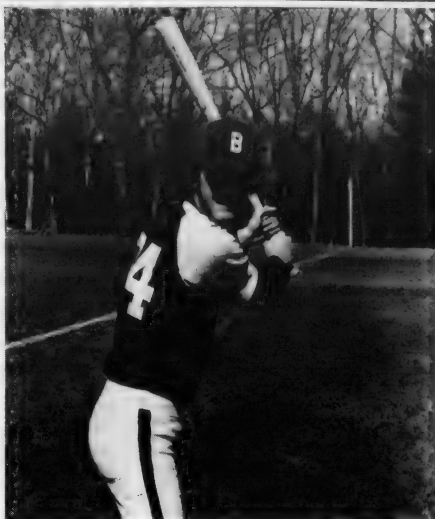

Dedham scored three in the third for a 5-3 lead, but Wollaston exploded for six runs in the fifth on a hit by Alberti for one run and a two-run single by Andrews. Dan Sandomato tripled and scored on Bob Lindenfelzer's hit.

Wollaston had a golden opportunity in the seventh when it filled the bases but scored only one run on a walk to Bob Stevens to tie the score at 10-10. Dedham won it with a run in the eighth.

STARRED FOR BABSON - Bill Berberan of North Quincy, starting rightfielder, helped spark the Babson College baseball team to a 6-12 record, an improvement over last year. Berberan did a good job of getting on base and finished third on the team in walks. He also finished second in runs scored and second in stolen bases. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Berberan of 85 Alstead St., North Quincy.

Uhlar Shines But Boston Ousted By Detroit

Jack Uhlar of Quincy was outstanding for the Boston AAU basketball team which was ousted in the second round of the National AAU tournament at Boca Raton, Fla. last week.

The Boston team, piloted by Quincy's Leo Papile, coach of the O'Brien Club and New England AAU hoop chairman, defeated Washington, D.C., 114-106, in its opener last Thursday as Uhlar scored 23 points and was a standout off the boards.

Boston was eliminated the next day by top-seeded Detroit, 119-110. Uhlar had 10 points and eight rebounds.

"They are big and strong up front and just wore us down," said Papile.

The AAU team will play the Polish National team Saturday and Sunday nights at 7:30 at Boston University.

Firemen, Elks Top A.L., Police Hold Slim N.L. Lead

Quincy's Babe Ruth League features two red hot races with Firemen Local 792 moving into a top tie with the Elks in the American League [each at 11-5] and Police Club holding a one-game edge over Granite City Electric with an 11-5 mark. Greg Madden of Firemen displayed exceptional courage as he pitched the League's first no-hit, no-run game in defeating Houghs Neck, 2-0. Madden was hit in the face in the first inning and was semi-conscious, but got up and went on to pitch his masterpiece. Firemen scored both runs in the first inning. Madden also had two of his team's four hits off Nagle, who was outstanding for HN. Madden was afforded fine support by his mates as Phil Caggiano and Marc LaFleur made fine running catches and Bob Beniers, first baseman, made a spectacular stop. Him Sullivan and Greg Oriola also played fine defense. The Police Club annihilated Houghs Neck Legion, 19-0, with Gary DiNardo pitching a four-hitter. John Sullivan had Mike Aboud had three for four for Barry's.

John Sweet and Ronnie Pettinelli played outstanding defense. For HN Mark Giordani, Bobby Nagle, Tom McFarland and Steve Sacchetti had the hits. Firemen defeated Police, 9-6, with Greg Oriola the winning pitcher and Costigan the loser. Phil Caggiano of Firemen was the hitting star with a triple and double and four runs batted in. Greg Madden, Oriola, Steve Notorangelo and Jim Sullivan had other hits. For Police O'Connell had a triple, Cronin two singles and Sullivan a single. Elks defeated Morrisette Post, 4-2, with Bill Foley the winner and Chris Segalla the loser. Foley won his seventh straight with a three-hitter. He struck out nine and walked only two. Steve Healy had two hits and Fred Palmer and Bob Dubois had long doubles. Tom Hefferman, Ed Overby, Mike Crowley and Foley had singles. Segalla pitched a good game in a losing cause. Quincy A.L. Bombs North End 23-8 In Babe Ruth Tourney

Quincy American League clobbered Boston's North End, 23-8, in the District 4, 13-15 year old double elimination Babe Ruth League tournament being held at Adams Field and Kelly Field, Milton.

The Quincy will face Braintree, which won twice over the weekend, Saturday at 1 p.m. at Milton.

Quincy pounded out 15 hits, with Billy Deitsch having two home runs, a double and a single. Fred Palmer had three hits, Steve Notorangelo and Pat Ennis two each and Bob Dubois, Dean Prescott, Artie Roberts and Greg Madden one apiece. Madden was the winning pitcher.

Quincy's National League team bounced back from a 5-3 loss to Milton to bomb Hanover, 16-3, and remain in the running. Quincy will play Avon Saturday at 11 a.m. at Adams.

Trailing, 5-1, against Milton, Quincy Nationals rallied for two runs in the seventh and had the tying and winning runs left on base. Kevin McInnon had two hits for Quincy while Bill O'Connell, Bob Biagini, Paul O'Toole, Mark Millane and Andy Carrera each had one. O'Toole was the losing pitcher.

Quincy rebounded with a 13-hit attack in rolling over Hanover, featuring a seven-run third inning. Bob McCormick, the winning pitcher, yielding six hits, striking out 12 and walking six. He was afforded excellent support.

Bob Howlett had two doubles and a single, McKinnon two doubles, Biagini three singles, O'Toole a double and single, Bill O'Connell two singles and Carrera a single.

Other results: Braintree 6, Weymouth South 0; Hingham 11, Avon 0; Braintree 5, Hanover 0; Hingham 18, South Boston Americans 1; Milton 5, Weymouth North 0; Avon 5, North End 3.

Levenson, MacKenzie MVPs

Awards Presented At NQHS Track, X-Country Banquet

The fourth annual awards banquet for the North Quincy High track and cross country teams was recently held at the Hilltop Steak House in Saugus.

Ralph Colson, who championed amateur sports for nearly 50 years and who is credited with saving schoolboy track in the state, was the principal speaker.

Other guests were Quincy Athletics Coordinator Carl Leone, North Principal Peter Crison and Assistant Principal Lloyd Hill.

The cross country team's MVP award went to Bob Levenson and the coaches' trophy to Mike Morin. This team ended 10-1 and was fourth in the state meet.

The MVP award in winter track went to Jerry MacKenzie, the coaches' trophy to Rich Kennedy and the unsung hero award to Matty Kinz. This team was 10-2-1 and repeated as state champions.

The spring track MVP winner was Kennedy, the coaches' trophy went to Bob Levenson and the unsung hero award to Steve Bonoli. This team was 9-2 and was fourth in the states.

The sophomore of the year was Tim O'Neil and the junior of the year Mike Gallagher.

Awards also went to the team captains, Marty and Bob Levenson, Kennedy, MacKenzie and Morin.

Members of all the teams received letters and will receive jackets.

The captains presented a Paul Revere Bowl to the "real unsung hero" of the year, Coach Lou Tozzi's wife, Paulette.

"She certainly deserved this honor, putting up with me throughout the three seasons," Tozzi quipped.

Edward Guppy Receives Army Sports Medal

Army Specialist 4 Edward L. Guppy, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Guppy, 328 Belmont St., North Quincy, recently received the German Army's Bronze Sports Medal while assigned to the 3rd Infantry Division in Schweinfurt, Germany.

Guppy competed in marksmanship, track and field events to earn the award. A team leader with the division, he entered the Army in October 1975. He attended Quincy Junior College.

The game of volleyball was first played in the U.S. in 1895.

N.Q. Youth League Holds Clinic, Presents Awards

Fifty boys and girls attended a basketball clinic sponsored by the North Quincy Youth League last week.

Leo Tyrell, former Milton Academy coach and now a scout for the University of Georgia, conducted the clinic for the fifth and sixth graders.

Tyrell showed the participants various strength and agility drills and also lectured on dribbling and shooting. He was assisted by Quincy's Paul Fitzpatrick, Boston State College coach; Ed Miller, Paul Begoli and Rick DiCristofaro, North Quincy High coaches; Jim Ducey, former North Quincy and U. of Vermont star, and Steve Miller, another former North standout.

Awards went to the league's winners and runnersup. Mass. Fields A, the new league's first champion, had the following boys receive trophies: John DeForge, Wayne Ham, Frank Maloney, Jim McNulty, Mike O'Hare, John Purland, Steve Racette and Jim Whitehouse. Ted Stevenson was the coach.

Receiving awards for second place Wollaston, coached by Ed Miller, were Jeff Bovanick, Denis Downing, Jim and Mike Flaherty, Kevin Greene, Chip Mallory, Bob McEleney, Paul and Tim Ryan and Mark Valpando.

Other award winners were: Squantum, Dean Phillips, MVP, and Colon McLeod, most improved; Montclair, Peter McGillicuddy, MVP, and Eric Peterson, most improved; Quincy, Fred DiBella, MVP, and Alex Coutts, most improved; Beechwood Knoll, John Phelan, MVP, and Victor DiGravio, most improved; Mass. Fields B, Steve Hogan, MVP, and Brian Gibbons and Kevin Tenney, most improved; Wollaston, Tim Ryan, MVP, and Jim Flaherty, most improved; Mass. Fields A, John Purland, MVP, and Jimmy Whitehouse, most improved.

The league hopes to expand next year and give more youngsters a chance to play.

Wollaston Tennis Courts Getting Workout

The tennis courts at the new Wollaston Recreational Facility in Quincy have been getting an early spring workout hosting a full schedule of tennis matches for both Quincy and North Quincy High Schools and Fontbonne Academy, Milton.

James Fitzroy, superintendent, said the 10 lighted asphalt plexi-coated courts are being used by "a good number" of county residents although Fitzroy stresses they are not over crowded.

The courts are open to the public for daily use [except for scheduled matches from 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Dee Dee's, Bocce Club, Jimmy's, Wollaston Pace

In the Quincy Women's Softball League, Dee Dee's leads the American League East with an 11-2 record. Bocce Club has a slim lead in the American West with a 10-3 mark. Jimmy's is running away with the National League East race with an 11-0 record and Wollaston Credit Union paces the National West with a 6-5 figure.

In last week's Game of the Week, Shea's Formica outslugged King's Dept. Store, 20-15, in a wild game.

Shea's clinched the win early with 16 runs in the first two innings and staved off a King's comeback.

Susan McGuinness and Patty Chapman scored for King's in the first inning but Shea's came back with seven runs on a home run by Hellen Fitzseas, a double by Melan Nestor and singles by Sharron Cobban, Cory McCord, Judy Cane, Toni Alibrandi, Leslie Runge and Mary Anderson.

Shea's exploded for nine runs in the second with Alibrandi driving in two runs with a homer and Anderson driving in two with a double.

With Shea's leading, 20-5, King's erupted for 10 runs in the sixth, with Cathy Crowley and Barbara MacIntyre driving in two each.

Bill Shea Jr. and Bill Degan coach Shea's. The roster is comprised of Cobban, McCord, Cane, Alibrandi, Runge, Nestor, Anderson, Fitzseas, Audrey Shea and Nancy Fitzpatrick.

King's is coached by Dan Manning and Bill Hart. The players are Mary Ann Fritz, Crowley, McGuinness, Patty Chapman, MacIntyre, Linda Young, Maureen Chapman, Debbie Frazier, Gayle Chapman and Doreen Grant.

Pirates Bomb Dodgers, White Sox Wallop Mets

The Pirates, running away with the National League race, clobbered the Dodgers, 21-1, in the Quincy Triple A Baseball League with Rickie Mahoney the winning pitcher.

Tom Scalaro in relief retired nine batters in a row. Jimmy McNamara had a home run and double. Mike Barter had three hits and Scalaro and Mahoney each had two hits. For the Dodgers, Ed O'Reilly, Bill Cahill and John Ward had the hits.

The Braves slugged the Dodgers, 16-8, with Peter McCarron the winner. He also doubled and scored three runs. Larry Castillo, Billy Mayo and Jimmy Burgess each had a triple and Rickey Conroy had a double. Cahill doubled and Tom Benson singled and scored for the Dodgers.

The White Sox, battling the Indians for first place in the American League, walloped the Mets, 14-5. Winning pitcher Bobby Graham had 10 strikeouts. Graham also had a triple and double. Craig Orrock and Paul Egan had doubles. Jimmy McSweeney and Oliver Fahey had doubles and Dennis Downing and David Egren were two for two for the Mets.

The Indians topped the Tigers, 6-1, with winning pitcher David Venezia having 10 strikeouts. He also had a hit and scored a run. Dale Adams had two singles and a double with two RBIs. Kenny Wright had two hits and an RBI and Mike Barry a hit and an RBI. Jackie Gabriel had the only hit for the Tigers.

Track Club Running Events Thursday

The Quincy Track Club will hold the running events in its first weekly development meet of the year tonight (Thursday) at 5:30 at Veterans Memorial Stadium. The field events were held last night (Wednesday).

In an effort to accommodate the large number of boys and girls under 10, club officials voted unanimously to have a nine and under division for all events.

Club membership is 225 after a week of workouts. The club is still seeking more boys and girls over 13.

At the recent Taunton AAU Junior Olympic meet, several QTC members had outstanding performances, and the club dominated most of the events in a field of more than 300.

Mike Larsen had a personal best of 50-2 in the high school slot, placing second. Linda Cellini won the half mile in 2:20.1 in high school girls' action. Mike Williams ran the fastest 220 in New England in the 10-11 division with an outstanding 28.1.

Denise Santo easily won the junior high 100 and the Burgess brothers of Milton again turned in fine efforts. Cliff, 13, winning the junior high half mile and John 14, taking third in the freshman-sophomore mile.

VETERANS' CORNER

Q - Are the wives and children of veterans eligible for educational assistance from the VA?

A - Yes, if the veteran dies of a service-connected condition; or if living, has a service-connected disability considered by the VA to be total and permanent in nature.

Q -- Under what circumstances may the VA assist a veteran toward purchase of an automobile?

A - Veterans with service after Sept. 15, 1940, who have service-connected loss or loss of use of one or both hands or feet, or permanent impairment of vision of both eyes to a prescribed degree may qualify for a one-time grant of not more than $3,300 toward purchase of an automobile.

Q - I applied for and received National Service Life Insurance coverage in 1946. At that time I took a five-year level premium term plan. Can this policy be converted to a permanent plan with stabilized premium rates?

A - Yes. The monthly premium for the permanent plan would probably be higher than your current monthly premium. However, there are many other benefits that go along with a permanent plan, such as paid up insurance and cash value.

Age Group Swimming Program

An "Age Group" swimming program, sponsored by the Lincoln-Hancock Community School Council will begin July 5, and continue through Aug. 5 at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School Pool, 300 Granite St., Quincy.

The program is being offered for the purpose of developing fitness, stroke efficiency and performance potential. It is a program for swimmers of all ages.

The schedule:
Grades 9-12, 8:30 to 9:15 a.m.; Grades 4-8, 10 to 10:45 a.m.; over 18 years of age 11:30 to 12:15 p.m. Each 45 minute segment will include training and distance swimming.

All those wishing to participate should register with William Walker, pool director, LHCS, during the first week of the program.

Organ lessons for a limited number of students in grades 4 to 8 will be offered at the school on Mondays, from July 11 through Aug. 8, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Registration was scheduled at the Water St. Lobby of the

William Corbett In Navy Exercise

Navy Chief Electronics Technician William J. Corbett Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Corbett of 20 Masoma St., Wollaston, recently participated in exercise "Solid Shield '77".

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Guadalcanal homeported in Norfolk, Va.

The two-week joint exercise was conducted in the Atlantic coastal waters off North Carolina and Georgia and at nearby military installations. More than 40,000 men and women from all branches of the Armed Forces, including 3,000 Reservists, participated.

Corbett joined the Navy in October, 1960.

Low Allaire Completes Navy Course

Navy Seaman Recruit Lew J. Allaire, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Clare of 12 Furnace Ave., West Quincy, has completed the Navy's Basic Electricity/Electronics Course.

Four weeks of study at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill., included review of basic mathematics, fundamental electrical formulas plus the principles of alternating and direct current circuits. Students also received instruction on basic circuit testing methods, including the use of multimeters and audio signal generators.

A 1976 graduate of Quincy High Vocational Technical School, he joined the Navy in January, 1977.

Refurbishing Program

A $92,889 Quincy Park Department Title VI CETA program is underway, announces Richard J. Koch, Executive Secretary, to the Park-Recreation Board. The program began last week and will continue for a six-month period.

It consists of two projects - one to refurbish and paint the chainlink backstops and fence enclosure on park and playground properties in the city. Work has started in the Merrymount Park section, and will continue to include all areas of the city.

The second approved proposal is a spot beautification effort in various parts of the city, where because of limited Park Department manpower, cutting, pruning, thinning and cleaning has been impossible.

Marshland on Fenno Street owned by the City of Quincy, and a section of Avalon Beach, have been the initial targets of this phase of the project, with various sites throughout the city to be cut and cleaned as the program continues.

The project is made possible by a Grant Contract from Quincy CETA under Title VI of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, which provides funding for the wages of eligible unemployed persons engaged in public service.

The grant as approved and presented to the Quincy CETA office involves the employment of 20 persons, including two leaders, for a six-month period. The program is under the supervision of Raymond C. Cattaneo, Administrative Assistant of the Park Department.

The total grant, including personnel, equipment and materials totals $92,889, with federal funds implementing the complete cost of the program.

Koch said the nature of the work involved requires 90 percent labor, and the remaining 10 percent will pay for all supplies needed to accomplish the program's goal. No expenditure of city funds will be required, he stressed.

MDC To Step

Up Police Patrols

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] has asked the MDC to intensify its police patrols on Quincy Shore Drive in Merrymount in order to cut down on "an alarming number of near fatal accidents."

"Hardly a weekend goes by without some kind of accident occurring in this section of road between Sea St. and Furnace Brook Parkway, especially at night," he said in a letter to MDC Commissioner John Snedeker.

"It is my feeling that if there were a more adequate patrol of this area by the MDC police during the evening hours, this extremely hazardous condition would be eliminated.

"Currently, the residents of the area are extremely upset over the lack of police control and adequate lighting conditions in this area."

In addition to beefed up police patrols, Brownell suggested that "the street lights which have been scheduled to be placed in the area be installed immediately to prevent any future occurrences of these unfortunate accidents."

3 Days Of Fun, Music, Bargains

IT'S SIDEWALK BAZAAR TIME AGAIN

The popular Sidewalk Bazaar is returning to downtown Quincy for the eighth consecutive year.

Once again, Hancock St. from Granite to School Sts. will be transformed into a gaily decorated pedestrian mall featuring fun and values for three days, starting today [Thursday] and continuing through Saturday.

DOWNTOWN QUINCY with canopied booths and fluttering pennants takes on festive look for Sidewalk Bazaar Days.

The hoopla is sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

The highlight of the festivities will be the selection and crowning of Miss Quincy Bay, the most beautiful of young ladies from the South Shore who will reign over Quincy Bay Race Week, which will start Saturday.

More than 35 booths, gaily decorated and canopied, will be set up on both sides of Hancock St., displaying the wares and philosophies of downtown merchants, civic groups and fraternal orders.

The air will be filled with music, too, as Baron Hugo and his orchestra play for the pageant and Buddy Burke and his Banjo Band, the Milton Band and the Quincy High School Alumni Band add their specialties.

Starting at 7 a.m. today [Thursday] Hancock St. will be sealed off from vehicular traffic by wooden barriers placed at School and Granite Sts. so that the thoroughfare will be open to pedestrians only until about 5 p.m. Saturday.

Other events planned for the three days include:

- A pantomime show
- Square dancing
- A zoomobile
- Fire engine rides
- Gymnastics exhibitions
- A Fire Department rescue demonstration

The Miss Quincy Bay pageant, with 17 young ladies from all over the South Shore competing for the coveted title and its more than $1,000 in prizes, will take place out of doors at 9:30 p.m. Friday night in front of the Hancock Bank.

The reigning Miss Quincy Bay, Mary Pickering of Quincy, will be there to crown her successor.

The new Queen will reign during Quincy Bay Race Week, July 16 through 20 and will be involved in various Quincy Business and Professional Association activities during the coming year.

Rain date for the Pageant is Saturday at 4:30 p.m.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia has officially proclaimed Thursday, Friday and Saturday Sidewalk Bazaar Days in Quincy.

In his official proclamation he urged residents and organizations to participate in the event.

Most downtown stores will take part in the bazaar, which has become a summer tradition in downtown Quincy.

Merchandise, including many bargains and other great buys, will be displayed on racks in front of the stores and in booths lining Hancock St.

WHAT'S DOING THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY

Festivities associated with the eighth annual Sidewalk Bazaar will begin today [Thursday] in places scattered all over Quincy Square. The main events, with their time schedules and locations, include:

'He's Bouncing Back'

Burke Doing Well Plans To Seek Re-election

Cong. James A. Burke (D-Milton) is not only alive and well and living in Washington but he'll be running for reelection in 1978.

Take that on the word of an angry Edward L. Moore, the Congressman's administrative assistant in Quincy.

The 67-year-old Burke recently underwent surgery at Bethesda Naval Hospital for the amputation of his infected right foot to arrest a diabetic condition.

On Monday, Boston Globe columnist David Farrell quoted unnamed Burke colleagues as indicating the Congressman would not seek reelection because of declining health. Farrell said Sen. Joseph F. Timilty (D-Mattapan) would run for the post.

"I can tell you," said Moore, "that Cong. Burke does intend to run again and at that time the people of the 11th District will make the decision, as they always have, at the polls.

"The headless men, never mentioned in the newspapers by name, who have 'indicated,' according to the media, that Cong. Burke will not run are, as usual, again dead wrong."

Moore noted that when Burke was hospitalized with pneumonia last year, "the same group of opportunists had him buried then, too.

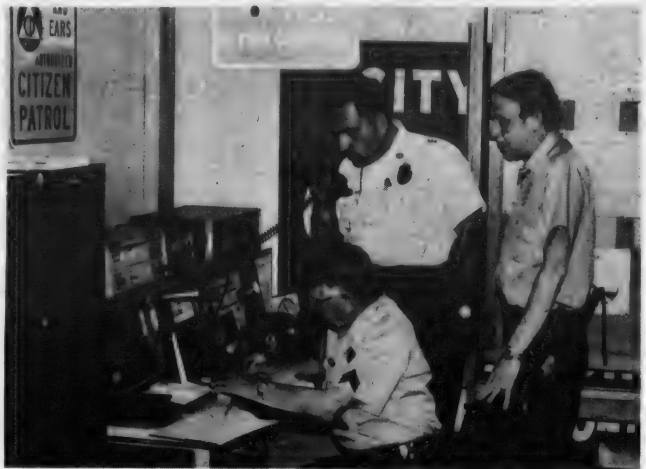

JAMES A. BURKE

"Cong. Burke is a very resilient man. He bounced back again right now. He'll be out for a few weeks, of course, but he came through the operation in fine shape."

Moore said that Cong. Al Ullman (D-Oregon) chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, had a leg amputated above the knee 10 years ago, "and has functioned beautifully ever since." Other Congressmen have, too, he said.

The Congressman's aide said that some of the remarks about Burke made in the media "borders on the cannibalistic, there is no other word for it."

'Eyes And Ears'

Citizen CBers Helping To Combat Crime Here

By FRANK DAVIS

Citizen CBers are helping to combat crime in Quincy through the combined efforts of the federal and local authorities.

Police Chief Francis X. Finn is working with Civil Defense Director Kenneth Walsh to implement a program known as "The Civil Defense Citizen Patrol", people who operate Citizens Band mobile radios to assist Police and Fire Departments.

The slogan of the program is "eyes and ears", meaning that the Citizen CBers will be the extended eyes and ears of the two departments.

Auxiliary police personnel will be monitoring and dispatching on the Channel No. 9 emergency frequency from CB headquarters in the Civil Defense building on Sea St. Channel 9 is reserved for emergencies only. Misuse could lead to license suspension.

Formulators of the program are Capt. Paul Lahive and Lt. William Murphy of the Police Department, and Chief Anthony Siciliano, Sgt. Howard Larsen and Patrolman John Chase of the Auxiliary Police.

All Citizen CBers have been interviewed and screened by the Auxiliary Police and will be assigned sections of the city which they will tour in their own vehicles.

What they see and hear during their tours of duty will be transmitted to the CB base station and the monitors will notify the regular police by direct line communication.

The mobile CB unit will not be authorized to leave his vehicle to investigate or involve himself in any law enforcement situation other than act as the eyes and ears of the department.

Both CBers and auxiliary police are unpaid volunteers.

The Neighborhood Watch program has given citizens an opportunity to take part in crime prevention and now the new Citizen CB Patrol will enhance the crime prevention program.

Any interested Cber who wishes to become involved in the new program may contact the Quincy branch of Civil Defense by calling 472-6118.

Sheets Sees $179,000 State Reimbursement For City

Rep. James A. Sheets announces Quincy will receive additional reimbursements from the state on this year's tax rate. Sheet due to a miscalculation by the state of special education costs.

According to Sheets, it could amount to as much as $179,000.

Sheets said that a bill recently approved by the Committee on Education, on which he serves, and passed by the House and Senate allows for this reimbursement to be used to help lower the city's tax rate.

The newly passed bill allows cities and towns to apply any excess in estimated special education reimbursements to expenditures for other municipal purposes and to count any special education reimbursements remaining at the end of the year as school income when calculating the special education budget for the next fiscal year.

This bill, according to Sheets, would also mandate the state to reimburse the cities and towns in the future for special education costs. It could mean as much as a $10 savings on the tax rate in some cities and towns, he said.

$212,518 In New Wiring

The Department of Wire Inspection issued 124 permits for an estimated $212,518 during June Wire Inspector William H. Pitts reports.

Fees for the permits totaled $1,736.75. Fifty-six certificates of approval were issued, 186 inspections made. Fourteen defects were found and 12 re-inspections made.

'Voluntarily In Writing'

Council To Study New Budget Figures Thursday

The City Council's Finance Committee quietly received a new set of figures for the supplementary budget from the Mayor's office Monday night and recessed to study them until 5:30 p.m. tonight [Thursday].

Mayor LaRaia, whose feud with the City Council reached new heights of invective in the past two weeks over the budget, emphasized that the new figures were being submitted "voluntarily in writing."

"I am reluctant to use this method rather than the more informal questions and answers," he explained.

"But I feel that the conduct of certain Council members in questioning certain members of the administration, for example, my administrative assistant, the director of the hospital, the budget coordinator, has not been a mere seeking of information but rather rudeness and harassment."

The figures that were given to the Finance Committee appeared to be what the Council had been demanding for the past two weeks, a breakdown of salary adjustments, overtime and fringe benefits by departments.

"No further breakdown is permitted," said LaRaia in a covering letter to Committee Chairman John J. Quinn.

City Auditor Charles L. Shea said that for the next two days he would be comparing those figures to his own, to those supplied by department heads and to those originally supplied by Budget Director Sarah Saccone and called estimates.

The week before, after Miss Saccone had refused to speak before the Committee or the City Council, the Council had voted $2.6 million of the Mayor's $3.1 million supplementary budget into a reserve fund to cover union negotiated raises.

Late last week, City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams ruled that such a reserve fund was illegal but the Finance Committee ignored the ruling Monday night.

In his covering letter, LaRaia backed up Miss Saccone in her refusal to speak before the Council. The administration had sought to have Labor Negotiator Sanford Kowal act as spokesman on the budget.

"The right to determine who shall speak for the administration is clearly given to the Mayor, pursuant to General Laws, Chapter 43, Section 19," he said.

"The only requests for information that are required to be answered are requests from

Brett Candidate For Council At-Large

Joseph E. Brett of 254 Fenno St., Wollaston, who retired from the City Council in 1959 to serve nine terms in the State Legislature, has announced his candidacy to return to an at-large seat on the Council.

The 69-year-old Brett, who last his House seat to Rep. Michael E. Morrissey last fall, said he was persuaded to run "by a large number of Quincy taxpayers who feel I have the qualifications to serve with the best interests of the entire Quincy citizenry."

He listed a number of areas in which he has served the people of Quincy, including:

"Chief instigator of legislation which grants real estate tax abatements to elderly homeowners; leader in years-long campaign for legalization of beano; promoter of the Shea Rink in West Quincy, the only-MDC skating rink in the city.

"I have a background of public service which includes a term in the City Council in 1958-59 and nine terms in the State Legislature from 1959 through 1976.

"During all of those years, I have done my best to serve the citizenry of Quincy with dignity and honor and I am looking forward to continuing my service to the people as a councillor-at-large."

Over 500 Attend 30th Annual Koch Club Family Picnic

More than 500 youngsters and parents attended the 30th annual Koch Club family picnic Sunday at Faxon Park, South Quincy, on what was described as the most beautiful day in three decades of picnics.

The 300-plus boys and girls put away 400 ice creams, 1,000 cups of soda pop and 400 cups of flavored slush while competing in a variety of athletic and semi-athletic events.

Mr. and Mrs. William Meyer of South Bayfield Rd., Atlantic, won the egg-throwing contest in a competition that included 72 mothers and fathers. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mosher, last year's winners, finished second.

In the children's races, Jason Slack topped the under-5 entries for boys followed by William Reardon Jr. Caitlin Sheils was the winner for girls under 5 with Stacey Anderson runnerup.

Other winners of the races included: Christopher Higgins, 5-6 boys; Nancy Costello, 5-6 girls; William Burkhead, 7-8 boys; Christine McSweeney, 7-8 girls; Stephen Higgins, 9-10 boys;

Denise Petta, 9-10 girls; Daniel Dodd, 11-12 boys; Lorraine Coulter, 11-12 girls.

Home run hitting contest: John Farrell, 7-9 boys; Christine McSweeney, 7-9 girls; Paul Medick, 10-12 boys; Linda McDonald, 10-12 girls.

Baseball and softball throw: Christopher Petta, 7-9 boys; Linda Sayers, 7-9 girls; William Demattio, 10-12 boys; Pamela Shields, 10-12 girls.

The Dads beat the Sons, 26-25, in baseball while the Moms topped the Girls, 14-13, in softball.

Committee members included Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Koch, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony T. Delmonico, Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Crowley, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Demole, and Mr. and Mrs. David J. Donaghue.

Assisting with refreshments and judging were Mrs. Mina Scanlon, Michael Crowley, Mrs. Judy Stein, Joseph King, Donna Crowley, Mrs. Kay Bates, Robert Woods, James Burnick, Thomas Koch, Daniel Leonard - and Richard J. Koch Jr.

EGG THROWING CONTEST drew the biggest crowds at the Koch Club Family Picnic at Faxon Park as the spectators greeted each sloppy miss with grins and laughter.

McGrath Highway Traffic Lights

The City Council has approved the installation of traffic control signals at the intersection of McGrath Highway, Miller Stile Rd, Chestnut St. and Revere Rd in Quincy Center.

The proposal for signals was made by City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi, who said he received numerous complaints from residents "who find it extremely difficult to negotiate this wide intersection without the aid of proper traffic controls."

Also, Raymondi said, there have been a number of motor vehicle accidents at the corner.

QHS Class Of 1922 Looking Ahead 56th Reunion

The Quincy High School Class of 1922 is planning its 56th anniversary reunion to be held Wednesday, June 21, 1978 at noon at the Neighborhood Club, Quincy.

The class recently held its 55th anniversary reunion at the Neighborhood Club. Fifty classmates were present and six from the class of 1921. There were two teachers present, Miss Edith Coulman and George Wilson.

Highlight was the presence of Rev. Wesley Archibald from Annapolis, Gorias, Brazil. After graduating from Quincy High School he attended Eastern Nazarene College and later Oberlin College in Ohio. He was a minister in Minnesota and Maine, and in 1929 he and his wife went as missionaries to Brazil.

Upon his arrival in a rural area of Brazil he soon learned that the people could not read or write. Immediately he and his wife decided a primary school should be built. So they went to the Federal Council of Education to get permission to build the first primary school. When the students graduated from the primary school a secondary school was built. Later a teachers college, a law school and a dental school. A graduate of the dental school has his diploma registered and the bearer can practice dentistry in any part of Brazil.

Accreditation can only be granted by the Federal Council of Education. The council is also the only agency for initial authorization of all higher education. Plans now are to build several more schools. The new capital of Brazil is just about 100 miles from Annapolis.

While in Quincy, Rev. Archibald visited Eastern Nazarene College and one of his former teachers and toured the city.

Three teachers unable to be at the reunion were Mrs. Jordine Davidson Day, Miss Margaret Tuthill and Mrs. Gertrude Twoombly Quinn.

Members of the reunion committee are Mrs. Jean B. Young, class vice president, Mrs. Dorothy L. Carter, class secretary, Miss Helena F. McCormick, reunion chairman, Clifford P. Randall, reunion treasurer, Miss Bessie Aronson, Mrs. Eleanor B. Donovan, Miss Florence M. Cavicchi, Mrs. Caroline F. Chapman, Miss Harriet Couch, Mrs. Esther J. Paulsen, Miss Elizabeth Marentz, Mrs. Mary M. McLennan, Mrs. Euphemia R. McGowan, Charles F. Palmer, Mrs. Hazel S. Usher, P. Malcolm Thacher, Mrs. Barbara W. Randall and Miss Ethel Wiley.

ENGAGED - Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Bosworth Jr. of 111 Parkside Ave., Braintree, formerly of Quincy, announce the engagement of their daughter, Donna Jean, to David L. Gray Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Gray Sr. of 123 Storrs Ave., Braintree. Miss Bosworth is a graduate of Braintree High School and received a Bachelor of Science degree in special education from Bridgewater State College where she graduated cum laude in June. She is employed as a secretary by Atty. Joseph G. Prone of Quincy. Mr. Gray is a graduate of Braintree High School and received an Associate Science degree in electronics from Wentworth Institute. He is employed by Xerox Corporation in Lexington. A July, 1978 wedding is planned.

MARRIED - Mrs. Paul M. Hoffman is the former Jean C. Tobin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Tobin of 158 Darrow St., Houghs Neck. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Hoffman of Braintree. They were married recently at Most Blessed Sacrament Church, Houghs Neck. Mrs. Hoffman is a graduate of Quincy High School and works in Boston. Mr. Hoffman is a graduate of Braintree High School and is employed at Pneumatic Scale Corp., North Quincy. After a wedding trip to Florida, they are making their home in Wollaston. [Miller Studio]

ENGAGED - Mr. and Mrs. James H. Fitzgerald of Exeter St., Wollaston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lori Catherine, to Wayne J. Gobbi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Spartico Gobbi of Sachem St., Wollaston. Miss Fitzgerald graduated from North Quincy High School, attended Bryant and Stratton Jr. College, and is employed by the Weymouth Savings Bank. Mr. Gobbi is a graduate of North Quincy High School and is employed by the New Frankford Hospital, Philadelphia, Pa. An Aug. 20 wedding is planned. [Pagar Studios]

Dance Saturday Night At Quincy Youth Arena

The Quincy Youth Arena will hold a dance Saturday night from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight in the arena off Sea St., from which the ice surface has been removed until Aug. 1.

Casual dress is requested for the dance since the event will include ballroom, line and square dancing. Roy Perry will be master of ceremonies.

Members of the committee include John and Winnie Burchill, Beverly Reinhardt, Joseph Engrassia and Marjorie Fitzpatrick.

Mr., Mrs. Donald Sandman Parents Of Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McCaul of 113 Albatross Rd, Adams Shore, became grandparents July 4 when their daughter, Linda Sandman, wife of Donald Sandman of Gainesville, Texas, gave birth to a 7 lbs., 10 ounces daughter.

The McCauls plan to visit the Sandman family in November, to celebrate the Fourth, the Christening, their 35th anniversary, and the fact that they are grandparents.

The baby's paternal grandparents are Mrs. Frank Sandman of Lindsay, Texas, and the late Mr. Frank Sandman.

Harold Deplores Maintenance Lack

Thomas Boylston Adams Favors Birthplaces Under Park Service

By SAM GREENWALD and ARTHUR C. GEORGE

Special to the Quincy Sun

"What used to be Quincy's pride has become Quincy's shame," said City Councillor Paul D. Harold, deploring the sad state of maintenance of the Adams Birthplaces.

Harold made his statement at an arts and crafts auction held at the home of Thomas Boylston Adams in Lincoln on behalf of the Citizens for Participation in Political Action [CPPAX]. Adams is a direct descendant of John and John Quincy Adams.

Harold said that "because of the reshuffling of agencies involved with these places, they have been shuffled out of the picture. They received no money in the budget until last week when the City Council voted $3,000 for maintenance."

According to Harold, the problem centers about the fact that the city, despite good intentions, does not have the personnel or the money to maintain them properly.

"We are currently setting up a special committee of the Council and citizens in general to study the possibility of a take over by the National Park Service, as is the case with the Adams Mansion on Adams St.," he said.

"Without question, the Park Service has done a commendable job in maintaining the property and with their program for tourists. This is what I would like to see at the birthplaces."

Thomas Boylston Adams declared himself very much in favor of a Park Service take over of the birthplaces.

"When these buildings were originally given to the City of Quincy a long time ago," he said, "there were no trucks roaring up and down outside to shake the buildings. Clearly Quincy has many immediate problems and cannot be worried about historical questions."

Adams noted that the government took over the mansion and is managing it beautifully.

"I think it would be appropriate that the house where John Adams was born and the neighboring house where John Quincy Adams was born should be taken over by the National Park Service and kept as a national shrine," he said.

Harold disclosed that there is a very good chance for a Federal take-over. At present the city owns both houses while the Quincy Historical Society owns the furnishings and runs the tours.

The plan is for the Mayor and City Council to sign over their interests in the properties to the Adams family and then the Adamses would turn them over to the National Park Service.

Harold conceded that some people are concerned about the city giving up what has been Quincy's pride.

"However," he said, "Quincy will never have the full-time staff or money needed to maintain them."

The councillor said that there was much publicity generated when it was discovered that the John Adams birthplace lacked a doorknob for eight months and had a broken window for a year and a half.

"This kind of small maintenance could not be taken care of because there was a problem of appropriating money," he said.

Far more important, he said, was the fact that for a year there has been no basic fire protection at the birthplaces although money had been appropriated for a fire alarm system. This is due to a mix-up between city departments.

"There has been a problem with the birthplaces when we have money and a problem when we do not have money," he said. "I think that this is an on-going problem that we have brought to a head."

"It is not important who maintains them, but that they are maintained by someone and maintained properly."

Young Republican Club Organizational Meeting Saturday

As part of an effort to revitalize the Republican party in Massachusetts, the Quincy Young Republican group will hold a first organizational meeting Saturday, at 3:30 p.m. at the Quincy YMCA.

Among those present will be State Chairman Gordon Nelson, as well as the chairman of the Massachusetts Young Republican Federation and the state committeewoman and state committeeman from the Quincy District.

The Young Republicans group to be organized will be oriented toward political, social, and community activities.

Any interested persons are invited to attend.

Stay Alive!

By Jack Silverstein

BEWARE OF MATTRESS SMOLDERING

The situation is more commonplace than it should be. A smoker is awakened in the morning by his alarm and discovers a smoldering hole in his mattress caused by a burning cigarette. He pours some water into the black hole, assumes it is out and goes to work. Upon his return, he finds his home is in ashes.

In upholstery and mattresses, smoldering usually occurs deep within cushions or padding and can branch out in several directions. For this reason, it may go undetected if left alone, smoldering can continue for hours. Eventually as heat builds up, the smoldering material will burst into flames.

Pouring water on smoldering bedding or upholstery is like treating the symptoms without curing the disease. You can't be sure that enough water will penetrate deep enough or far enough. To be sure smoldering is completely extinguished, call the fire department. They know what to do and will not think you overly cautious.

Outstanding Point Junior Students Honored

The Quincy Legion Post honored the outstanding boy and girl of the graduating class of Quincy Point Junior High School at recent awards ceremonies.

Michael Nigro, the third recipient of this award in his immediate family, and Anna T. Sandomato received the awards.

Past Commander William Reeves and Americanization Committee Chairman and former State Department Commander Robert Eng presented the awards.

The American Legion School Award is designed to place emphasis on the development of the qualities of courage, honor, leadership, patriotism, scholarship, and service.

In an earlier ceremony, similar awards sponsored by the Parent Advisory Board and the School Parent Teacher Organization were given to sixth grade students of the Daniel Webster School. Awards of $25 savings bonds were presented to Michelle Dauphinee by Anthony DiGiacomo, representing the William R. Caddy Detachment of the Marine Corps League, and to Douglas D'Olimpio by Angela Carroll of the Parent Board. Donorship of these awards was shared by the PAB/PTO and the Caddy Detachment.

Dr. John Knott Honored At B.U.

Dr. John R. Knott of 5 Miles Drive, Quincy Center, was recently honored at Boston University's annual Service Recognition Dinner on his retirement.

Fifty-one persons were honored for their years of service before retiring, at the George Sherman Union Ballroom, along with 105 faculty and staff who have served with the University for ten or 25 years.

"Students come and go. If the University is to be successful in its mission, it must look to its faculty and staff for the continuity in which its identity depends," said President John R. Silber at the dinner.

Silber honored all those retiring with a miniature Boston University chair, symbolic of the ones they will receive as a remembrance of the University.

Dr. John Knott has contributed three years of service to the University.

4-H Workshop On Gardening

A 4-H workshop on gardening and plant science for children 8-12 years will be held July 22 and 29, and Aug. 5 and 12 at 10:30 a.m. at the Quincy Public Library.

The workshop will be sponsored by the Norfolk County Extension Service and directed by Robert O'Brien.

The beginning program, July 22, will encompass a discussion on plant care and a seed germination experiment for all to participate in.

The July 29 meeting's discussion topic will be gardening. Plant Bingo will be played, and an indoor lawn experiment will be done.

On Aug. 5, flower and seed development will be discussed, and participants will be able to take a cutting from a coleus to start their own plants.

During the final workshop, on Aug. 12, the movie "Making Things Grow" will be shown. 4-H certificates of achievement will be awarded to participants who attended three of the four sessions and 4-H ribbons will be awarded to those with successful experiments.

A maximum of 20 will be able to participate. Register at the children's desk for the program. For further information contact Robert O'Brien at the Norfolk County Agricultural School in Walpole at 762-2031.

Sara Stotzer Elected To Children's Council Board

Sara Stotzer, social worker for the Norfolk-South Shore district office of children's protective services of MSPCC, has been elected to the Board of Directors of the South Shore Council for Children.

Miss Stotzer was graduated from Tufts University and employed at the Old Colony District of MSPCC prior to attending Boston University School of Social Work, where she received her master's degree in 1976.

MSPCC is a private, state-wide children's protective social agency and is a member agency of Massachusetts Bay United Way. The agency receives referrals from persons-by telephone, in writing, or in person—who have reason to believe any child under eighteen is being physically or psychologically abused and/or neglected. Referrants' names are confidential.

Goal of the agency is to protect children by helping the parents with whatever problems are contributing to the neglect in order that the children can remain in their own homes. Last year the Norfolk-South Shore district office serviced 611 children in 226 families living in Norfolk County.

The office for children was designated as the state agency to apply for and administer funds from the national center on child abuse and neglect. The office for children acts as an advocate for children's needs. The South Shore Council is made up of interested citizens from Quincy, Milton and Randolph.

Bureau Drawer Closed During July Close?

The Protestant Social Service Bureau's thrift and gift shop, The Bureau Drawer, 776 Hancock St., Wollaston, will be closed for the remainder of the month.

The shop will reopen in August at a date to be announced by the Bureau.

The Bureau Drawer accepts saleable items by donation and by consignment. Used clothing, arts and crafts, household and boutique items, and white elephant articles are requested. The shop is operated by volunteers and provides some income for the work of the Protestant Social Service Bureau.

The Bureau provides family and marital counseling for 10 South Shore communities and Adoption Services for Southeastern Massachusetts and Cape Cod.

Local Agencies Receive $260,930 From United Fund

Eight local agencies have received a total of $260,930 as their 1977 allocations from the United Way of Massachusetts Bay.

The allocations, accomplished by 90 volunteers, reflect the results of the 1976 United Way Campaign, which raised a record $17 million. The money will help to support 161 human care agencies serving 66 cities and towns in the Mass. Bay area.

The agencies and their allocations:

Blue Hill Girl Scout Council, $55,100, an increase of $1,000 from the 1976 allocation.

Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, $50,300, an increase of $3,301.

South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens, $45,430, an increase of $3,000.

Quincy YMCA, $44,000, an increase of $1,980.

South Shore Council of the Camp Fire Girls, $27,200, an increase of $300.

Quincy Visiting Nurse Association, $26,000.

South Shore Mental Health Association, $12,000, an increase of $2,000; and the Homemakers Services for the South Shore, $1,000.

The 1977 allocations amount to $11,581 more than in 1976.

Other agencies which serve local residents and which benefit from United Way allocations are:

South Shore Office of the Family Service Association of Greater Boston; Quincy Office of the Children's Protective Service [MSPCC]; Quincy Jewish Community Center and the Jewish Family and Children's Service [both through the Combined Jewish Philanthropies]; and the Greater Quincy Chapter of the Red Cross.

Employment Security Office Establishes Veteran Outreach Unit

The Massachusetts Division of Employment Security, has established a Veterans Outreach Unit to serve and counsel veterans looking for employment at the Quincy Employment office, 1433 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The Disabled Veteran's Outreach Program is a free service which works with employers and veterans to give veterans referral priority when job openings occur.

Employers are encouraged to place "Job Orders" with the Veteran's Outreach Unit. Qualified unemployed Veterans are then referred to the potential employer.

Veteran Outreach Aides, trained as Senior Interviewers, assess an applicant's qualifications, hobbies, interests and future goals, and offer technical assistance in locating satisfactory Job Placements or training, if available. Aides work closely with applicants, and will follow up on them as needed. Services are also available for Veterans who are ex-offenders.

Interested veterans in the Quincy area should come to the office, or call 471-2750 and ask for either John Tehan or Tom Lynch.

The Disabled Veterans Outreach Program is a national initiative under the joint management of the United States Department of Labor Veterans Employment Service and the State Employment Service.

The Massachusetts Division of Employment Security has Veteran Outreach Units throughout the state.

Consulting Firm Hired For Norfolk Downs Improvements

Mayor Joseph LaRaia has signed a contract with Sasaki Associates Inc. of Watertown to provide a consulting program for the city for the revitalization of the Norfolk Downs area in North Quincy.

The firm will concentrate on making recommendations for the designated areas of Billings Rd., and the Hancock St. business district.

The contract calls for compensation to Sasaki in the amount of $10,000 with the City of Quincy and Norfolk County each contributing $5,000.

"This is the first step towards revitalizing an area of the city which has been badly neglected for years. Our eventual goal is to make Norfolk Downs a thriving part of the Quincy business community once again," LaRaia said.

Downtown Development Coordinator James Eddy has worked on this project since last February in cooperation with the North Quincy Business and Professional Men's Association, LaRaia noted.

Voters Should Look For 3 A's Says Joanne Condon

Mrs. Joanne Condon, a candidate for City Council from Ward 6, says voters should look for the three A's — awareness, ability and achievement — when making their choices in the Sept. 20 election.

She told a recent candidates' night held by the Quincy Citizens Association that public officials must be aware of both the physical problems of the neighborhoods and the service needs of the residents.

She praised the effectiveness of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, of which she is the founder, in becoming a forum for the people to discuss their concerns and become more involved in the neighborhood.

Mrs. Condon also cited the ability to solve problems, including the bringing together of city officials and residents, as another desirable trait in an elected official.

"One can work best for the residents of their wards if they can work positively with city departments and officials," she said.

She described her experience in helping to obtain community development funds for North Quincy.

"By putting the support of the city and the commitment of neighborhood residents to work," she said, "we have been able to implement a highly successful paint program in Atlantic."

She noted the fact that more than 100 homes have already been painted and cited that as a good example of how cooperation can help combat neighborhood problems.

Achievement is the third characteristic of an effective councillor, Mrs. Condon said.

"Concern for people can best be demonstrated by actions and accomplishments," she said, citing the formation and success of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association as an achievement.

"The Center has provided opportunities for residents to enjoy recreational activities as well as receive needed services such as blood pressure testing, hot lunches for seniors and a well baby clinic," she said.

Mrs. Condon has requested that a traffic study be done on the intersection of East Squantum St., Newbury Ave. and Hunt St., which she called especially dangerous in the summer with so many young people's activities at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center.

She let the request, made in a letter to the traffic commissioner, was in response to concerns expressed to her at a coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Cocce, 156 Newbury Ave.

"I have worked on this problem in the past and I share your concern for the safety of the children," she said.

Mrs. Condon cautioned residents that the problem will not be solved quickly since all traffic ordinances go before the City Council and the next scheduled meeting is not until September.

Sheets Reports On Kincaide Park Lighting

City Councillor James A. Sheets reports that before lighting can be installed at Kincaide Field it will be necessary to have the large poles centered deep into the ground as a result of the spongy character of the sub-surface area.

He also indicated that special photo cells will be installed in certain lights so that they will remain on most of the night to partially light the ball park area.

The councillor said he wants to assure local residents that the lighting will not be sufficient to allow use of the field after 10 p.m., but will be sufficient to halt use of the field by teenage gangs.

Sheets also indicated that, in cooperation with the Mayor's office, the Sign and Traffic Division is making preliminary inquiries on possible installation of pedestrian lights in front of the Lincoln-Hancock Community School.

The councillor said he would like both projects to be done by the middle of August or Sept. at the latest.

Task Force Meeting On MBTA Independence Avenue Access

Robert K. Beniers, a candidate for the City Council from Ward 2, says he has met with Mayor LaRaia to discuss four proposed alternatives for access from Independence Ave. to the proposed South Quincy MBTA Station.

Beniers said he and the Mayor talked about the feelings of the South Quincy residents he met while walking and knocking on doors in the area concerning the negative impact the alternatives would have on residential streets off Independence Ave.

"The Mayor has ordered Planning Director Norman Lundin to call an immediate meeting of the South Quincy MBTA Task Force to solicit citizen input into the four suggested alternatives," said Beniers.

He said the meeting was scheduled for last night (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. in the Adams School off Kendrick Ave.

The Mayor urged a large attendance of South Quincy people at the meeting.

"These people have legitimate fears concerning increased traffic, parked cars and the general adverse affect that any construction would have on their community," he said.

"It is vitally important that this meeting be well attended so that we can get some input on deciding what course of action to take."

Mary Collins Makes Pledge To Students, Taxpayers

Mrs. Mary P. Collins, candidate for School Committee, has pledged to make the School Committee answerable to the needs of students and taxpayers.

She made the pledge, and urged voters to contact her regarding their concerns, during a reception held for her recently by the Committee to Elect Mrs. Collins to the Quincy School Committee.

The reception was attended by her husband, Thomas, three of their four children, friends and supporters.

Twisting The Truth

That Boston, North End newspaper is still pumping its political propaganda into Quincy, portraying Mayor Joseph LaRaia as Quincy's political saviour and viciously attacking anyone who opposes him.

They're still playing the same worn tune: LaRaia is Mr. Right and anyone who criticizes or opposes him is Mr. Wrong. He's Mr. Clean, they're Mr. Dirt.

It's still the same old pattern: twist the truth, tramp over the facts, toss innuendos and point a fat accusing finger at anyone who publicly dares to disagree with the LaRaia administration.

No doubt some people in Quincy will swallow the editorial garbage coming in from the North End. But you can't fool all of the people all of the time and we think the voters of Quincy will see this series of articles for what it really is: a hatchet job.

One thing continually stands out like a July 4th bonfire: The articles—as we have said before—are completely one-sided in favor of Mayor LaRaia and completely biased against those who are not with or for him. The series which began in January, has been a one-way political propaganda street for LaRaia.

Even those who believe them must wonder why the other side never gets a chance to be heard. Even an axe murderer is given that privilege.

Can Arthur Tobin and the rest of the City Council, James McIntyre, Walter Hannon, Francis Finn, William Delahunt, Charles Shea, The Patriot Ledger, The Quincy Sun, etc., always be wrong and LaRaia always right? Is he so bright he never makes a mistake? Is everyone else so stupid everything they do is wrong? Even your Mother-in-law is right sometimes.

If you are a fair person, you've got to wonder about this series of articles that has been appearing now for six months.

When they first started we reported Mayor LaRaia himself and his press secretary went to the office of that North End newspaper and furnished information to launch the series. That since has been documented.

We also reported that although the name Joe Alfano appeared over most of the articles, the name is phony and the articles are actually being written by others. This has since been documented. Question: are the articles so bad that even the writers don't want to publicly admit authorship of them?

And, it has also been documented that there has been a stream of telephone calls between the mayor's office and that newspaper.

So, it shouldn't be too surprising that the articles are strong pro-LaRaia. The information for them, quite obviously, is coming from the Mayor himself and others close around him.

A good question for the voters of Quincy to think about: why is a newspaper in the North End of Boston that has so very little or anything in common with Quincy so interested in Quincy to make Quincy its lead story week after week, month after month?

It would seem the paper is really more interested in Mayor LaRaia than in Quincy. If it were so interested in "saving" Quincy from McIntyre and Hannon as it would have you believe, why didn't it start "saving" Quincy from them while they were in office? Actually, that newspaper highly praised both McIntyre and Hannon while they were in office. So, why the turnaround now?

It is quite obvious that Mayor LaRaia and the North End newspaper have been holding hands the past six months and will continue to do so through this year's mayoral campaign.

In a recent issue, the North End paper claims The Quincy Sun is biased against Mayor LaRaia and insinuates it is because The Sun lost a bid to print the city voting list. This is an example of taking one fact and then truth twisting it, North End style.

Raymond seeks Victory Park Cleanup

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymond has requested the Park-Recreation Board to assign a crew of workers to clean up the Victory Park area behind the Pollard School by removing overgrown shrubs and trees.

Raymond said the last major cleanup of the area was a combined effort of the local National Guard unit and the city and he is hopeful that a similar major cleanup will take place this summer.

He said a city cleanup crew could provide an interim solution to the problem immediately while the city and the National Guard seek a mutually convenient time on which to clean the area on a more permanent basis.

Raymond said that cutting down and cleaning out the trees and shrubs will ensure the aesthetic nature of the Victory Park area until it can be cleaned on a permanent basis.

The Sun did lose the printing job after being the low bidder by almost $600 when bids were originally opened May 3. The City Purchasing Department accepted the bid which was considerably lower than last year's bid and drew up the contract. The Mayor, after dallying three weeks, decided not to sign it and tried to award the contract to the higher bidder.

The North End paper says LaRaia ordered the bids rebid. That's not so. City Auditor Charles Shea refused to allow the job to go to the higher bidder, forcing the rebid.

The second time around [June 15] a Boston firm came in under The Sun by over $800 and over $400 lower than another bidder and was awarded the contract. The Boston firm had the advantage of knowing in advance what The Sun's previous bid was. It was like playing poker and letting the other guy see your hand before he bets.

The North End paper would have you believe The Sun has been critical of Mayor LaRaia because it lost the printing job. The fact is The Sun has been editorially critical of Mayor LaRaia's administration long before it bid on the voting list. But The Sun has given the mayor fair news coverage and he knows it. At least he gets the chance to express his views on issues which is a lot more than the North End newspaper gives McIntyre, Hannon, Tobin, etc.

And just to keep the record straight, The Sun in the past has been critical of McIntyre and Hannon. But more so LaRaia who seems to have a natural talent to get into more situations opening himself up to criticism.

If The Sun wrote news stories like that North End paper does, we would be insinuating The Sun didn't get the printing job because it has been critical of Mayor LaRaia.

Incidentally, the firm that did get the voting list job signed the contract with the Mayor June 27, picked up the first two wards for typesetting June 30 and the other four wards July 1. The job involves typesetting approximately 50,000 names and addresses and the printing of 200 books for each of the 39 voting precincts. July 1 is usually the time the job is completely finished. July 1 this year was when work was just beginning. It was ready to start in May.

The firm has 60 days in which to complete the job. This means the complete books may not be ready until Aug. 27—less than a month before the city preliminary election. Candidates will thus not get much campaign use out of them. This would particularly put non-incumbents at a disadvantage.

The North End paper also criticizes The Sun's coverage of the mayor's supplementary salary budget hearings, the payment of a mayor's personal advertisement with city funds, and the mayor's tapping of donated Quincy Sons of Italy funds to pay consultant fees including help in writing his mid-term address. The generous Sons of Italy funds are intended for charity-civic projects. It is questionable now whether the money taken can be restored.

No one has seen the know-it-all phantom North End reporter at the City Council meetings. So we wonder where his version of what goes on in Quincy comes from.

The Sun does cover the City Council meetings and in fairness to everyone, tapes the proceedings. The exact dialogue between councillors, Mayor LaRaia or his representatives at the meetings appears in The Sun. We let the reader be the judge as to who's right and who's wrong.

The Sun is telling it like it really is—not what that North End newspaper and others would have you believe it is.

Every time that North End paper attacks The Sun, we take it as a compliment. And the more vicious the attack, the more convinced we are that we are really telling it like it really is.

And whether we win or lose city printing jobs, we'll continue to tell it like it is. Now and in the future.

Council To Study Budget Figures Thursday

the City Council as a whole directed to the Mayor in writing.

"The Mayor may be requested to answer in person such written questions or he may answer through a head of a department or a member of a board as he shall determine.

"The statute states, 'The person so attending shall not be obliged to answer the questions relating to any other matter.'"

The only question that was asked Monday night, and it was rhetorical since there was no one there to answer it for the Committee, was put by Councillor Leo J. Kelly.

He wondered how come the budget breakdown contained an item for $1,400 for overtime for Budget Coordinator Saccone, since it was a one-person department and heads of departments do not customarily receive overtime except in emergency situations.

Miss Saccone later explained to newsmen that she had accumulated the overtime while she was working in the auditor's office before she became budget coordinator. She had 20 weeks of vacation coming and couldn't take it because of demands of the job.

She said she was surprised that Auditor Shea didn't explain that to the committee since he had noted her situation in a letter to the Mayor.

Meanwhile, Mayor LaRaia asked that a special meeting of the City Council be called "to properly appropriate money to fund the cost items of the labor contract to insure that the 3,000 city employees and their families may be paid the money due them."

He cited Solicitor Williams' ruling that placing the money in a reserve fund is illegal.

"A reserve fund cannot be established since the expenditures for labor contracts are not extraordinary or unforeseen," he said. "All costs for labor contracts must be appropriated to the departments. My appropriation request contains all such costs.

"Immediate action is necessary so that the city can pay retroactive raises on or before Aug. 5, 1977, as required by the individual contracts. No payments can be made by that date without immediate action."

Conclusions put forth by Williams in his ruling include:

"The action of the City Council on June 30 ... purporting to establish a 'reserve for salary account' is illegal, null and void, of no force and effect and may not be implemented by an employee of the city.

"The purported action of the City Council does not fulfill the Council's obligations ... to approve or reject necessary funds for the cost items contained in the collective bargaining agreement.

"Obligation of the City Council to approve or reject such funds in a lawful fashion is mandatory and their failure may subject the members of the City Council to unfair labor practice charges by the unions.

"Since the action of the City Council ... is illegal and a nullity no further action may be taken by the Mayor in regard to it.

"Certain city contracts require payment of retroactive monies by the first pay period in August, 1977. Failure by the City Council to take action to insure such funding would also subject the members of the City Council to unfair labor practice charges by the union."

Brownell, Bellotti Propose Environmental Violation Fines

The House Judiciary Committee has returned a favorable report on a bill sponsored by Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] that would assess civil fines for violation of environmental laws.

The bill is co-sponsored by Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti of Quincy.

Brownell explained the proposed law would make enforcement of environmental laws more practical and reasonable since the state would no longer have to prove an offender a criminal in order to obtain enforcement of the laws.

His legislation would permit a court not only to order the payment of civil fines but also order the fine to be used against a defendant to assist in abating or preventing damage to the environment.

The bill provides for a civil forfeiture of up to $10,000 a day for any violation of an order, decision or requirement of the executive office of Environmental Affairs.

LaRaia Approves $1.5 Million In CETA Contracts

Mayor LaRaia has approved a total of more than $1.5 million worth of Comprehensive Employment Training Administration [CETA] contracts that will create 712 jobs in 12 South Shore communities.

Projects involving Quincy include:

• Amego, Inc., of Quincy, $61,119 for 11 jobs to assist in developing recreational, vocational and educational programs for 15 to 17 autistic adolescents.

• Quincy Park Department, $92,889 for 20 jobs for renovation and rehabilitation of municipal parks and playgrounds.

• Youth Work Experience, $711,036 for 612 jobs in 10 communities, including Quincy.

• Norfolk County District Attorney's office, $193,362 for 19 jobs on the White Collar Crime Unit.

Ground Broken For

S. Braintree MBTA Station

Groundbreaking for the South Braintree MBTA station, the new terminal point of the Red Line through Quincy, was scheduled to be held yesterday [Wednesday] morning with Gov. Michael S. Dukakis the featured speaker on the half hour program. The MBTA Directors have approved the prospective sale of $75 million in 40-year capital bonds, a portion of which will go to pay for the extension of the Red Line through South Quincy and Braintree, scheduled to open in late 1979.

Before 1862 only dollar coins were issued.

Largest Passenger Ship Launched At Fore River

The 631-foot, 25,000-ton Matson liner Mariposa, built at a cost of $8½ million, slid down the ways at Bethlehem's Fore River Shipyard, the largest passenger liner ever launched in New England. Mrs. Wallace S. Alexander, wife of a Matson vice president, christened the glistening white vessel with a bottle of water from Sidney Harbor, Australia, which was to be one of her ports as she plied the Pacific tourist routes.

Mariposa was designed to accommodate 1,000 passengers, treating them to such luxuries as two swimming pools and a night club. For those passengers who could not bear to leave business behind, she was equipped with brokerage offices.

The Fore River from the bridge to the Cities Service oil refinery was closed to boats at 10:30 a.m. and bathers were urged to stay 50 to 100 feet from the water at launch time, 1 p.m., for fear of eight-foot waves that never materialized.

SECOND SHUTOUT FOR CALLAGHAN

Frank Callaghan pitched his second shutout in a row, a two-hitter, and Joe Pettiti slammed a home run and a double as the Squantum AC belted Granite Trust, 5-0, in a South Shore League baseball game.

The lineup for Squantum: Eddie Norton 2b, Larry Reardon ss, Freddie Comparato lf, Joe Pettiti cf, Bob Douglass lb, Frank Courtney rf, Chet Frazier 3b, Wally O'Brien c, Frank Callaghan p.

The lineup for Granite Trust: Walter Furbush 2b, Chet McCarthy 3b, Bob Greenhalgh cf, George Owen 1b, Donie Russell rf, Jerry Hughes lf, Dick Dennison ss, Higgins c, Paul Hughes p.

Dennison had to leave the game during the early innings after he suffered spike wounds in the face in a play at second base. Fran Haynes went in to play center field with McCarthy moving to short and Greenhalgh to third base.

VACATIONERS ABROAD

Quincy folks were trotting all over the globe on vacation.

Sen. John D. Mackay and his wife left on the SS Yarmouth for his native Nova Scotia on a month's holiday. They took with them their automobile so that they could motor around the Maritimes and drive home through Maine.

Robert E. Foy, president of the Quincy Rotary Club, and his daughter, Mary, returned from six months in Europe during which time Foy attended the 22nd annual convention of Rotary International in Vienna.

Orlando Pace, noted Quincy Square tailor, left New York on the liner Conte Biancamano for Naples and a month's vacation in his native Italy.

And City Council President Alfred N. LaBrecque was serving as acting mayor while Mayor Thomas S. McGrath was taking his leisure in North Woodstock, Vt.

Proposed OSHA Reforms Look Good

Good news! That champion federal nit-picker, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, is going to be born again in the Carter Administration.

At least so says the Department of Labor, in which OSHA is lodged. Dr. Eula Bingham, Labor assistant secretary in charge of OSHA, acknowledged the agency "has been enforcing rules that have caused us to come under ridicule and attack and have undermined the whole climate of OSHA's work. We have to admit where the failures and mistakes are and get on with the real job of saving lives."

OSHA's problems are traceable in part to the circumstances of its birth, and in part to the bureaucratic mentality. When the agency came into existence, it "nationalized" literally thousands of pre-existing safety codes and standards. Many of these standards were too detailed, some of them were obsolete, but most of them were - until OSHA - voluntary, which permitted some tempering with common sense.

OSHA eliminated the common sense factor and began to spend most of its time and energy measuring the size of toilet partitions, the height of fire extinguishers, and the width of aisles. There are over 450 pages of official standards, including such detail as 35 pages of rules specifying the design of "exit" signs, so OSHA inspectors could always find something wrong in the course of an inspection.

This dedicated pursuit of the ridiculous by the inept left a nationwide trail of victimized business people livid with rage.

The President's own brother, Billy Carter, typifies the experiences many small business operators have had in trying to cope with OSHA. In the May issue of "Nation's Business" magazine, he says he had to close down one peanut shelling plant and build another, because "we simply could not meet OSHA requirements in the old plant." He estimates that OSHA and Environmental Protection Agency dictates added 22% to the cost of the new facility, and still they are not satisfied.

Pointing to the top of a grain elevator where the shelling operation starts, he says, "We had to spend $400 for some guardrails up there, but one man might go up there once a year."

Meanwhile, OSHA wasn't spending enough time on the big, significant threats to health and safety. The General Accounting Office - a Congressional watchdog - recently criticized the agency for issuing fewer than 20 health standards since its birth in 1970.

Dr. Bingham proposes three key reforms: 1. Get rid of as many of the nit-picking rules as possible, and stop enforcing those that remain. 2. Concentrate inspections on high-hazard industries, especially big high-hazard industries. 3. Help businesses - especially small businesses - find ways to become safer, rather than trying to find excuses for penalizing them.

Well, three cheers for Dr. Bingham and Labor Secretary Ray Marshall! If they manage to do what they have proposed, it will be a major victory for both employers and workers.

The only disadvantage is that I won't have OSHA to kick around any more. But that's OK... there's still the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Tobin Disagrees With Dukakis On Hospital Reimbursement

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin says he disagrees with the interpretation of the Dukakis Administration that the state budget reimbursement for city hospitals for in-hospital care of general relief recipients is a mistake.

"The intent of the Legislature in adopting my amendment was patently clear," said Tobin.

"Everyone knows of the depressing fiscal problems that city hospitals are having in Massachusetts when Governor Dukakis cut out general relief money for in-patient care.

"For the first time in about a decade, the Quincy City Hospital ran a substantial deficit last year. This deficit has been directly attributable to the failure of the state to pay its bills.

"I have filed legislation to correct this situation in this year's legislation for it means a possible savings to the city of up to $2 million or $8 on the tax rate.

"I have been working on this for over a year and have discussed this at length with the Committee on Ways and Means. Everyone was aware of the intent of my amendment and my amendment successfully passed.

"The Senate and House conferees kept the language of my amendment in the budget that not more than $15 million would be expended for medical purposes, including in-patient care at municipal hospitals. In no way was that figure of $15 million changed.

"Therefore, it is clearly against legislative intent for administration officials to tamper with this budget at this late time after the Governor has signed it by saying the legislature did not mean what it clearly said.

"I am sure a court of law would uphold my view and I will fight any administrative attempt to change the law in this respect.

"For too long the city hospitals in Massachusetts have been financially penalized, and there is no reason why the taxpayers of Quincy should pay up to $2 million for statewide obligations."

Public School Nursery Program For Handicapped

Parents of handicapped children in the South Shore Mental Health Center, met recently with State Education Commissioner Gregory Anrig for reassurance on the transfer of their youngsters into public school-sponsored nursery programs in September.

Anrig told the group that he is "not foreclosing any options for making sure the transition is handled well."

Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy], who set up the meeting, said that the Mental Health Center and the Department of Mental Health should continue to operate the program until the public schools can gear up to take them over. The public schools are preparing to run "the schools through the South Shore Collaborative which was set up by seven school systems to take care of some of the handicapped children.

Sheets said if the problem is not resolved properly, he will support the redraft of a bill which he co-sponsored that would provide for a phasing-in of the new program.

6 Juvenile Caseworkers Funded For D.A. Program

The Norfolk County District Attorney's Juvenile Diversion Program has been awarded $90,443.76 by the Norwood CETA Consortium for the hiring of six juvenile diversion caseworkers, a community resources coordinator and an administrative legal aide.

The program was developed by Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt a year ago as an alternative to court adjudication for non-violent juvenile offenders, seeking to rehabilitate them while holding them responsible morally and financially for their actions.

The program has dealt with about 472 juveniles from Norfolk County to date.

The Juvenile Diversion Caseworkers operate out of the various courts in the county, including Quincy, and are personally responsible for the conduct of the defendants assigned to them during the program.

Big Ben, in London, is the name neither of the clock nor the tower, but of the bell that strikes the hour. It's named for Sir Benjamin Hall, who was commissioner of works when it was installed.

The Pro-Life Fight and the Budget
On June 20, 1977 the U.S. Supreme Court ruled "that states did not have to pay for pregnancy terminations of welfare monies." In effect what they said was that states could prohibit state monies from being spent on abortions.
In the past 2 weeks this fight over monies that were in the budget for abortions, had caused long debates and filibusters. Some of the people felt that strong about the issue of state monies that they wanted to delay the budget. I felt that further debate and filibusters endanger the entire Commonwealth. Further delays in budget enactment could have cut off checks to the elderly or salary checks to employees.
The pro-life issue will be decided by a vote of the House on August 8th. There will be a public hearing on July 27, at 10:30 a.m. in the Gardner Auditorium of the State House.

The budget was finally enacted on Wednesday, July 6. The speaker of the House recessed the House for 3 weeks. I am now in the process of catching up on constituent work and straightening out some problems in the Beach area.
I hold office hours M W T 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m., and Wednesday 6:30 to 9:00 p.m. My district office, 69 Billings Rd is also open Mon. thru Thurs. evenings. I can be reached in the State House by calling 727-7035 or in Quincy by calling 328-0900.

Mayor Proclaims Sidewalk Bazaar Days

It's official! Mayor LaRaia has proclaimed today [Thursday], Friday and Saturday "Sidewalk Bazaar Days" in Quincy, urging everyone to participate and support the gala three-day festival.

The text of the proclamation: WHEREAS, the American standard of living is recognized as the highest in the world and is due, in great part, to the abundance and high quality of the products of our competitive enterprise system and their forthright identification by trademarks submitted for the free choice of the consuming public, and

WHEREAS, the American tradition of independent enterprise is as old as our society itself and from humble beginnings small business has grown into one of the principal economic forces in this, the world's greatest industrial nation, and

WHEREAS, if downtown Quincy retailers are to realize their full potential in the years ahead, they need and deserve wholehearted support from the citizens in the business community as a whole as well as the strong encouragement it already receives from national organizations and the local government, and retailers are joining this week with various civic and business groups in providing the citizens of Quincy and the South Shore unsurpassed retailing opportunities,

NOW, THEREFORE, I Joseph J. LaRaia, Mayor of the City of Quincy, do hereby proclaim July 14, 15 and 16, 1977, as SIDEWALK BAZAAR DAYS and encourage all citizens and public organizations to join with me during this week in paying tribute to the accomplishments of small business in helping it toward continued strength and success.

Joseph J. LaRaia, Mayor.

Zoomobile In Downtown Friday, Saturday

The 'gators and monkeys will be back to thrill the small fry at the eighth annual Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar.

The Boston Zoological Society's famed "Zoomobile", an education show on wheels, will make appearances Friday from 2-4 p.m. on Cottage Ave. and Saturday from 10-12 noon on Cliveden St.

Members of the Society's staff will be on hand to explain the life and habits of animals and reptiles such as monkeys, skunks, alligators and boa constrictors.

Youngsters and adults will be able to touch and pet many of the "stars" of the Zoomobile, who will be taken from their cages for the occasions. Members of the staff will answer questions from the audience.

Hancock Street To Be Bazaar Mall

Hancock St. will become a pedestrian mall from Granite to School Sts. during the three days of the eighth annual Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar, Thursday through Saturday.

The street will be blocked off with wooden barriers at Granite and School Sts. from 7 a.m.

Thursday to about 5 p.m. Saturday so that vehicles cannot interfere with shoppers on foot.

Police Lt. Jack Flaherty said cars can get around Hancock St. by way of Chestnut St. on the easterly side and the Ross Parking Way on the westerly side.

Gingham Swingers Square Dancing

The Gingham Swingers, with veteran caller Dennis Marsh of Holbrook handling the vocal assignment, will be back to give an exhibition of square dancing tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. in front of City Hall as part of the Sidewalk Bazaar.

After the exhibition, those in the audience with nimble feet and desire to match can join the dancers in the fun until about midnight.

Marsh is a well known caller throughout the South Shore but he has also appeared at dances around New England.

The Swingers, who have an active membership of more than 200, are based in Kramer's Hayloft in South Weymouth. Some 70 of them will take part in the exhibition tonight.

Sidewalk Bazaar is sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Free Respiratory Clinic On McIntyre Mall

Quincy City Hospital's Respiratory Therapists and Dietary Department will hold a free clinic from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. today (Thursday) and Friday on McIntyre Mall, next to City Hall.

The clinic will give Quincy citizens a Free Pulmonary Function Screening test.

The test will tell the amounts of air each individual can hold and the speed with which he can exhale, factors indicative of whether a person has a potential for Emphysema or Bronchitis. Blood pressure will be checked, and information will be available from the Hospital's Dietary Department on weight control, cholesterol, and salt intake.

This is the second clinic of its type this summer. At the first one, held last month, 185 people were tested, and demand for a repeat was so great the Hospital decided to offer these free services again.

The clinics are offered as one way of fulfilling the Hospital policy of making prevention of diseases as important as their cure.

Hospital Director Anthony DeFalco, stated that the purpose of the clinic is to provide a free informational-educational service to the community. This two day clinic will be used as a pilot program for a series of Community education programs to be held at the Hospital this fall.

Raymondi Asks Playground Cleanup

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi has requested the Park and Recreation Department to assign a crew of workers to clean up the Elm St. Playground area.

Raymondi said he has received numerous complaints from area residents who use the playground that there is broken glass strewn about and rubbish along the fence and mound area. He said he made the request to insure the aesthetic nature of the area as well as public safety.

18 To Compete For Miss Quincy Bay Title Friday

Eighteen South Shore girls will compete for the title of Miss Quincy Bay of 1977 and more than $1,000 in prizes Friday night in a downtown Quincy beauty pageant.

The event, highlight of the annual Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar which opens Thursday, will be held at 9:30 p.m. on a portable boardwalk on Hancock St. in front of the Hancock Bank.

In case of rain, the pageant will be held Saturday at 4:30 p.m.

The new Queen will have the honor of reigning over Quincy Bay Race Week which this year opens Saturday and runs through July 20.

The new Miss Quincy Bay will be crowned by last year's winner, Mary Pickering of Quincy.

This year's winner and four runners-up will share in the more than $1,000 in prizes and each of the 18 contestants will receive a souvenir memento.

The pageant is co-sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the Quincy Bay Race Week Association.

Carol Nashe of the Carol Nashe Model Agency, Boston, will be the emcee. Music will be by Baron Hugo and his orchestra.

The contestants will be judged in evening gown and swimsuit competition and for beauty and poise. They will be escorted on stage by commodores of the Quincy Bay Race Week associated yacht clubs.

The 18 contestants, two of them sisters, are:

- Doris Aiken, 19, of 16 Division St., North Quincy.
- Rosemarie Carpenito, 20, of 91 Dimmock St., Quincy Center.
- Susan Cornell, 18, of 36 Edwards St., Quincy Point.
- Sandra Doyle, 16, of 179 Everett St., Wollaston.
- Teri Finn, 18, of 50 N St., Hull.
- Donna Gallinaro, 18, of 24 Bowes Ave., Germantown.
- Judith George, 18, of 196 Evans St., North Weymouth.
- Jo-Anne Herald, 16, of 256 Southern Artery, Quincy.

- Patti Ann Hunt, 17, of 19 Dunn's Hill Rd., West Quincy.
- Lisa Martinelli, 16, of 232 Farrington St., Wollaston.
- Barbara McColium, 16, of 43 Crosby St., Hough Neck.
- Judy McElaney, 19, of 11 Gibbons St., Weymouth Landing.
- Elise McGilvray, 18, of 3 Ashworth Rd., Squantum.
- Ellen Ross, 18, of 63 Howe St., Germantown.
- Ann Silverstein, 17, of 6 Imrie St., Randolph.
- Adrienne Smith, 17, of 35 Norton St., North Weymouth.
- Nancy Trifone, 18, of 24 Mortimer Terrace, Quincy Center.

MARY PICKERING, Miss Quincy Bay of 1976, will crown her successor to be selected from among 17 contestants in Friday night's beauty pageant in downtown Quincy.

Civil Defense To Light Up Hancock St. For Pageant

Hancock St. will be flooded with light Friday night for the 1977 Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant thanks to Kenneth Walsh, director of Quincy's Civil Defense Unit and a volunteer CD squad.

The lighting will have the same luminosity as during last year's pageant, for a total of 6,500 watts of lighting hooked up to three CD generators.

Included will be a 2,000-watt spotlight, a 1,500-watt spotlight, and six floodlights of 500-watts each.

Sidewalk Bazaar is sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Miss Quincy Bay Crown, Trophy On Display

The crown and trophy symbolizing the title of Miss Quincy Bay are on display in downtown Quincy.

The rhinestone-studded three-point silver crown is on exhibit in the window of Bottom's Up, 1420 Hancock St.

It is made available by Cecelia Letorney, co-owner of the clothing store, and is worn by the winner while reigning over Miss Quincy Bay Race Week activities. The crown is then traditionally returned, to be worn again by this year's successor.

The handsome trophy won by Mary Pickering, last year's winner, is on display in the window of The Quincy Sun, 1372 Hancock St. A similar trophy will be awarded to this year's winner.

Baron Hugo To Play At Pageant, Present Concert

A musical voice from out of the past will be heard once again at the Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant tomorrow [Friday] night.

Baron Hugo, the Quincy boy who was the King of the Totem Pole Ballroom in the heyday of the Big Band Era, will direct the band through a two-hour pre-pageant concert starting at 7 p.m. on a bandstand set up near the QCBPA office.

After the concert, Hugo and his band will take a half hour break and then begin anew at 9:30 p.m. for the Pageant itself in front of the Hancock Bank.

In addition to the old-time Big Band favorites and modern tunes, the band will play requests for all-time favorites from the audience.

Hugo, who now lives in Milton, grew up in the Brewer's Corners section of West Quincy and got his musical start in 1923 at Malmati Hall in South Quincy.

He performed in many Quincy dance halls that have since passed out of existence, like the old Wisteria Bungalow, Electra Hall and Taylor's

BARON HUGO

Ballroom, which is now a roller skating rink in Hough's Neck.

In the 30's and 40's Hugo directed the house band at the popular Totem Pole Ballroom in Norumbega Park, sharing the bandstand with such immortals as Glenn Miller and Tommy Dorsey.

He also led bands at RKO Keith Theater in Boston and on the Boston Belle, the cruise boat that plied the Bay between Boston and Provincetown.

Yacht Club Commodores To Escort Miss Quincy Bay Contestants

Commodores from Quincy Bay Race Week Association Yacht Clubs in dress uniform will serve as escorts for the Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant contestants Friday night at 9:30 p.m. in front of the Hancock Bank.

John O'Neill, past commodore of the Braintree Yacht Club and president of the Quincy Bay Race Week Association will serve as a pageant judge.

Patrick Conroy, past commodore of the Quantum Yacht Club and immediate past president of the QBRW will escort Mary Pickering, Miss Quincy Bay of 1976.

Escorting this year's contestants will be:

Commodore William Tracey, Rear Commodore Ed DeCoste, and Past Commodore John Timlin, Braintree Yacht Club.

Rear Commodore Richard Kublin, Past Commodore John

Pazyra, and Fleet Captain Bernard Kritzman, Metropolitan Yacht Club.

Vice Commodore Al Harvey, Rear Commodore William McKeon and Past Commodore Kenneth Lavers, Quincy Yacht Club.

Commodore James Gerry, Vice Commodore George Hines and Rear Commodore George Gullage, Quantum Yacht Club.

Commodore Bruce Swan, Vice Commodore Charles Reynolds and Rear Commodore Gerard Gallinaro, Town River Yacht Club.

Commodore Edward McAndrews, Vice Commodore Robert Mortali and Rear Commodore Gerald Galiano, Wessagusset Yacht Club.

Commodore Len Carvitt, Vice Commodore Richard Kelsay and Rear Commodore Harold Gilbert, Wollaston Yacht Club.

Milton, Banjo Bands To Provide Nostalgic Music

The 25-member Milton band, under the direction of Ken Lodge, will be on hand to entertain with a concert of popular songs during the eighth annual Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar.

And Buddy Burke's popular six-piece Banjo Band is also back to stroll among the shoppers with their renditions of old favorites from the Gay Nineties through the Roaring Twenties.

The Milton Band will march from St. John's Church at 7:30 p.m. Thursday night to a location near the QCBPA office where they will perform in concert until 9 p.m.

The Banjo Band will circulate through the bazaar area covering Hancock St., the Parkingway and Grossman's from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Thursday night, featuring such numbers as "Baby Face", "Just Because", "Down Yonder", "If You Knew Susie", and others.

The group has been together for more than 20 years with three banjos [Burke, Joseph Fahey and Edward O'Brien], two trombones [Mike Tulysewski and Dick Brown], and a clarinet [Joe Ryan].

Ann Warren In Pantomime Shows

Quincy's own pantomime artist, Ann Warren, will be back to entertain shoppers at the eighth annual Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar.

Miss Warren's skillful use of recordings and a quick change of hats brings to life in pantomime such stars as Jimmy Durante and Judy Garland.

Her specialty for the youngsters in her audience is a lively version of Sammy Davis Jr. doing "Candy Man".

She will appear today (Thursday) from 2:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. on a platform near Colman's and Friday at the same time on a platform near the QCBPA office.

Accounting Firm Hired To Evaluate Quincy Hospital's Future

Director Anthony DeFalco announces Quincy City Hospital in an attempt to evaluate its future, has hired the accounting firm of Ernst & Ernst on a consulting basis for the 1977-78 fiscal year.

"In keeping with Mayor LaRaia's attempt to improve both the Quincy City Hospital and medical services in general, we felt that acquiring the aid of Ernst & Ernst would help improve present conditions and ensure a solid future with financial stability for the hospital," DeFalco said.

The Boston firm will perform various professional duties, including a review of the Hospital's accounting procedures and controls, and will assist in the development of financial statements.

The accounting firm will also conduct a five-phase investigation into the fiscal condition of the hospital and the feasibility of removing it as a department of the city.

The five phases of the agreement are:

*Evaluating the real impact of the hospital during the fiscal year 1977.

*Projecting the impact that the hospital will have on the City in the next several years.

*Finding out what would happen to the City's finances if it turned the operation of the Hospital over to a separate non-profit corporation.

*Evaluating the feasibility of the City's or the separate corporation's building a new facility.

*Developing a list of important tasks that will have to be accomplished to renovate the Hospital.

Germantown Center Planning Trip To Salem Witch Museum

The Germantown Service Center will host a tour of the Salem Witch Museum Thursday, July 21.

A bus will leave the Center, 9 Bicknell St., Germantown, at 9:30 a.m. Reservations must be made by tomorrow [Friday] with Patricia Peers, 470-1189. Cost is 60 cents for 6-12 year-olds, $1 for 13-16 year-olds, and $1.75 for adults.

Miss Peers is also accepting reservations for a family day outing July 25 at Rocky Point Amusement Park in Warwick, R.I. Tickets are $3 per person and all youngsters must be under the supervision of an adult.

Other events next week at the Center:

Monday - Weight control group meets at 10 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada

Rd, Quincy Point.

Tuesday - Kids in the Kitchen, a cooking class for boys and girls ages 9-12 meets at 12:30 p.m. Sheila Jordan will conduct a summer story hour for children ages 6-8 at 10 a.m. Rosemarie Hanley, an aide from the Greater Boston Legal Services, will be available in the morning for legal assistance.

Wednesday - Family planning clinic appointments, 4-8:30 p.m.

Thursday - Bus leaves the Center at 9:30 a.m. for the Salem Witch Museum. The originally planned event, a trip to the South Shore Music Circus' presentation of "Peter Pan" has been cancelled.

Friday - Family planning clinic appointments, 11:45 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Harborview Residents Committee meets at the Center on the second Tuesday and the fourth Wednesday of each month at 8 p.m.

Names Drawn From Among 1,400

250 Win In Summer Job Lottery But 48 Decline

The names of 250 Quincy Youths were drawn in the Mayor's six-week Youth-to-Work Program Lottery but 48 declined to accept jobs.

The Mayor's office asked City Councillors to submit name to replace the 48.

Their names were drawn from among 1,400 applicants.

Mayor LaRaia said the lottery, the first of its kind in Quincy, was the fairest way to fill the summer positions. The names and addresses of all the applicants were written on index cards and placed in a drum from which the 250 were drawn by the Mayor and the six Quincy Ward Councillors.

"With employment scarce, it's unfortunate we cannot accommodate everyone," said the Mayor. "However, my staff will notify all businesses in the city in an effort to interest them in hiring the applicants not selected."

Approximately 150 job hopefuls were on hand at the lottery drawing in the McIntyre Mall.

The chosen youths will work in the Park Department, the Cemeteries, the Forestry Department, the Health Department, the Thomas Crane Public Library, the Wire Inspection Department, and the Downtown Development Department.

The winners selected in the lottery by Wards:

Councillors Asked To Submit Replacements

Not all of those whose names were drawn in the summer jobs lottery have accepted summer jobs.

And, as a result, not all of those who have summer jobs obtained them through the lottery.

Arthur Casey, the Mayor's executive secretary, said that as of the morning after the lottery drawing in McIntyre Mall a total of 48 whose names had been drawn had turned down the work.

Either they already had jobs, Casey said, or they were in summer school or their families had planned vacations.

Many of the young job-hunters had changed their minds during the five weeks from the time registration closed until the day of the drawing.

"I called the city councillors Friday morning the day after the lottery," said Casey. "I told them we needed 48 more names and asked them to come up with some. They did."

Casey said 20 of those drawn in the lottery were assigned to the Recreation Department's regular summer job program, which had been cut when the Department's budget was slashed.

Others in the Recreation Department's program were hired outside the lottery since many of them require specific qualifications or certificates in order to fill those jobs.

Houghs Neck Carnival For Muscular Dystrophy July 19

A neighborhood carnival against Muscular Dystrophy will be held Tuesday July 19 at 1 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Preble, 27 Crosby St., Houghs Neck.

The carnival is being organized by Mr. and Mrs. Preble's son, Michael.

Michael will serve as ringmaster of the carnival, and will be assisted by Michael and Marc Farland, Charles Morgan and Daniel Kenney.

The Carnival will feature games of chance, such as miniature golf, bean bag tosses and frisbee throws. All proceeds will go to aid the fight against Muscular Dystrophy.

Last year 40,000 carnivals against Muscular Dystrophy were held by children in cooperation with the Muscular Dystrophy Association, and over $1.4 million was raised for MDA's research and patient service program.

For additional information about the carnival, call 471-9255.

A Unique Occasion

Quincy Cooperative Bank Celebrates 'National Tellers Week'

The Quincy Cooperative Bank was unique one day last week.

Directors and employees of the bank celebrated National Tellers Week with a dinner at the Barnside Restaurant in Hanover.

No one else did. The reason no one else did was that National Tellers Week was invented by the Quincy Cooperative Bank at the suggestion of one of its tellers, Jean Moran.

It started a while ago during National Secretaries Week.

"How come there's no National Tellers Week?" asked Miss Moran.

The question struck a responsive chord with Bank President John R. Herbert, who has an ear for such things.

"A bank's image for friendliness and service is projected by the tellers more than any other group of bank employees simply because of the nature of a teller's work," says Herbert.

The result was National Tellers Week, observed by the Quincy Cooperative Bank alone.

To celebrate the unique occasion, the bank created a pin with a red heart bearing the words "We Love You." Tellers at the Bank's Quincy headquarters and branches in Braintree, Hanover and Cohasset wore them for the week.

If a customer asked the meaning of the message, he or she was told that the Quincy Cooperative Bank feels that way about its customers.

The Bank took the occasion of the dinner to give long-service awards to Mrs. Marie Litchfield and Miss Mary Tegan, who have 10 years each, and Mrs. Marilyn Demaggio, who has five.

No Opposition To Jobs Bill

The Jobs Bill proposed by the South Shore Economic Development Corporation met with no opposition last week at a public hearing before the Joint Committee on Taxation.

The bill will be reported out by that committee when the state legislature returns from its recess sometime in early August. Thomas Curtis, President of the SSED, said he is confident it will meet with success on the House floor.

"It's an extremely worthwhile bill," said Curtis, "one that will give a shot in the arm to the economy of the entire region."

The SSED, a nonprofit affiliate of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, seeks through the proposed legislation to expand job opportunities in the area through the acquisition of available, industrially-zoned land. The group would then develop the commercial, and thus employment, value of the land. The end result, would also hopefully be the enlargement of communities' tax bases on the South Shore.

Rep. Thomas Brownell of Quincy and Rep. Joseph Manning of Milton, the bill's co-sponsors, were at the Beacon Hill hearing, along with John Blake, chairman of the SSED's Industrial Park Committee.

Kenneth Fallon, III Promoted To CINTOR General Manager

Codman & Shurtleff, Inc., of Randolph, announces the promotion of Kenneth P. Fallon III, to the position of General Manager, CINTOR Division.

Fallon received a Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration from the University of Massachusetts in Amherst in 1963. He joined Codman in 1971 as a sales representative and has served as Product Director for its O.R. Systems Division. He assisted in the establishment of the orthopaedic division, CINTOR, and most recently has been the National Sales Manager for this division.

Fallon and his wife, Judith, live in Brant Rock, with their four children. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth P. Fallon Jr. of 857 Furnace Brook Parkway, Quincy.

Codman & Shurtleff, Inc., a

KENNETH P. FALLON, III member of the Johnson & Johnson family of companies, has manufactured surgical instruments since 1838.

Thomas Grimshaw Promoted At Honeywell

Thomas H. Grimshaw of 93 Haviland St., Wollaston, has been promoted to section manager of publications at Honeywell's computer engineering facility in Billerica.

He manages a group of 14 writers and editors who produce computer maintenance manuals.

Grimshaw joined Honeywell in 1965 as an engineering assistant in the Quality Assurance Department. He has held various posts, including field engineering and technical instruction assignments, before assuming his present position.

He has a degree in business management from North Shore Community College.

Crimshaw and his wife Barbara have four children.

MBTA To Hold Summer Bus Rodeo

The MBTA will hold its first annual Bus Rodeo this summer. Paul J. Lennon, manager of safety announced.

Bus and trackless trolley operators from each of the six MBTA bus garages - Quincy, Lynn, Arborway, Bennett Street, Salem Street, and Cabot - who meet eligibility requirements will compete Sunday afternoons in July for a chance to participate in the Second National Bus Rodeo to be held in Atlanta, Georgia, Oct. 11.

Winners and alternates from each of the garages will compete in August to determine the finalist and alternate. Competitions will be held at the Cabot Transportation Center in South Boston.

BUYING VS. RENTING

To buy or to rent - that is the question. Both have their place. First, renting can be the answer for families who know they'll only be in the area for a short time or who prefer not to contend with maintenance. It's also the only solution for anyone with insufficient funds for the down payment on a home.

The main disadvantage of renting is a financial one. As living costs rise - so do rents. A lease may protect you temporarily, but when it expires, the landlord is free to increase the rent - even under rent control when justified. Rent payment cannot be deducted from income tax as the homeowner can deduct real estate taxes and interest on the mortgage payments.

Your best buffer against inflation is to own your own home. You'll also be pleasantly surprised to find it also is one of the best financial investments you ever made. Your payments will remain level while your resale value - especially in this area - will continue to rise.

40th Edition

Early QBRW Expected To Attract More Boats

By TOM SULLIVAN

The 40th edition of Quincy Bay Race Week, moved up a month, opens Saturday and QBRWA President John O'Neill expects at least a 30 percent increase in the number of boats.

In the past, race week has been held in mid-August and has run from Wednesday through Sunday. This year it runs from Saturday through Wednesday.

"We had been holding race week following Marblehead Race Week and our number of entries had been dropping off," O'Neill said. "Of course, the tides play an important part in our schedule and we found that this year the tides in mid-July were just right so we decided to have our racing before Marblehead."

"I feel that, outside of Marblehead, we have one of the top events anywhere and this year we are building our week around entrants' vacations instead of them building their vacations around us."

"I think we should have at least 30 percent more boats this year."

About 400 boats and 1,500 sailors have participated in recent years.

O'Neill is hoping for perfect weather conditions. Last year Hurricane Belle arrived the day before racing was scheduled to start but departed in plenty of time for a full week of racing. Two years ago the weather forced the cancellation of three days' racing, the first time in history more than one day's racing had been cancelled.

Boys, girls, men and women of all ages will be among the competitors.

Racing is being held each day from one of the participating clubs.

Gala Night was held last Saturday at Quincy Yacht Club with O'Neill and Commodore John Rounselle as hosts.

Rendezvous Night will be held Saturday following the first day of racing at Town River YC with O'Neill and Town River Commodore Bruce Swan as hosts.

The colorful Marine Parade will be held Sunday with boats rendezvousing between Town River and Wessagusset Yacht Clubs at noon.

Quincy Bay Race Week Program

Following is the Quincy Bay Race Week schedule:

SATURDAY, July 16 -
Racing: Quincy Yacht Club, Quincy Commodore John Rounselle and Metropolitan YC Commodore Larry Belsky hosts. Inside line, outside line and ocean racing.

SATURDAY, July 16 -
Rendezvous Night at Town River Yacht Club, QBRW President John O'Neill and Town River Commodore Bruce Swan hosts. Dancing for skippers and crews, admission $1.50 plus booster tickets.

SUNDAY, July 17 -
Racing: Wollaston Yacht Club, Wollaston Commodore Lenny Carvitt and Braintree

YC Commodore Bill Tracey hosts. Inside line and outside line racing.

SUNDAY, July 17 -
Marine Parade, rendezvous between Town River and Wessagusset Yacht Clubs at noon. Registrations at member clubs. Prizes for best decorated boats.

MONDAY, July 18 -
Racing: Squantum YC, Squantum Commodore Jim Gerry host. Inside line and outside line racing.

TUESDAY, July 19 -
Racing: Wessagusset YC, Wessagusset Commodore Skip McAndrews host. Inside line and outside line racing.

WEDNESDAY, July 20 -

Racing: Wessagusset YC, Town River YC Commodore Bruce Swan host. Inside line and outside line racing.

Trophy Night will be held at Town River on Sept. 10 at 8 o'clock. All winners and their guests are invited.

Harpoon 5.2 is here.

It's rapidly becoming one of the most talked about new sailboats of the year. The Harpoon 5.2, from Boston Whaler. Like all Boston Whalers, Harpoon 5.2 is completely unskunkable. So it's safe — really safe. But it's also a real performer. Loaded with equipment like North sails, Harken blocks, Schaefer hardware, Samson line, and Elvstrom hammers. All standard. Plus there's a long list of optional gear. too. The Harpoon 5.2. It's spearheading a whole new generation of sailboats. And it's here now.

Ocean Racing Set For Saturday

Ocean racing sponsored by the Quincy Bay Race Week Association usually held on Saturday and Sunday, will be run entirely on Saturday.

These races are held to stimulate continued interest in the cruising type of sailboat.

The Frank E. Remick ocean race will again be held in two fleets, so popular has this attraction become. Fleet 1 consists of boats from 26 feet overall length to 45 feet overall and Fleet 2 for boats from 17 feet waterline length to under 26 feet overall. These races will begin at 10:55 Saturday.

In 1959, the trophy was presented to the QBRWA by Frank E. Remick for competition between ocean racing sailboats. Because of the large number of boats competing, it was decided to divide the race into two fleets. Remick presented the association with a second trophy for the Fleet 2 winner.

Last year Bob Allison of North Quincy won the Fleet 1 trophy in his Country Road. Ray Smith of Cottage Park in his Gadget won the Fleet 2 race.

The Bermuda Cup, a silver punch bowl, has been in the custody of the Quincy Yacht Club for more than a half century. It was presented by the City of Boston in 1905 for a Boston to Bermuda race which was never held.

In 1911 the city again placed the cup in competition to become the permanent possession of the winner. That race was won by Hollis Burgess in his sloop Marie L.

Burgess made the Quincy YC trustee of the silver bowl to be placed in competition. In 1968 the Quincy YC presented the trophy to the QBRWA for Race Week competition.

Last year's winner was L. Gerald Marcus of Wellesley in his High Time.

This race gets underway at 10:40.

The Harry Warner Memorial Trophy Race will start at 11:10. Cruising type trimarans will take part in this race.

Keith Merrill of Manchester was last year's winner in his Hydra.

In all the races the trophies will be held by the winners until Race Week of the following year when they will be returned to the association. An engraved keeper trophy will be awarded each winner for his permanent possession.

Last year's Quincy Bay racing winners were:

White Fleet, Pam Given, Wessagusset Y. C.

Green Fleet, Jonathan Lanza, Cottage Park.

Red Fleet, Holly Bumpus, Wollaston.

Blue Fleet, John Duplin, Cottage Park.

Laser Class, Matt Brown, Cottage Park.

Remick Race Fleet 1, Bob Allison, North Weymouth.

Fleet 2, Raymond Smith, Cottage Park.

Fleet 3, Keith Merrill, Manchester.

Bermuda Cup, Gerald Marcus, Tornado Class, Brian Leonard, Hingham.

Etchells, Dick Randall, Quincy.

210 Class, Rich Partridge, Hingham.

110 Class, Paul Duffy, South Boston.

T Bird, Charles Moore, Hingham.

Ensign Class, Bob Mehl, Hingham.

Fly Scot, Gabe Perez, Hingham.

QUINCY BAY RACE WEEK Association officers are Secretary Ed Simpson, Squantum; President John O'Neil, Baintree; Vice President Bernie Reisberg, Metropolitan, and Treasurer Gordon Davis, Squantum.

Squantum YC In Action Despite Fire

The Squantum Yacht Club continues to actively participate in the Race Week activities despite the fire which destroyed the club house.

The club uses the facilities of other clubs but club officials hope the new club house, now under construction, will be completed by next year's Race Week.

QBRW: 40 Years Of Sailing Tradition, Excellence

Yachtsmen taking part in the 40th annual Quincy Bay Race Week which opens Saturday for five days, have a tradition of excellence to live up to.

QBRW has been an outstanding success since it was established in 1938 by the Quincy, Wollaston and Squantum clubs, which formed the association.

In the years that followed, Town River and Wessagussett Yacht Clubs joined up to make the event an area success.

Edward P. Shaw of Wollaston was the first president. Other officers included Roy McPherson of Quincy, vice president; George Hey of Squantum, treasurer, and Arthur Leavitt, secretary.

Former Mayor Senator Thomas S. Burgin was named honorary chairman and presided over the first year's activities. He provided a trophy for the Adams Class and his successor as honorary chairman, former Boston Mayor Maurice J. Tobin, set up another in 1939.

He became governor of the state and was chief of judges for the Marine parade in 1946 which had the largest number of entries.

In the following years, the Merrymount club dissolved and was succeeded in membership by Wessagussett.

Four years ago the Braintree and Metropolitan clubs were added to the association.

Among the prizes added to the competition are the Remick Trophies and awards in memory of James B. Findlay, Howard Gannett, John Reynolds and Fred Hunt.

2,000 Sailors Vie For Coveted Race Week Trophies

The nearly 2,000 men, women, boys and girls competing in Quincy Bay Race Week will be vying for a number of handsome and coveted trophies.

The Fred Hunt Memorial Trophy is a perpetual award presented since 1966 by The Patriot Ledger in memory of the late yachting editor who served more than three decades.

This trophy is awarded annually to a person who has demonstrated a high degree of sportsmanship and a willingness to help others in the advancement of the yacht racing sport and who has contributed to the success of Race Week. It is to be held until the succeeding Race Week by the home club of its winner who is to be awarded a suitable keeper trophy for his permanent possession.

The Capt. James Berwick Finlay Memorial Trophy was presented to the Quincy Yacht Club in 1948 by Albert W. Finlay, his father, for competition during Race Week.

This beautiful trophy presented in loving memory of a son who during his lifetime did much to advance the sport of yachting on Massachusetts Bay is awarded to the yacht or yachtsman considered to have made the most outstanding record or to have performed some single act of sportsmanship during Race Week.

It is to be suitably engraved annually and will remain in the custody of the Quincy Yacht Club. A suitably engraved keeper trophy will be awarded to the winner for his permanent possession.

The Reynolds Memorial Trophy is a perpetual trophy presented to the QBRWA in 1966 by the family of John Reynolds, an ardent supporter of and skipper in the Day Sailor Class until his untimely death in 1965.

This beautiful trophy is to be awarded annually to the Race Week winner in the Day Sailor Class and is to be held by him until Race Week of the following year when it is to be returned to the association.

A suitably engraved keeper trophy is to be awarded to the winner for his permanent possession.

The 1300 Trophy has been presented each year since 1960 to the QBRWA by Radio Station WJDA to demonstrate its great and cooperative interest in Race Week and to aid in the stimulation of racing interest among the junior classes.

This beautiful trophy is awarded annually to the winning skipper in the Turnabout Class and becomes his permanent possession.

The Commodore Isadore Bromfield Trophy was presented last year to the QBRWA by the Commonwealth National Bank of Boston. This trophy will be awarded annually to the Race Week winner according to the deed of gift. The winner is to be presented a suitably engraved trophy for his permanent possession.

The Morley Memorial Trophy is a perpetual trophy donated in memory of Robert Morley, a member of Town River Yacht Club and an able Snipe skipper. The trophy will be awarded to the winning skipper in the Snipe Class.

It is to be held by the winner until Race Week of the following year and is to be returned to the association. A suitably engraved keeper trophy will be awarded to the winner for his permanent possession.

The Howard Gannett Trophy has been presented each year since 1954 in memory of Howard Gannett, who served for more than 50 years as secretary of the Race Week Committee and was a member of the committee from 1939 until his death in 1953. It is presented to the Race Week winner in a class to be selected by the committee.

The Quincy Heritage Trophy was first presented two years ago for the best decorated boat in the Marine Parade.

Details of the Harry Warner Memorial Trophy, the City of Boston Bermuda Cup and the two Frank E. Remick trophies can be found elsewhere on these pages.

Last year's winners were Albert Woodman, Finley and Hunt trophies; Henry Welch, Reynolds trophy; John Duplin, 1300 Trophy; Richard Partridge Jr., Bromfield Trophy; Dr. Keith Merrill, Warner Trophy; Joseph Petrucci, Morley Trophy; John Dolbec, Gannett Trophy, and Jerry Connors, Heritage Trophy.

Milton's Mangeroni 'No-Hits' Morrisette, 3-0

Morrisette Legion's baseball team was the victim of a brilliantly-pitched no-hit, no-run game Monday as it dropped a 3-0 decision to Milton, but thanks to Holbrook upsetting Weymouth and Hingham, Morrisette continues to hold a two-game lead in Zone 6.

The loss dropped Morrisette to 9-3.

Quincy was awarded a forfeit win at Dedham when the home team was unable to field a full team.

Friday, Morrisette hosts Holbrook at 8 at Adams Field, and Wollaston plays at Hingham at 6. Saturday, Quincy meets Scituate at 8 at Adams, Monday it will be Hingham at Morrisette, 8, Adams; Quincy at Milton and Wollaston at Weymouth at 6, Tuesday Wollaston hosts Morrisette at 8 at Adams and Wednesday Quincy is home to Randolph at 8 at Adams.

Milton's Pete Mangeroni pitched the game of the year in Zone 6 Monday, as he allowed just one base runner, Dave Perdios, who walked in the second. He struck out nine and Morrisette didn't hit a ball out of the infield.

Ron Donovan pitched creditably for Morrisette, but Milton exploded for four of its eight hits and all three runs in the fifth. Donovan struck out four and walked two.

Morrisette traveled to Lawrence last week and upset Lawrence's unbeaten (10-0) Zone 8 leader, 3-0, as two of Morrisette's younger pitchers, Dave Austin and Ray Coscia, combined for an excellent effort. Morrisette had also defeated Lawrence in a game before the regular season started.

Sixteen-year-old Gary Earle pitched his third successive outstanding game as Morrisette walloped Canton, 10-3, with one of its best all-around performances.

Earle, hiking his record to 3-1, pitched six-hit ball before John Wilkinson finished up with 1½ innings of perfect relief.

Mike McCormick, Chuck LoPresti and Pete Niosi had two hits each, Dave Perdios had a triple and Steve Cook a double.

Quincy dropped a 6-4 decision to Hingham, which scored the two winning runs in the ninth inning, the second extra inning. Hingham had scored a run in the seventh to tie the score.

Dave Rafferty was the losing pitcher, while Art Davis and Kurt O'Sullivan each saw action.

For Quincy, Mike Murphy had two hits and Lew Fishman, O'Sullivan, Billy Deitsch, Dan O'Leary and Brian Jolley had one apiece.

Earlier, Morrisette had to settle for a 6-6 tie at Randolph when the home team scored twice in the sixth to tie it up. The game will be replayed if it has a bearing on the final standings.

Morrisette scored five runs in the fourth to overcome an early 3-0 deficit.

Donovan was the starring pitcher and did a fine job, but was the victim of sloppy support. Mark Giordani came on in the sixth and cleaned up effectively.

Heads-up play by Morrisette saved the game in the sixth when right fielder Steve Hale threw to shortstop Capt. Dave Perdios to nip a Randolph runner who had taken too much of a turn at second and then Giordani caught a runner off first base to end the inning.

Dave Perdios had two hits and Dave King, Hale and Donovan one each.

Quincy defeated Wollaston, 5-2, behind Fishman's four-hit pitching. Bob Stack was the loser despite a five-hitter.

O'Sullivan had three hits and drove in three runs for Quincy, while Matt Higgins and Dave McLaughlin had the other hits. For Wollaston, John Andrews had two hits and Sanadanto and Stack had one each.

● AAA League

Pirates, Indians Continue Hot

The Pirates are still making a runaway of the National League race with a 13-2 record and the Indians lead the American League with a 11-3 mark in Quincy's Triple A Baseball League.

The Yankees walloped the Dodgers, 14-2, with Bobby McCabe the winning pitcher. He had six strikeouts. He also hit an inside-the-park home run. Bob O'Brien had a phenomenal game with three triples and a double. Charles Duffy, Billy Schumacher, Tom Schofield and Frank Maloney had doubles. For the Dodgers Tom Benson had a triple and Ed O'Reilly had a double.

The Yankees also topped the White Sox, 3-1, with Schumacher the winner. O'Brien drove in all three runs and Schumacher had a double. Paul Egan had a triple and drove home the only White Sox run.

The Mets clobbered the Dodgers, 13-5, with Gary Keane the winning pitcher. He had 10 strikeouts. Jimmy McSweeney had a double and three singles and Dennis Downing hit an inside-the-park homer. David Hickey was two for two. Benson had a double and drove in two runs for the Dodgers.

The Tigers defeated the Yankees, 7-4, with Steve Grazioso, Anthony Befera and Howas each having a double. Karen O'Reilly had a triple and Schumacher, Schofield and Charles Duffy had doubles for the Yankees.

The Braves overwhelmed the Mets, 13-0, with Timmy Ryan, the winning pitcher, striking out 10 and aiding his own cause with a double and single and three runs scored. Billy Mayo had a three-run homer and Steve Koski, Paul McMillan had doubles. Jay Petrillo had a triple and a double for the Mets.

The Braves romped over the Dodgers, 13-3, with Ryan the winner again with 14 strikeouts, a triple and single himself and three runs scored. Steve McDonald tripled and scored a run and Larry Costello, Peter McCarron, Debbie Mosher and John Palmer each doubled and scored a run. Benson tripled and doubled and scored a run and Ward singled and scored twice for the Dodgers.

An all-star game will be played July 31 at 2 p.m. at Artery Field between the 12-year olds from the Triple A League and the 12-year olds from the Junior League.

● Junior League

Keohane's, HN Continue Hot Pace

Keohane's and Houghs Neck Legion continue to set a fast pace in the Quincy Junior League, with Keohane's leading the National League with a 17-3 record and Houghs Neck pacing the American League with a 16-4 mark.

HN defeated the Elks, 6-2, with Marty McLaughlin pitching a no-hitter and striking out 16. Jim McPartland had two hits and Mike Notorangelo, Glen Oriola, Dick Comeau and Steve White one each. One of White's was a double.

HN then topped Remick's, 7-0, with McLaughlin the winner, striking out 12. Kevin White and McPartland had two hits each including a double and Oriola and McLaughlin one each.

Oriola was the winning pitcher in a 7-4 win over Burgin Platner. Mark Righini had a double and homer, McLaughlin two doubles and a homer, Kevin White a double and Oriola and Comeau a single each.

McLaughlin won another, 5-2, over Sears, as Kevin White and Phelan had key hits. McLaughlin continued his strong hitting with two doubles.

Keohane's blanked Boston Gear, 6-0, as John Balzano pitched no-hit ball over four innings after Dennis Cronin had pitched the first two. Balzano struck out seven to bring his total to 80. Charlie and Jimmy Jaehnic had key hits. Balzano was three for three and Peter Lynch, Billy O'Brien and Danny Baker also hit well.

Balzano won his eighth game in a 6-1 win over Remick's as he pitched three-hit ball and struck out 12 more. Balzano also drove in four runs with a long homer and a double. Jimmy Jaehnic had an RBI single and O'Brien, Corliss and Scibilio also had hits.

Balzano won another and added 11 strikeouts in a 5-4 win over Houghs Neck, avenging his only loss in 10 decisions. Jimmy Jaehnic had a three-run homer, his fourth of the year; and Balzano and Danny Baker had RBI singles. Balzano, with his 103 strikeouts, is averaging more than 10 a game. Billy O'Brien caught a fine game.

Burgin Platner handed Keohane's its third loss in a 17-16 slugfest in which Keohane's battled back from a big 15-4 deficit. It scored eight runs in the fifth to make it 15-13, and in the sixth Balzano hit a three-run homer to put his team ahead, 16-15. However, Mike Cullen's two-run homer in the bottom of the sixth won it for Burgin. Charlie Jaehnic, Cronin and Scibilio pitched for Keohane's with Scibilio, despite a fine effort, the loser. Cullen, Mike Cristiani and Mulloy pitched for Burgin with Mulloy, pitching to just one batter, getting the win.

Elks Pace A.L., Police Hold N.L. Lead

The Elks lead the Quincy Babe Ruth League's American League with a 13-5 record and the Police Club holds a one-point edge over Granite City Electric in the National, the Police with an 11-6-1 mark and Granite City with an 11-6-0 record.

Steve Healy made his first pitching start a good one as the Elks bombed the Sons of Italy, 10-1. Healy pitched a five-hitter and was afforded outstanding support. Bob Dubois made several fine plays at shortstop and Ed Overby started a fast double play at second. Bill O'Malley had three hits and also threw out a runner at first base on a liner to center field. Bill Foley had three hits and Terry Hogan had a long homer. For S. of I. Bob Hayes had two hits and played a strong game behind the plate.

Granite City topped Houghs Neck, 6-4, with Sean Murphy the winning pitcher. He allowed four hits and was relieved by Steve White who struck out five of the six batters he faced. Mike Scurti had a home run, triple and single and drove in four runs.

Granite City topped Local 1139,

3-1, paced by Bob McCormack's pitching and the hitting of Crifo, Scurti and Tony Camillo.

Granite City also walked Sons of Italy, 10-1, with Murphy the winner, striking out seven. McCormack went four for four including a triple, Scurti had a triple and single, Crifo had two hits and Murphy, Mike Stranberg, Camillo and White a hit apiece.

Local 1139 breezed past Golden Print, 12-0, with an eight run third inning and six-hit pitching by Richie Hallberg, who hiked his record to 5-1. He failed to walk a man. Anthony Twohig sparked the attack with three for three, Mark Millane, Kevin Howlett, Bob Howlett and Hallberg had two hits apiece and Paul O'Toole, Bill Cooke and Jim Venezia had one each. For Golden, Al Singh had two hits. Scott Lowell made the fielding play of the game for Golden when he grabbed a line drive over second base with the bases full and doubled the runner off third.

The Elks topped the Police Club, 13-3, as Bill Foley won his eighth straight game with a strong three-hitter. He had 10 strikeouts. Fred Palmer and Foley had perfect nights with two hits and three walks apiece. Mike Crowley had three hits, Bob Dubois had two, Dean Zoia hit a long triple and Terry Hogan and Tom Heffernan had a hit each. For Police, DiNardo, Sullivan and Costigan had the hits.

Quincy Eliminated In Babe Ruth Tourney

Both Quincy Babe Ruth All-Star teams were eliminated last weekend from the District 4 Tournament at Adams Field.

The National League team, which had dropped its opener two weeks ago, then bounced back to win and stay in the double elimination running, won twice last weekend before being ousted.

In its first game, Quincy blanked Avon, 8-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Steve White. Quincy scored three runs in the first as Bill O'Connell doubled, Bob Howlett singled, Bob Biagini reached on a two-base error and Kevin McKinnon singled.

McKinnon drove in a run in the third with a triple and in the fourth White singled, stole second and scored on Bob Craig's single. Andy Carrera and Bob Hayes walked in the sixth and both scored on Paul O'Toole's double.

The Nationals followed up with a 16-0 bombing of Hingham as O'Toole pitched a one-hitter and struck out 10. Hingham was hitless until the sixth when Bob Magner collected the only hit. Quincy backed up O'Toole's masterpiece with a 22-hit attack.

Bob Howlett had two doubles and a single, Hayes a triple and single, McKinnon a double and single, Biagini a triple and two singles, O'Toole a triple and two singles, Bill O'Connell and Mark Millane two hits each and Craig, Bob McCormack, White, Carrera and Joe Crifo a hit apiece.

Quincy was eliminated by Weymouth South, 2-1, in a well-played game which saw Weymouth's Mark Sanasuosso and Quincy's McCormack and White (pitching the last two innings) give up only two hits.

Hayes singled in the third, stole second, was driven in by Craig for Quincy's run. O'Toole had the only other Quincy hit. Weymouth scored in the third and won it in the sixth.

Skate-A-Thon Aug. 5 To Benefit Muscular Dystrophy

Quincy Youth Arena and Quincy Youth Hockey are sponsoring a Skate-A-Thon to combat Muscular Dystrophy Friday, Aug. 5, from 7 p.m. to midnight.

The Skate-A-Thon is open to everyone. Information sheets and sponsor sheets are now being mailed out to Quincy Youth Hockey members.

Additional sponsor sheets may be obtained from the arena or at the Quincy Sun office.

The top three fund raisers from Quincy Youth Hockey will appear on television on the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy telethon over the Labor Day weekend to represent Quincy Youth Hockey.

Prizes will be given during the Skate-a-thon, and a "Thank-You" party will be held at the Arena for those participating on Aug. 26.

Committee members for the Skate-a-thon include Dorothy Engrasia, Marge Fitzpatrick, Beverly Reinhardt and the Quincy Youth Arena Board of Directors.

MBTA Design Change To Eliminate Independence Ave. Connection

The MBTA has agreed to make immediate changes in the design of the proposed South Quincy Station garage to eliminate any vehicle and pedestrian connection between the upper level of the garage and Independence Ave.

Rep. James A. Sheets
[D-Quincy] said the change in plan was the result of a recent meeting at the Adams School, South Quincy, during which some 200 area residents made it plain that they did not want any connection whatsoever.

The meeting, which was called by Mayor LaRaia, was attended by a number of local officials, plus the Mayor's Task Force on the station, MBTA Project Manager Jack Leary and station designer H. W. Moore.

Moore, noting that residents of the area who are on foot would have to walk several miles to get to the station, predicted that they might regret the decision.

"It's very unfortunate that the people saw fit to deny themselves an important benefit to the neighborhood," he said.

Nevertheless, Leary promised that the MBTA would abide by the residents' decision and, to make sure, Sen. Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy] filed the next day legislation that would prevent any connection between Independence Ave. and the station.

Sheets praised the residents of South Quincy for showing up in such large numbers on a hot summer night, adding "it was their show of concern that made the MBTA move so quickly in accepting the design changes."

5,000 Workers In Dispute

Long Shipyard Strike Feared

For the second time in three years, members of Shipbuilding Workers Union Local 5 marched on a picket line at General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard this week amid indications the current strike might rival the 17-week work stoppage in 1974.

The strike of some 5,000 workers began at 12:01 a.m. Monday and 26 persons were arrested on the first day after clashes between police and pickets despite efforts by union officials to keep picketing "low key; no one wants any violence."

Two Quincy policemen, Sgt. Adam Zannoni and Patrolman John Garafolo, were injured in the scuffle and treated at Quincy City Hospital.

There were accusations that the violence was encouraged, if not started, by groups identified as the Progressive Labor Party, the Committee Against Racism and simply "Communists," many of them not picketing at the Yard.

Early demonstrations at the main gate on East Howard St. were labelled "mass picketing" by Atty. Francis X. McDonough of the National Labor Relations Board and the number of pickets was reduced to no more than 30 at each of five gates.

Where, on the first day, even a doctor had to struggle through the line with police aid to treat an ailing supervisor, on the second day, non-strikers entered the plant unmolested except for catcalls and name-calling.

The big issue in the strike is essentially the same as that THIN LINE of pickets patrol the East Howard St. main gate at General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard after the National Labor Relations Board ordered an end to mass picketing in the strike of shipyard workers that began Sunday at midnight.

which provoked the 1974 work stoppage.

"We are shooting for wage parity with all East Coast shipyards," said Stanley H. Kyller, president of Local 5. "We're still trying to play catch-up with them."

"When General Dynamics bought the shipyard in 1966, management told us, 'Give us time to get established. We'll make up to you later.' Later is now."

The current wage rate for a first class mechanic at the yard is $5.67 an hour.

Comparable workers at the Bethlehem Steel Corp. Shipyard in East Boston receive $6.57 an hour now with a 45-cent an hour raise due Aug. 14.

Alex Piranian, spokesman for General Dynamics at the Yard, said Bethlehem is not regarded as a competitive shipyard.

The company has offered a three-year contract with step raises that would boost pay scales to $6.57 an hour immediately and reach $7.67 an hour in January, 1980.

Local 5 is reportedly asking $7.17 an hour right now, $8.02 an hour in July, 1978, and $8.67 an hour in July, 1979.

The General Dynamics offer was voted down by some 4,000 members of the union at a meeting Sunday at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Kyller called the vote "unanimous" but there were scattered reports of dissension in the local.

8 Named To Special Committee To Study Adams Birthplaces Future

City Councillor Paul D. Harold has announced the names of eight persons who will make up a special City Council committee to study the future of the Adams Birthplaces in South Quincy.

The committee, which will be chaired by Councillors Harold and Warren A. Powers, will study long-term solutions for maintenance, including the feasibility of petitioning the National Park Service to take over the buildings.

Named to the committee were:

William O'Connell, president of the Quincy Historical Society; John R. Herbert, president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank; Charles Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank and the South Shore Chamber of Commerce; Rev. Donald Irvin, president of Eastern Nazarene College; Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun; Richard Carlisle, news editor of The Patriot Ledger; Mildred Harrison of Wollaston and Norma Gacica of South Quincy.

The committee is scheduled to hold its first meeting within two weeks.

The committee, actually a subcommittee of the Council's Library and Historic Places Committee, received the approval of Council President Arthur H. Tobin as the best approach to the problem involving the most people. The committee will report to the Council and the Mayor.

Teresa Jean McElaney's Reaction

Winning Miss Quincy Bay Title A 'Total Shock'

By SARAH RICHARDS

"It was like an explosion in my head. That's the only way I can describe it. Total shock!"

That's how Teresa Jean McElaney, 17, of Gibbens St., Weymouth, describes her immediate reaction when she heard her name being announced as Miss Quincy Bay of 1977 at the beauty pageant held in downtown Quincy Friday night.

The pretty, medium-tall brunette, who "really didn't even want to win - much less expect to!" has now, gotten used to the idea. "I'm so excited, and happy, and, well, proud. I've calmed down a lot from then, but I'm still excited."

Miss McElaney was chosen as Miss Quincy Bay from a field of 17 contestants by a panel of five judges. Each contestant was judged in evening gown and swimsuit competition and for beauty and poise.

Miss McElaney wore a one-piece white bathing suit and a yellow halter-style evening gown for the competitions. "The bathing suit part was the worst."

We each had to walk out with an escort - my escort was [Edward] Skip McAndrews, commodore of the Wessagusset Yacht Club - and then walk out alone, and then we all had to walk out together and turn around.

"I was so nervous the whole time. When they announced the five finalists, I was even more nervous, and I didn't know what to do! They asked each of us a question. I was third, I think, and they asked me where I would travel if I could go anywhere I wanted to. I said the United States because I think it's the greatest country."

"Then when they announced I was the winner, I didn't know what to do! I had to ask Mary [Mary Pickering, Miss Quincy Bay of 1976 who crowned Teresa] what to do."

Teresa entered the beauty pageant only because "a friend, Adrienne Smith [also a competitor] wanted me to do it with her. I couldn't do it last year, so I told her I'd do it this year. This year came up awful quick!"

As the new queen, she had the honor of reigning over Quincy Bay Race Week, which opened last Saturday. "I'm excited about that too. I'll meet a lot of people, and it'll be fun!"

Teresa does not, however, plan on fading from sight after race week is over. "I'll probably do a few more events throughout the year. Mary Pickering's got me working on her Muscular Dystrophy Dance Marathon; she says I'd better get 10 couples or else..."

Teresa's sister Judy, 19, was also a contestant in the pageant, also having been "persuaded by Adrienne." "She's so happy I won - she's telling everyone. The rest of my family was pretty excited too. Dad was taking movie pictures of me when I came through the door."

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert McElaney, Teresa is a graduate of Weymouth South High School. She will be attending Northeastern University next fall, where she plans to major in Political Science for a career in government or law.

TERESA McELANEY, 17, of Weymouth walks triumphantly along runway after being crowned Miss Quincy Bay of 1977 at downtown Quincy pageant.

Quincy Fire Prevention Bureau Hosts State Meeting

The Quincy Fire Department's Fire Prevention Bureau recently hosted the July meeting of the Massachusetts Fire Prevention Association, at John's Constitution, Quincy.

Guest speaker was Judge E. J. Daher, Chief Justice of the Boston Housing Court. State Police Detective Lt. Joseph McDonnell spoke on the importance of the work that the association is doing in the field of fire prevention. Fire Chief Edward F. Barry represented Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and brought greetings of the city and the Quincy Fire Department.

Fire Lt. Robert J. Kelley was host and master of ceremonies at this meeting.

ALCOHOLISM AND INSURANCE

There are an estimated nine million alcoholics in the U.S. The U.S. Department of Health ranks it as the fourth most serious public health problem [following heart, cancer and mental illness]. Business and industry lose around two billion dollars every year because of absenteeism and lower productivity and accidents attributable to alcoholism.

Most insurance companies now make available to alcoholics who have been placed under medical supervision, disability insurance which will cover them during periods they are unable to work.

A survey of 17 major insurance companies - writing group disability income insurance in the United States found that all of them will cover loss of income resulting from alcoholism.

Benefits will not begin until the alcoholic has agreed to undergo treatment to overcome the problem. Once benefits start they continue as long as the insured has treatment.

Kenneth Fallon, Donald Deware Attend UCT Convention

Kenneth P. Fallon Jr., of Quincy and Donald M. Deware of Hingham, of the Deware Brothers Funeral Home, Wollaston, last week attended the 90th international convention of The Order of United Commercial Travelers of America in Hot Springs, Arkansas.

Fallon is a Past International President of the organization.

The men were accompanied to the four-day convention by their wives.

The convention's purpose was to review UCT's performance and lay groundwork for future activities.

The UCT is a fraternal benefit service society, organized to provide civic service through programs such as aid to the mentally retarded, safety, cancer research, cancer education, and youth enrichment.

The organization's top priority civic program since 1959 has been "Aid to Retarded Citizens". It has helped by awarding scholarships to students interested in becoming special education teachers, by developing programs for the mentally retarded, and by helping train the retarded to be useful and often self-supporting citizens.

Legal Secretaries Planning Membership Drives

The Norfolk County Legal Secretaries Association is planning a membership drive throughout the county beginning this fall.

At a recent meeting of the membership committee of the NCLSA, composed of Mrs. Glenys Connors, PLS, of Weymouth, Vice President and Membership Chairman of the NCLSA; Miss Marie O'Neill, PLS, of Dedham, President of the Association; Mrs. Helene Tracey of Hingham; and Mrs. Audrey Watts of Weymouth, plans for the membership drive were formulated.

Part of the discussion included the possibility of holding some of the association's meetings near the fringe areas of the county, rather than holding them all in the central towns of Quincy and Dedham, in order to make them more accessible to potential members from other areas.

The Norfolk County LSA is a non-profit, non-partisan, non-sectarian, and non-union organization for all people whose profession is of a legal nature. The Association's purpose is to enable members to exchange ideas, to further a legal secretary's knowledge of the law, and to stimulate high business and professional attainment among members while creating a high standard of ethics.

Lawyers; legal secretaries; employees in government offices; stenographers; employees in public or private institutions professionally engaged in legal work; typists and clerks in law offices; court employees; and employees in trust companies or in trust departments of banks are eligible for membership in the LSA.

Anyone interested in receiving a notice of the November meeting of the NCLSA to be held in the Brookline-Needham-Wellesley area, or in receiving membership information, should contact Mrs. Glenys Connors, PLS, c/o Oscar Toye, Esquire, 15 Court Square, Boston [227-1186].

Pamela Henry Receives Scholarship

Pamela C. Henry of 84 Elliot Ave., North Quincy, has received a scholarship from the Quincy Kiwanis Club for academic excellence and service to her community.

She graduated second in her class of 459 from North Quincy High in June and will continue her education at Northeastern University in Medical Laboratory Science.

Public Education Program On Alcoholism July 26

A public education program about alcoholism, its effects on mental and physical well-being, and services available for alcoholics and their families in the South Shore area will be held July 26 at 7:30 p.m. at Tobin Towers, 80 Clay St., Wollaston.

The program will be held by the South Metro Health Council, the local unit of the Health Planning Council for Greater Boston.

Rosemary Wahlberg of Quincy, chairman of the Metro Health Council, said all area residents are encouraged to participate in the session.

Six guest panelists will make presentations and be available for questions from the audience. Panelists include William Spinks of the South Shore Council on Alcoholism; Tom Healy from the Quincy Detox Center; Jack Hanrock of the South Shore Alcoholism Clinic; a representative of the South Shore Halfway House; and a nurse nutritionist.

The emphasis of the program will be on warning signs and on the programs available in this area to assist persons of all ages who are alcoholic or who have an alcoholic family member.

The program is part of the South Metro Health Council's continuing education program which seeks to broaden public awareness of issues affecting the delivery of health care.

For further details concerning the program, call Madeline Hill at the Health Planning Council's office at 787-5800.

Finnish Pastor Guest Preacher At Faith Lutheran

The Rev. Matti Makela, a pastor from Finland, who is studying at Boston University, will be the guest preacher at the 9 a.m. service Sunday [July 24] at Faith Lutheran Church.

The Rev. Harry S. Carlson, former interim pastor at Salem Lutheran Church prior to its merger with Trinity Lutheran to form Faith Lutheran, will be the guest preacher July 31.

The church's own pastor, the Rev. James L. Kimmell, is on vacation.

The 11 a.m. service is being omitted during the summer months.

John Finnell In Army Program

Specialist Four John R. Finnell Sr. of North Quincy, and other members of the 101st Airborne Division, Ft. Campbell, Ky., recently participated in an annual Army Training and Evaluation Program (ARTEP) at Ft. Knox, Ky.

The ARTEP is designed to test individual and unit efficiency simulated combat conditions.

Finnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Finnell of 46 Kendall St., North Quincy, is regularly assigned as a rifleman with the division at Ft. Campbell, Ky. He entered the Army in August 1975.

Finnell is a 1973 graduate of North Quincy High School. His wife, Dianne, is living in Clarksville, Tenn.

George H. Bonsall, 82, Retired Bank President, Former City Auditor

Funeral services were held Monday at United First Parish Church for George H. Bonsall, retired president of the Quincy Savings Bank whose public service included a term as City Auditor. He died July 15 at Quincy City Hospital at age 82.

"In the last 50 years, no man had contributed more to the social, economic and business institutions of Quincy than George Bonsall," said William O'Connell, president of the Quincy Historical Society and his longtime friend.

Mr. Bonsall was Quincy's first purchasing agent and city auditor from 1933 to 1937. He was chairman of the Quincy Retirement Board from 1937 to 1965. Other civic associations included:

The Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the Quincy City Hospital, the Boy Scouts, the United Fund, the First Parish Church, the Neighborhood Club, the American Legion, Rotary Club and the Mayflower Society.

A native of Keyport, N.J., and a graduate of Princeton and Harvard's School of Business Administration, Bonsall served with the U.S. Shipping Board in World War I before coming to Quincy in 1920 with the Bethlehem Steel Co.

Later he was president and chairman of the board of the Quincy Savings Bank.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Grace [Miller] Bonsall, three children, Mrs. Mary Ellen Seelye of Westport, Robert Bonsall of Wilbraham, and George Bonsall of Houston, Texas; nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Contributions in his memory may be made to the Memorial Fund of the United First Parish Church or to a charity of the contributor's choice.

Appeal Filed With DCA For Harborview Residents Committee

Greater Boston Legal Services, Inc. has filed an administrative appeal with the Commonwealth's Department of Community Affairs, in connection with a long-standing Quincy Public Housing controversy.

The appeal was filed by Atty. Albert W. Wallis on behalf of the Harborview Residents' Committee, Inc., a Quincy public housing tenants' organization.

The appeal is based upon DCA regulations requiring local housing authorities to provide recognized tenant organizations such as the Residents' Committee with reasonable space so that they may fulfill their responsibilities to represent and assist the public housing community, and upon an agreement signed between the Quincy Housing Authority and the Residents' Committee in 1973 which defines such space in Quincy as being the Germantown Service Center at 9 Bicknell St.

The agreement also calls for a lease for the Center to be negotiated in good faith between the QHA and the Residents' Committee and then approved by DCA.

The appeal alleges that the QHA has failed to negotiate such a lease in good faith and that the QHA has sought to impose a non-negotiated lease which has not been approved by DCA. The appeal also alleges that the QHA has illegally interfered with the space allocated to the Residents' Committee, and that the QHA has been engaging in secret communications with DCA and others concerning the Germantown Service Center without informing the Residents' Committee as state law requires.

The administrative appeal follows the filing of a lawsuit last week by the Residents' Committee. That suit, presently pending in Norfolk Superior Court, seeks to overturn a decision by the City Board of Appeals that a zoning variance for the Germantown Service Center would be denied.

The reason given by the Board for its denial was that the Residents' Committee had not signed a lease with the Quincy Housing Authority in a form desired by the Board of Appeals.

Raymondi Asks State DPW

Recheck South Quincy Traffic

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi has requested Joseph Donovan of the State Department of Public Works to recheck the commercial vehicle traffic counts on Hughes, Lorton and Pembroke Sts., South Quincy.

Raymondi said it has been brought to his attention that a large trucking firm in the area may have been warned of the original traffic count, thereby preventing the state from getting an accurate picture of traffic conditions on these roads.

Raymondi indicated that the residents have waited patiently for a long time for a proposal to restrict commercial vehicles to be accepted by the Quincy Traffic Commission, the City Council and the Mayor. It also has the support of the Quincy legislative delegation, he said.

"Parents have continuously expressed concern for the safety of children playing on these streets which are being used by large moving vans," said Raymondi.

"Residents also have indicated that these trucks have continued to block driveways and the proper passage of the streets. They feel that they should no longer be subjected to this abuse.

"The proposal is indeed important to residents of the neighborhood who are fighting to preserve the neighborhood quality and safety of their children."

Lt. Robert Kelley Invited To Present Paper On Burn Program

Fire Lt. Robert J. Kelley of the Quincy Fire Prevention Bureau was invited to present a paper on the fire and burn prevention programs which he has conducted in Quincy at a recent symposium held in Washington, D.C.

Lt. Kelley was one of 18 invitees from across the country who were asked to participate in this symposium.

The symposium was sponsored by the National Burn Council, the National Fire Prevention and Control

Administration, and the International Association of Fire Fighters.

In October, 1977, Quincy will become the pilot city for a burn prevention program which will eventually involve the entire country.

Lt. Kelley is an honors graduate of Massasoit Community College with an Associate Degree in Fire Science. He is also on the faculty at Massasoit Community College and Bristol Community College in Fall River.

Vo-Tech Students Construct Lifeguard Stands For Wollaston Beach

The three new lifeguard stands at Wollaston Beach, constructed by the Quincy Vocational Technical School, have earned the school praise from Rep. Michael Morrissey.

The chairs, designed by the School Department and constructed by the Piping Department of the Vocational School, are a "pilot program" for the MDC. If the stands, specially designed to be moved up or down the beach with the tide, work out, the MDC will place chairs all along Wollaston Beach.

Robert Freedman, Deputy Commissioner of Parks for the MDC, said he will have his staff contact other vocational schools in MDC communities about getting involved in making the chairs if it proves successful at Wollaston.

The stands were the result of a suggestion made by Morrissey to the School Department and the MDC. The MDC supplied the stock, and the Vocational School provided the know-how and labor.

"The chairs will provide increased visibility, as well as an accountability of MDC guards," Morrissey said.

South Braintree MBTA To Create 1,500 Jobs

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis broke ground for the new South Braintree MBTA Station last week with words of high praise for a project "that creates jobs, gets cars off the road, saves energy and cleans the air" in Braintree and Quincy.

The groundbreaking, near the junction of Union St. and Route 3, marks the start of construction of the South Braintree station and the 3.2 miles of track that will link it to the Quincy Center Station by the Fall of 1979.

Gov. Dukakis called the Red Line extension "the major hope for commuters from the South Shore to be able to get out of their cars and into good, comfortable transit."

"This project will not only create about 1,500 direct construction jobs over the next two years in Braintree and Quincy but completion of the station will permit the Department of Public Works to start its $80 million program to improve the Southeast Expressway.

"Between the more than $90 million in the transit project and the $80 million of the Southeast Expressway project, today's groundbreaking represents the start of a $170 million program over the next five-to-seven years which will mean thousands more jobs in Massachusetts.

"One of the things we in Massachusetts take for granted is public transit. But Boston is one of only six cities in the nation with the convenience of a rapid transit system like the Red, Orange and Blue lines.

"In the Braintree complex, motorists will be able to leave the Expressway and drive up a ramp into the station's 1,200-car parking garage.

"Getting those 1,200 cars off the rush-hour roads is going to save a lot of energy and make the air cleaner and it's going to be a lot easier on the nerves of the 5,300 commuters who are expected to be using the station by 1980."

South-West Community Center Preparing Newsletter

Fran Ballem of the staff of the South-West Community Center, 372 Granite St., is preparing the Center's monthly newsletter, "The Quarry Quotes", for distribution to the community.

Other events on the program next week at the Center include:

Monday - Credit union hours are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Anyone living or working in the South-West area is eligible to join the union which paid a 6 per cent dividend this year from January to July. Rosemarie Hanley of Greater Boston Legal Services will be available for assistance with welfare or veterans benefits from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Terry Epstein, also of GBLIS, will assist with Social Security information. Knitting classes for women, under the direction of Jan Daley, will be held from 12:30 p.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday - Jan Daley will hold children's knitting classes from 12:30 p.m. to 3 p.m. All girls who live in the area are eligible.

Wednesday - Housing Advocate Michael Cochrane will be available to assist with tenant-landlord problems, including code enforcement, written and oral leases, security deposits, summary writ processes and taxes. He will also answer questions about public housing programs in the area. Marion Rowe will provide assistance with other social services. Mary Mercier will conduct a mothers' discussion group at 7:30 p.m.

Thursday - Koffee Klatch for women of the area from 10 a.m. to 12 noon under the direction of Cora Zimmerman. Diane Corvello will conduct a story hour for children during the Koffee Klatch. Credit union hours, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Friday - The normal information, referral and advocacy services are available in special education, social services, housing and consumer problems. Also available is information on camperships, energy, winterization and family planning.

The Mayor And The Depositions

Last week we editorially spoke out on that Boston, North End newspaper twisting the truth in its vicious attacks on those who dare oppose or criticize Quincy Mayor Joseph LaRaia.

Our quarrel since the articles started six months ago has been with [1] their lop-sidedness in Mayor LaRaia's favor [2] the innuendos, the wild accusations, the tramping on facts, etc., in an obvious attempt to mow down the mayor's critics and [3] not giving them a fair chance to present their side.

As we have responded from time to time since the articles started last January, Mayor LaRaia has been caught in the editorial cross-fire.

But now we would like to respond directly to Mayor LaRaia's comments regarding The Quincy Sun and his reaction to the depositions being taken by attorneys for Senator-City Council President Arthur Tobin.

The North End newspaper has filed a $7.5 million slander suit against Tobin for remarks made about that newspaper at a meeting of the Quincy Taxpayers Association.

The depositions are being taken to prepare Tobin's defense when the case comes to trial.

Depositions have been taken from several persons including present and former members of the mayor's staff and a writer for the North End newspaper.

Last week, the mayor refused to give a deposition himself and attempted to place a restraining order on all depositions in the case and their contents until after the city elections.

The mayor's lawyer contended the contents of the depositions were being leaked for political purposes. He cited last week's Sunbeams column.

He claimed statements from the depositions appear in The Sun "out of context" and that Tobin is "obviously using these depositions for the purpose of publicity."

Judge Joseph Ford in Suffolk Superior Court denied Mayor LaRaia's motion. This means the contents of the depositions may be made public once they are filed in court.

The mayor, as a result of Judge Ford's ruling, was forced to give his deposition the following day. And then, who publicly talked about those statements out of context? The mayor himself.

And, he said he expects his statements will be used against him during the mayoral campaign in which Tobin is his chief threat to a second term.

"I'm sure that's one of the prime reasons for the deposition," he is quoted as saying. "They're being taken to be used politically. We already have evidence of that in The Quincy Sun this week."

The mayor is doing a little twisting himself here. The fact is, the depositions taken so far have only confirmed what The Sun has previously reported:

- The mayor himself and his press secretary provided the information to launch the series of one-sided articles in that North End newspaper.

- He and his press secretary went to the newspaper office, gave information to a writer named J. J. Smith whose articles carried the by-line "Joe Alfano".

- There has been other contacts between the mayor and that newspaper as the articles continue.

Our disclosure came BEFORE the depositions -- not after. The mayor says he expects the depositions will be used against him during the campaign.

Question: why worry about that if they show no wrongdoing? How can they hurt him in the campaign if there is nothing in them to hurt him with?

Next question: how about those statements appearing in that Boston, North End newspaper? Is anyone planning to use them in this year's mayoral campaign?

If Mayor LaRaia had been successful in his bid for a restraining order on the depositions he would in effect have "gagged" the local press from now until after the election.

If he had won the court action, The Sun, and The Patriot Ledger which have both been under vicious attack by that North End newspaper, could not have used the deposition statements once they are filed.

But that North End newspaper could continue to run wild attacking anyone that stands in the way of Mayor LaRaia's re-election or criticizes, opposes, or just disagrees with him.

Copies of that newspaper are being distributed in Quincy, some by hand and others in large brown envelopes with 14 cents postage on them.

Somebody is going to considerable bother and expense to get this pro-LaRaia political propaganda into Quincy. Whoever has been mailing them is not admitting it. The envelopes have no return address on them.

We believe the voters of Quincy are entitled to all of the facts -- not just what the North End newspaper would have them believe they are.

The depositions are facts. The voters of Quincy are entitled to know now what they contain -- not after the election. They could shed some light on that North End newspaper's unusual interest in Quincy's politics.

Judge Ford, we believe, made the right decision in ruling against the mayor.

Council Recesses Subject To Call

Mayor's Supplementary Budget Hits Another Snag

By TOM HENSHAW

The City Council's Finance Committee met Tuesday night for another assault on Mayor LaRaia's supplementary budget -- and recessed when it was discovered that the Mayor had not yet signed the ordinance on which the budget is based.

"If the ordinance is not in place we can't put the final tabulation in place," said Councillor John J. Quinn, who is chairman of the Finance Committee. He said the ordinance was sent to the Mayor Friday afternoon.

Quinn recessed the committee subject to the call of the chair, "as soon as we are informed that he has signed it."

The supplementary budget contains money to cover pay raises for union city employees, non-union city employees, and department heads plus some expenses.

The City Council has been reluctant to appropriate money for anything but those raises that called for under union contracts.

Earlier, Shea warned that the city was facing a $16 increase in the tax rate due to "a substantial revenue deficit and an overlay deficit of almost $2 million. These amounts must be levied against this year's tax rate."

An overlay deficit is made up of money set aside to cover tax abatements, he said.

In a letter to department heads explaining the confusion surrounding the supplementary budget, Shea scored the Mayor's offer for refusing to provide a breakdown of its requests for salaries and expenses in each department.

He said that since the department heads "have been ordered by the Mayor's office not to discuss" changes in computation or answer the City Council's questions, the Council would accept the original figures as being correct.

Meanwhile, Miss Saccone, in a letter to the Mayor, pointed out that if department heads did not receive the raises proposed by the Mayor in the supplementary budget, some of them would be earning less money than their union-member assistants.

It would, she said, "surely create a serious problem with the management level personnel morale."

Last Thursday, the Council's Finance Committee approved the $2.6 million portion of the $3.4 million supplementary budget that would pay for labor negotiated contracts to insure that city employees get their money by Aug. 5.

Council members spent much of the meeting's 6½ hours waiting for written replies from Miss Saccone to their written questions, a procedure specified by Mayor LaRaia in a note to Committee Chairman John J. Quinn.

In a written statement to the Committee, Miss Saccone outlined her position on the supplementary budget in part like this:

"The budget has been calculated by me in collaboration with the city labor negotiator. It is an approximate estimate of the amounts necessary for proper funding through June, 1978 based on my professional opinion and experience."

"The City Council has had this supplement since June 20, 1977 and as yet the only action it has taken has been an illegal one. The Council received the supplement in the same manner as is prescribed by finance laws of our state."

"Upon their request I have carried my estimates out into a finer breakdown as was presented to the Finance Committee on July 11. This is a finer breakdown than has ever been submitted for appropriation in the past."

"I have discussed my estimates with the city department heads [except City Auditor] today and they agree with my estimates."

"I have yet to receive from the City Auditor a listing of his estimates that supports his claim of a $500,000 overestimate in the Administration's supplement."

"I feel that I have been as cooperative as I could be in this situation."

"If it is the City Council's wish to have this supplemental budget go on ad finitum and take no action on it that is their decision."

"The administration has done all it can do and even more than has ever been done in the past in order that all city employees raises and benefits may be funded and paid."

Shea told the department heads in his letter that the Council realizes that it has a legal obligation to provide the funds to meet the requirements of negotiated contracts.

"On the other hand," he said, "the Council realizes it has a moral obligation to the taxpayers of this city to have all the facts before voting on any financial order which will affect the tax rate."

"This year it appears that the city will be faced with a substantial revenue deficit and an overlay deficit of almost $2,000,000. These amounts must be levied against this year's tax rate."

"Because of this the City Council feels duty bound not to appropriate one penny more than is absolutely necessary in order to reduce to the greatest extent possible any further impact on the tax rate."

"In order to accomplish the above the City Council has endeavored to obtain a specific, categorized breakdown of the amounts needed by each department for both salaries and expense."

Mayor Loses Court Bid To Restrain Tobin Depositions

Suffolk Superior Court Judge Joseph Ford has denied a motion by Mayor LaRaia to place a restraining order on depositions taken by Council President Arthur H. Tobin, defendant in a slander suit filed by the Post Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Boston's North End.

LaRaia's attorney, Alphonse Query, asked that the depositions, now totalling six, not be made public until after the city elections in the Fall in which Tobin is challenging LaRaia for the Mayor's office.

Citing an editorial in the July 14 issue of The Quincy Sun, Query told the judge that someone was leaking the contents of the depositions for political purposes Judge Ford declined to "make a decision based on political considerations."

The motion for a restraining order was filed at 12:15 p.m. Thursday [July 14] after LaRaia refused to give a deposition for which he was summoned. When the motion was denied, the Mayor was summoned again for 9 a.m. Friday.

John Cavicchi, counsel for the Post Gazette, told Judge Ford that the basis for the newspaper's slander suit was a quote attributed to Tobin in which he said people paid to have stories published in the Post Gazette.

Since January, the Post Gazette has been publishing a series of stories on Quincy city government and politics, all of them casting LaRaia in a favorable light.

Mayor LaRaia, following Judge Ford's ruling, was placed in the unusual position of being forced to give a deposition to a lawyer representing Tobin, his most bitter political foe.

The Mayor's deposition was given to Atty. Fred Halstrom of Boston.

"I'm sure that's one of the prime reasons for the deposition," LaRaia told the Patriot Ledger. "They're being taken to be used politically. We already have evidence of that in the Quincy Sun this week."

LaRaia refused to give the deposition last Thursday morning, filing the motion for a restraining order at 12:15 p.m. the same day. The case was heard by Judge Ford shortly before 3 p.m.

John Cavicchi, counsel for the Post Gazette, told Judge Ford that the basis for the newspaper's slander suit was a quote attributed to Tobin in which he said that one had to pay to have stories published in the Post Gazette.

Since January, the Post Gazette has been publishing a series of stories on Quincy city government and politics, all of them casting LaRaia in a highly favorable light.

LaRaia said in his deposition that he had never even purchased advertising in the Post Gazette.

The average American is reported to eat half a ton of cheese during a lifetime.

Thousands Welcome Gen. MacArthur To Quincy

Thousands lined Hancock St. for a glimpse of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who visited Quincy for about an hour as part of a triumphal national tour that followed his dismissal by President Truman as commander of the United Nations forces in Korea.

The five-star general and his wife spent 25 minutes at the First Parish Church where, escorted by Mayor Thomas S. Burgin and City Historian William C. Edwards, they placed wreaths on the tombs of John and John Quincy Adams and their wives.

"These men engendered liberty and we cannot come here without being recreated by their spirit," said the general.

Security was tight for the controversial MacArthur as all Quincy police officers, some 100 auxiliary policemen and 125 men from the Squantum Naval Air Station turned out under Capt. William Ferruzzi, acting chief in the absence of vacationing Joseph F. Haggas.

Historian Edwards said the MacArthurs surprised him with their knowledge of history.

"Their questions were most indicative of a real knowledge of early American history and a definite interest in the men that helped to formulate the United States government," he said as their 16-vehicle convoy motored off to Milton.

MORRISSETTE SURVIVES

The Morrisette Junior Legion baseball team lost to Connelly Post of Lynn in the opening game, came from behind to tie the next two and then swept two in a row to win the opening round of the State Legion championship playoff.

After absorbing a 13-3 shellacking in the first game, Morrisette earned a 4-4 tie on Jim Hebert's double and a 3-3 standoff on Frank Barone's late inning squeeze bunt before winning 10-4 and 6-2 as Dick DePaulo hit a three-run homer.

The Morrisette lineup included:

SMALLEST DRAFT CALL

Only three Quincy boys were summoned to the colors in the July draft, the smallest quota of the year, but only two left the South Boston Army Base for training camp after one of the draftees flunked his physical.

The inductees were James E. Mulligan from Draft Board 123 and Richard E. Fischer from Draft Board 27.

On hand to see them off were William Campbell, chairman of Draft Board 123, William C. Edwards, chairman of Draft Board 27, and William J. Keefe, a member of Draft Board 123. Edwards presented each draftee a Bible from the Gideon Society.

Tightening Up The Food Stamp Program

Last week I ran down to the convenience food store on my bike to pick up a pound of margarine. The woman in front of me at the cash register line piled six-packs of Coke and Canada Dry on the counter along with bags of potato chips, corn chips, cheese twists, and a couple of cans of cat food. She asked the clerk to slice her a pound of boiled ham, and then proceeded to pay for the whole thing with food stamps.

This whole process took about five minutes getting me just a little warm under the collar. The final indignity came when in pulling out of the parking lot on my bike she almost ran me over with her 1977 Pontiac Wagon. She didn't hear my curse 'cause her window was closed to keep in the air conditioning.

I've told this tale to Claudie and a few of my friends, and they have assured me that indiscriminate use of food stamps is probably more widespread than my isolated experience and almost everyone can relate a story where they've seen everything from candy bars to caviar being purchased at the checkout line with a subsidy from the government.

Beginning this week, the Congress will debate H.R. 7171 which is aimed at further reforming the Food Stamp Program. Authority for the Food Stamp program expires September 30, 1977. The Food Stamp Reform provisions of H.R. 7171 are designed to accomplish five objectives:

1. reduce fraud via tighter administration,
2. remove the non-needy from the rolls,
3. increase support to the truly needy,
4. simplify administration and,
5. hold costs to current levels.

Unfortunately, H.R. 7171 creates the appearance, without achieving the substance, of reform. For instance:

1. Eligibility determinations are simplified by eliminating a host of income deductions that have contributed to errors in calculation and have made it possible for high-income households and strikers to reduce income enough to become eligible. However, the House Agriculture Committee rejected a simple standard deduction in favor of a complicated, error-prone formula that will still make households with incomes equal to almost twice the poverty level [now $5,850 a year for a family of four] eligible.

2. A confusing rule of counting both past and expected future income for purposes of determining eligibility has been accepted. While this is an improvement over the fraud-prone present method of counting future income, a better method would be to count only the income of the last 30 days. This is consistent with most American family spending habits and would make fraud more difficult.

3. Work registration requirements for unemployed able-bodied applicants have been tightened but a unique new requirement that applicants who cannot find work participate in public service jobs programs will only be pilot-tested. This "food for work" feature should be mandatory in the entire program. It offers new resources to states and local communities to carry out worthwhile projects at no additional cost to their taxpayers. Its biggest benefit: solving the work incentive problem that bedevils the current program.

If each of the above features could be sufficiently improved, it would be almost impossible for strikers, students and the voluntarily unemployed to get food stamps - but benefits to the truly needy would not be reduced.

The most distressing aspect of H.R. 7171 is elimination of the purchase requirement. Currently, nearly everyone must "buy" their food stamps at a fraction of their retail value. Under H.R. 7171, recipients would no longer have to pay for their stamps - but they would receive a lower dollar-equivalent in stamps. A family of four, for instance, with a net income of $250 a month, currently pays $71 for $166 in stamps. Under H.R. 7171, they would pay nothing but would receive only $91 in stamps. Their allotment would be reduced by an amount equal to 30% of their net income.

Efforts will be made to correct each of these shortcomings when the bill is brought up for a vote on the House floor.

Far be it from me to suggest that people who drive around in 1977 station wagons with air conditioning aren't entitled to food stamps with which to purchase tonic, chips, cat food, and boiled ham [Claudie keeps telling me boiled ham is too expensive when I ask for it, and she's right] but it would be nice to know that the program is being managed a little more tightly.

If you're so inclined, a contact with Congressmen Burke or Studds would be useful at this time, urging them to support amendments to H.R. 7171 which will:

- [1] retain the purchase requirement
- [2] extend the food for work feature to all jurisdictions
- [3] simplify the eligibility determination procedure by adopting a simple standard deduction that limits eligibility to households with incomes under the poverty level.

118 Register To Vote At Special Session

A total of 118 Quincy residents registered to vote, many of them for the first time, in a special two-hour voter drive last week at the George F. Bryan VFW Post, sponsored by Carl A. Awed Jr., a candidate for City Council.

Awed called the drive "a success".

Guy Faiella and Gerry Nobile, registrars of voters in Quincy, appeared by agreement between 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. to enroll persons on the voting lists.

"If the city could have stayed another 35 to 40 minutes we would have registered 80 to 90 more people," said Awed.

"Our biggest disadvantage was the fact that it was a beautiful summer night and most people did not get out until 9:30 or 10:30 o'clock.

"Considering all these factors, I felt the night was a success and the work I put into it was worthwhile."

After the registration, there was entertainment and refreshments until 11:30 p.m.

Awed said the purpose of his registration drive was two-fold.

"First," he said, "the newly registered voters stand to better themselves and their community with their future involvement.

"Secondly, more youth involvement will lead towards linking young and old in the political process of Quincy."

Awed urged other unregistered Quincy residents to visit the Election Department in City Hall, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and get their names on the voting rolls.

Mayor To Meet With South Quincy Residents

Mayor LaRaia will meet with a delegation of South Quincy residents Monday, July 25, at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council Chamber to discuss solutions to the area's crime and traffic problems.

City Councillor James A. Sheets will accompany the South Quincy delegation.

The meeting was arranged by

Sheets and Ernest Aristide, president of the South Quincy

Civic Association. Aristide said all area residents are welcome to participate.

Police Call Box Installed At Mound St.

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymond announces the installation of a Police Department call box in the area of Mound St. at the top of the hill.

Raymond said that because of the close proximity of the Town River Yacht Club and Mound St. Beach, which is currently undergoing major renovations, it is in the best interest of the community to have regular police checks to ensure the safety of people using the beach and the yacht club.

Raymond said visibility of regular patrols in the area will also lend a feeling of security to the neighborhood and help prevent vandalism.

Free Boat Transportation To Boston Harbor Islands

Free boat transportation to the Boston Harbor Islands State Park is available to non-profit community groups who otherwise would not be able to visit the Harbor Islands, Rep. Robert Cerasoli [D-Quincy] announces.

The transportation is available through the State Department of Environmental Management.

Applications for the special user fee authorization can be obtained from Cerasoli's office. They should be filled out and mailed to Charles Dane of the Department of Environmental Management, 100 Cambridge St., Boston.

Reservations may be scheduled through Sept. 2 on a first come, first serve basis.

For further information, call Representative Cerasoli, Room 26, the State House, Boston.

Elks Benefit Bingo Game For Muscular Dystrophy

The Quincy Lodge of Elks will sponsor a bingo game Sunday, July 24 at 7 p.m. at the Lodge, 1220 Hancock St., Quincy, to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

A special door prize, a television set, will be given away with the regular weekly door prize by the Lodge that night.

Quincy Emblem Club president Sue McGregor and several members will assist the lodge committee running the event. They will be selling refreshments, with the proceeds also going to the MDA.

Leo Nunnari is chairman of the event and Marty Blake is co-chairman. Lodge members assisting them will be: Exalted Ruler John MacPherson, G. Ralph DiBona, Jake Casna, George Kenney, Paul Flynn, Dan Ford, Tony Carderell, Angelo Ferrazzi, William McNeil, Harry Ross, Tony Vitals, Paul Sullivan, Ross Clarke, William McSweeney, Gordon Mathieson, Jim McGregor, David Montani, Don Wheeler, Al McWhinnie, Dick Canty, James Campbell, Tom Spano and Ed McLaughlin.

4-H Plant Science Project Planned At Library

Children aged eight-12 can develop a green thumb at the Thomas Crane Public Library during a special 4-H mini-project on plant science.

The sessions will be held in the Thomas Crane Junior Library, Quincy Center, Fridays, July 22, 29, Aug. 5, and Aug. 12, from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Registrations are requested and are now being taken at all library units.

In the four sessions, children will explore plant life through discussion and experiments. The sessions include: plant care, and seed experiments; gardens and plants, with an indoor lawn experiment; germination, flower and seed development, with a coleus cutting experiment, and plant identification, with plant bingo.

Robert O'Brien, a 4-H summer assistant, is the project leader and invites parents to attend the final session. At that time, 4-H ribbons will be awarded for experiments, and certificates of achievement given those who have attended at least three sessions.

Summer Scene '77 Program At Broad Meadows July 26

The staff and children of Summer Scene '77 at Broad Meadows Junior High School are planning an Open House July 26 from 9 a.m. - 12 noon at the school.

The program will begin with a presentation of the musical comedy "Fractured Fairy Tales". Summer Scene children will then put on a gymnastics demonstration. Concluding that part of the morning will be a coffee hour, with refreshments prepared by the children.

Following that, the parents will have an opportunity to observe their children in the various activities they participate in during the week. Transportation will be provided for the parents. For further information, call 471-4610.

ENTERTAINMENT

Nearly 700 At Chamber Outing

A record total of 665 persons defied damp grounds and threatening skies last week to attend the annual outing of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce on the grounds of the Halifax Country Club.

"Fantastic!" said Irving Potter, chairman of the outing committee. "That's 150 more people than we've ever had here."

About 500 participated in the athletic [and semi-athletic] events which began when the first golfers teed off on club course at 8 a.m. and ended at dusk when the last yolks, whites and shells were mopped up after the egg-throwing contest.

Winners were: Tennis - Bob Haddad, men's singles; Bob Austin and Dave Powers, men's doubles; Nancy Feloco, women's singles; and Dave Mercier and Gerry Boncoddo, "B" doubles.

Horseshoe pitching - Fred Hakala and Ray Skellet, first; Norm Wakelin and Jim Taverna, second.

Football throw - Paul Solander, first; Jack McDermott, second.

Basketball free throw shooting - Steve Needel, first; Jim Papile, second.

Softball - Springwood

Services 11, Chamber All Stars 9.

Volleyball - Team of Phil, Chris and Steve Roundtree, Joe Reomendes, Charlie Hamilton, Mark Ofstein and Jay Eckblom. Golf Chipping - Mike Cummings, first; Jim Papile, second.

Bocce - Team of Ray Josephine, Bill Draicchio, Joseph Avitabile and Jim Papile.

Egg-throwing - Results unavailable.

Wollaston Glee Club Sings At Cathedral Of The Pines

The Wollaston Glee Club marked its 25th consecutive year of guest-singing at the Cathedral of the Pines, Rindge, N.H., by singing at the Church's 3 p.m. service last Sunday.

Rev. Lloyd Martin of the Wollaston Congregational Church officiated at that service also.

As a token of appreciation, church members presented a citation to the glee club, and hosted a buffet for the singers and their families.

Rogers-Astaire Movie At N.Q. Library

"Shall We Dance," a romantic musical set on a luxurious yacht starring Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire, will be shown at a free screening, July 25 at 7 p.m., at the North Quincy Branch Library of the Thomas Crane Public Library, 381 Hancock St.

Weather, Tide, Entries Good

Moving Quincy Bay Race Week up a month apparently has paid dividends with an increase in entries, perfect tide conditions and good breezes despite the sweltering weather.

After three days of racing there was good competition in all classes and close results.

Racing began at Quincy Yacht Club Saturday and was due to end yesterday [Wednesday].

QBRWA President John O'Neill and his committee expressed their pleasure at the increased interest and the close competition.

Red Fleet Winners

Patty Gallagher of Wessagusset won the Red Fleet's first race Saturday but Bob Murray of Wollaston, third on Saturday, won Sunday's race with Lisa Conley of Cottage Park second and Ruth Sarofeen of Town River third.

In Monday's race Sarofeen was the winner with Carol Gazeault of Winchester second and Murray third.

White Fleet Winners

The White Fleet racing saw Jon Lanza of Cottage Park the winner in Saturday's opening race but Sunday Holly Bumpus of Wollaston, who was fifth Saturday, bounced back to win with Bill Brangiforte of Town River second and Ted Duggan of Wollaston third.

In Monday's race Lanza came back to win again with Kevin Brown of Town River second and Holly Bumpus third.

Pirates, Indians Take Crowns

The Quincy Triple A baseball League finished its regular season during the past week with the Pirates romping to the National League title with a 15-2 record and the Indians capturing the American League crown with a 13-4 mark.

The World Series opened last night (Wednesday) with the Pirates and Indians starting a best three of five series at Artery Field for the league championship.

There will be an all-star game between the 12-year old Triple A stars and the 12-year old Junior League players Sunday, July 31, at 2 at Artery field.

The Pirates bombed the Dodger, 23-3, with Tom Sclaro the winning pitcher with a two-hitter. Mike Barter and Brian Gibbons having three hits each and Mike Hennessey, Joe McArdle and Jimmy McNamara two apiece. Jeff MacLean had both Dodger hits.

The Pirates also nipped the Braves, 2-1, with McNamara the winner. He struck out 12 including the last eight batters, and allowed only one hit. Gary Brown and Gibbons had the only hits for the Pirates off Tommy Gillis, who struck out

Roxie's Spoils Spoilers, Plummer Splits With J's

Roxie's Raiders continued to roll along in the South Suburban Softball League and increased its lead over J's to a game and a half by sweeping a doubleheader from Spoilers, 17-16 and 19-12, as their hitting remained little short of sensational.

J's, meanwhile, was held to a split by Plummer, J's winning the opener, 8-0, but dropping the nightcap, 4-3.

Sunday Roxie's and J's will meet at Andrews Field, Milton, at 9:30, in a showdown for first place.

In Roxie's first game win Chip Harding had four hits, Danny Minton hit a grand slam home run, his 15th homer, and Marc Walsh also had a homer. Steve O'Rourke got the win in relief.

In the second game Ron Bouchard and Harding had four hits apiece with Harding finishing the day with eight for nine and seven RBIs. Minton had nine RBIs. O'Rourke was the winner, making his record an impressive 12-1.

The Weekend Warriors improved their third place record to 16-6 by sweeping two from Gull Point, 8-6 and 10-6. The Warriors backed up some solid hitting with spectacular defense as it played errorless ball in both games.

In the opener Kevin Murphy and Gerry Glen had two hits each. Rich Luchier, who won both games, aided his own cause with a three-run double.

In the second game Glen and Al Rusey hit their 13th homers. Larry Baker made several outstanding catches in right field as did Murphy in center.

Morrisette Edges Hingham, 4-3, Quincy Bows, 9-8

Morrisette Legion took another giant step toward its 21st Zone 6 championship when it edged Hingham, 4-3, Monday night at Adams Field, to raise its record to 13-3 with five games to play. Every other team in the league has at least six defeats.

Morrisette has three regularly scheduled games left plus a rained out game with Dedham and a tie with Randolph to replay if necessary.

Friday, Morrisette hosts Braintree, the Zone 6B champ with a 13-1 record, at 8 at Adams Field. Quincy plays at Weymouth and Wollaston plays at Dedham at 6. Monday Morrisette and Quincy clash at 8 at Adams, Tuesday Wollaston hosts Scituate at 8 at Adams and Wednesday it will be Morrisette at Weymouth at 6, Wollaston hosting Randolph at 6 and Quincy entertaining Holbrook at 8 at Adams.

Morrisette scored all its runs in the second inning against Hingham after Hingham had scored once in the first.

Hingham added a run in the fourth and another in the seventh and had the bases loaded but Ray Coscia relieved Dave Austin and struck out the last batter. Gary Earle, one of three young pitchers used by Coach Ray Cattaneo, pitched six innings and Austin began the seventh. Earle was the winner, his fifth win.

Morrisette was held to five hits including two singles by Jim Maze and a triple by Dave King. Quincy dropped a 9-8 decision to Milton Monday despite a great comeback which saw it rebound from a 9-2 deficit and the game ended with the tying run on third base.

Art Davis started for Quincy but gave up six runs in his 2 1/3 innings. Dave Raftery relieved and pitched well except for a three-run homer which proved to be the winning hit. Greg Zoia pitched two innings of hitless ball.

Quincy's attack featured a home run by Lew Fishman.

Sunday Quincy did

Morrisette a favor by defeating Scituate, 5-1, the sixth loss for Scituate. Kurt O'Sullivan pitched a strong two-hitter and Fishman drove in three runs.

Fishman had two hits and Dave Crumond, Rich Gilbody, Steve Bell, Billy Deitsch, Mike Murphy and Dan O'Leary one apiece.

Friday Morrisette rolled over Holbrook, 9-0, as Ron Donovan went all the way with a six-hitter to raise his record to 4-1.

Morrisette scored eight of its runs in the first three innings and Donovan coasted. "Ron, like Gary Earle, had very little experience pitching in high school but both worked hard in tryouts and earned their spots," Cattaneo said. Donovan struck out eight and walked only two.

Seven batters had a hit apiece, Mark Giordani, Chuck LoPresti, Dave Perdios, Sal Coscia, King, Pete Niosi and Donovan.

Wollaston continued to play in tough luck and dropped a 9-8 decision to Hingham after holding a 7-5 lead after three innings.

Dan Sandanato had two hits and John Andrews, Tom McBride, Bob Stevens, Josh Alberti and John Houten one apiece. Tom LaBlue was the losing pitcher and Bob Lindenfelder also saw mound action.

Earlier in the week Morrisette scored twice in the last inning to nip Scituate, 7-6.

Steve Cook was the hero of the come-from-behind win, driving home the winning runs with his single.

It was a sloppy game and Morrisette scored four runs in the fourth on only two hits, a bunt single by Maze and a double by Giordani which traveled about 130 feet down the third base line.

That gave Morrisette a 5-1 lead but Scituate came back with four runs in the fifth on just one hit, a seeing-eye single, and took a 6-5 lead in the sixth.

Young Earle pitched well but he and Dave Patrolia were the victims of all kinds of tough luck.

Quincy dropped a 6-5 decision to Canton despite a fine comeback which saw it score twice in the fifth, once in the sixth and twice in the seventh. O'Sullivan doubled home the two runs in the seventh but he died on second with the prospective tying run.

Gilbody, Bell and Brian Jolley had two hits each, O'Sullivan and Matt Higgins had doubles and Fishman, Deitsch and Murphy had a single each.

In its previous game, another loosely played affair, Morrisette had rebounded from a no-hit loss to Milton's Pete Nangaroni the previous night to bomb Canton, 16-1.

Morrisette received a brilliant pitching performance from young Austin, who pitched this spring for Broad Meadows Junior High, and needed only nine hits for its 16 runs. Austin worked six innings and another of Morrisette's youngsters, Coscia, hurled the seventh.
